Debate On Syria Ends With Accord To Ask No Probe

Sponsors of Rival Moves Agree Not to Push Them

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The UN General Assembly ended its Middle East debate today after Syria agreed it will not press for action at this time.

The Syrian declaration was part of an agreed formula to shut off the discussion without a showdown on Syria's demand for UN inquiry and a rival proposal to have Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold step into the picture.

The key to the agreement was Syria's consent to let the matter rest without a vote on its resolution. The sponsors of the rival seven-power resolution in turn agreed that they would not ask for a vote.

SUDDEN DEVELOPMENTS

1. Indonesia, according to an advance arrangement, appealed to the sponsors of the two resolutions not to push for a vote.

2. The assembly was told that Norway, speaking for the 7-power proposal backed by Canada, told the assembly that it was not ready to comply if Syria would do so.

3. Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar agreed.

4. Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, president of the assembly, took the floor to make declarations and expressed confidence that the delegates would regard this "as a satisfactory outcome of the debate."

In withdrawing the 7-power resolution, Engen called attention to a provision of the UN charter under which it was said Hammarskjold is available to help the parties to any dispute. He also called attention to the mediation efforts of King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The issue was brought to the assembly early this month by Syria, which charged that Turkey, backed by the U.S., was planning an attack on Syria.

The Soviet Union vigorously supported Syria.

'Miss Supertest' Sets New World Record at Picton

Roaring over a measured course at an average speed of 184.5 miles per hour in two runs, "Miss Supertest" owned by Jim Thompson of London, Ontario, set a new record today for unlimited propeller-driven speedboats. Arthur Ashbury of Oxtongue Lake, was the driver who sent the new champion off the mark the first run and 181 mph the second attempt. The former record of 179.88 miles per hour was held by "Slo-Mo-Shun" of Seattle owned by the late Stanley Sayers.

Hits 184.5 Miles an Hour Over Measured Course

PICTON (Special) — The London-owned "Miss Supertest II" roared to a new world record for unlimited class propeller-driven speedboats here this morning, averaging 184.5 miles per hour over a measured-mile course.

The previous mark was 179.995 miles per hour set in 1951 by Stanley Sayers of Seattle, in his "Slo-Mo-Shun."

The new speed record on the speedboat court is owned by J. Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., and was driven by Arthur C. Asbury of Oxtongue Lake, a village on the fringe of Algonquin Park. The roaring craft covered the measured course twice, in setting the new mark.

"Miss Supertest" sped over the course in the first run in 186.4 mph. Her return run was made in 181.8 for an average of 184.5 miles per hour.

The new record was established under perfect weather and water conditions. Early this morning a nazy mist enveloped the course but observers' predictions the sun would dispel the haze proved right. At 8.30 the Adolphustown Beach, the site of the measured mile course, was deemed perfect.

BRILLIANT SUN

Overhead a brilliant sun shone down. The water surface was washboarded by the slightest ripple. Crowds of spectators were on hand in the dark hours waited with anticipation.

Eventually Mr. Thomson gave Ashbury the green light. "Miss Supertest" champing at the bit, roared out to the course. Spectators later with a beautiful "rooster tail" of flying spray arching high behind her zipped to the starting line with the signal "going."

A few minutes later it was all over, and a new speedboat queen had been crowned.

The new record climaxed several days of waiting for Messrs Thomson, Ashbury and their retinue. Weather was fickle and the attempt was postponed several times. The original trial was set for last Saturday.

Last night, observers stated, chances for a trial this morning looked poor. Downtown here a thick, murky fog hung over the business thoroughfares and "down the bay." However, this night the fog lifted and at four o'clock Thomson went to the course and returned with the word that everything was perfect with the exception of the light haze.

ONCE HIT 190

It was Miss Supertest's third crack at the record. The first, recording 182 miles per hour on her first run. Miss Supertest threw a piston rod and failed to finish the second run. Last year, while clocked at 186 miles per hour, part of the hull was smashed when she hit a log.

Miss Supertest also holds the British Empire and Canadian records for inboard hydroplane craft—154.845 m.p.h. set in 1955 on this town.

The record attempt was originally scheduled for Saturday but Mr. Ashbury said it is the customary preliminary tests. In a test run Thursday Miss Supertest was clocked at 170 miles per hour.

Miss Supertest is 31 feet long, 8 feet wide and weighs seven tons. Her Rolls-Royce Griffon liquid-cooled engines develop 2,000 horsepower.

Youth Wounded While Stoning Man's Home

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Millett, 18, of Lloydtona, 25 miles north of Toronto, was shot in the leg Thursday night in a Hallowe'en incident.

Police said Aubrey Egan, 72, fired five or six warning shots to scare away a group of youths who were hurling rocks at his Lloydtown home.

In another Lloydtown incident, an evil partly-filled gasoline tank was placed in the middle of the village's main street and ignited. The blaze sent flames about 20 feet in the air.

Following the shooting incident, police said a mob, incensed by the shooting, forced their way into the Egan home. Police reached the scene in time to prevent further violence.

The house was occupied by Egan, his brother and three sisters, all over 60.

At one stage, two groups fought a stone-throwing battle across the main street of the village.

Ask Roberts Act In Peterborough Police Dispute

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — City council Thursday voted unanimously to appeal to Attorney-General Roberts to take action on the disagreement within the police commission regarding the royal commission report on the city police force.

The differences between Mayor John A. Fraser and the two other members of the police commission, Judge John de N. Kennedy and Magistrate W. R. Philp, were climaxed Tuesday when the mayor walked out of a meeting.

Before walking out the mayor tabled several resolutions including recommendations that

1. W. A. Clarke be relieved of duty as deputy police chief and that

2. The commission consider the matter of hiring a replacement for chief John Naples.

The mayor said in a statement Thursday it was evident his opinion was not shared by the other commissioners "who are apparently satisfied with the present chief and deputy chief."

The mayor said he did not question the legal position of the two other members who claim no action can be taken unless a Police act charge is laid against either Clarke or Naples?

He added: "It is also the duty of the present police commission to sit as a judicial body to hear the charges and said he felt this would be useless.

SINCLAIR CALLS FOR AUTOMATIC RISE IN PENSIONS

Against Having Them In Political Arena

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. James Sinclair says federal old age pensions should be removed from the "political arena" and be automatically adjusted.

The former liberal fisheries minister said in the Commons Thursday night that pension increases, instead of being used as "a bribe to the electorate" should be tied to rises in living costs.

He suggested that if this were done, the present upward trend in prices would mean an automatic annual increase of three per cent.

Mr. Sinclair spoke on a resolution preliminary to government legislation to increase the federal old age security pensions, paid to all 70 and over, by $9 a month to $55. It would be on top of a $6 increase to $46 enacted by the former Liberal government before the June 10 election.

MARLENE ACCUSES

He spoke after Hon. George Marler (L—Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount) accused the Progressive Conservatives of not carrying out what he said was their election promise to grant future pension increases to living costs and national productivity.

Mr. Sinclair's suggestion was echoed in varying degrees by members of other opposition parties. The debate continues today.

Mr. Sinclair said rising living costs have reduced the purchasing power of current pensions to planning years ago.

He suggested a "modest" $200 a month as the basic minimum pension for a couple—$90 from their savings and $55 a month for each in government pensions.

He suggested that an automatic cost-of-living index go on the basis of a $200 monthly income for a couple, would be $6 a year.

Canada's Deficit in Trade Drops 5th Straight Month

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's international trade deficit — excess of imports over exports — declined in September for the fifth consecutive month, the bureau of statistics said today.

Imports during the month rose in value to $447,000,000 from $427,100,000 in the corresponding month a year ago, a gain of $20,300,000. However, exports increased by $41,900,000 to $404,200,000 from $409,300,000 a year ago.

This reduced the import surplus for September to $22,800,000, as compared with $38,400,000 in 1956. For the first nine months of 1957 the trade deficit stood at $663,000,000, slightly below last year's $668,000,000.

Canada's trade deficit in 1956 rose to a record $868,000,000, a 1956 trade with the United States the deficit was $1,290,100,000.

MORE

Imports in the nine month period rose to $4,304,400,000 from $4,239,200,000 a year ago. In the same period exports increased to $3,541,400,000 from $3,370,700,000 last year.

Exports by the end of September were up $79,700,000 or nearly two per cent over the corresponding 1956 period. Imports advanced by an estimated $63,200,000, a rise of slightly more than one per cent.

The month's gain in exports was caused mainly by increased shipments to the United States. They rose in value to $256,900,000 from $235,900,000 last year while imports were only slightly higher at $310,900,000, up from $309,900,000.

The September trade deficit with the U.S. declined to $54,000,000 from $74,100,000 in 1956.

In the nine months exports to the U.S. rose by $65,400,000 to $2,329,000,000. However, imports gained by only $7,100,000 at $3,105,600,000, reducing the trade deficit for the nine months to $925,800,000 from $964,100,000 a year ago.

Well-Mannered and Orderly Crowd Enjoys Hallowe'en

They came out of the mists and the darkness, demanding their annual loot.

Some of them were in ghostly attire, some in gay habiliments of favorite comic strip characters. Others were original costume, anything to hide their identity. Pirates, cowboys, tramps, villains, heroes, queens, mammies and many other types were represented.

They usually travelled in small coteries of three. They in the majority, tip-toed to lighted porches and doors, timidly knocked and were admitted. Most of them stood quietly enjoying their masquerade while the hosts oohed of merriment, admiration and curiosity on the faces of their temporary hosts.

Then they enacted their bit of candles, apples or whatever was available, left quickly and made ready for the next "stand and deliver".

By nine-thirty the greater majority were home removing masquerades and counting the spoils of the evening. Others were at various homes.

The "mischief by" of the city had one of the most enjoyable Hallowe'en celebrations in years. And the police had little to do. You can take that from Chief of Police Walter Peppiatt.

"We had every man on the force on the street" the chief told The Intelligencer this morning, "but it wasn't necessary as things proved later. Everybody from the smallest kiddie to the oldest celebrant apparently enjoyed himself. There was little or no property damage. There was a window broken in a store on the Front Street store but we believe this was an accidental occurrence."

The only activity in police court circles was the appearance of "Who made two arrests," Chief Probert said, "but these were regular patrons' who had had a drop on the Hallowe'en witches brew, when it was too red".

WHITE PAINT COUNCIL

The police chief paid fine tribute to the Students' Council, "who were organized and administered the student dance at the Bridge St. Armouries last night.

"There were over 800 young people, and others, they in the chief said, "and it was one of the best-behaved dance crowds I have ever seen. It was well conducted and the Students' Council and others in charge did a highly commendable job. There was nothing out-of-the way and the arrangements perfect. These young people should be complimented on the admirable way in which the dance was conducted, and the general behavior."

Downtown oldsters had their good-natured Hallowe'en fling. Many old time Hallowe'en characters were noted and is the custom, Front Street and other merchants awaked this morning to find their business places windows adorned with the usual soap embellishments.

One character, either real or make-believe, had a press-agent who should go places. On every window and sometimes twice from the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Street to Front was written in soap-lettering one "Smoky." It was assisted in this with a well-known chain store.

On an automobile dealer's window was written "Hallowe'en" "Yeah, Chevy." He handles another make.

WARNINGS POSTED

On another store window was the warning, "None but fools enter here."

Probably suffering from an over-indulgence of candy and fewer some swains "soaped" the names of their at-the-moment lady loves in prominent places.

Usually, however, the inscriptions were nothing more than curved or straight lines, done on the buyers of the windows.

As the youngsters approach the dimly-lighted porch the door opens with a creaking sound, skeleton hand in outstretched hand. In the darkness of the interior a skeleton looms up from a corner. Then a ghost or two and a couple of witches. Eerie noises abound. The ghosts disappear, the lights go up and the little fibbed with goodies is apparent. The kiddies troop up, then the lights go out, and they make their way out to the street while the creaking door closes behind them.

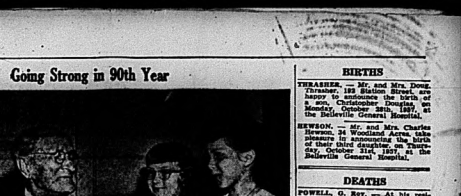
Hymn Festival In Bridge Street Church Planned

At 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 7, in Bridge Street United Church, choristers from fourteen different church choirs in the Belleville district will pay tribute to one of the most loved possessions of our Protestant heritage — the hymns of the church.



Hymn singing in the Christian Church has a long and fascinating history, but only in comparatively recent times that people conceived the idea of getting together for the special purpose of singing this music apart from the normal church service, and thereby the dedication that the movement will spread. Hymn festivals have already been successfully held in several Canadian cities under the sponsorship of the local Centre of the Canadian College of Organists. The festival in Bridge Street United Church on Nov. 7 has been organized by the Bay of Quinte Centre of the Canadian College of Organists.

The Canadian College of Organists was founded in 1909 as an examining body granting diplomas to candidates who passed the necessary examinations in organ playing, theory, general musical knowledge. It also exists to promote and encourage a higher standard of church music in Canada, and to afford opportunities for organists and choirmasters to meet together for social intercourse. With this end in view, local Centres were formed in cities all over Canada. These Centres have grown rapidly in recent years, both in number and membership. One of the local Centres to be formed was the Bay of Quinte Centre. Since its inception in the fall of 1956 many interesting meetings have been held, but this is the first time members have been able to invite the public to take part. A full and varied program of well-known hymns has been prepared, and the singing will be under the direction of Mr. Andrew Bewlie, of Picton.

Police Blotter

Twenty thousand rounds of .22 calibre ammunition must have been considered too hot to handle after thieves took it from the Sea Cadet Barracks on South Front street.

Going Strong in 90th Year

"Everyone ought to go to Sunday School," says 89-year-old Mrs. Hilda E. Argue, Toronto Pentecostal pioneer who, riding a wheel chair, this week spoke to a Sunday School convention at the Calvary Temple on Dundas Street. From the wheel chair to which he has been confined for nine years, Mr. Argue has spoken in over 70 churches throughout the North American continent. Mr. Argue is seen above speaking to three young Sunday School members. Left to right are Stephen Argue, Judy Thompson and Charlotte Price.

Eugene V. Illsey, Formerly of City Dies in Hamilton

A career in public service and finance ended Tuesday when Eugene Victor Illsey, formerly of Belleville, died at his residence, 20 Freeman Place, Hamilton. He was 70.

For his selfless interest in community life Hamilton named him citizen of the year in 1949.

Mr. Illsey's civic contributions which led to this distinction were assistant chairman and treasurer of the clearing house in the Victory Loan drives during World War II; treasurer of the campaign for the Cancer Research Foundation in Hamilton and a member of the Salvation Army advisory board.

Church and cultural life in that city felt his supporting hand as well. He was chairman of the Stewart Memorial Church Committee and member of Central Presbyterian Church and was connected with the former Eigat Choir and other musical organizations there.

Mr. Illsey's banking career started in 1902 with the old Standard Bank of Canada in Saskatchewan. He was opened a branch of the bank in Trenton and then moved to Windsor where he stayed until 1918 when he went to Hamilton.

MANAGED BANK IN CITY

He remained there until 1928 when the Bank of Commerce absorbed the Standard Bank. He managed banks in Belleville and Seattle before returning again to Hamilton as manager of the main office of the Bank of Commerce. H., remained in 1945.

A supporter of the Chamber of Commerce movement, he was president of the Chamber of Hamilton chamber in 1926, and director from 1945 to 1947. He was as a member of the Rotary Club he served on the Hamilton Publicity Bureau.

In 1944 he was elected chairman of the Canadian campaign to raise funds for 27 welfare and charitable organizations in the United Community Fund.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Beatrice Ackerill, native of Belleville; one son, Eugene Victor of Hamilton; two daughters, Mrs. Harold (Ruth) Hinson (Elizabeth) of Ancaster and Miss Hilda Illsey at home; one brother, Maxwell Illsey of Youngstown, Ala.

Service was held at Central Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m. with burial in Belleville cemetery this Friday.

Mr. Illsey left his imprint on the business, civic, church and social life of this city, while a resident here for some years. He came to Belleville as manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and immediately started to take an active part in all phases of the city life. He made a legion of friends, was highly regarded and his death will be sincerely regretted by a wide circle.

He took an active interest in the Rotary Club and was one of the most popular. In the work of the Chamber of Commerce he was most active and was regarded for his services by being made president. In St. Andrew's United Church he acted as steward on the board and was ever willing to assist in any work of the congregation.

Mr. Illsey was a man of fine character and high principles. He was a kindly man and a good neighbor and in his business life as a banker enjoyed a large clientele throughout the Bay of Quinte district.

Rev. A. H. Argue Expounds Gospel From Wheelchair

A lifetime in the ministry and still active in his 90th year, is the record of Rev. A. H. Argue, Toronto Pentecostal minister who this week addressed a Sunday School convention in Belleville.

And Mr. Argue's record in the ministry is all the more remarkable in that for the past nine years he has been confined to a wheel chair. From his wheel chair he has spoken in over 70 churches throughout the North American continent and last May spoke at the church in Winnipeg which he founded half a century ago.

Mr. Argue's family has followed in his footsteps as ministers of the gospel. A son and two daughters are in the ministry, as well as four grandchildren. A daughter with whom he lives in Toronto, Mrs. Rulton Robinson, was one of the speakers at the Belleville Sunday School convention.

Two hundred persons, representing 150 churches, attended the three-day convention at Calvary Temple, which concluded Thursday evening. Principal speaker for the evening was Rev. Bird Campbell of Springfield, Man.

Motorists Asked Not to Park On New Lot

City and district motorists were today requested by City Engineer Charles Mott to refrain from parking their cars on the municipally - owned parking lot on Pinnacle street which is currently in the course of being prepared for paving.

Sand fill and a course of granular rock has been applied to the parking lot surface and after levelling and rolling it is required to be kept smooth in preparation for paving.

"Motorists are just not observing the no parking signs which have been posted at the lot," the city engineer noted. "They move the barricades aside and drive right in past the signs asking that the lot be kept free of parked cars."

In addition to the preparation for paving workmen are also engaged in constructing a low wall about the parking lot.

Campaign Results Of UNICEF Most Successful

UNICEF — to improve the health and welfare of the world's children and the mothers who bear them.

Yesterday evening the UNICEF Sprites of East Belleville received wonderful contributions from house-holders, in their campaign to collect pennies for their less fortunate brothers and sisters in far away lands.

The support passed all expectations. Next year it was suggested, is to give less candy and more pennies. A penny to each child is the aim of the UNICEF campaign so that each child knows he or she is helping in this great work to bring to the unfortunate happiness in the world.

Quarters and dimes were the order yesterday evening, and that is not expected from the generous supporters. The chief aim is to spread far and wide the wonders of the work of UNICEF. Money is certainly necessary, but the generous householder must not be overburdened.

Sincere thanks to Mrs. Mountford, Mrs. W. Todd, Mrs. W. F. Roblin, Mrs. A. D. Fry, Mrs. F. S. Woodcock, Mrs. F. Pickering for their wonderful help in this campaign and also to the Ontario Intelligencer and Radio station CJBQ.

The amount $64.12 has been received with several boxes still to be returned.

IN MEMORIAM

KELLY — In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Kelly, who died November 1st, 1944.

God knew that he was suffering,
God knew that he must die,
He closed his weary eyelids
And whispered, "Come to me."
Yes, our dear dad, rest and sleep,
Your loving memory we shall always keep.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter - in - law, Mary Kelly and grandchildren.

COOK — In loving memory of our dear son, Flight-Sgt. Clifford Cook, who died in Scotland, November 1st, 1944.

The hand of sorrow is gone forever,
And his hand I cannot touch,
But I have a memory left me
Of how much he meant to me.
His memory is my keepsake,
With me it will always be,
And while God has him in His keeping
I shall have him in my heart.
I shall meet him with a happy smile,
Each tender word and look,
And keep them as a rose is pressed
In memory's treasured book.
—Loaned for always and held close among my thoughts — lovingly Mom.

SINCLAIR CALLS

CCF Leader Coldwell said federal old age pensions should be increased gradually to $75 a month to restore the purchasing power they had when $40 a month was established in 1940.

Social Credit Leader Low suggested a broad escalator clause to tie old age security legislation to higher costs of living.

Both Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Marier asked Health Minister Monteith to say how the government proposes to finance the higher pensions.

J. B. Patterson (SC — Fraser Valley) suggested that restrictions on absences from Canada should be removed altogether for pensioners.

ARAB STATES

Syria and Lebanon each became free from French rule in 1941.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers were fully 25-50 cents a hundredweight higher at Canada's two markets, the Ontario public stockyards. Good cows were strong with medium and lower grades trading fully 25 cents higher. Fed yearlings and bulls were firm, with replacement cattle strong on a light offering.

Calf prices were generally steady to weaker at the open due to the insufficient supply of top-quality veal. Good and choice calves closed at prices steady with last week while medium and lower grades slipped back $1-1.50 a hundredweight.

Hogs, sheep and lambs were steady throughout the week with buck lambs automatically discounted $1 a hundredweight.

Cattle receipts were comparable to last week's 9,200 head, off about 1,000 from the same week 1956. Western Canada receipts totalled 293, off 47 head from last week. One carload was shipped to Eastern Canada, while 10 were exported to the U.S.

With the exceptions of a few additional loads of choice steers, the general quality compared with last week's plain offering. The quality end was readily taken up with many buying interests going short on good to choice handyweight steers. Cattle with quality, but lacking sufficient finish for slaughter, were in demand as replacements.

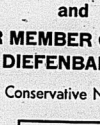
PRICES

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $17.75-18.25; with tops to $18.50; good $16.50-17.50; medium $14-16; common $12-14; good heifers $15-16; medium $13.50-14.50; common $12-13.50; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice stabled-fed yearlings $20.50-21.50; some to $22; good $19-20.50; good cows $11-11.50; fair number of tops to $12; medium $10-11; common $9-10; canners and cutters $7.50-9; good heavy bologna bulls $13-14; common and medium lights $9-13 a hundredweight.

Replacement cattle: Good $17-18; common and medium $12-16.50; good stocker calves $18-19.50 a hundredweight.

Calf prices: Good and choice vealers $23-27.50; medium $17-23; common $13-17; boners $10-12; fat, heavy calves slow and hard to sell, $15-17 a hundredweight.

Hogs: Grade A $27.25; sows $20; a few lights $22; stags $15 a hundredweight, on a dressed-weight basis.



Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs $20.50-21, depending on weighing conditions; medium and heavy down to $17; common $12-15; feeders mostly $17; some to $17.50; good light sheep $7-8; with some yearlings to $10; common and fat $2-6 a hundredweight.

Hon. W. M. Nickel Presents Report of Napanee Authority

Hon. W. M. Nickle, Minister for the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, presented the Napanee Valley Conservation Authority report at a dinner held Thursday night at Napanee. The dinner was attended by approximately 45 Authority members and other guests, while another 50 persons saw the official presentation of the report.

In a brief talk prior to presenting the report, Mr. Nickle pointed to the tremendous development in Ontario which would receive further impetus on the completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

On the other hand conservation was just getting started in Ontario. Additional emphasis must be placed on conservation before it was too late, he said.

Mr. Nickle complimented members of the Napanee Authority on what he said was a humble but worthwhile start. He commended the Authority on its reforestation program and said it was essential that this be expanded.

He was gratified to see that one of the primary projects recommended in the Authority report — the Second Depot Lake Storage Dam — was already very close to completion.

The dam is 24 miles upstream from Napanee and will be completed Nov. 15 at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. Purpose of the dam is to provide additional water next summer flow in the lower reaches of the river.

MEMBERS WELCOMED

William Wager, Authority chairman and Warden of Lennox and Addington, was chairman of the meeting and officially welcomed members and guests. Mr. Nickle was introduced by Mayor A. E. Hornbrack of Napanee, vice chairman of the Authority.

Reeve Hubie guests included Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer, Hon. W. M. Nickle, and Mrs. Nickle, Napanee and Mrs. Wager, and Mayor and Mrs. Hornbrack.

Other distinguished guests included Mr. H. R. S. Ryan, chairman of the Gananaska Valley Authority, and County Judge Gerald F. Smith.

Following the presentation of the report to Authority members, Herb A. Crowe, supervisor of field officers, summarized the various aspects of the report. Chiefs of the various department branches then were available for discussion.

The Napanee Valley Conservation Authority was organized in 1947.

Dennis Downes Said Thrown From Auto

Said to have been beaten and kicked after having been thrown from a car in Trenton, Dennis Downes, 19, 16 Bay Street, Belleville, has been returned home after remaining unconscious in Trenton Memorial Hospital most of the night.

Trenton police reported that the youth had been picked up unconscious on Division Street early Thursday evening. They said it was believed he had been beaten and thrown from a car.

He was released from Trenton hospital shortly before noon and was returned to his home in Belleville where he reported he was "all right."

His mother, however, said Dennis was badly bruised, had a black eye and a cut on his head.

An employee of the Bata Shoe Company at Batawa, Dennis remembers coming to Belleville early last evening. However, how he came to be in Trenton or what might have been with, he cannot explain.

Govt. Declines To Discuss Its Fiscal Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — The government today declined in the Commons to discuss its fiscal policy.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) asked whether the government was prepared to make a statement on what it was doing to remedy the tight money policy.

Richard A. Bell, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Fleming, said all aspects of fiscal policy were receiving the minister's careful consideration.

Mr. Hansell also asked about press reports of a rift between Mr. Fleming—the minister was not in the Commons—and James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada.

Hon. George Marler (L—Montreal St. Antoine - Westmount) asked what the government has done to relieve the tight money policy.

Mr. Bell, new Progressive Conservative member for Carleton, said the Commons question period was not the time to go into the matter in detail and that the house should wait on with its business.

DAYS OF PLENTY

Since the end of the Korean War there has been a marked change in ways of living throughout the world. Perhaps, though, these changes are no more prominent elsewhere than in Canada. Of particular note is the almost revolutionary change in the entertainment lives of military dependents.

There was a time not so long ago when sons and daughters of men serving in the Canadian armed services were compelled, through force of circumstances, to find their own entertainment although leisure programs had long been in vogue for service men and their wives.

During the years of World War II, families of service men that were not forced to break up temporarily, while the husband and father went overseas, were for the most part in excess to the various messes for Sunday dinner. Saturday nights were (and in most cases still are) times when husband and wife would leave the children with a babysitter and go to a party or dance in the mess.

But before the war ended, a move was on foot to exclude all minors from the mess, possibly so that children would not be tempted to sample beer and liquor, but more likely because mess members were becoming disgruntled at having very young children galloping over the furniture and setting up a din on a day of rest and quiet. Soon all minor dependents were left each to speak, by the marked absence of entertainment for them. There was one exception to the rule, though, and that came just before Christmas when Santa Claus paid his annual visit. Then nothing was too good for the children. But as soon as Santa retired, so too did interest in the children, it seemed.

When war clouds broke over Korea and many people believed World War III was on its way, many military establishments again opened their messes to families. But not for long. As soon as militarists got a clear picture of the Korean episode, many messes shrank to those of minors. In many cases this is still common and as it should be, because a mess is a high-class place easily equivalent to one of the better-type clubs in civilian society.

Even though minors are not generally permitted to use the facilities of messes anymore, they are indeed fortunate now in having many organized activities. Most military stations now have hobby shops for the benefit of everyone, clubs for teenagers, music appreciation clubs, amateur radio clubs, organized sports, Wolf Cub Packs, Boy Scout Troops, Brownies and Girl Guides, Cadets, libraries, theatres.

But the strange part of it all is that some dependent children are still crying for entertainment. We can put that down to only one thing: Human nature not be satisfied with what they have, they must have more and more until they forget how fortunate they are and begin feeling that it is someone's obligation to provide entertainment for them.

CLOUTIER'S BOOK STORE

Want to know about the flora of the Canadian Arctic archipelago? Wondering how to make wallboard from wood waste? Like to have the official "low-down" on last autumn's Middle East crisis?

Mr. Cloutier, in case anyone does not know, occupies the unrivalled post of publisher to this publishing activities rival those of the largest private publishing firms in the country. And because his books are heavily subsidized by the taxpayers, the Queen's Printer creates some pretty stiff, and frequently unfair, competition for privately-owned printing and publishing concerns.

In fairness it must be said that Mr. Cloutier is not the only offender when it comes to subsidized government printing and publishing competing unfairly with private enterprise. They have the same trouble down in Washington, where Uncle Sam sells books and pamphlets galore, on topics ranging from how to use a fly-swing rod to the "Facts About the H-bomb."

No one wants to see Cloutier's Ottawa Book Store closed down. In fact, Canadians need a Queen's Printer to print certain necessary official documents, and maybe even to print some abstruse works that cannot be handled commercially. But if Finance Minister Fleming is looking for ways and means to cut down the high cost of Government, a hint to Mr. Cloutier to be a trifle less lavish with his publishing business would seem to be in order.

OUT WITH THE BOYS

"Out with the boys,"
When the lights are lit,
When you swell with pride
And you think you're "it,"
And you spend your coin
And you laugh and sing,
And time flies on
While you have your fling.

"Out with the boys,"
All it means to you
Is a merry song
Or a jest or two.

You're a real good fellow,
They tell you so;
But I wonder now
If they truly know.

"Out with the boys,"
There's nothing wrong;
Just an idle jest
And a merry song.
Just a jolly line
In a busy life;
But it means a lot
To a patient wife.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article four in a weekly series contributed by the members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

Probably very few residents of Belleville are aware that the city once was the centre of a thriving lumber industry.

In the 1850's and 60's, between 150,000 and 175,000 saw logs a year were cut at the mouth of Moira River to Belleville from the interior of the County.

While some of this was rafted and taken down the St. Lawrence to Quebec, the greater part was manufactured into merchantable lumber at four local saw mills, which were regarded as "some of the largest west of the Ottawa."

The most extensive was that owned jointly by the Hon. Billa Flint (member of the Canadian Legislative Council for the Trent Division, and the representative for Elzevir township on County Council) and Horace Yeomans, which was situated at the foot of Water Street.

Between-90 and 100 saws in this steam saw mill were capable of manufacturing up to 100,000 feet of lumber every 24 hours. When operating at full capacity, enough lumber was produced to load a schooner nightly.

The next largest mill was that of D. D., Bogart. It was at the foot of Wharf Street on an island on the site of the present yacht club. Its capacity was slightly less than that owned by Messrs. Flint and Yeomans.

Another mill, apparently on the Prince Edward shore across from Belleville, was erected in 1864 by Messrs. Mikel and Bogart. Its capacity was about 40,000 feet of lumber per day.

The fourth local mill was near foot of Geddes Street (then spelled Geddies- on what was known as Meyer's Dam. A 43-saw mill, it was owned by William Bleecker.

At the peak season, these four steam saw mills turned out about 200,000 feet of lumber every twenty-four hours (sufficient to build 45 modern four-room frame bungalows) and employed some 260 men.

A contemporary chronicler in 1865 confidently predicted that within many years it would come the lumber business must surpass the wealth of the country."

Today, although the lumbering no longer plays a part in Belleville's economy, it continues as an important business in the northern regions of the county.

Letter To Belleville
Piggy-Back Service And Road Transport

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Oh happy day! Dozens of huge, highway semi-trailers, most of them labelled "Smith Transport," riding peacefully on railroad flat cars! A Canadian Pacific train, passing through Belleville recently was made up entirely of such units. Called "piggy-back" service may, at the trucking unions suggest, bring a period of economic readjustment in the transportation industry, but will be heartily welcomed by most of us driving passenger cars on our highways.

Personal safety and comfort on business and pleasure trips are our only interests in this business and those interests are in great jeopardy with so many gigantic transports roaring past often at excessive speeds. .

The C.P.R., reported to be considering the purchase of controlling shares in the Smith Transport Co., could, along with the C.N.R., perform a public service by providing more of our wretched stretches of road with heavy freight by rail rather than on our public highways. In answer to the argument that we need the flexibility of the transport to keep railway rates at a reasonable level, I suggest that the saving in transportation costs has been paid dearly in human lives in this district in recent years.

I'm not inferring that transport drivers are irresponsible. My friend, Howard Bovay, for instance, has driven trucks over long periods of safe driving for Direct Winters, but I believe our highways are not compatible with these huge transports against which the private car driver has no chance if either makes an error.

The most controversial issue of road costs I am not convinced that the railroads, many by the highway engineers, that the earth-shaking "road buster" is the axle load of 18,000 pounds per tire, travelling many times per day. Take a like proportion to my Chevrolet sedan running a few hours per week with only the weight of 500 pounds per tire, depending upon the number of passengers. We must always depend upon trucks for local deliveries but I do require the services of the overland, highway freighter.

Surely the law requiring extaust mufflers for noise suppression should be made for both cars and trucks. My car without a muffler cannot be operated legally though it thunders no more loudly than the average transport tractor at all times.

Your editorial of November 10, 1956, entitled "Too Big" dealing with the "monsters" cluttering our highways while competing with our railroads, expressed the opinion of many of your readers. The rebuttal by "Highway Transport," in his "Letter to the Editor" a few days later, pointed out how wrong and unfair we are in our condemnation of the highway transports. Your editorial, even with its possible inaccuracies, was, I assure you, much more convincing and in line with public feeling than the rebuttal.

Let's have more snappy editorials on the subject!

India Needs Prompt Help

New York Times

While the fireworks of the Middle East are capturing everyone's attention, there is a less sensational crisis building up still farther East that may in the long run be just as significant to the ultimate safety of the free world.

This is the crisis facing India's second Five-Year Plan. Since Finance Minister of India, T. T. Krishnamachari, has just been in the United States sounding out government officials on the possibilities of obtaining a loan of $500 million or more over the next few years. Even if he should obtain such a sum it would not be nearly enough, as he needs some thing like two to three times that amount from outside sources to make the plan a success and he is also seeking funds from the International Bank, from private investors, from Britain and from West Germany, where he is now. A dispatch from London stated that he had had a "very realistic" report on the results of his mission so far.

If the funds are not forthcoming, the second five-year plan will have to be cut down even more than it has already been — which means that the restive millions of India will have to wait at least another year for visible improvement in their wretched standard of living and for putting Indian democracy to its severest test. The first five-year plan, which ended last year, increased per capita income by over 10 per cent, but it also increased by only about $37 per year; and if the second one succeeds it will raise the average by only $74. There would still be vast unemployment, and the danger of a resistless poverty and misery; there would still be an immense distance to go before the agricultural and industrial production toward which India aims in the third and second five-year plan goes forward, there would also be hope. And that is probably the most urgent incident for India and for all of democratic side today.

Why, beyond the obvious humanitarian interest, is it of such significance to the West? The answer is simple. India is the most populous and most important of the non-Communist countries in southern Asia, and on the success of India's economic plans may well depend how up through the democratic process the growth of democracy in all of southern Asia may well depend. It is — or should be — of far less importance to us than whether Indian India remains fundamentally on the side of freedom and democracy, which is where she is today.

In international politics friendly words count far less than community of interest, and the United States has an infinite community of interest with India. Our present aid to India must be stepped up still. tion year. To double or triple this assistance would not be too big a price to pay to help give India the necessary boost toward a brighter economic future and its concomitant, political stability.

Yellow, Not White

St. Catharines Standard

What we can't quite figure out is why they keep calling some of those students at Little Rock High School white. Two of them proudly told reporters that a group of 80 to 150 students assembled, kicked and beat two of the nine Negro students recently admitted to the school (and they picked on the two smallest of the group) and then left them lying. We'd call that yellow, not white.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

Zero ... Hour

Herpes is a $10 word for cold sores.

When the little group of watery blisters or vesicles breaks out on the lips or on the face, attended with more or less itching and smarting, we doll up the diagnosis with medical Latin, herpes labialis. When the little blisters break out along the surface of a nerve we call it herpes zoster or, in the bargain basement, shingles.

I do not mean to be facetious about it, for I have seen enough suffering from shingles and enough damage to the eyesight by facial herpes.

In one instance, a child, eight years old, had an outbreak of herpes on her cheek; and the eruption crept (herpes means creeping)toward her eyes and finally involved the eye, producing a cornea ulcer which was difficult to heal. When the ulcer finally healed, it left a scar which impaired vision.

The child had many recurrences of facial herpes over the years. When she was 35 or 40, she seemed to have acquired immunity, perhaps artificially able to repeated vaccination against smallpox, regardless of the fact that she had been successfully vaccinated in childhood. But whatever had given her immunity, she discontinued the repeated vaccinations and presently resumed having the same old outbreaks of herpes on face or lip at intervals.

But thanks to Vergie, she has found a remedy which seems to arrest the attack at the very beginning. Vergie is a person of fine character and great intelligence, a credit to her race, which is the human race. Her remedy for herpes is simple—and as effective as it is simple.

The remedy is vinegar.

All right, all right, maybe you have, but wait a minute. You haven't heard the half of it yet. Vergie adds something to vinegar, namely, a penny. Put the penny in the vinegar and let it stay there.. Gently apply a drop or two of the solution to the sore lip at the first feeling of itching or smarting. Keep on applying it at hourly intervals through the day. The pesky herpes gets nowhere when Vergie's specific is used.

Should Queen Never Be 'She'?

St. Thomas Times-Journal

We notice that some people are writing to the newspapers strongly criticizing some broadcasters in Canada as well as the United States for referring to Her Majesty the Queen as "she" and "her". They say the announcers ought to know better — the Canadian announcers anyway.

Ardent monarchists make the most of the least thing, and we confess ignorance enough in not knowing that calling the Queen "she" or "her" was, as the critics say, bad manners. We did not notice this alleged offence ourselves. We feel, however, that the constant reiteration of Her Majesty and the Queen, when it come irksome, and an occasional "she" or "her" would break up the monotony of it. We are sure that when speaking to the Queen one is expected to speak of her royal rank only the first time, and if the conversation is continued, to refer to her as "Ma'am" or to Prince Philip as "Your Royal Highness" once, and afterwards as "Sir."

Queen Victoria was a stickler for observance of her royal rank but we doubt that she would have resented the more democratic form of address. On one occasion her Scottish attendant was looking somewhat dismayed at being to give a message to one of her daughters, who, of course, was a princess, therefore a royal highness." On spotting her, the blunt-spoken Brown said: "You're just the very woman I want the now."

Retorted the Queen: "And pray, what are you then if not that?"

COST SO LITTLE, MEAN SO MUCH

Gratitude and kindly remembrance — how much they add up to life that is worth while!

The shame of our neglect in matters of this sort is, that being thoughtful costs so little yet means so much to those to whom we are thoughtful. Also it takes only a few words, a sincere assurance of gratitude, to make a person's day happier than it has been for days. There are a lot of things in life to be discouraged about. Sometimes it seems that human life is almost beyond the hope of ever getting very high on the mount of achievement. But, after all, there is an amazing amount of good latent in the human heart. Along with all the world's crime we should add blind ourselves to the fact that every hour of the day heroism as gallant as anything ever manifested on the battlefield is taking place in humble lives and amid the most ordinary circumstances. Ungrateful as the world seems at times to be, there is warm gratitude flowing from countless of hearts every passing second.

Gratitude is cheap, and the cost of living is no deterrent, and the cordial greeting and the friendly handclasp is always practically no effort. Yet if you handed out money by the baleful you would not go as deep into the human heart as if you spoke a cheery word or really let someone know that you appreciate him and what he has done for you.

Life's real values cost so little, mean so much.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My barber is an Italian who has not only mastered the higgledy-piggledy English language, but has faithfully retained his native tongue. When the telephone rings in the barber shop, it is a pleasure to watch him answer it. In the caller speaks in English, Tony leans there, in perfect Canadian ease, languid, motionless, carrying on the conversation without effort, without straining his eyelids.

But if the caller is, as is often the case, an Italian, such as Tony's wife, the response is wholly different. There appears to be, on the telephone, his free arm waving in frenzied fashion, shoulders shrugging, his eyes ablaze with sentiment, opening, closing; in a word, expressing in every tiny muscle the quality, the color, of the words he is speaking. Though the person at the other end of the telephone cannot see him, Tony gives every evidence of all the terpsichorean accompaniment that the Italian language inspires.

It may be that some languages require more than the mere lips faithfully retained. Musical languages like the Italian demand a responsive dance in the nerves and muscles. English is a language painfully construed, through conquests, wars, occupations and unhappy marriages between the Roman, which occupied Britain for 400 years, and the Anglo-Saxon States has been in existence. The Saxon, the Norman, overlaid upon whatever survived of the early tribal languages of Britain, and the result contrived without once whenever they came upon an idea or a feeling not readily clothed in the several existing components of English. English is a language of understatement; it has a flexibility and imaginative depth that everything said in it can be conveyed without help from any other organ other than the larynx.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PROBLEMS

This world of ours is filled with all problems. The various nations have their problems, and so has each person. It is how we learn to solve them, in a manner that adds to our happiness and contentment, that is so important. Why not always make problems out of themselves!

Thoreau wrote and urged "simplify, simplify." Some people have practised it in his own life. Life is not in any way complicated as we make it. We have to solve the important problems is to learn how to get rid of the unimportant. We can be our best, or worst friend. "Know Thyself" said Socrates. How many people know the meaning.

We know so comparatively little, take it all in all, but I believe we know less about ourselves than anybody else. I know there are and find it more difficult to get along with themselves than with anyone else.

I recall that when in college we used to have many difficult problems in mathematics to solve and but someone always solved them! It is a joy to look back and every the problems that we did solve. We like that in life. The problems we set ourselves to solve, and do, are all in the past. We then think we have solved problems, but there are others who have worse ones! The good Lord has put sparks of bravery in us all which can inspire us to handle any problem that may trouble us! Use this thought in mind.

We should exercise our faith, and give it a chance to perform the miracles that it does every day for multitudes of others. Why can be conveyed without help from any other organ other than the larynx.

With the aid of this radar the missile can hunt and destroy low-flying attackers at tree-top levels.

Great Expansion For Chemicals Industry Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's dynamic century-old chemicals industry may undergo a five-fold expansion in the next 25 years with the Canadian market expanding to absorb possibly $4,000,000,000 worth of these chemicals a year.

This tremendous upsurge, predicted in a special study prepared for the Gordon economic commission, may be accompanied by a growth in "giantism" in the industry, with more and more production concentrated in the hands of big corporations.

About one-half of the present $1,000,000,000 industry is owned by United States investors.

The 183-page study, prepared by energy expert John Davis, the commission's associate research director, predicted that over the years the relative flow of exports and imports of chemicals may be reduced with Canadian producers increasing their share of the Canadian market.

Imports which currently share about 25 per cent of the Canadian market may get only 20 per cent in 1980. Exports, now amounting to some 19 per cent of Canadian production, "may drop to 12 per cent.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. L. Wilkes, Catherine St., received the sad news yesterday that her brother, Gilbert Stevens, Vancouver, died Wednesday of a heart attack.

Miss Audrey Stewart has returned to Edmonton, Alberta, after attending as bridesmaid, the marriage of her sister, Miss Dorothy Stewart to Mr. Bruce Ingledew, which took place last Saturday at the North Lake United Church, Toronto. Miss Stewart has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Stewart, 89 Octavia Street.

10,000 Children Adopted Annually

Couples applying for one of Canada's 10,000 children adopted annually, are carefully screened before being given a child, reports the November issue of Liberty magazine. Their friendships, employment and bank manager are all interviewed for a thorough check on character, health and financial position.

Adoption is a delicate business and subject to numerous complications. A sad example of such complications was brought home to the public in the tragic case of Toronto's Mast family, an adoption tangle which resulted in a two-year court battle. At the price of bitter heartbreak, the boys were returned to their natural parents before the foster parents could finalize adoption proceedings.

Protestant children seem to be the highest in demand and the hardest to buy. For every Protestant child available, at least seven couples apply. Roman Catholic agencies, on the other hand, have a surplus of children for whom they cannot find homes.

Up to 1956, there had been 58,661 legal adoptions in Ontario alone. The Toronto Children's Aid Society, only one of 55 such agencies in Ontario, places an average of one child a day.

WEDDINGS

BIRD — McCORMACK

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 19, at 2.30 p.m. in Christ Church, Deseronto, when the rector, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan united in a double-ring ceremony Laura Jean McCormack, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McCormack, of Deseronto, N.B., to Reginald Dunlop Bird, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Bird, of Belleville.

Lovely autumn flowers adorned the altar and sanctuary, and the guest pews were designated with white, satin bows.

The wedding music was furnished by the church organist, Mr. J. B. Herdman, who accompanied the choir of six boys as they rendered "O Perfect Love," and other short selections during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her strapless, A-line length bridal gown of white taffeta embroidered with sequins, with a full skirt of net and an insert of lace forming a wide band at the hem which cascaded at the back to the white taffeta train. The lace jacket, which accented the fitted bodice was buttoned from waistline to round collar, and the long, slender sleeves ended in points over the wrists. Her tulle illusion, floor-length veil was held in place by a band of pearls and sequins. She wore white, brocaded slippers and a double strand of pearls with matching earrings and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and white orchids with satin streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Preston, of Roslin, sister of the bridegroom, was becomingly attired in slipper - length blue taffeta with fitted bodice and flaring skirt of matching net. She wore a matching headband, matching satin shoes, and carried a bouquet of pink Delight roses mingled with white carnations.

Mr. Leonard McCormack, of Belleville, formerly of Chatham, New Brunswick, was groomsman, while Messrs. Robert Preston, and Jack Canning, Junior, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of Mrs. Milnes' rose lace with matching gloves and lace jacket having elbow - length sleeves, and round collar accented by a single strand of pearls with blue accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother, due to illness, was unable to be present at the reception which was held at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. William McCormack, where a buffet luncheon was served to seventy-five guests.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linen centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny basket filled with miniature rosebuds. Tall, white candles in silver holders added a lovely nuptial note.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Archdeacon, to which the bridegroom responded, and in turn proposed a toast to the wedding attendants.

The bride's gift to the matron of honor was a set of matching pin and earrings. The bridegroom's gift to his groomsman and ushers were tie pins and matching cuff links.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for the wedding trip to the eastern United States, and upon their return, the bride travelling in a beige tweed suit with box jacket, brown feathered hat and brown - toned accessories, with corsage of yellow carnations. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bird will reside in Belleville, where the bride is employed with the Bell Telephone and the bridegroom is associated with the Jack Canning Electric Company.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. C. F. Moore, Belleville, when she was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts, among which several cheques attested to the popularity of the young couple.

LYON — HALL

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in Bloomfield Methodist United Church on Saturday, October 26th., when Lillian Doreen Hall, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Hall, Belleville, became the bride of William Roger Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lyon, Fowler, Indiana.

Rev. C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Clifford Templer, church organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Alfred Hughes, who sang "Because" before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Cyril McQuillen, was radiant in her bridal gown of white nylon lace and tulle. The very full skirt featured several layers of tulle banded with diagonal stripes of silver braid and lace. The bodice was strapless over which she wore a bolero jacket of matching lace. Her halo headdress of iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle and she carried a hand bouquet of deep red roses and white feathered carnations.

Miss Beryl Bracken of Toronto, was maid of honor, wearing sky blue. Miss Judy Lyon, of Fowler, Indiana, sister of the bridegroom, in rose, and Miss Cheryl Hall, Belleville, niece of the bride, in yellow, were bridesmaids.

The attendants were gowned alike in waltz-length tulle over taffeta with strapless bodices over which they wore bolero jackets buttoned at the neck with tiny collars. They wore matching halo headdresses and bracaded pumps and carried bouquets of pastel-tinted mums and feathered carnations.

Mr. Ray Hall, Belleville, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Grayston Rogers, Midland, and Mr. Ross Marshall, Bellrock.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a gown of navy lace with powder blue hat and corsage of pale pink carnations. To assist in receiving, Mrs. Lyon chose light blue lace with matching hat and corsage of pale pink carnations.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a brown tweed suit, dusty rose accessories, and a Chinese mink jacket. Her corsage was white feathered carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyon will reside in Lafayette, Indiana.

McLEAN — LaBERGE

Pink and white gladioli adorned the altar in St. Carthage's Church, Tweed, Ontario, on Saturday, October 12, at 9.30 a.m. for a very pretty autumn wedding when Mary Catherine LaBerge, of Tweed, daughter of Mrs. Prosper H. LaBerge, and the late Mr. LaBerge, became the bride of Cecil Nesbert McLean of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nesbert McLean of Matsqui, British Columbia. The Reverend Father Shannon of Tweed, assisted by the Reverend Peter Murphy, officiated in the double-ring ceremony, with Father Shannon saying the nuptial mass. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

Mrs. John Clark of Tweed presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ron Cassidy, of Tweed.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Prosper LaBerge, of Toronto, wore a floor-length bridal gown of Alencon lace, fashioned with strapless bodice of lace over taffeta draping, and tiered tweed skirt over taffeta with frilled tulle underskirts. Her scallop-ed oval veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of tiny seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a white Bible crested with red garnets mingled with white pinsochia and stephanotis, with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Don Larkin, of Oshawa, only sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a gown of pink net over taffeta with matching stole, pink hat, shoes and gloves, and carried white poms with blue lace ribbon.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Carl Day of Branchbridge, Ontario, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Clarence LaBerge of Tweed, brother of the bride, and Mr. Don Larkin, of Oshawa, brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Beaudemuir Hotel in Tweed, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who chose for her daughter's wedding, navy blue taffeta with matching accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's parents, due to the distance, were unable to attend.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Rochester and Watertown, New York, the bride chose a princess style dress with tiny Mandarin collar in duck-wing blue tweed, with winter-white and black accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. McLean will make their home in Belleville.

Previous to their marriage the bride and groom were honored and entertained at a party given by friends and Belleville friends with Miss Dorothy Stapley as hostess, when they were the recipients of a set of three matching lamps.

The Experts Say

Mothers Do Much Making Their Daughters Attractive

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Not all girls are born beautiful but mothers can play an important role in making their daughters attractive.

Good health and a glowing complexion are prerequisites for beauty. Lessons in proper diet and complexion care can start at any age.

A dirty skin is hazardous, says Miss Boxer, as it results in clogged pores and in later years, wrinkles.

A GOOD START

She urges mothers to start with baby but for newborn children, using if right up to adolescence when a protective cream hand and lotion should be added to the cosmetic list.

Even the toe - easily - joked-about freckles can be offset with the right care, she says.

The majority of mothers can have a well - formed, regular-featured daughter by checking at the early stages of a child's growth such things as flat feet, bowed legs, crooked eyes and crooked teeth.

Bowed legs are a drawback for any girl. They are often the result of rickets and were prevented by seeing that the small child has sufficient quantities of Vitamin D. A parent should seek a doctor's advice immediately.

If your daughter's teeth need straightening it should be done as soon as possible before she develops the habit of hiding her crooked teeth by giggling with closed lips instead of laughing naturally, or ducking her head.

TREATMENT FOR ACNE

A certain amount of complexion trouble is normal for the adolescent, says Miss Boxer. However, if she says that severe cases of acne where the skin is marked by scarring are no longer tragic. Dermatologists now plane down the skin with a wire brush and remove the scars.

For overweight problems mothers can provide their daughters with a calorie book and prepare less fattening meals to trim off a teenager's figure.

In makeup she recommends a not-too-powerful lipstick and nail enamel for teens.

"All makeup should be used sparsely and always accompanied by a protective cream used as a base," Miss Boxer said.

Hair care is all important. It should be washed weekly and brushed daily.

Miss Boxer advises pin curls and a hairdresser's advice on what to do about baby hair and how to cure any hair problems.

Institutes End Convention With Trip to Winter Fair

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada polished off its first national convention with a trip to the Ottawa Winter Fair Thursday night.

Executive board members were to meet today to deal with convention resolutions and recommendations.

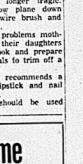
At the close of business sessions earlier, Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, honorary president, presented a FWIC life membership to retiring president, Mrs. J. W. Adams of Echelton, Sask.

The new president, Mrs. Keith Hand of Fort Williams, N.S., took over the symbols of office—the federation charter and gavel—and also became custodian of the new Senator Cairine Wilson Trophy for citizenship. The silver trophy is to be awarded every two years for the best citizenship project produced by a women's institute branch.

In business sessions Thursday, the FWIC urged that Canada adopt legislation making it mandatory for courts to allow payment of fines by instalments. Present law permits a court to order payment of fines by instalment in certain cases.

The finer a payment resolution was based on the Fauteux report, a government study of Canada's parole system.

The federation resolution recommended that mandatory legislation on instalment payment of fines apply to indictment cases as well as summary conviction cases. It called for consideration of an offender's ability to pay and the economic condition of his country and an allowance of [illegible] days before a fine or the first instalment must be paid.



The federation urged the government to ban air guns and air pistols and to prohibit the import, sale or manufacture of toy pistols unless they were painted in bright colors.

Mrs. Lloyd Lymburner of Port Colborne said Ontario has 40,000 FWIC members—nearly half the local 90,000 national membership. At present, two representatives from each province sit on the board.

Mrs. Lymburner suggested four members from Ontario would constitute a more equitable representation. The executive will study the request.

HAND-WRITTEN ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

When the wife is signing the Christmas cards for her husband is she free? Or is there any hard-and-fast rule about this? — Ruth

Yes, there is a definite and practical rule about this — the rule of courtesy. This rule of courtesy is: the person signing the cards politely writes her own name last. That is, the wife puts Peter and Ruth. If the husband signs the cards, he writes Ruth and Peter. Quite polite, isn't it? (Just as you politely worded your question when the wife is signing the Christmas cards for her husband and herself.)

WHEN NAMES ARE IMPRINTED ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckmas:

Please tell us: When the names of a married couple are to be imprinted under the message on Christmas cards should the husband's or the wife's name come first? That is, Mary and John Clark or John and Mary Clark? — Puzzled

When the names are imprinted, the wife's name comes first. Obviously this sequence of names is always courteous to the wife. Mary and John Clark.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My parents are to celebrate their Golden Wedding in a few weeks, and of course we, three sons and two daughters, want to make a very special occasion of it, inviting all relatives and friends, and having all the fixings, such as a "handsome wedding cake" and "Golden Jubilee" signs in your column. But we cannot seem to agree on the day on which to give the party.

Is the actual date of the anniversary, falls on a Wednesday, but on the mid-week day many will not be able to come, for Mother and Father live on a farm and therefore there will be distances to come with. So now my sister has come up with the suggestion that we have the celebration the Sunday before the actual date. Would it be proper to do this — is it done? — Margaret D.

For practical reasons such an important celebration is sometimes held on a day different from the actual date. But in this case it is the wise plan, the courtesy plan, to choose the Saturday or Sunday following the actual date.

WHEN BRIDAL TABLE IS THE ONLY SET TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and I had planned the bridal table. Would this be correct, or should we have buffet style for all? In other words, is having only the bridal table look conspicuous?

— Bride-to-be

This plan is quite usual, but the bridal Table should then be set in a small room adjoining the reception-room, or, if this isn't possible, it is sometimes surrounded by screens, or by a partition of plants and flowers.

Canadian W.I.'s Have Stake in 'Peace Garden'

OTTAWA (CP) — Every Women's Institute in Canada has a stake in a small corner of an international peace garden straddling the Manitoba-North Dakota border.

From an undisciplined growth of scrub, small trees and uncut grass a cleared area has been hewn in the last two years.

It's a "nook" looked after by the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, dedicated to Canadian Mrs. Alfred Watt of Collingwood, Ont., who in 1915 saw her work in Toronto become the National Federation of Women's Institutes of that country.

Mrs. Hedley Catley of Sanford, Man., in a convention report Wednesday, said the nook covers about an acre of the 2,300-acre International Peace Garden established by Canada and the United States in 1932.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: . . . planning a little celebration for parents' golden wedding anniversary — They came from England several years ago, so callers will be mostly relatives of their son-in-law, neighbors and friends of the younger couple . . . The family has four birthdays coming up between mid Nov. and mid Dec. . . . would like to make up small cakes and sandwiches well beforehand and freeze them. Do you suggest in regard to a toast? . . . when to be proposed and by whom? The son-in-law's father will be present. The wedding cake has been ordered. What should it be cut? How many sandwich loaves would be needed to make up mostly rolled sandwiches for fifty guests? What fillings are suitable for freezing? How many small cakes? How much punch, and have you a recipe for an easy fruit one? Any suggestions about serving, decorations, etc., would be very welcome. Have you ever tried your refrigerator cookie recipe for drop cookies? Rather than one big cake there is one I often use: Kay H's Dad's Cookies: Cream together 1-2 cup margarine, 1 cup brown sugar. Add 1 egg, 1 tsp, vanilla, and mix well. Add 1 cup cocoanut, 1 cup rolled oats. Sift together and add 1 cup all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon soda. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet, press with fork dipped in flour. Bake in 350 deg. oven about 15 minutes or until golden brown . . . Mrs. K. H.

Answer: Thank you for the cookie recipe, 1). I have mailed you a former release on sandwich making, 2). Usually an old family friend proposes the toast to the bride and groom of fifty years before the wedding cake is cut, but since you infer the son-in-law is the host, he would be my logical choice. 3). The wedding cake is cut when dessert time arrives — but after the toast is proposed as mentioned above. 4). The number of small cakes provided is optional. If they are small and dainty and varied most caterers allow at least three each. 5). I have mailed you a recipe for an easy fruit punch. 6). The following cake made a great hit with a reader who entertained at a golden wedding anniversary re-

BEAUTY

PAMPER YOUR THROAT LINE

Mother's Big Helper

For a beautiful neck, try massage with a heavy cream.

Many women who give scrupulous attention to their complexions — from the forehead to the chin — forget all about their necks. Yet nothing looks so incongruous as a face made up in lovely rosy tones above a neck that is dark and unlovely.

Your neck deserves as careful grooming as your face — especially in cold weather, when it becomes irritated by harsh fabrics or when, muffled in a fur collar, it accumulates dirt from a composed of perspiration, dust and dyes.

To keep your neck as lovely as the complexion above it, three things are needed — thorough cleansing, stimulation and lubrication. Let your nightly cleansing be done with soap and water, applied with a complexion brush or rough washcloth. Really scrub, so that there's no trace of flakiness on the skin. If discoloration is very bad, a little bleaching is in order. One part lemon juice to three parts of water is effective.

You can combine the stimulation and lubrication treatment by massaging on with a heavy emollient. Start deep down, practically on your chest, and work in the cream with upward strokes. Throw your head backward until neck muscles are taut, while you are massaging, and you'll help to prevent a double chin, too. Once the neck has been thoroughly massaged and lubricated, remove all traces of cream, splash on cold water and finish up with an astringent or witch hazel. Do this every night and watch how pretty the skin on your neck becomes. And never forget that, when pondering your face, your neck should have equal attention. Let there be no line of demarcation to give evidence of an unfinished job.

Lynn Lake Citizens Genial, Happy Says Mother of Seven

By NEVILLE NANKIVELL

LYNN LAKE, Man. (CP)— "This is a town of young folks and its residents are genial and enthusiastic."

That's how Ted Burke-Gaffney, personnel director for Sherritt Gordon Mines Limited, describes Lynn Lake, a bustling lakeside mining community, 500 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

A few years ago Lynn Lake didn't even have a name. Now it has a population of 3,000, including 650 children, and is growing at the rate of 200 a year.

ARRIVED IN 1947

Mr. Burke - Gaffney and his wife, Helen, first came to Lynn Lake in 1947 when Ted was a geologist. They had two children then and lived in a frame house with ample accommodation for the rich Sherritt Gordon finds of nickel and copper was going on. Their grocery were shipped in.

Previously they had lived at Sherridon, 143 miles to the south. When Sherridon ore reserves dwindled, the company decided to develop deposits at Lynn.

So the town migrated by tractor-drawn. Houses were loaded by big wooden sleighs and hauled by tractor over a trail of ice and snow to Lynn during the winters of 1952 and 1953.

Now upon row of neat, gaily-painted homes are spread along the banks of the lake. The rough and tumble of the traditional mining town is missing. There are lawns and gardens, a summer resort just 12 miles away, theatre, curling rink, modern community centre, liquor store, schools, hotel, stores—and lakes in the area abound with some of the best fishing in the country.

"It's a wonderful place to bring up children," Mrs. Burke-Gaffney said in an interview.

MOTHER OF SEVEN

At 42, she is the mother of seven children. There's May, 12, Pat, 13, Maureen, 9, Tom, 8, Teresa, 4, Cathy, 2, and one-year-old Christopher.

A graduate nurse from The Pas, Mrs. Burke - Gaffney has been in the North Country all her life.

The Burke-Gaffneys live in a modern two-storey home, which has a games room in the basement.

Why do they like the North? They speak of it with pride, as do other Lynn Lakers.

"It's the people in the town—always right beside you," said Mrs. Burke-Gaffney. There's a wonderful community spirit."

ACTIVE COMMUNITY

"We're always busy here. There's the drama club, hockey for the kids, a couple of people teach figure skating. There's curling. If you don't, you're out a lot of everything. Then, of course, there's church work and an 80-piece students' band."

Residents do most of their shopping in a modern super-market. Fresh meat is shipped in from Prince Albert, Sask. Fresh fish is always on hand. Butter costs 70 cents a pound, fresh milk is 22 cents a quart, a head of lettuce 35 cents, plums 30 cents a dozen, corn cobs a 31 a dozen. A train comes in three times a week.

Miners make good wages. The average earnings of hourly-rated employees at the mines is $5,400 a year. A graduate mining engineer can start at about $425 a month. The company will help a young couple get a start, others with their housing. There is no down payment.

Annual payroll of the mining company in all departments was $2,640,000. Two mines now are in production. Another shaft is being sunk. Power comes from the Laurie River power plant, 45 miles south.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. R.B. — Helen should be more considerate of her husband.

Helen A. — She shouldn't tell me how to treat my husband.

* * *

Mrs. R.B. — I am a woman who learned too late in life that my marriage could have been happier. After my husband died I realized how much I cared for him, how I could have made him happier if I had only shown him the little attentions he deserved.

I am trying to pass on the benefit of my experience to my daughter, who is in her early 20's. She has been married three years and has two small children. I realize she has her hands full, but just the same she should take the time and trouble to be particularly considerate of her husband.

Helen doesn't seem to see things my way. She feels as long as she does her job in the home she's doing enough for her husband.

* * *

Helen A. — In the first place, I should explain I love my husband and he loves me and we're very happy together. It's true I sometimes yell at him and there are days when I'm so busy I'm not even aware he's at home, but I'm sure he understands I love him and he doesn't hold it against me.

My mother constantly embarasses us by saying, "Why don't you kiss him when he walks in the door?" or "Why don't you tell him he's wonderful for having mowed the lawn?" Well, we just don't talk or act that way. Dan would think I'm crazy if I kept saying he was wonderful.

I know my mother wants to help me, but it's a little silly and annoying to have her tell me how to treat my husband.

* * *

She should realize each individual has a special way of expressing himself. She cannot tell Helen how to show her affection for her husband without intruding on personal territory. Helen's husband may have the complete certainty that his wife thinks he's the most wonderful person alive without a word ever having been said on the subject. A forced effort to show "little attentions" often falls flat.

If Mrs. R.B. wants her daughter to benefit by her experience, she should find a quiet time to tell her about her own feelings about the past. She should not presume to advise Helen, but simply to state where she, personally, feels she failed to make the most of her marriage.

A sincere expression of this sort may sink in deeply. Helen may treat it lightly at the moment, but she will remember it. If and when the cap fits. Then she will apply her insight in her own natural way.

THAT sand pail can be useful all year 'round. Your youngster will like it as a crayon holder roomy enough to hold her entire collection, and handy to carry. You'll be in favor, too, since it helps avoid scattered odds and ends of crayon.

Royal Alex at Age of 50 Toronto's First Theatre

Other fine theatres in Canada have been converted by talking pictures (only to be discarded with the advent of television, but the Alex at the age of 50 remains Toronto's first theatre.

The Alex has had the occasional affair with a movie during her long association with theatre greats such as John Barrymore, Sir Johnston Forbes - Robertson, Helen Hayes, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, in addition to companies like the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Sadler's Wells, the Old Vic and La Comedie Francaise.

Movies were incidental. Ballet, plays and musical comedy are still principal wooers as the enters her golden anniversary season. Bookings include several current Broadway hits and the Stratford Festival Company.

My Fair Lady is coming to the Alex, too, although it's a question of what year it will get here.

The theatre is noted for its ornamental ceiling, its Italian marble, rosewood lobby - panelling, French tapestries, gold-leaf proscenium arch and a decorative solid-stone facade.

Important to professional admirers has been the theatre's dressing - room accommodations for a cast of 200 and the distinction of being the first fire-proof theatre in Canada, the first with air conditioning and the first to be built without pillars on the castilever principle.

When architect John Lyle—who later built Toronto's Union station—was approached in 1905 by a syndicate headed by Cawthra Mulock, son of Sir William Mulock and then Canada's youngest millionaire, he was told:

COST $750,000

It took two years and $750,000 to build the Alex on downtown King Street. The cost was substantial in days when Toronto's population was 270,000. Today a value of more than $3,000,000 has been placed on the theatre by the estates of the deceased owners.

The Alex opened Aug. 26, 1907, bearing the name of Queen Alexandra. The first show was a musical called Top O the World.

Since the opening night the theatre has been a popular house. Manager Ernest Rawley has a long list of performers he says have availed themselves and other advantages of the theatre. Made in the days when the theatre was controlled by the Shubert brothers. A rival impressario, the late Erlanger, said that if he ever moved to Toronto he would use the Alex to stable his horses.

The Alex has had troubles—actors' strikes, blizzards that caused cancelled performances and a violent riot during Forrester's production of The Magistrate in 1911, with Sir Robert Falconer appealing for order and Lieutenant-Governor J. M. Gibson and Mayor G. R. Geary siding with the panksters.

In August, 1914, the theatre was closed because of the influenza epidemic. Cawthra Mulock died from the disease in New York that year.

Stock companies provided much of the Alex's entertainment in the early years. Among them were the Royal Alexandra Players with Elsie Lesche in 1907-08; Mrs. Percy Haswell's Stock Company from 1910 to 1915, the Arcadie Bonstelle Players in 1914 and the Edward H. Robins Players during the First World War.

Magicians, hypnotists, acrobats and even animal acts have been on the Alex's boards along with distinguished performers like the New York Theatre Guild and the D'Oyly Carte Company.

A hypnotist, the Great Morton, played for eight weeks in 1952. South Pacific ran for six weeks in 1953, while a comedy called Janie holds the legitimate play record.

Handsome Dinner Gown

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here is a gown that will make a dramatic entrance on the most important of occasions. It is both flattering and sophisticated with its figure moulding lines.

The sheath is made of black silk velvet and is ankle length with a loose, back panel that serves as a train. Other details are a narrow belt of the fabric, a golden ornament at the centre top of the fitted bodice, and a gold halter strap.

Convention Cares Slip Away As Delegates View Fashions

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Convention cares slipped away Wednesday night as members of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada turned to fashions.

Institute members attending their first national convention wound up the day as guests of the Ottawa local council of women for a buffet supper, fashion show and panel discussion on fashions and fabrics.

Earlier, Mrs. Keith Rand of Port Williams, N.S., was named federation president. Executive members include Mrs. James Haggerty, Napanee.

SEE FASHIONS

Institute members — celebrating the 60th anniversary of the movement — Wednesday night saw fashions from the 1880s and early 20th century.

Earlier, delegates recommended that a permanent, national office be established in Ottawa immediately.

The recommendation, unanimously approved by delegates, now will go to the federation's board for approval and action. The permanent office would be staffed by an executive director and possibly one other staff member.

The need for a national office for the federation, national organization representing about 90,000 women's institute members, has been referred to frequently in committee reports before this convention.

In another convention feature, a panel of experts told delegates research and education are the keys to wise use of Canada's soil, forest and wild life. The discussion on conservation was directed by Dr. F. O. Ripley, chief of the federal agriculture department's field husbandry division.

Summing up, Dr. Ripley said the FWIC should continue its study of conservation at local levels.

Running Women's Institutes Has Many Facets Meeting Told

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—There's more than stitch and chatter at Canada's Women's Institute meetings, delegates to the Federal Women's Institutes of Canada convention have learned.

In an entertainment-information program called Voices from the Provinces, Provincial presidents Tuesday night outlined projects ranging from cook books to funds for research in home economics.

Mrs. E. J. Roylance of Greenwood, B.C., said the 16 WI districts in her province are compiling an illustrated cookbook for sale next year. It will include district histories as well as recipes.

Mrs. Harry Kilpatrick of Jacksonville, N.B., said institutes in her province established a home for elderly institute members in 1953. The home, with room for 10 women, now is filled.

Ontario institutes sponsor summer holidays at Ontario agriculture colleges for members, said Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee.

Manitoba has raised $1,000 for research in home economics at the University of Manitoba, said Mrs. W. H. Thompson of Souris.

Earlier, Justice Minister Fulton urged FWIC members to cherish the symbols of government but to remember that the democratic process must be kept at work if the symbols are to be meaningful.

Elizabeth Morton of Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian Library Association, told the convention that 100 per cent library service for all Canadians should be an aim for Canada's 100th anniversary in 1967. At present, 83 per cent of rural Canadians have no public library service, she said.

Federation President Mrs. J.W. Brayshaw of Estevan, Sask., said the board felt that in view of women's institutes work in cultural projects from local to international levels, the organization should be represented on the main council body.

The FWIC, had, however, been invited to apply for nomination to the national committee for UNESCO, recently established under the Canada Council. The federation could serve as a cooperating agency of the UNESCO committee.

Within the last two years, Canadian WIs have contributed $14,675 to a UNESCO project sponsored by the Associated Country Women of the World to equip 23 training centres in Ceylon.

Little Davey's Premiere

By Mary Moore

Because my faith is so strong I have flatly refused to live in fear of anything for many, many years. Yet when I unfold this story of little David Michael, my precious second grandson, you will understand why flickers of fear flashed through me, to be put out by prompt and frequent prayers.

Little Davey was delivered by Caesarean section three weeks prematurely. Both Marianne and baby were fine. She continued and continues to be. But by night the wee baby had trouble with his breathing and spent the first week of his life in a new kind of incubator called an "Isolette."

Between the "Isolette" and the skill of the paedetrician and the ever - watchful "Penny" nursery nurses and internes and the prayers of uncounted relatives and friends, after two days of "grunting respiration" or "restricted breathing" or just plain gasping the tide turned and he started to breathe normally and we have half-ounces - portions of Marianne's pumped breast milk at four hour intervals. That increased to one-ounce portions every four hours. Now his breathing is steady and he is improving daily and we all thank God.

Herbie could leave for Germany without his heart being in his mouth. It's a stout heart, too.

So if any of my columns have been faltering of late, or answers to your letters are delayed you will understand.

In the light of all the major worries the minor ones do not seem worth reporting but you may ruefully smile with us for we are victims of the flu epidemic without having it for there are no visitors at any of the hospitals? Marianne got all of her visiting by telephone! It was reminiscent of a tall when Herbie got permission from the commissioner at the door to leave parcels for her at the desk.

Gary and I stood on the grass outside the building and waved and made signs to her on the fourth floor. Plenty of other relatives were doing it too to their beloved little mothers and we did not seem overly loony.

Did you read last Tuesday's column by Marianne? The day she wrote that she had to keep a stiff upper lip for that morning they were calling little Davey's condition critical. Perplexed up in bed she called for a sharp pencil and a writing pad and knowing that at home Gary was leading me a merry chase —and I don't use the old term loosely—decided to see if she could be useful and help me with my work.

We'll hear more from her when she's on her feet again for she has big Christmas baking plans. You see she and the two baby boys won't be joining Herbie in Germany for about 3 months. I'm the lucky Grandma.

New, Exciting Life in Store For Young Bride

TORONTO (CP) — A new and exciting life is in store for pretty 25-year-old Joyce Smith of Yorkshire who is on her way to Churchill, Man.

Joyce will marry her missionary fiance, John Marlow on Nov. 4 in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Churchill. The couple will then fly to their home at Eskimo Point 200 miles north of Churchill on Hudson Bay, where Joyce will become the second white woman at the outpost.

The young English girl arrived in Canada a month ago and stayed for a time with the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. D. B. Marsh in Toronto.

Preparing herself for life in an outpost, Joyce made out her shopping list for a year, learned to bake bread and practised the Eskimo language.

Joyce has a good idea what to expect. Mrs. Marsh, wife of the Bishop of the Arctic, is an authority as she spent the first 19 years of her married life at Eskimo Point.

The young bride has learned that the water she will use in winter has to be melted from blocks of ice, that there is no electricity and that cooking is done on a coal stove. Most exciting of all, she was told that provisions are ordered for a year.

NO EASY TASK

"She will be facing many more problems than the average bride," Mrs. Marsh said.

Her duties will include teaching Sunday school, attending women's meetings and conducting Sunday services when her husband is on one of his many arctic trips administering to parishioners in even more remote areas.

The Eskimos, Mrs. Marsh explained, would never think of doing Sunday paas without a service even if they had to conduct it themselves.

Most brides would think twice before entering on such a life. But not Joyce whose trousseau contains such items as deerskin socks, pants and parkas.

At 15, Joyce made up her mind to be a missionary. She trained for three years as a nurse followed by three years at Bible school at Birkenhead, England where she met her fiance.

JOINT CELEBRATION

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — On family here celebrated two golden weddings. Mr. and Mrs. Geo's Bunclark, and Mrs. Bunclark, Mr. hall-brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hill, were married in England and the two couples came together to Canada.

When the Toronto Transit Commission opened its subway in 1954, after four years of building and an expenditure of $60,000,000, the city became the first in Canada to have an underground rapid-transit system.

Now traffic experts checking on travelling habits of the 1,300,000 people in Metropolitan Toronto, have come up with suggestions for two new subway routes.

Opposing lines have been drawn between the council of Metropolitan Toronto and TTC on which of two proposed new routes should be followed.

The TTC favors a route (2) east and west along Bloor Street and Danforth Avenue — actually one street — with eight miles between termini at Keele Street in the west and Woodbine Avenue in the east. The Bloor-Danforth throughfare is the main east-west midtown traffic artery about two miles north of Union Station. A sideline (dotted line) would drop down University Avenue from Bloor to join the present subway at Union Station.

Metro council favors a U-shaped system (3) running east and west along downtown Queen Street. At its extremities, this line would branch northward, the west end terminating at the intersection of Bloor and Christie Street and terminating in the east at Danforth and Pape Avenues. The uprights in the Queen Street system would be about four miles apart.

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The people of Springhill today have a bad case of the jitters. Their future and the very existence of their town are in doubt. The one coal mine still working is threatened with closure.

It was at 3:07 p.m. on Nov. 1 last year that an explosion trapped 118 men deep in the No. 2 mine of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company. It left five men dead or dying on the surface, and sent deadly gas through the tunnels below. After four nights and three days of horror and heroism, 88 miners were rescued alive—but 39 men had died.

That was the start of the worst 12 months most Springhillers have known—a year of unending crisis.

SOLE INDUSTRY

Springhill is a one - industry town all its 7,000 people live, more or less, on coal. And coal here as elsewhere is caught in a shrinking market.

Before the explosion 1,350 men worked in the town's two mines—No. 2 and No. 4. But No. 4 never reopened. About 450 men were left jobless.

The company said in July that No. 4 mine was closed for good. Cost of reopening would be more than the coal was worth. Some miners and their families had already left for Ontario and other places. With the announcement, more went away, some to the mines in Cape Breton. But many quit mining for good.

No. 2 continued to work but all wasn't well. The company says it needs 839 men to operate the mine efficiently. Some days many of them didn't show up. Other days they shut down part or all of the mine by wildcat strikes. The company said it was losing money.

In October William Campbell, the mine superintendent, issued an ultimatum; a full day's work from everyone for the next two months or No. 2 closes too.

TOWN AT CROSSROADS

Rev. William T. Mercer, United Church minister who heads the Springhill Citizens' Committee, says:

"If No. 2 closes there'll be nothing here. The company owns the railroad and that'll go too. Springhill will be a ghost town."

Charlie Allbon, editor of the weekly Springhill Record, says there are two sides to every question, but in an editorial his paper said:

"Coal mining in Springhill has reached the crossroads . . . The problems of wildcat strikes and absenteeism must be faced by all concerned if coal mining is to be carried on here in the future."

LABOR TALKS

Harry Terris, United Mine Workers' district board member for Springhill, says he thinks things are better now.

"We've had meeting with the management. One two weeks ago, another last Saturday. Small groups of the men. They're helping to clear the air. It does 'em good to go in and argue it out from both sides. A lot of them have never met the management before."

Why do the men stay away from work? Why do they walk out in unauthorized strikes? Mr. Terris says the reasons are as numerous as the walkouts; arguments over the pay for this job or that, working conditions in a particular section of the mine, the attitude of an official.

But visit a coal mine when the shifts are changing, and one basic reason becomes clear — Springhill mining is especially tough. No. 2 mine is the deepest in North America, getting toward a mile straight down at the lowest. Ventilation is a big problem.

"It's hot down there," a miner said. "The pressure is fierce. Sometimes the sweat is running off you before you even get to the bottom. Five days in a place like that is hard to take."

OFFERS HOPE

Mines superintendent Campbell says Nov. 30 is the deadline for No. 2 but he offers some hope.

"I think the men realize now how serious the situation is, so drastic measures probably won't be necessary." He was a miner himself once.

The shift in control of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to A. V. Roe Canada Limited raises another question. The local company is a Dosco subsidiary.

Everyone asks, "What will Roe do?" The Citizens' Committee hopes the new management will do something to help their town.

In the meantime, the people hold on, but they say they don't know how long they can. Merchants say business has slumped, collections are slow.

Editor Allbon is a member of the Disaster Relief Committee. He says the almost $500,000 that thousands donated is being managed carefully. Half of it went to set up a pension for widows. The rest is used to help needy miners and their families.

Charlie McSavaney, one of the 88 delivered from No. 4 last November, thought about it as he waited to go down for another shift.

"I was the second last one of the 88 to come up," he said. "I was down there almost four days.

"It's a year Friday. I don't know if I'll work that day or not. Five shifts a week in that hole is too many."

COMMONWEALTH AREA

Total area of the British Commonwealth is estimated at about 14,500,000 square miles.

Turncoat Plans To Be Minister

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Edward Dickenson, Korean War turncoat who is scheduled for release Nov. 23 from the U.S. disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., plans to enter the ministry.

Rev. W. S. Mooneyham of Nashville, executive secretary of the National Association of Free Will Baptists, said Wednesday night Dickenson plans to apply for admission to the Free Will Baptist Bible College here.

Dickenson, 27, was convicted in 1954 of collaborating with the enemy and for informing on a fellow American who planned escape. His 10-year sentence subsequently was reduced on appeal and further reduced by good conduct at the disciplinary barracks.

Move Negroes To Exclusive Northern Home

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A family of southern Negroes will be moved into an exclusive, all-white neighborhood in a northern city within 60 days, The Chronicle says.

State Senator A. A. Fowler would neither identify the family nor name the city but said the home is in "an outstanding, quiet, respectable neighborhood in the $75,000 class," the paper reports.

"The location is such that it will give one of the country's leading exponents of integration a chance to practise some of the 'walking' he has been preaching to the people of Georgia and the South," Fowler is quoted.

Fowler, lawyer Roy V. Harris of Augusta, and state Welfare Director Allen Kemper organized the American Resettlement Foundation Inc., whose object is to settle low income southern Negro families in upper class northern neighborhoods.

Fowler said the family will be charged $1-a-year rent on the $75,000 home.

STRIKE STILL ON

TOKYO (AP) — Thousands of tons of merchandise destined for Christmas shoppers in North America piled up in Japanese ports today as crews of ocean-going vessels decided to extend to a full week their 48-hour strike for higher wages. The two - day strike of 45,000 seamen from ecastal and some ocean - going ships ended, but about 9,000 sailors from 131 ocean - going vessels decided to carry on for five more days.

Want Pensions Made 'Portable'

COBALT, Ont. (CP) — Union miners in this Northern Ontario mining centre seek a pension plan that will move with them should they move from mine to mine.

J. L. Kidd, acting district representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) said the executives of four mine union locals drafted a resolution on the subject Wednesday night and sent it to Ottawa to Arnold Peters, CCF member for Timiskaming, asking him to present it to Parliament. The resolution seeks government assistance in setting up a portable pension scheme.

Scientists and Experts Fail To Agree When Human Space Travel Will Be Available

EDITOR'S NOTE: The most fascinating question about space travel is: mad people is: When do people go? Maybe even me? This fourth and last of a series looks at the prospects, but warns it's not likely to be tomorrow, or even the next day.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Jet pilots are flying so high that much of the earth's air is beneath them. They are already meeting and conquering some major problems involved in trips to the moon or Mars.

Human volunteers in special experiments are providing answers as to whether and how humans can stand greater and more severe challenges lurking in the void of space.

But don't fall for the pitch of some promoter offering you bargain-price reserved tickets to the moon for 1960 or 1965.

It just won't be that easy.

MAY NEVER COME

Indeed, there are some scientists and experts who say space travel is forever out of the question—men couldn't stand it, or be protected well enough.

There's a middle opinion that human journeys into space are a very long way off—perhaps no earlier than the end of this century.

But enthusiasts say the first space-Columbus—John or Ivan—has already been born or now is even in school. The initial space journeys within five to 10 years.

Jet pilots are flying in such thin air that they must carry their own oxygen, use pressurized cabins and special suits, or else their blood would boil at these heights. Their planes are overcoming problems of heat from friction at such speed in the air they meet.

MANY PROBLEMS

Space flight means more of most of the same problems, intensified. But with new problems added.

Can human life withstand the radiation men will meet in space from cosmic rays, and from intensive atomic blasts and X rays from the sun? Our blanket of atmosphere blocks out most of these rays which could quickly kill or damage the unprotected body.

How crowded is space with cosmic dust, or with big meteor chunks travelling faster than any cannon shell, and just as lethal if they barreled through a pressurized space cruiser?

Baby moons equipped with sensitive instruments and radios will report what these hazards are, or what unsuspected dangers may exist.

With that knowledge, scientists and engineers might devise materials and methods to safeguard human astronauts physically.

HEAVY AND LIGHT

Rockets taking off from earth will subject occupants to many times the normal pull of gravity, making bodies feel like lead. Experiments show that men can apparently tolerate this.

Weightlessness — in jet planes or space cruisers — can make some people sick, confused, with impaired sense of direction. Aviation medical studies are finding out why some individuals are affected this way and others not, and how to choose them.

Artificial gravity, from centrifugal spinning of the space cruiser, could offset the no-gravity trouble. Tests with humans can tell how much spinning is needed and in space.

Effects of cosmic rays and unfiltered sun rays are another thing. But animals are the first pioneers of space, going up aboard rockets, then parachuting back to earth. This has been done with mice, monkeys and dogs, with cameras recording their reactions.

Monkeys have gone up 80 miles high inside U.S. rockets. Russians report sending dogs 120 miles high. Just in the last few days, a Soviet scientist said a next step could be to put dogs or other animals in baby moons, with instruments recovering and reporting what happens to them.

NO ILL EFFECTS

Such animal trials could be arranged humanely to prevent suffering. But the real step would be human volunteers testing the practicality of space travel.

Could people psychologically withstand the peculiar challenges of space? Long trips mean a few persons cooped together in probably cramped quarters or days or months, in perhaps continuous peril, with sudden emergencies calling for quick, decisive, cooperative action.

FAIRY STONE BRINGS FAIRY RICHES TO SWEEP WINNER, 4

Winner of $38,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes, four - year - old Donna Aubert of Vancouver, is too young to realize how wealthy she is, but old enough to absorb that she is worth 2,800,000 lolly pops. Her horse, Fairy Stone, came in third in the race. The winning ticket was bought for Donna by her grandfather. Donna's parents are getting legal advice on how to use the cash, and plan to set some aside for her education. As for Donna, she foresees "some extra popsicles and a pony."

The picked men manning atomic submarines operate under similar conditions, and their answer is yes.

Women might be the choice because, say some psychologists, they can tolerate boredom and monotonous tasks better. Another suggestion is to put space crews into suspended animation on long journeys with special drugs while automatic controls or signals from earth control the flight to mars.

It seems certain that the first astronauts will be carefully selected — maybe one in thousands — on considerations of health, psychology, training and skills.

Reprisal Action Against Jamaica Is Requested

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Calvert C. Pratt has urged the federal government to investigate the possibility of reprisal action against Jamaica for, reportedly blocking imports of salt codfish from the Atlantic provinces.

The Newfoundland Liberal made his proposal Thursday in a notice of inquiry in the upper house. Senator John T. Haig, government leader, said he would place Senator Pratt's suggestion before Trade Minister Churchill.

Senator Pratt said the Jamaican government is refusing to permit imports of Atlantic coast salted codfish except at prices dictated by Jamaica.

RAPS BELL BILL

Ontario Liberal Senator Arthur Roebuck told the Senate he is "rather appalled" by a private bill which would authorize the Bell Telephone Company of Canada to increase its authorized capital to $1,000,000,000 from $500,000,000.

He said the bill would give the company the right to issue $500,000,000 in new stocks without coming back to Parliament.

The company is seeking the increased capitalization to help finance a $962,000,000 construction program between 1958 and 1962. The bill previously was approved by the Senate banking and commerce committee and was before the Senate for final reading. Debate was adjourned without the bill being passed.

Felix Gaillard Has Outside Hope Of Being Premier

PARIS (Reuters) — Youthful Felix Gaillard, 37-year-old finance minister in the outgoing government of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury Sept. 30, has won promises of tentative support Thursday night from three all-important parties—the Socialists, the Conservatives and the Catholic Popular Republicans.

A middle-of-the-road Radical party member, Gaillard now must put together a program on which the three bickering parties can agree. If he meets this test, as he hopes to during the weekend, he will go before the National Assembly next Tuesday, his 38th birthday, for a vote of confidence.

AUSTERITY PROMOTER

The principal difficulty is that Gaillard is the author of an austerity program which angered the powerful farmers union and helped to bring on the "de facto" dissolution of the franc. He also is identified with the Bourges-Maunoury government's decision to give Algeria limited independence—the issue which brought down the last government.

He may have to modify a number of his views in order to please the warring parties, which have so far refused to co-operate in the setting up of a new government.

If he succeeds, he will become the youngest French premier since 1947.

The government crisis now is in its 33rd day and is nearly as old as the record 36-day gap in 1953 between the governments of Rene Mayer and Joseph Laniel.

Teamsters Plan To Defy Order For Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International Brotherhood of Teamsters has decided to disregard a cleanup order from the AFL-CIO executive council, and instead will appeal the matter to the AFL-CIO convention next month.

Defiance of the order to change its upper echelons pointed to almost certain expulsion of the teamsters by the full AFL-CIO convention which opens Dec. 5 in Atlantic City.

Retiring teamsters president Dave Beck told reporters Thursday "I'd certainly be an optimist if I thought the appeal would do any good in averting the threatened ouster of his union from the federation.

UNANIMOUS DECISION

Beck met with reporters after the teamsters' executive board decided unanimously against doing anything about the AFL-CIO corruption charges against its leaders.

The AFL-CIO council has suspended the 1,500,000-member union until it ousts officials accused of misdeeds. The suspension from the federation was expected to become expulsion at the AFL-CIO convention.

Beck said that if necessary, the truckers are prepared to go it alone.

HOFFA KEPT OUT

Beck and other teamster leaders — including president-elect James Hoffa—have been accused of misconduct and misuse of union funds by the Senate rackets investigating committee.

Federal district Judge F. Dickinson Letts last week temporarily enjoined Hoffa from taking over the union's presidency. Letts decided on a motion which picked Hoffa was stacked in his favor.

The U.S. court of appeals has reserved decision on a union appeal that it modify Letts' injunction.

Beck said he will continue in office as long as the legality of Hoffa's election is being questioned in the courts.

U.K., U.S. BOMBERS IN KEEN CONTEST FOR TOP HONORS

The Strategic Air Command base at Orlando, Fla., is the site of a keen UK-US contest with both countries seeking to capture top honors in the SAC's annual bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition. US crews, flying planes like this B-52, outnumber the RAF group, 86 to four. But the RAF has two revolutionary V-type bombers, the Avro Vulcan and the Vickers Valiant, which are expected to outshine the older US bombers in their US debut. British pilots are reportedly annoyed by the US rule that they must come down to 35,000 feet on their bombing runs. The RAF crews say they will have to crank back their throttles to maintain schedules in the competitive bombing runs.

Khrushchev's recent statement that "bombers are obsolete" was not taken seriously by Britain's Air Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst, right, or base commander Col. Robert Strong, shown at the SAC bombing competition. Britain already holds the world's record for speed and altitude and is seeking bombing supremacy as well.

Premier Names Commissioner To Probe Bribery Charges

VICTORIA (CP)—A royal commission investigation into charges of bribery made against a former British Columbia forest minister was ordered by the provincial government Thursday.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan was instructed by Premier Bennett to inquire into charges of corruption against Robert E. Sommers, a member of the Social Credit cabinet until February, 1956.

The chief justice said in an interview his terms of reference restrict him from making any recommendation to the government.

This is just a fact - finding commission and the government will have to decide what the next steps are."

His powers allow him to subpoena any witness he wishes.

Chief Justice Sloan is asked in the first instance whether a number of lumber companies paid or transferred "money or other properties" to Mr. Sommers as consideration for being issued forest management licences.

Forest management licences are granted in perpetuity to logging companies on the condition they replant the land to assure a sustained timber fiele.

Appointment of the commissioner came three days after the dismissal of a rancher suit which Mr. Sommers launched against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy in December, 1955.

REBELS JAILED

VIENNA (AP) — Twelve alleged rebels in the Hungarian revolt, including nine army officers, have been sentenced to prison terms at Gyoer, the Communist newspaper at Vesprem reported today. Dr. Arpad Brusnyai, described as the chief defendant, was sentenced to life, the others from one to 10 years.

REDS SENTENCED

CAIRO (AP) — An Egyptian military court today sentenced 13 Communists accused of attempting to overthrow the regime of President Nasser to prison terms ranging from two to seven years. The court acquitted five others. The defendants defiantly shouted Communist slogans after the verdicts were read.

British Columbians Asking Exactly What Is Permitted Under the Lord's Day Act

VANCOUVER (CP) — With a Vancouver baseball team fined for playing on Sunday and a New Westminster police commissioner charged for failing to go to church, British Columbians are asking exactly what is permitted on the Sabbath.

Lawyers say it depends where you live. Residents of Vancouver Island are governed only by the federal Lord's Day Act, but those living on the mainland are covered by a 1625 English Sunday Observance Act as well.

The old English statute, passed in the reign of Charles II and adopted by B. C.'s colonial legislature 99 years ago, forbids a wide variety of activities from bear - baiting to "showing forth wares," which can result in forfeiture of the goods.

It also bans travel by boat or barge "except it be upon extraordinary occasion," on penalty of a five-shilling fine, and forbids hunting.

City counsel Russ Baker says this ancient act is the main stumbling block in moves to give more freedom on Sundays. Its prohibitions cover many kinds of "wordly labor, business or work."

It cannot be repealed by the provincial legislature because such activity in all matters of Sunday observances now is vested in Parliament.

The act does not apply to Vancouver Island because it was not part of the crown colony in 1858.

Mr. Baker said permissive clauses in the federal Lord's Day Act, which allow Sunday sport and certain other activities if approved by local bodies, could not become operative until Parliament repeals B. C.'s ancient statute.

Meanwhile, police commissioner A. W. Mark of New Westminster says he will fight a charge laid against him by a resident of the city for failing to attend church last Sunday. He said his wife was ill that day.

He faces a 70-cent fine under the old act for "failing to exercise himself in the duties of piety and true religion publicly or privately." Lawyer Miles Nottingham said he will seek dismissal because it cannot be proved that Mr. Mark failed to attend to his devotions at home.

HOPES TO SOLVE FRENCH CRISIS

French financial wizard Felix Gaillard, 37, is attempting to form a new government and end the four-week political crisis in France. Gaillard was the finance minister in the recently defeated government of Maurice Bourges-Maunoury. If successful will be the youngest premier in France's history as a republic.

Finance Minister Concerned Over High Interest

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming has told the commons the government is concerned over the effects of high interest rates. He said there were among the "unhappy legacies" inherited from the previous administration.

Mr. Fleming was asked Thursday by Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) what action the government was considering to alleviate high interest rates charged on loans to municipalities.

Mr. Fleming said the Progressive Conservatives are concerned about the burden placed, on all levels of government by the rates "highest in a generation." That's when he made his remark about legacies from the Liberal regime.

The finance minister added that interest rates on Dominion government securities have eased slightly in recent weeks.

Colin Cameron (CCF — Nanaimo) asked to what Liberal action Mr. Fleming attributed high interest rates.

Mr. Fleming didn't have to reply when Speaker Roland Michener ruled Mr. Fleming could not speak for another government.

CAMPBELLFORD

Santa Claus Parade to Be Best Yet

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford will see its Santa Claus parade again this year, conducted as before by the local Chamber of Commerce. The initial steps in planning and organizing the spectacle were taken this week with the appointing of the committees to look after the hundreds of details which must be attended to before the show goes on the road.

Saturday, December 14, will be the big day. F. G. DeCarol, again chairman of the parade committee, said he hopes to make this year's event the best yet. During the past few years, the annual parade has gained momentum, with the result that each year, it is a little bigger and a little better than the year before. The parade has got to the stage where it is generally conceded to be one of the best between Toronto and Montreal. This year, some half dozen bands are expected to take part. The committee spends considerable sums of money each year on the rental of costumes, decoration of floats and in providing thousands of bags of candy and other treats for the children who come to see Santa.

Last year, the parade drew crowds from great distances, and the number of persons in the town on the day of the parade was estimated at twice the town's normal population. Extra police are needed to handle the traffic on the day of the event, and the parade committee is now working out a plan of traffic control which they will ask up with the local police. Local businessmen and merchants support the event through donations to the Chamber of Commerce.

CRU Should Clarify Rule Of Players Leaving Bench

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — It probably won't happen, but the Canadian Rugby Union should clarify before Grey Cup time Nov. 30 the rule concerning players who hop off the bench to the playing field. Otherwise, it is conceivable that Canada's greatest sports spectacle could be loused up property.

Right now, the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Unions .They are the CRU) are as much in a fog about the rule as football fans .A sad commentary is that some league executives admit it.

This intelligence cropped up last Sunday. The Big Four brass met in Toronto to deal with a Montreal protest following the escapade of helmet - less Ralph Tooby, the Hamilton Tiger - Cat who dashed off the bench to tell what Alouettes claimed was a certain game- winning touchdown in a game the previous week.

THREE-HOUR SESSION

The executive pondered three hours behind closed doors and innocently announced the protest had been thrown out because they weren't clear on the rule. They wiggled out of a decision by saying that action should be taken at the Big Four annual meeting to recommend that the CRU clarify the rule.

Fair enough, but their timing is off. The Big Four meets in January, two months after the East-West final, and the CRU gets together next March.

The rule is clear enough if a ball-carrier obviously touchdown-bound, is tackled by a bench-hopping player. A touchdown is awarded.

But Toohy's case is a little bit different. He dashed onto the field before the ball had been snapped, and that's where the confusion exists. Does play begin when the referee signals time in, or when the ball is snapped?

Imagine the mass confusion if a similar case came up in the Grey Cup final before 27,400 partisan fans with the result of the game hinging on the backfield. Suppose the team is penalized 10 yards for having an extra man on the field as in the Toohy case and no touchdown awarded?

What's logical or game official would dare to give a decision on the spot without a clear-cut call beforehand from the CRU, the governing body in the east-west playoff?

The boys have a month to get together and clear the air on this point.

CRITICAL COMMENT

Meanwhile, lack of action by the Big Four led veteran sports observer Elmer (Montreal Star) Ferguson to ask: "How stupid can you get?"

"The executive . . . indicated that this sort of bush - league shenanigans must cease. Though they admitted that Ralph the Rough had committed no offence, they suggested that he should be fined for the offence that he didn't commit!" Ferguson wrote.

"Ralphie's latest escapade . . . will have delayed action early next year when the Big Four brass will put the boots to their practically anonymous commissioner, Judge A. J. Fraser of Ottawa," Dunnell wrote.

"To give Toohy his due, the judge probably would gave gone anyway. The Hamilton boy-rube merely scaled the sentence. Critics of the judge will cite it as one more example of dereliction of duty."

Dunnell quoted a member of what he termed the "Fraser-must - go" faction as saying the judge "has about four reports on various matters before him right now. Three are things which were brought to his attention by officials handling cup games. But we never got any rulings on them."

'Ole Archie' KO's Mitchell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Archie Moore, world light heavyweight champion, claimed a technical knockout over Bobby Mitchell of Omaha, Neb., at 1:45 of the fifth round in a not-title bout at Exhibition Gardens here Thursday night.

Moore weighed 192 pounds for the scheduled 10-rounder. Mitchell weighed 193.

Referee Bert Lowes stopped the fight after Mitchell had been sent to the canvas twice in the fifth round.

Webb Favored Over Vaughn

NEW YORK (AP)—While Carmen Basilio waits on Sugar Ray Robinson and the International Boxing Club to decide what he will defend his world middleweight title, the contenders are getting restless.

Spider Webb of Chicago, the No. 6 boy in the ring ratings, will try to strengthen his claim tonight in a 10-round match with Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles at Madison Square Garden. Webb is the 13-to-5 favorite.

Gene Fullmer, the No. 2 contender, meets Neal Rivers at the Garden, Nov. 15 and Rory Calhoun, No. 3, takes on Bobby Boyd, No. 9, in the same ring Nov. 22.

Spider has a 24-2 pro record. He has won five of six this year. Vaughn, a year younger than Webb at 24, is a veteran of 53 fights with a 32-16-5 record, plus one "no decision" contest.

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker will be the guests of honor at the Grey Cup festival here Nov. 28, 29 and 30, Chad Bark, festival chairman, announced Thursday.

Whitby Adds Bobby Bauer As Adviser

WHITBY (CP) — Whitby Dunlops, Canada's representatives at the world hockey championships in 1958, have added Bobby Bauer as an advisor on European-style hockey, general manager-coach Wren Blair announced Thursday.

Bauer coached Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for three seasons and guided Dutchies to second place in the 1956 world and Olympic championships.

His job of advising Whitby on how to switch from the more bruising Canadian game to the fast-and-polite European style begins next week. Whitby meets the Russian team Nov. 22 in Toronto in an exhibition.

Barlow Tops Scorers in West-North Loop

SUDBURY (CP) — Bob Barlow of North Bay Trappers is setting the individual scoring pace in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern OHA Senior series with four goals and eight assists for 12 points.

Tied for second with 11 points apiece are Windsor Bulldogs' Frank Bathgate and two more Trappers, Chester Konecny and Merv Gribbons. Bathgate is the leading goal getter with eight. Sudbury Wolves' Joe Malo and Joe Zorica, John Bailey of Soo Greyhounds and Ken Laufman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen all have 10 points. Rounding out the top 10 scorers are North Bay's Johnny Bobenic and Sudbury's Jim Logan with eight points each.

Kitchener's Boat Hurley leads among goaltenders with 15 goals against him in seven games for a 2.14 goals-against-average. Sudbury's Johnny Albani has a 3.00 average with 21 goals in seven games.

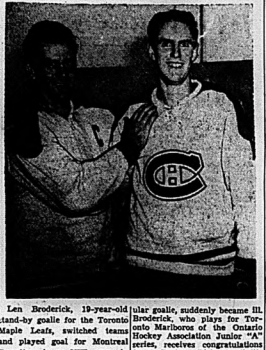
The statistics include games up to Wednesday night.

Cubs Collar Biltmores 3-0



HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs opened their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Thursday night with a 3-0 victory over Guelph Biltmores, winless in two starts.

Marktime for Cubs were Dave Anadio, Murray Oliver and Brian Smith. Cubs' goalie Carl Wetzel stopped 20 shots. Bruce Gamble in the Guelph nets made 23 saves.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Poland start new economic talks today aimed at providing further U.S. assistance to the Communist regime of Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka. The negotiation at the state department is an extension of an agreement signed last June 7 providing $95,000,000 in U.S. economic aid to Poland.

Robinson Is Top Sophomore

NEW YORK (CP)—Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, the National League rookie-of-the-year in 1956, advanced to the next plateau by being acclaimed Thursday as the league's outstanding sophomore in 1957

The 23-year-old outfielder and baseman had some close competition from pitcher Don Drysdale of the transplanted Brooklyn Dodgers, who will be wearing a Los Angeles uniform in 1958 and second baseman Don Blasingame of St. Louis Cards. Drysdale received 44 votes and Blasingame was the choice of 36 writers.

The sturdy right-handed swinger hit .322 in his sophomore season and tied Hank Aaron of Milwaukee for third place in the National League batting race. As a rookie Robinson batted .290.

Although his home run output dipped from 38 in 1956 to 29 last season, Robinson collected 31 more base hits.

His 97 batteries ranked him third in this department and he had only three less hits than pace-setting Red Schoendienst of the Braves. In 150 games the powerful swinger batted in 75 runs and scored 97.

Would Ban Massachusetts From Fight Body

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fred J. Saddy, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, said Thursday he will recommend expulsion of Massachusetts from NBA membership for recognizing the Virgil Akins - Tony DeMarco fight as a welterweight championship match.

Saddy said he would make his proposal at the next meeting of the organization's executive committee around the first of the year.

Akins, an 11 - 5 underdog, clouded the welterweight picture Tuesday night at Boston by knocking out DeMarco, the NBA's No. 1 contender, in the 14th round of their scheduled 15-round bout. Akins had been ranked fifth by the NBA, which does not recognize a champion in the 147-pound division.

Akins, in the November ratings released Thursday, moved up to third while DeMarco dropped to fifth. Akins' victory also earned him the NBA's nomer of the month award.

NBA president Gilbert Jackson said Akins won a spot in a proposed elimination tournament to decide Carmen Basilio's successor as welter champ.

Saddy said Isaac Logart, Gil Turner, Vince Martinez and Akins, the top four in the NBA's welterweight division, are eligible for the tournament. Ring magazine's ratings, also announced Thursday, listed Logart, Akins, DeMarco and Martinez, in that order, as contenders for the vacant welterweight title.

CORNWALL TONIGHT

Tonight Belleville fandom and the McFarlands get their first schedule look at the "New Look" Chevies from Cornwall. It is the first league clash between the squads and should produce some idea of the potential of the riverside city squad.

Coach Joe Lepine and Manager Ray Miron have garaged themselves what is said to be a powerful squad of puck-chasing buckaroos who should give the best of them a run for the money.

True, the McFarlands defeated the Chevies 8-4 in an exhibition game but it should be recalled the Chevies had been on skates barely a week and were definitely not up to schedule par.

At the moment they are the kings of the roost as far as the last column goes, although they share the points line with the Macs at four each. The Chevies edged the starry, Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 6-5 in an overtime battle but handed the powerful Pembroke Lumber Kings, fresh from two straight wins over Kingston, a 7-2 setback in their second and last to-date performance of the season. The Cornwall-Canadiens game scheduled for Wednesday night was postponed because of no ice in the new Hull arena.

A familiar face to Belleville fans will be seen in a Cornwall uniform tonight. It will be that of Rene St. Hilaire, who was dropped by the Macs earlier in the season. Rene is versatile and is one of the Cheviers front lines and according to reports from down east, and the scoring records, is doing a good job.

Anyway with the top rung of the ladder at stake, tonight's tussle should be one for the books. The Macs will go out in front by two points should they register a victory, and have a chance to extend it to four tomorrow night since they trek to Kingston to take on the CKLC's while the Chevies trek on up to Whitby to give battle to the Dunlops on their own ice.

Tomorrow night will be the McFarlands Booster Club debut along foreign trails. President Dick Beare told this department today that well over 200 tickets have been sold for the railroad safari and there are some left. Anyone having a last-minute change of mind can secure tickets from Prexy Beare.

It should be a colorful scene in the Kingston Community Centre. The lilted pipers of the Quinte Pipe Band with pipes askirl and kilt aswirl will head the big parade of Boosters to the Centre. The gay berets of the Boosters with their scarlet and club colors will add to the color, while there isn't the least shadow of a doubt the club will be heard from vocally. Looks like a big night in the Limestone City.

Incidentally, the "Booster Train" leaves the upper Canadian National Railway Station at seven o'clock and will leave Kingston at 11.15.

Speaking of the Boosters, those members who have volunteered for "service" at Earle Ashley's service station tomorrow for the "Canorama" are reminded to be on hand. The stage is all set and it is hoped motor vehicle owners and drivers of the city will help the club by patronizing this service station at 301 Coleman Street tomorrow.

Some of the lady members of the club will be on hand to assist with windshield cleaning while the more males" will attend to the other service station duties under the supervision of Mr. Ashley's staff. The popular owner is donating five cents from the price of each gallon of gas sold tomorrow.

"This is a very generous gesture on the part of Mr. Ashley," Booster president Beare said today, "and we are gratefully appreciative of it."

Horses by Any Other Names Would Be Just as Fleet

TORONTO (CP)—What's in a name?

E. E. MacDonald, counsel for Morrissey and Miss Armstrong, said the horses had not been named for Orpen.

Stole the Ring, a two-year-old filly and a leading contender for some of the classics, will run Saturday for a cup and saucer put up several years ago by Orpen. At the time the commission ruled the names should be changed, Orpen said: "Those names mean nothing to me. I haven't attended a race meeting nor looked at the entries since I sold my tracks."

However, in 1946 when Orpen owned Long Branch race track, he and Morrissey argued over the weight assigned Morrissey's Casa Camara in the running of that year's Cup and Saucer. Casa Camara won the race.

Two weeks Her Cass Camara was entered in the Diamond Ring Stakes at Long Branch and a co-feature, the Silver Knife, was also on the card. Casa Camara won the Diamond Ring but owner Morrissey refused to accept the Diamond Ring from Orpen's representative then and said recently he still hasn't received it.

Slam Three 2nd-Period Goals With Chadwick Solid in Net; Rocket Scores Tenth in Ten

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

They may win nothing else, but Toronto Maple Leafs should be awarded this year's clouded crystal ball as the National Hockey League's most unpredictable team.

Two nights ago Leafs lost 6-2 to Montreal Canadiens in Toronto and looked just as bad as the score indicates. Thursday night, in the hostile Montreal Forum, they slammed in three second-period goals and licked the league's best team 3-1.

Meanwhile, in Boston, New York Rangers, who have been making all the experts look bad since the season opened, became the first team in 44 games to shut out the Bruins on home ice with a 3-0 victory that consolidated their hold on second place, three points behind Montreal.

UP AND DOWN CLUB

Leafs, in last place with a 3-6 record, have been up and down, but mostly down, since the season opened. After losing three in a row they beat Boston 7-0 and started Saturday night with Billy Harris' goal, his fifth, at 3:32 and followed it with Bob Pulford's at 9:39 and Cully Cullen's at 12:19. Then they closed around goalie Gil Chadwick to protect their lead.

He responded magnificently with a brilliant darting display that amazed 14,114 Montreal fans. During the evening he stopped 33 shots, 12 in each of the last two periods.

WORSLEY IN FORM

At Boston, too, it was goaltender's night, as little Lorne Worsley blocked 27 shots, 15 of them in a thrilling first-period display.

Worsley got his offensive help from Ranger captain Red Sullivan who beat Don Simmons in the first and third periods. Andy Bathgate collected the other New York goal in the second period.

A crowd of 11,528 fans, frequently loudly disapproving, watched the Rangers and Bruins lose their fifth consecutive game after winning the first four of the season.

At Montreal, Charlie Hodge of Montreal Royals, the Canadiens' Quebec Hockey League farm club was once again in goal for Jacques Plante, out this time with an asthma attack. Hodge stopped 28 shots in a creditable display.

Saturday Canadiens are host to Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks are in Toronto and Rangers are at home to Bruins. Sunday Rangers are in Chicago and Detroit is at Boston.

Boxer Dupas Wins Louisiana 'Race' Fight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ralph Dupas, third ranking lightweight contender, Thursday won his court battle to live and box in Louisiana as a free man.

If the judge had declared Dupas, a Negro, the boxer would not have been allowed to fight white men. Louisiana's segregation laws forbid mixed bouts.

The race of the 21-year-old Dupas was first questioned publicly last April when Mrs. Lucrecia Gravolet, former registrar of births for neighboring Plaquemines Parish, appeared before the Louisiana State Athletic Commission. She told the commission the boxer's real name was Ralph Dupuy and she had registered him at birth as a Negro.

'Long Count' Charge Made By Manager

"On the occasion of the first knockdown in the 10th round," Yawitz said "I was counting with the referee. When I reached 12 he had got up to eight.

"After he counted nine, he started down with his arm for the stroke of 10, then picked up DeMarco by the arm-pit and stood him against the ropes.

"And there he was until the bell rang."

McCarron was ill at his home and unavailable for comment.

Most boxing writers who witnessed the bout didn't think there was any long count. One noted that although DeMarco was groggy, his knees and gloves were off the floor before McCarron gave the count "10."

Yankees Refund Fines to 'Night Clubbers'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees Thursday were reported to have refunded the fines to five of the six players who were involved in the Copacabana night club incident in May.

Dan Daniel, writing in the New York World-Telegram and Sun, said the Yankees were taking this action because Dan Topping, club president, was satisfied with their conduct for the rest of the season.

The Yankees refused to confirm or deny the report. The club never did announce the actual fines.

Hank Bauer, Whitey Ford, Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle and Billy Martin were fined $1,000 each and Johnny Mize $500 for participating in the Copa affair. Martin's fine reportedly was refunded when he was traded to Kansas City in mid-June. The Copa incident marked Martin's 29th birthday.

Western Clubs Will Go Through Motions

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fans expect the last two games in the regular schedule of the Western Interprovincial Football Union to be exciting Saturday even though nothing is at stake but the records.

Three of the coaches have promised to give the windup everything they have. The fourth, Frank Ivy of the Grey Cup champs says he hopes to play a good game.

Coach Otis Douglas of the third place Calgary Stampeders, who have already completed their regular 12-game schedule, is expecting that club in preparation for the semi-finals which open in Winnipeg Nov. 9.

Playoff berths were decided Oct. 26 when Edmonton defeated British Columbia Lions, leaving that club three points behind the Stampeders. Eskimos, in first place, have won 13 of their 15 games this season, posting two more victories than the second place Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

To wind up the schedule Winnipeg will play host to Regina Rough Riders at Regina. A victory by Saskatchewan and a loss by British Columbia would tie the clubs in last place with nine points each.

Nominees for Russell Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union have named halfbacks Dick Shatto and Bobby Kuntz as their nominees for the Jeff Russel Trophy as the most valuable and most sportsmanlike player.

Shatto, an import, and homebrew Kuntz are Argos' two leading groundgainers. Shatto has 648 yards and a 4.5 average and Kuntz 279 yards and a 5.1 average. Shatto has three touchdowns and Kuntz, with four, is the team's second-best scorer.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats named fullback Leo Lanster (Cookie) Gilchrist and tackle John Barrow as their candidates for the trophy.

Gilchrist is the league's leading rusher, Barrow, who is 245 pounds, has been one of the league's best linemen this season and frequently has played close to 60 minutes a game.

Tackle Kaye Vaughan and halfback Bob Judd were named by Ottawa Rough Riders as their Russel Trophy candidates.

Vaughan, last year's winner of the lineman of the year award, is a holdover import originally from Tulsa University. Judd, a fleet, versatile compeitor in his first year of professional football, hails from Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Must Win Two

Riders Can Tie Cats for Top Alouettes Meet Argos Twice

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The fans know who'd going to be in the Big Four Football Union playoffs — it's the order that's confusing.

It confuses some of the coaches too. They have to decide whether to go all out for a higher spot or rest weary players for the playoffs less than two weeks away.

Take Montreal Alouettes' Doug Walker. His club ends up with Toronto Argonauts, definitely eliminated from the playoff race. The teams meet in Toronto Saturday.

Montreal is two points behind Ottawa Rough Riders and two Montreal wins, combined with two Ottawa losses to Hamilton Tiger-Cats, would give Als second place and the sudden-death semifinal in the home grounds.

While Als might be figured to take past Argos, it isn't as easy to figure Hamilton for two wins over Ottawa. Their home-and-home series opens in Ottawa Saturday.

That's because Frank Clair's Riders are four points back of Hamilton. Two of the Ticats for top spot with two wins.

Meanwhile, in the Intercollegiate Senior series the top-place University of Western Ontario Mustangs go to Kingston Saturday to meet the last-place Queen's Golden Gaels. There's little chance of surprise in this meeting since the roles are exactly reversed—Mustangs have lost none of their four contests; Gaels have won none of theirs.

University of Toronto Blue, in third place, might fare a little better against the second-place McGill Redmen in Montreal, whom they trail by four points.

FIRST PLACE FIGHT

A one-point margin is at stake among the leaders as the Ontario Rugby Football Union plays out its schedule. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, in first place with 17 points, welcome second - place London Lords with 16 points, while Toronto Beaches, winless in 11 games, makes another brave stab at victory against the Golden Bears in Sarnia.

Since the Big Four rules say the points record against each other will apply when three teams are locked in first place, Ottawa needs only one win to clinch second.

Even if Montreal wins two, Riders outscored Als 89-87 as the teams split four games this year.

WOULD GET BYE

Hamilton need win only one game and it would end up on top for the first time since 1953. Top team draws a bye into the two-game total-point finals.

Walker has to figure whether he's worth using players like Tom Clay, hobbled with a lame back and ankle injury, to insure victory over Toronto, or rest some of his imports.

Bob MacLellan, onetime McGill University star, is expected to take over for Hugo, but even in past seasons, when Montreal had first place clinched, Walker rarely showed any tendency to turn to his bench.

FLANKER GAME

Clair has switched his offence from a double-wing split-T to a straight T and expects to be doing lots of running. Most of it might have to come from halfback Don St. John, still nursing a knee injury.

Ottawa has taken only one decision from Hamilton in three meetings in the air, but seats an eight-point scoring edge.

Hamilton has a terrible finds his club in good shape. Guard Art Darch still is missing but everybody else is in the lineup. That includes the payoff rushing punch of Cookie Gilchrist and Gerry MacDougall.

O'GARRY BACK

Argos, fighting for pride and next year's jobs, are expected to have end Pete O'Garro back in action, — temporarily at least. O'Garro's knee injury has been classed as healed enough to return to action without danger of permanent injury. Linebacker Jim Mathews definitely will be out and half Corky Tharp still is limping.

Coach Hamp Pool hasn't said that Gerry Doucette will go all the way at quarterback, but he has indicated the homebrew will start.

Westward Ho! The Baseball Brass Wagon

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick and his office staff may eventually follow the westward-ho trend and move out of New York—probably to Chicago.

Frick said the situation has been discussed informally but insisted no definite action had been taken and nobody had suggested that his office move.

"But the possibility of moving to a two-club city if there is one left at that time, is something we may have to face sometime." At the present time, the only two-club city in the majors is Chicago.

Durelle Rated No. 2 Contender

MILWAUKEE (CP)—Yvon Durelle, of Baie Ste. Anne, N. B., was rated the No. 2 contender for the light heavyweight title in the National Boxing Association's November ratings released Thursday.

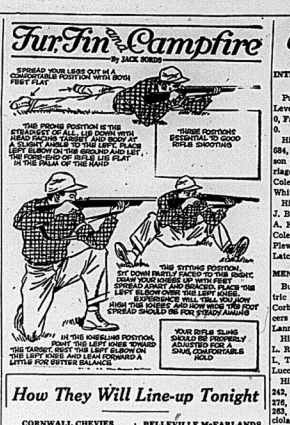
Anthony slipped in the NBA ratings from No. 1 to No. 2.



On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Col. K. R. Marshall's Tornelosvered Hartney, already an established sprint racer of this outstanding horse of 1957 prospect, added strength to his claim for that honor by winning the featured Sweepstaf Plate in track record time before 4,578 fans at Woodbine Park Thursday.

Hartney went to the front out of the gate in the mile and a sixteenth sixth race and ran the distance in 1:43 flat, a full second beneath the previous track standard set by another of the colonel's horses, Senior Teddy.

Jockey Charley O'Brien had Hartney levelled for the wire entering the stretch and the horse finished four and a quarter lengths before Pol Hunter. Grunion was third.

Balding Has 2-Stroke Lead In San Diego Open Tourney

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Open golf tournament goes into its third round today with Toronto's Al Balding holding a two-stroke lead with a 13-under-par score of 131 for 36 holes.

Balding used his own woods and putter but a set of borrowed irons in touring the 6,800-yard Mission Valley Country Club course Thursday in an eight-under-par 64. His, first round was 67, par is 36-36—72.

He used the borrowed irons because his own were left with author force friend in Tokyo when he returned a few days ago from the Canada Cup international matches in Japan.

TIED AT 135

Balding's 64 was one stroke over the competitive record for the course. His 30-foot putt for a birdie and a 63 stopped three inches short of the cup on the last hole.

The 32-year-old pro bagged four birdies on the front nine but three-putted No. 9 for one over par. He sank a 50-foot putt on the seventh green for a deuce and on the second nine birdied Nos. 10, 11 and 12.

"It was the best competitive round I ever played," Balding said.

The Towne Hall CHIEF

Did YOU know?

It was during the century which preceded the greatest day of the Regency that Dandies of the London West end was transformed from a measure of refined fashionable part of London. within which the elite of the land lived and amused themselves. From its inception, the "Town Road" has been synonymous with the best in men's attire. Picadilly, the main street of the world over, was derived. from the Picadilly Lords, and the man who built the first house in the West End was a tailor.

In 1611, Robert Baker, a Strand tailor, bought from Widow Golightly one and a half acres of land by the Picadilly Circus we know so well. Here he built a lavish house. Baker was a wealthy man-for he accumulated a fortune from the making of Pickadille, the new-fashioned stiff ruffled lace collars worn by the gentry.

Cockney wit christened his establishment "Pickadilly Hall". Baker resented this, for in his will he described his "tenement and curtilage" but the wide-collar was more explicit — his entry reads, "Robert Baker, Pickadilly Hall".

We don't pretend here at Wilbur's that our selection of Towne Hall suits have been tailored in London! If you want a suit of clothes that will give you that feeling of being well groomed, come into Wilbur's and try one on. You'll see what we mean when you have seen yourself in the mirror.

Jane Moran Says Women Try Too Hard to Look Natural

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Many women television performers "are trying so hard to look natural that they come out looking like a sack of beans," says singer Jane Moran, who is blonde and beautiful and does not look at all like a sack of beans.

"Too many women performers are forgetting they should be show business personalities," she says. "They come on camera wearing dresses that any self-respecting housewife wouldn't wear to the grocery store.

"These women are supposed to represent the chic and glamor of America to the world—and look at them! They make thousands of dollars and wear only one cheap dress in a half-hour show.

EXPENSIVE GOWNS

"In night club performances women go to great pains and expense to create variety of costumes in a half-hour performance. Personally I spend $1,000 apiece for gowns when I'm playing clubs."

Miss Morgan believes that Dinah Shore started the "casual look" in TV women performers. Miss Shore, to quote Miss Morgan, can get away with it because she's a great performer and varies casual attire with glamorous dresses.

But numerous young ladies who have imitated Miss Shore's casual TV manner simply haven't been able to match her taste in clothing, says Miss Morgan. She names names. But you won't read them here. Who wants to get caught in the middle of a ladies' clothing war?

Henry King directed. Filming for the Twentieth Century-Fox presentation was done in the actual story locales and particularly at the famous Pamplona bullfights festival.

Trappers Trim Dutchmen 9-0

NORTH BAY (CP) — North Bay Trappers pushed their first place lead in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern OHA senior series to a commanding 9-1 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Thursday night.

It was Trappers' best display of the young season, with captain Stan Maxwell, Bobby Barlow and Johnny Bobenie each picking up two goals. Chet Lemoney, Barry Edwards and George Gosselin added the others.

SPORT IN BRIEF

HEADS SPORT INQUIRY

LONDON (AP)—Sir John Wolfenden, British's authority on vice agreed Thursday to head an inquiry into sport.

The new Wolfenden committee will investigate the development of games, sports and outdoor activities and make recommendations on how they can better contribute to the nation's welfare.

Sir John heeded the recent British government committee which reported on homosexuality and prostitution.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Selection, the three-year-old bay gelding from Milford, Del., won the featured $1,000 B pace Thursday night at Blue Bonnets Raceway, finishing the mile in 2:07.

Fingo's Song was second and Kay W. ran third.

The only Ontario horse to win was Fast Buck from Brampton which took a $700 C pace. Driven by Murray McKinley, Fast Buck stepped the mile in 2:09.

Hand Over Base

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—British today handed over the Royal Air Force base at Katunayake to Ceylon. It has been a key communications centre on the long flight from Britain to the Far East and Australia.

Katunayake is the second British base given to Ceylon under the agreement handing over British military installations on the Commonwealth island. The naval base at Trincomalee, which Britain had held for 156 years, was given up two weeks ago.

SMALL GIRL KILLED

GODERICH (CP)—A five-year-old Goderich girl was killed Thursday night on a downtown street as her horrified mother watched helplessly. Donna Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell of Goderich, was hit by a gravel truck driven by David McClinchey of Auburn. Police said the little girl was running across the road to join her mother.

Novel Advertising Stunt Used to Plug Great Picture

Something new in advertising for a moving picture was seen in the city on Saturday when a mammoth float plugging the movie "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," to open at the Park Theatre on Nov. 11, stopped over in Belleville.

After doing a 4,000-mile tour through Quebec where the movie is now playing, the float is to travel the same distance in Ontario where the motion picture will open simultaneously in 30 Ontario centres.

Although filmed three times before the current release of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is the first time the story has been done in cinemascope and in technicolor. Stars of the movie are Gina Lollobrigida, Anthony Quinn, academy award winner.

The picture was made at the Boulogne Studios of Paris Films and is a European production. All supporting roles in the film are filled by European actors and the picture actually was made in Paris.

HUGE FLOAT

The big float which depicts models of the principal actors in characteristic poses, is 32 feet in length, is 12 feet high and eight feet wide. A model of the famous Notre Dame Cathedral is the basis on the attractive float. "It's an entirely new idea in advertising a motion picture," stated Mr. Larry Stephens, publicity director for Allied Artists Pictures, and was designed by a young Montreal man, Charles Bertrand."

Mr. Stephens said the designer got his basic idea for the float from an 8x10 movie still picture. He added the model of the cathedral and with dramatic poses of the actors came up with a colorful eye-catching float.

BOOKED FOR WEEK

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame" will open at the Park Theatre on Nov. 11 and is booked for a full week. In many Quebec centres where the movie is now showing the picture has been held over for two and three weeks.

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm not married any longer, so why shouldn't I work as hard as I can? Idleness breeds mischief or depression, so I'm going to keep busy."

This was Ginger Rogers' explanation of why she is making two important moves in her career.

1. Playing her first night club since she was a youngster in Galveston;

2. Returning to a stage musical for the first time since 1930.

Obviously her marriage to Jacques Bergerac is finished. But she isn't moping.

"Las Vegas has been after me to play there for five years," she said. "But I chose to go back to night clubs in a brand-new hotel in Havana because it was new. I'd be the first star to appear there. I'm looking for new challenges."

It was suggested that also the money was good.

"I don't work for buttons," she commented.

"Starting Jan. 28, I begin touring for a year in the national company of Bells are Ringing," she continued. "Now you might ask why I chose a show when it isn't new.

IDEALLY SUITED

"The reason is that I haven't found a script that is so ideally suited to my talents. I have read at least 20 play scripts in the past few months and I felt none of them was good enough to come into New York. But 'Bells,' which Judy Holliday did originally—and very well—is something that fits me."

Asked to point out how hard the show is on me," she added. "If it's not too bad, I may make a picture while the show is running in Los Angeles."

What?

"Sure. What's so hard about that?

"When I was appearing in Girl Crazy here in 1930, I made five movies and thought nothing of it.

"My one luxury was a chauffeur and limousine. He'd pick me up at my home on Long Island at 8 in the morning, and I'd sleep all the way to the Paramount Studio in Astoria. I'd do a day's shooting and then be driven to the Alvin Theatre that night.

"I just had time to change from movie makeup into my stage makeup and then go on. I didn't think much of it. It was just like having a party every night. Two only trouble the same people were at the party each time."

May Import Referees From U.S. Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Manager Jim McCaffrey of Ottawa Rough Riders, past president of the Big Four Football Union, says the league next year may import American referees.

"Officiating has been extremely unsatisfactory this year," said McCaffrey Thursday night in an interview "and it might work out to have an American or two brought in to act as head linesman as a starter."

He said the matter will be discussed at the Big Four annual meeting in Winnipeg in January.

The idea was put forward earlier this year by Ottawa coach Frank Clair. He proposed importing northern New York state referees with a view to giving the union a few extra officials.

McCaffrey said that "as it is, we haven't much choice (among referees) but this could give us more selection."

Quebec League

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) — Shawinigan Falls Cataracts came through with two third period goals to earn a 3-3 overtime tie with Quebec Aces in the only Quebec Hockey League game Thursday night. Neither team scored in the extra period.

The tie advanced Cataracts to a first-place deadlock with Chicoutimi Sagueneens, and moved Aces into a third-place deadlock with Montreal Royals. Two points separate first and third places.

Dick Wray, Jean Paul Denis and Georges Faulkner scored for Shawinigan Falls

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel: what you make of your life is largest up to you."

Friday, Nov. 1, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Your greatest benefits today will be derived from conferences in privacy. Be specific with authorities and close ties as to your real desires in financial, romantic or emotional affairs.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A perfect day for contacting your closest pals and comrades, associates and competition. Be very wise, to the point, and dynamic about your wishes. They will co-operate with you beautifully. Sign contracts.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A person of authority in your life's sphere is watching you constantly with the idea of advancement. See that you perform your work to the best of ability, make good impressions and that will insure your future.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Your inspiration is great today and you are filled with workable plans. You scarcely know where to begin. Adopt new systems, make new friends. All will go very smoothly for you. Tonight is excellent for the social scene.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Your generosity knows no bounds and frequently your pocketbook suffers thereby. It would be well today to have a family conference, a talk with financial adviser and put the future on a more secure basis.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The right day is here for getting together with all those with whom you wish to make contracts, have binding associations, reach a perfect understanding. Also applicable to anything of a mundane nature.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A splendid day for doing your best work, since you are mindful of perfection of detail, have the energy to accomplish unlimited number of duties. Cement relations with those who work along with you, also.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Today is excellent for enjoying yourself when you have put before amicable parties the truly fine things you have in mind. Support will be forthcoming. Be a good influence and guide the younger element, too.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Since the home is the center of your universe, the free hour you have today after attending to business or regular duties should be wisely spent putting all in order there. Look into whatever puzzles you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A good day to finish all those last-minute reports, statements, get errands done, stock up on supplies, etc. Be appreciative of ideas of others for your happiness. Go calling, visiting. Round out a fine day.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Proclaim about your work today is necessary, or you will get a calling-down, and your financial status will suffer if you are not careful. Taking great pains, however, will insure your added security.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be sure to dress very carefully today in nicest clothes, after seeing your barber or beautician. Then make those important calls which will bring you greater success. P. M. do the town and have a wonderful time.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is not the middle-of-the-road type. Either he or she will soar to the top ideationally or reach rock-bottom, depending upon the surroundings you as parents or guardians provide for him or her. Do your very best by your child, see that fine children are daily playmates and you will give to the world the type of individual who will be a great inspiration to all.

Council Orders Negroes' Arrest At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Police today had orders to arrest all officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People if they could find in integration-wracked Little Rock.

The city council Thursday night voted unanimously for the arrests.

Acting Mayor Lee H. Evans and seven aldermen agreed on the action after the NAACP refused to obey a new ordinance which requires certain groups to bare their confidential files.

Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann notified the NAACP—and three Little Rock servicemen's groups—Oct. 15 that they would have to make their records public under the ordinance.

FIGHT CITY'S MOVE

The NAACP this week filed a petition in U.S. district court here requesting a restraining order to block enforcement of the ordinance and a hearing was set for Nov. 4.

All three of the segregationist groups—the League of Central High Mothers, the Freedom Fund for Little Rock and the Capital Citizens Council—submitted their records to the city on Thursday's deadline.

Mann said after telling the four organizations to file their records that he considered all were contributing to racial tension at Little Rock.

Federal soldiers still remain there and outside Central High.

Hear Zhukov Ousted From Party Post

BELGRADE (AP) — Diplomatic reports reaching Belgrade from Moscow today said Marshal Zhukov has been removed from the Soviet Communist party's central committee and its ruling Praesidium—the party politburo.

The reports said Zhukov, whose dismissal from the post of Soviet defence minister was announced last Saturday, would be given a lesser military post. It was indicated, however, that the Secretary of State Dulles might not accept the humiliation.

An announcement from the party Praesidium telling the Soviet people—and the world—of a party shakeup in the Kremlin had been expected almost hourly for several days.

The continuing delay in the announcement strengthened the impression that Zhukov had refused to step down quietly.

Moscow correspondents of Western Communist papers have reported, in dispatches cleared by the Soviet censors, that Zhukov hindered the work of Soviet Communist party political commissars in the army. There also have been suggestions that he had amassed too much reputation as a military hero to spring to supreme power in the Soviet Union after Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev.

TO TRY CUSTODY CASE

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice H. H. Barlow has directed that custody of Dennis Garfield Walsh, 4, son of an unwed Toronto mother, be decided by trial. Dennis' mother, Theresa Mae Walsh, 36, boarded him out to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickling and now wants him back. Mrs. Hickling wants to adopt the boy. The Hicklings have no children.

Quarter Million Japs Protest Nuclear Tests

TOKYO (Reuters)—About 250,000 Japanese students today staged protest rallies throughout the country against nuclear bomb tests carried out by the United States, Britain and Russia.

More than 30,000 persons meeting at Tokyo's Hibiya Park called for an "immediate and unconditional ban" on such tests.

Meantime, Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi today pledged unremitting efforts by his government to secure a nuclear test suspension, which he said was "fundamental to a lasting world peace."

CLASH WITH POLICE

More than 5,000 night school students, some carrying effigies of British Prime Minister Macmillan, Thursday night clashed with police who intervened in their "ban the bomb" demonstrations.

The clash broke out after the release of a Japanese note to the British government asking Britain to suspend her projected Christmas Island mid-Pacific nuclear tests this winter.

Representatives of the Japan Council Against Atomic Bombs viewed the British, U.S. and Soviet ambassadors here today to hand over written requests for cessation of an agreement to suspend nuclear tests.

USED MEAT PRESERVATIVE

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Muir, president of the Muir Steak Service Limited of Toronto, was fined $1,000 Thursday after admitting four areaches of the Food and Drugs Act. Muir, who admitted to adding a preservative to meat during the last 10 years, will be going out of business because he is unable to sell meat without the preservative.

Bad Cheques Cashed in Hamilton Banks

HAMILTON (CP) — Several downtown banks were defrauded of a total of $2,000 in less than an hour last Friday. Seven forged cheques for $285 were cashed by hurried bank clerks just before bank closing time.

Police said in each case the man was asked if he had an account at the bank. He replied that he had and gave a number, and the cheque was cashed without further identification.

Sunday School Lesson

An Ancient Pot Luck Supper

By ROY L. SMITH

It may come as something of a shock to many modern Christians to be told that the Lord's Supper — the most sacred ceremony of the Christian Church — began as a "potluck" supper, but that is exactly what happened.

FIRST COMMUNION TABLE

The first communion table, of course, was that one at which Jesus played the part of Host. It was, in itself, a commemoration of an ancient feast among the Jews, and the memorial was an actual meal, followed by a brief ritual of thanksgiving followed by a prayer. But under any ordinary circumstances it was a happy occasion, marked with a profound sense of joy even though it was not characterized with hilarity.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 3 is "The Spirit of Christian Worship," I Corinthians 11.

Jesus' instructions to His disciples that they were to perpetuate the memory of the occasion by the institution of a memorial in no way suggested that the celebrants should discard the happy meal, with all the delights that went with it. The result was that within the space of a short time following His resurrection the Christians had developed the custom of meeting about a table on the evening of the first day of the week and commemorating His life, death and resurrection with a joyous meal together.

It is easy to imagine the happiness, and even the jollity, that characterized those first century communions. The Christians were celebrating the most joyous and victorious event that had ever taken place on this planet — the resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth.

It is not always easy to distinguish between a purely physical and a purely spiritual joy, and among the early Christians the two were sometimes blended in such a fashion that the spiritual significance of the occasion was almost lost.

A CORINTHIAN COMMUNION

The early Corinthian church was an odd assortment of individuals, very few of whom were either learned, wealthy, powerful, or conspicuous. There were those few, however, who enjoyed a few more of the good things of life than their fellows did. And, like the prosperous of any other generation, they were inclined on occasions to make a display of their wealth and advantages. That was a part of the unsanctified paganism they brought over into the Christian Church with them when they came to take their place in the ranks of the Christians.

To the communion services each person was expected to bring his own food and drink, in exactly the same fashion as a modern family might take its provisions to a potluck supper at the church. The rich (and the pretenders) came with great baskets of rare food and a generous supply of wine. The poor, coming perhaps from their work at the Corinthian docks, brought a bit of bread and a dried fish or piece of salted meat.

The worst aspect of the whole matter was that the rich avoided the poor, parties and cliques developed, and "rank" — the most hideous caricature of Christ — began to appear among them. So completely secularized did the observance become that some of the celebrants actually became drunk, and at the Lord's table, at that! The whole situation was actually scandalous, and was having the effect of bringing the entire Christian movement into disrepute, even in Corinth.

SIN OF SNOBBISHNESS

In all the catalog there is no more despicable sin than that of snobbishness. It is bad enough when it appears in social or economic society, but when it appears inside the ranks of the religious it becomes well-nigh unforgivable.

It was the spiritual pride of the Pharisee that abstracted Jesus' scorn. It was the snobbishness of the saints that has brought shame on the church.

It is one of the disgraces attaching to the modern church that the very sacrament which should unite Christians is the one which divides them. Probably no other element of observances has been the occasion of more differences of opinion, nor has any church custom more severely divided us, than the Lord's supper.

It is one of the marks of the versatility of our Lord that He is able to attend so many different types of communion service and still feel at home at them all.

Four Convicted Of Robbing Canadian Couple

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four men, including two former secret service agents, were convicted Thursday on charges of robbing a Canadian couple from whom they tried to extort $10,000.

Sentenced to five years in prison for the Oct. 6, 1956, crime were Ruben Aparicio Torres and Sergio Chavira Contreras, the former agents; and Bernardo Illanes and Rodolfo Martinez.

The four appeared at the door of the Molnars' luxurious apartment, pressed inside when it was opened, and claimed they were immigration agents checking documents.

$10,000 DEMANDED

The Molnars said the men claimed their documents were out of order and they faced deportation, but the matter could be fixed for $10,000. The Molnars said they also were menaced at gunpoint.

The couple raised some cash and gave it to the gunmen along with about $2,500 in jewelry and a radio.

The case was reported to federal authorities and a trap was laid. The men were arrested as they were about to meet Molnar to receive more money.

The Molnar documents were recovered and found to be in perfect order.

NO NEGLIGENCE

OTTAWA (CP)—A "combination of circumstances," but no negligence, caused the grounding last July 4 of the Canadian government ship Baffin 50 miles west of Halifax, a government report said Wednesday. "Therefore," said the report to Mines Minister Comtois "no punitive action was taken with regard to any of the personnel who were in charge of the ship and operations."

DINOSAUR EGGS 75,000,000 YEARS OLD

Prof. Alfred S. Romer, director of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard university, examines a rare dinosaur egg, gift from the French city of Aix-En-Provence. Laid some 75,000,000 years ago by a hypselosaurus, it is shown beside an ordinary ostrich egg, center, and the largest of all, the egg of the extinct aepyornis, Madagascar elephant bird.

Two Largest U.S. Railroads Discussing Possible Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Central and the Pennsylvania railroads, the two largest railroads in the United States, are studying the possibility of merging into one consolidated system.

A joint statement Friday by James J. Lynes, Pennsylvania president, and Alfred Perlman, president of the Central, said "preliminary studies and discussions that have been held indicate that substantial benefits to all concerned may result from such a merger."

Further studies, it was said, have been undertaken to determine the extent to which such a merger would result in more economical operation of the two properties as one road.

The Pennsylvania and Central are considered the two largest railways in the U.S. on the basis of revenue, although the Santa Fe has more mileage.

The New York Central has 18,600 miles of road and the Pennsylvania 9,663 miles. The Santa Fe has 13,100.

In revenues, the Pennsylvania was first with $397,000,000 second year and the Central second with $780,000,000.

The New York Central extends into Ontario and Quebec. The main line of both roads runs from New York to Chicago and to Chicago and St. Louis is the midwest.

The two roads' combined assets are in excess of $2,500,000,000.

The announcement was made after the New York and other stock exchanges had closed for the day.

Stocks of the railroads on the New York Exchange were both off 12.5 cents. Previous announcements of planned mergers have been reflected on the exchange by flurries of activity.

Wall Street observers took a rather skeptical view of the proposed merger, pointing out the many roadblocks that would have to be cleared—approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the possibility that the justice department would intervene on anti-trust grounds.

Railroad stock investment men indicated it could be years before the Central and Pennsylvania operated as a single system under the same trucks.

The ICC has long held that competition alone should not be permitted to merge. The Pennsylvania and Central compete in some areas, chiefly between New York and Chicago.

Consolidation would create a transport giant covering most of the northeastern United States. The railroads cross many heavily populated and industrialized sections.

A merger would apply both to the passenger business and the financial structure. It would enable the roads to consolidate terminal facilities and eliminate duplicate rail and yard facilities in some areas.

A merger of the roads would create the 11th largest corporation in the country.

Earnings of both railroads augmented this year. In the first nine months of the year the Pennsylvania had net earnings of $19,581,306 after taxes—a sharp drop from $31,291,853 in the same period last year.

The Central's net earnings fell to $28,726,018 after taxes in line first nine months of this year from $38,172,388 last year.

A slump in freight carloadings has been partly responsible. Heavy deficits from passenger traffic also have hit most major carriers.

Two Masked Men Rob CNR Station At Wyoming

WYOMING, Ont. (CP) — Two masked men overpowered the night telegraph operator at the Canadian National Railways station early today, tied him up with adhesive tape and made off with $105 in railway money and $75 belonging to the operator.

Station Agent R. E. Dick said the men also cut telephone lines but cut so clumsily that failed to sever the railway's telegraph lines.

He said the operator, 19-year-old Bob McDougall, worked his way free about two months and a money he had with him was his October month-end pay.

Mr. Dick said the overnight shift required McDougall to be alone in the station from midnight to 8 a.m.

He said the railway cash is cleared out each day and the $105 remaining was cash received late in the day.

Women's Royal Army Corps Private Shellacks Big Military Policeman

LONDON (AP)—A blonde, five-foot-two private in the Women's Royal Army Corps was sentenced today to 28 days detention for administering an artistic shellacking to a six-foot-one military policeman. He had to be patched up in hospital.

Pte. Mavis Ashton's court martial Friday developed this testimony:

When L. Cpl. Anthony Hutton, the military policeman, remonstrated with her on the street, she kicked his legs, kicked him in the stomach, kicked him in the back, pulled off his red cap and jumped on it. Then she submitted peaceably to a military policeman.

Mavis, 18, told the court she couldn't remember anything about it because she was drunk.

HIGHER SOCIAL SECURITY COST IS $105 MILLION

Opposition Groups All Welcome Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government's proposals for higher social security payments will cost the federal treasury an estimated $105,000,000 a year.

That is the aggregate of estimates given Friday in the Commons by Health Minister Monteith for $9-a-month increases in old age security pensions and in disability pensions and old age assistance; blindness and disability allowances.

The new payment level would be $55 a month, up from $46 set last spring by the previous Liberal administration which had boosted payments from $40 effective July 1. The new increases would be effective as of Friday, but recipients would get the money only in their month-end cheques.

Spokesmen for all opposition groups welcomed the proposed increases, but CCF and Social Credit members said the government was not going far enough in easing some restrictions and requirements for the social security program.

WANT YEAR ROUND

One opposition plea was that old age pensioners be allowed to live outside Canada the year-round and still receive pensions.

The government proposes to double—to six months a year—the period in which pensioners can be outside the country without losing payments.

Rev. Ted McIvor (L — Fort William) said he hopes the government will take steps to ensure that all needy pensioners get the full $55 month whether provincial or municipal fund payments or not.

Some 1,000,000 Canadians 70 years and over would receive the $5 increase, at a cost of $60,000,000 a year. Residence requirements to qualify would be cut to 20 years from 30.

The old age security fund is financed by special two-per-cent tax levies on personal and corporation income and on sales. Its customary deficits have been made up from the federal treasury and this year's double increase is expected to put the fund farther into the red.

Mrs. Mountain gave no indication whether the government plans any changes in the method of financing the fund.

Car Production Will Continue To Increase

WINDSOR (CP)—Canada's car production will continue to rise this year, Ward's Automotive reports said Friday.

It estimated the output at 360 cars and 1,451 trucks compared with 344,000 cars and in September, it added that November and December will bring "heavy increases" in selling as strong fourth-quarter is in prospect for Canadian auto makers. Early next week the 6,000,000th vehicle will be produced. Last year the total reached Sept. 18—seven weeks earlier.

United Nations Assembly Wins Turkish-Syrian Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations assembly, winner in the Turkish - Syrian Middle East border dispute, recessed for the weekend with only qualified hopes that a precedent for future crises may have been set by its votelessness windup of the contentious issue.

A week ago the big-power conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union, expressed in the public pronouncements of ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, has led to fears in the local and relatively unimportant dispute might provide a fuse for a full-scale detonation in the cold war.

Today, however, the atmosphere reflected to a large extent the all-around handshaking of the Suez settlement which saw both disputing countries agreeing to UN intervention by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold without a blow-splitting vote which could have hurt the assembly in outside reactions.

Both Syria and Turkey, in closing statements, put forward a conciliatory attitude which led assembly president Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand to rule, in effect, that "the assembly will regard the matter now taken by the parties as a satisfactory outcome of the debate."

What had led to this was the concession by both sides that one votes would not have to be taken on the opposing East-West resolutions put forward earlier for assembly consideration.

This left Syria able to say that her move for a fact-finding commission to investigate her charges against Turkey had not been turned down by the assembly—as it would have been in an East - West voting split. It left Turkey able to tell the world that the assembly did not regard Syria's charges as valid—particularly since the UN members could not have avoided the investigation.

That Russia had achieved her propaganda aim in the Arab-Asian world by her sponsorship of Syria's charges. The validity of this was pointed up by the fact that the assembly took almost two weeks of its time in discussing an issue that most of its members felt was a false crisis.

That what happens in Moscow has a chain-reaction effect on the deliberations here, even when the Soviet delegation has to pick up the pieces. Had Nikita Khrushchev come out publicly this week in a pro - peace statement at—of all places—Stalingrad, Russian-bloc delegates wondered which way the assembly debate might have gone.

Liberals, CCF Split on Bill To Name Candidate's Party

OTTAWA (CP) — Party lines were crossed Friday during Commons debate on a private member's bill to bar party affiliations of candidates on federal election ballots.

Ray Thomas (SC—Wetaskiwin) the bill's sponsor, said it is needed to avoid confusion, especially where a party with little chance of winning picked a candidate with a name similar or identical to the name of the candidate of a party which is.

State Secretary Fairclough opposed the measure. But members of the Liberal and CCF parties differed among themselves on its merits and the bill did not come to a vote in the hour set aside for private members' bills.

At present the federal ballot lists only a candidate's name, address and occupation.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said there are hundreds of cases where people don't want to support a party and can't remember its candidate when they go to vote.

Home-Made Bomb Is Found In CNR Shed at Bowmanville

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A small home-made bomb, found by two workmen cleaning out the Canadian National Railways freight shed here Friday, exploded when they threw it against a wall. Both men escaped injury.

Bowmanville Police Chief Eric Smith said the bomb "may have been made during the Second World War when large numbers of German prisoners were interned in the Bowmanville Boys Training School."

He said "it may have been contained in a Bowmanville men, John Mutton and Ernest Fernland, reported they found a small metal cylinder-shaped parcel behind a large wooden locker. They said it was about four inches by two inches by one inch and was bound with electrical tape. A five-foot piece of wire extended from one end of the package.

Chief Smith said the two men reported they handed the package back and forth between them, squeezed it and shook it, and then decided it was harmless and threw it against a far wall of the building. It exploded with a large blast.

Chief Smith said the package must have been lodged behind the locker for some time as it was encrusted with dust. He said a few small fragments and small pieces of a detonator were recovered and are being examined by railway and Ontario provincial police.

Bowmanville is six miles east of Oshawa.

Owner Watches 'Spooks' Raid Refrigerator

ARMSTRONG, Iowa (AP) — Mrs. James McIntire and her bridge guests chuckled Thursday night when two ghostly women, wearing masks and Hallowe'en costumes, entered the house and nonchalantly started emptying the refrigerator.

The "spooks" stuffed the food into containers they carried. Mrs. McIntire and the party guests just laughed. They were sure the raiders were friends who soon would unmask themselves.

They weren't and they didn't.

$35,000 Fire Loss

NORWICH, Ont. (CP) — A chemically-operated bird-scaring machine exploded Friday and set fire to a barn filled with drying milk; bird seed on the farm of H. R. Moore near here, 15 miles south of Woodstock.

The noisemaker was loaded calcium carbide which reacted with dripping water to produce the explosion. The barn and crop, valued at $35,000, were lost.

DIEFENBAKER OPPOSES CARTEL BY FORMER NAZI

Is Heated Exchange on Krupp, Wenner-Gren

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday he does not consider the building of a cartel by former Nazis is in the interest of Canadian private enterprise.

He made the statement in a Commons exchange—marked by some heat on both sides — with CCF Leader Colin Cameron, Nanaimo, and H. W. Herridge, Kootenay West.

Mr. Cameron had asked what the prime minister would see if there isn't some way "to preserve the Canadian economy" from joint exploitation the country had seen planned in Canada by German industrialist Alfried Krupp and Swedish industrialist Alex Wenner-Gren to build up "a new industry cartel" in Germany.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the implications in Mr. Cameron's question are no more than should be expected from a party that does not believe in private enterprise.

But at another point Mr. Diefenbaker "considers the building of a cartel by Nazis is in the interest of Canadian private enterprise."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied: "I certainly do not hold that view in the slightest degree."

Expect No Cut In Wheat Sales To Japanese

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada expects no reduction in wheat sales to Japan as a result of a selling mission here by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Benson, Trade Minister Churchill said Friday.

But CCF Leader Coldwell said that the U.S. "did fix us" at the last Canada-U.S. trade and economic talks at Washington.

Mr. Churchill made the statement in the Commons after Mr. Coldwell asked what steps Canada is taking to safeguard the wheat market it had promoted in Japan.

The CCF leader said Mr. Benson is seeking to sell U.S. wheat to Japan for Japanese currency, which would be invested in that country.

Britain to Test Biggest A-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—The admiralty notified mariners in the Pacific today that a zone around Christmas Island has been declared a danger zone in which explosive bomb tests will be carried out this month.

Bombs are to be dropped from Vulcan delta bombers and bursts will take place at a height of about two miles. One of the bombs will be Britain's biggest, reportedly with the explosive force of 10,000,000 tons of TNT.

In scientific circles it was said that due to improved design the blasts will be comparatively clean."

The likelihood of lethal fallout has not been reduced on such an extent that the danger zone proclaimed today embraces only 60,000 square miles, compared with 750,000 square miles cordoned off for previous tests. The navy and the RAF are beginning to patrol an area 240 by 290 miles.

Hint Mass Purge Of Zhukov's Men In Army Planned

Paris Newspaper Declares Nikita Opposed Ouster

LONDON (CP) — Hints of a mass purge of Red Army officers who supported ousted Marshal Georgi Zhukov were reaching Western observers today.

Several hundred senior Soviet army officers attended an eight-hour meeting in Moscow's Kremlin Friday when the future of the Communist defence minister may have been discussed.

Before the meeting the Soviet army newspaper Red Star said there had been attempts to reduce the role of the Communist party within the armed forces.

In Belgrade, there were reports that Zhukov, whose dismissal was announced a week ago, also was removed from high Communist party duties.

"PERSONALITY CULT"

The ousted Marshal Zhukov was accused of pursuing an "army line" contrary to the party line, creating a "personality cult" around himself and of organizing a group of officers supporting his policies.

The reports added that Zhukov had been stripped of his party posts already and faces demotion to candidate status.

Irving R. Levine, NBC correspondent, said on arrival in Helsinki, Finland, from Moscow: "Journals that Zhukov is likely to be exiled to some remote spot in the Soviet Union."

There was speculation in Oslo that Zhukov, regarded in the West as a moderate politically, might be accused by the Kremlin of creating a new war.

Iron Curtain sources in the Norwegian capital said Khrushchev's political foes will take the line that the deposed marshal tried to build up international tensions especially in the Turkish-Syrian crisis.

The sources said two other charges may be brought against Zhukov. One is that he practised "personal adulation" and opposed interference by party officials in the running of the Soviet army.

Health Service Workers Refused Increase in Pay

LONDON (Reuters) — The government Friday rejected a pay claim for health service employees—a rejection which industrial observers described as the first test in a bitter wage war.

The rejection of three-per-cent increase for 30,000 hospital and administrative workers came on the first day of a crucial month for the government.

Leaders of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative administration, grappling with inflation, said earlier that growing unrest was without an increase in productivity would mean disaster for the nation.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft and the chairman of the commission, operator of Britain's railways, that there will be no more government money to finance pay increases.

Harold Wilson, Labor's chief economic spokesman in the House of Commons, said: "This is the way to the most bitter industrial strife we have known for a generation. It is the road to economic and industrial disaster."

Midriffs Instead of Faces Shown On TV Programs as Unions Feud

On the Tonight program which stars Jack Paar, principals were sometimes presented out of focus. In one instance, the camera focused on the ceiling instead of on the comedians.

On the quiz program Tic Tac Dough it was reported the camera was also went up to the ceiling. On one occasion, the cameras looked at the midriffs of models instead of faces.

The dispute was between members of the Radio and Television Directors Guild and the Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, which represents technical directors and camera men.

NBC, the only network affected, said its shows not directly involved in the dispute between the two unions.

Liberals Expected To Name Successor Today

PARIS (AP)—The newspaper France Soir reports today that Soviet Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev wanted to save Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov's job but only turned on him when Khrushchev himself was endangered.

The newspaper, which has exclusive sources behind the Iron Curtain and has scored notable "beats" in the past, says its version of the story came from Moscow but no specific source is given.

The newspaper reports that charges against Zhukov were aired in a meeting of the Communist party central committee. Zhukov's ex-friend supported the marshal but turned against him when it became apparent that the attitude of the committee was stiffening.

The argument within the Soviet hierarchy, over supremacy be the Communist party or the Red Army, has been simmering for months. It was possible that Zhukov's ex-friend supported Yugoslavia and Albania a week ago was arranged to get him out of Moscow.

Union Prevented Own Employees Forming Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board Friday ruled the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and several affiliates combined to prevent their Portland, Ore., office employees from becoming members of another union and seeking a bargaining contract.

The case, fought by the teamsters up to and including the Supreme Court, grew up a new labor law rule: That a union cannot undertake to act as bargaining representative for its own employees. A number of unions now seek to do that.

The case was brought by the Office Employees International Union. Like the teamsters this union is affiliated with the AFL-CIO, although the teamsters recently have been suspended from federation membership on corruption charges and face outright expulsion in December.

CORRECTION, PLEASE

The NLRB found that one or all of the teamsters coerced Portland employees to become teamsters members, and prevented them from joining the Office Employees union, had refused to bargain with the latter union, and had illegally fired balking office girls.

The NLRB ordered the teamsters to offer new jobs and back pay for several years to five women found to have been fired illegally to discourage their union activities. One was fired for refusing to cross a picket line.

In announcing its new rule in Friday's decision against a union bargaining with itself concerning the terms of employment of its own employees, the NLRB said "such bargaining would necessarily be a mere sham.

Buffalo Hunting Revived

The federal government may revive buffalo hunting as a means of trimming the population of the animals in the Wood Buffalo National Park and of bringing additional revenue through big hunting licence fees.

The park, which straddles the border between Alberta and the Northwest Territories, has a buffalo population of 15,000 which must be trimmed annually to keep it from increasing too rapidly. Wildlife authorities figure that 200 to 500 head a year.

Now a bulletin from the department of northern affairs says a short hunting season may prove more remunerative than the present federal kill which is sold to packing houses and restaurants.

The wildlife authorities figure sportsmen will pay over the top would pay from $300 to $1,000 in license fees to take a limit of two animals.

They also say the "ferocity" of the park buffalo which the buffalo hunting would be more dangerous and exciting than it was when the Indians slaughtered buffalo on the plains a century ago.

P.S. Semi-Final O.F.A. Winners Announced

Miss Betty McMoine of Welcome, Durham county, and William Chamberlain, Olomabee, Peterborough, won the Zone 6 honors as knowledgable Junior Farmers in the semi-final round for the province of Ontario Public speaking competition sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and held at Peterborough.

The other candidates from the district zone were: Miss Dorothy McMillan of Norwood and Miss Kay Homan, Corbyville, Hastings county; Gerald Brown of Newcastle, Durham, and Carl Reid of Stirling, Hastings.

Zone prizes were cups and saucers for the girls and wallets for the young men, all Junior farmers.

In announcing the awards of the judges, Mr. Gemmell said: "This has been a fine competition, and the Junior Farmers from the Zone finalists in the three divisions of the province which were assigned to us tonight. It was not easy for us to arrive at the decisions, for each and compliment these young rural people from our three neighboring counties on the high quality of their addresses and on the other tests which were prepared for this competition."

GIVEN TESTS

These tests were submitted in two sets of 40 questions each, one relating to general agriculture, and the other to the records down planes at great distances and heights from its ground launching site.

Disclosure that the RCAF is studying adoption of the Bomarc was the first firm indication that the air force intends to get into the field of ground - to - air missiles.

Whether it will or not is another question. The government has not yet come to grips with the problem of whether the RCAF or the army will be responsible for long-range ground-to-air guided missiles.

The RCAF contends such weapons are unmanned planes and should therefore come under its jurisdiction. The army claims they are an extension of artillery and should thus be its responsibility.

RCAF May Use Bomarc Missile

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is studying the possibility of putting into operation the American Bomarc, a supersonic, unmanned interceptor, it was learned Friday.

It is understood that the new integrated North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., comprising RCAF and United States Air Force officers, has recommended to the Canadian government that Bomarc bases be established in Canada.

No decision has been reached. Bomarc bases require a complex and costly ground control system.

The pilotless guided missile reputedly can seek out and shoot

The six young Juniors set to work on the written work at 7.30, followed by a brisk allowthe judges to dispose of that part of their responsibility. The addresses, and summary and presentation of prizes were concluded at 11.45.

Miss Helen Telford, Federation Zone 5 chairman, conducted the details of the competition, and decorated the winning couple with crowns and sashes symbolizing the Queen and Prince Consort honors. The finalists had been their county representation at local Federation meetings.

Miss McMoine and Mr. Chamberlain now enter the final round which will be a feature of the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation in Toronto during the first week of November.

A beautiful life to live,
So out of this old world of sorrow
He took that dear dad of ours.

FLOOR SANDING and FINISHING

GLEN ELLIOT

186 Dufferin Ave. WO 2-3069

YEARS AGO when the physician fought to bring a patient through a siege of pneumonia there was little he could do but help conserve the patient's strength, make him comfortable . . . and hope for the best.

In fact, the doctor sadly signed death certificates for 33 out of every 100 pneumonia patients he treated. For those who survived, recovery was slow and expenses were high. The cost of an average case was about $1,000, including three or four weeks' time lost away from work.

Happily, this grim picture has changed. Under the onslaught of sulfa drugs . . . and now the antibiotics . . . pneumonia has steadily lost ground. Now, uncomplicated cases clear up in four to five days. And instead of losing 33 out of every 100 cases, the doctor saves all but a very few.

Just as striking as the cut in deaths and disability is the cut in the cost of curing pneumonia. More and more patients can be treated for at home. As a result, the average case of pneumonia may cost no more than $100 . . . including loss of income, the doctor's visits and the "expensive" curing medicines!

Today, more than ever before, an investment in prompt and proper medical care may well represent one of the biggest bargains of your life.

God Aids in Mastering Pain

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

No trait evokes more admiration in our time than that of manfortitude. To be a master of situations, to know what is to be done next when those around are hopelessly confused, to keep our head when others are losing theirs and blaming it on us — these are the abilities we applaud.

But in our admiration of mastery are we catching the full secret of Christ's masterfulness? We have become expert in handling the material elements of our environment. Truly it would seem we are fulfilling the Biblical promise of the Creator that man should have dominion over the earth. And we have pretty well added the sea and the air to His domain, and now even outer space.

But with all our mastery of the movable factors around us, are we improving our self-mastery when we confront the immovable obstacles of life? Has our efficient age of science so accustomed us to getting things done by quick mechanical means that we are at a loss when all we can do is to stand and take it?

Let us consider one of life's immovables. Take the factor of pain. Before we call pain one of life's immovables, we should recall how much pain has been removed through the healing arts and scientific prevention.

"The ills that flesh is heir to" were far more numerous in the days of Shakespeare than in our time. Man has learned how to quiet anguished nerves with sedatives, how to make us oblivious to the surgeon's knife through anesthetics, how to stop the ravages of many dread diseases. And there are no doubt many new frontiers of advance in the prevention of pain.

No longer should we blindly drift into disease and disaster and then piously call them the will of God. When we neglect the efforts for peace and get into war, it is blasphemy to blame the suffering on God. Christ, the Great Physician, holds us responsible for using all our resources to ward off accident, disease, disaster and death.

SURE TO BE PAIN

Nevertheless, in spite of our best efforts there is bound to be an irreducible minimum of pain.

Sooner or later we all get some share of pain. Love, the most beautiful thing in life, carries in itself the possibilities of intense pain, sometimes aching with anxiety, sometimes bruised by abuse, sometimes devastated by death. Every extension of love and friendship enlarges our exposure to the possibilities of pain.

What help can we get from Christ in mastering irremovable pain?

Well, we can acquire a better sportsmanship in our attitude. Most of us must admit we do not show very good sportsmanship in mastering our minor pains.

Christ should be of help to us at this point. We call Him a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." But He never went around seeking sympathy or talking about His own suffering.

He shed tears in sympathy for the bereaved Mary and Martha and He wept over Jerusalem because it was so shortsighted, but there is no record of His weeping over His own hurts.

In Gethsemane He went alone into the deepest anguish of His decision, but when He talked to His companions about His death on the morrow, He said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Heavenly calm we say of Christ that He played His life through with all its pain as a gallant gentleman.

USE OF IMAGINATION

Another secret in the mastery of pain is the use of the imagination. Robert Louis Stevenson in 1883 wrote that for 14 years he had not had one day of real health. Though racked with pain, he sent out his thoughts on those adventures which boys still read.

He scrawled some of his gayest poems in "A Child's Garden of Verses" after a severe hemorrhage forced him to put his right arm in a sling. Even when he became so ill that his doctors forbade him to talk or write, he tried to dictate in sign language the conclusion of the book he was writing.

The explanation is the Stevenson deliberately turned the stream of his consciousness away from self and out into the world of men. He identified himself with good thoughts and movements to such an extent that his darkened room ceased to exist for him for long periods of time.

Imagination which can enable us to escape our pain by thinking of something else, fortitude which can steel our nerves and help us to "grin and bear it," faith which makes us "more than conquerors" in tribulation because we, like Saint Paul, are convinced that "nothing can separate us from the love of God," and hope that looks ahead to the better things yet to be — these are God's aids in mastering pain.

TOO MANY TEENAGE BRIDES

"Editors' Service" of Lorain, Ohio, reports that U.S. statistics indicate "that half of the women marrying today are wed before they are 20, more than a million married teenagers maintain households and 30 per cent of first-born children born annually have teenage mothers."

The trend towards earlier marriage may not be quite so pronounced in Canada as in the U.S., but there is no question that the trend exists here, too, and it is quite possible that it may eventually be carried to what we can only term the extremes evident in the U.S. statistics quoted above.

"Editors' Service" uses these statistics to argue that "these are the teenagers who don't make headlines because they are too busy running a house and raising a family." This appears to be a safe inference but it is, to say the least, a negative virtue, unless one interprets the failure to make headlines as proof that all these married teenagers are leading useful, happy lives. This is a conclusion which is open to question. Many of the older generation will find it difficult to believe that half of the girls are ready for marriage before they leave their teens.

Of course teenage marriages were commonplace before the emancipation of women and many will recall that the untoward delays in marriage plans which were made necessary by the lean depression years often did much damage. We wonder, though, whether the pendulum has not now swung too far. We have read, and accept as true, that today's boys and girls are maturing, mentally if not physically, a year earlier than their forefathers, but still we cannot believe that well over half the girls of a nation are ready to marry within a year of completing their high school education.

Those who advocate early marriage may plead that, despite the complications of modern life, nothing has occurred to alter the fact that a girl in her late teens is physically ready for marriage. There is no sense in denying that fact, but it should be accompanied by and add that, if this is the yardstick to be used, then boys in their teens are also ready for marriage. How many teenage boys, though, are financially able to support a family and how many are psychologically ready to assume the responsibilities of fatherhood?

Nobody ought to look askance at every marriage between young teenagers. It is quite possible that marriage is right for them, that they are prepared for its responsibilities. It is not the fact that some teenagers marry which should alarm us, but the fact that so many marry. When one remembers that the number of marriages in a year includes remarriages of widows and divorcees, it is obvious that considerably more than half the girls approaching womanhood in the U.S. assume family responsibilities before they are considered mature enough to vote. The argument that this should be a cause for jubilation leaves us cold.

TV IN THE CLASSROOM

The Montreal Protestant School Board has rejected a proposal to use television for teaching.

A four-man committee which visited schools in New Hampshire where an experimental system of TV is operating expressed disappointment in the content of the lessons.

What is surprising, though, is not the rejection of this new method of instruction, but some of the reasons advanced for this decision.

"Films would have been better in the science lessons," said the committee, "and radio can do as good a job with the English lesson demonstrations."

Perhaps the inference or draw is incorrect, but in the absence of any further explanation this would appear to mean that in the committee's opinion films and radio are an improvement on dependence on the old-fashioned classroom teacher.

PRICE OF AN ELEPHANT

Speaking of zoos, it is interesting to note that while they can be operated in a modest way, prices soar when the collection expands beyond native animals and moves into the import business. A pair of Siberian tigers for instance can run over $10,000. The popular elephant comes at around $3,000 to $4,000. Lions, on the other hand, sell for as little as $100 largely because they breed easily in captivity. (Sudbury Star.)

"GIVE ME A BOOST"

"Give me a boost," said a boy of six,
"Give me a boost and I'll climb the tree
And gather the apples that we can't reach,
I'll gather enough for you and me.
"Give me a boost," said the roguish chap,
And his playmate offered his shoulders down
And helped the boy to the fruit he sought.
Ah, what a lesson boys teach us men!

"Give me a boost," when we were boys
How often we cried for a lift
Up, up, up, to the top of the way;
To climb to climb, as a boy would do.
Ah, what a lesson boys teach us men!

But out in the world we're struggling now,
And still we cry for a "boost" from them;
But our comrades, intent on themselves, rush by.
Ah, what a lesson boys teach us men!

"Give me a boost." do you hear the cry?
Ah, brother, remember your boyhood days
When you offered your shoulders to help a friend.
Have you forgotten your youthful ways?
Don't leave him alone to struggle there,
But offer your shoulders, today, as then;
To climb to climb, as a boy would do.
Ah, what a lesson boys teach us men!

Even Ugly May Be Loved

Montreal Gazette

It was A. G. Gardiner, in one of his essays written some 40 year ago, who told the story of the one-eyed cat.

This cat of rather dread, ful appearance. How it had come to lose one eye, nobody seemed to know. Probably it had come off much worse in a fight on fence during some midnight encounter, or perhaps it bore the wound from a struggle with a rat in the barn. Whatever the cause of its disfigurement, it was doomed to go through the rest of its days as an object of repugnance and dislike.

The neighbors of the English village had come to hate the sight of it. Gardiner would hear them say: "I hate that horrid cat again — the one-eyed cat over the fence." And when he looked, he could not repress the feeling that something sinister and vengeful was moving on its way. All the engaging ease and attractions that most cats have had departed from this victim.

Then it was that an animal so unpleasant to see as this found sufficiently to fight for, give deformity. In fact, she never quite understood why anybody should look against the cat the fact that it happened to have but one eye. Gardiner wrote: "Peggy likes the animal in spite of its one eye, I am not sure that I like it more for the more because of its one eye."

All through life people have been condemned for what they like and cherish. A mindfulness of this would do much to restrain the words of unknowing criticism. For while it might be true that "human frailties are attached to such unpromising persons and things, the fact is that they often are. And for these people they may be the very persons and the very things that give life its meaning and contentment.

Back in the 18th century the great figure of literary London, Dr. Johnson, "chose" Miss Porter his wife to be a woman of perfect beauty. To the rest of the world she appeared extraordinarily plain and commonplace. Yet to Johnson she was the very mirror of Venus.

After her death, as in her life time, these words can be heard to say, with a sigh, when he spoke of her, "Pretty creature."

Dr. William Lyon Phelps, the celebrated teacher of English at Yale, would often feel prompted to smile at how odd, or ugly, or foolish some of the students appeared. And in discussion they would say the most absurd things.

Yet he said that he always tried to keep from making the bitter or scornful remarks that might come to his mind. He encountered, or perhaps I have the wound from a struggle with the cause of its disfigurement, was doomed to go through the rest of its days as an object of repugnance and dislike.

The neighbors of the English village had come to hate the sight of it. Gardiner would hear them say: "I hate that horrid cat again — the one-eyed cat over the fence." Dr. William Lyon Phelps, the celebrated teacher of English at Yale, would often feel prompted to smile at how odd, or ugly, or foolish some of the students appeared. And in discussion they would say the most absurd things.

Yet he said that he always tried to keep from making the bitter or scornful remarks that might come to his mind. He encountered, or perhaps I have the wound from a struggle with the cause of its disfigurement, was doomed to go through the rest of its days as an object of repugnance and dislike.

The neighbors of the English village had come to hate the sight of it. Gardiner would hear them say: "I hate that horrid cat again — the one-eyed cat over the fence." And when he looked, he could not repress the feeling that something sinister and vengeful was moving on its way. All the engaging ease and attractions that most cats have had departed from this victim.

Shooting Home Movies . . . with Bob Knight

"Home movie" cameras, films and lenscapade they may be, can acquire a lot of fascinating footage entirely apart from a purely personal filim diary.

One reason why this is so is that all movie cameras have unusually fast lenses. They can see in poor ligat. They can, in fact, see almost everything clearly that you can see clearly. With color film, too.

Among the things they can do which will give you great pleasure to show, are the shows and sports and spectacles along any "gay whiteway." Chief among these specties is the electrically lit thoroughfare itself — with its flickering and colorful signs, its flashing marquees and scurrying autos.

To capture these in movies you load up with color film and a camera with a lens as fast as f/2.7 — or faster. If the signs are floodlighted, their makers and sponsors usually take pains to see that they're bright enough to be filmed to best advantage at f/1.9. If they're composed of lights, instead of being bathed with light, an f/2.7 lens will generally snap them out in sharpest detail. But for a general view of the street, itself, an f/1.9 lens opening, or faster, is the reliable recipe.

NOT SO DIFFICULT

And now let's go behind those lights! And every time we touch upon this topic we think of the movies of two New Yorkers who set forth with their cameras to see just how much of Broadway's nightime entertainment and sport's world they could picture. Fortunately for them they had all the right connections for such a venture, although their equipment was at the same type used by many thousands of movie makers. They ranged the field from ringside seats at Madison Square Garden to the prompter's box at the Metropolitan. And while they captured viewpoints not available to you and me, their most important discovery was that home movie cameras were perfectly at home wherever they got even a fair shake on illumination.

Boxing, for example, No matter where you and your camera sit — no matter, in fact, where a boxing bout is staged — there's always almost enough light for thrilling color movies shot at f/2.7. For remember that, even at distance from lights has no bearing upon lights-to-darkest brilliance. And your camera can make selective effects, you can shoot from well back, but show from up front.

LIGHTING VARIES WITH SCENE

Then there are the ice shows — the circus. Here the lighting varies with the scene. For over-all views you need f/1.9, f/1.6, or f/1.4. But for individual performers in colored spotlights, f/1.9 is ample. And in the entertainers are in white "spots," especially when they're dressed light-colored costumes an f/2.7 lens is plenty fast enough.

And the theatre? That depends. It depends upon your discretion, for example, in all movie cameras have unusually fast lenses. They can see in dim light. They can, in fact, see almost everything clearly that you can see clearly. With color film, too.

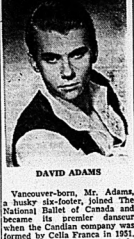
Rev. Dan McIvor Not Expected To Run Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Rev. Dan McIvor, 56-year-old veteran of 22 years in the Commons, said Friday he does not expect he will try for re-election.

"I may not ever be a candidate again. I do not expect I will be," the Liberal member for Fort William said. He dropped the remark during a Commons debate.



The Irish-born United Church clergyman won by a margin of 600-odd votes June 10 — his smallest plurality in six general elections — while his Liberal running mate in neighboring Fort Arthur, Lester Minister Howe, was defeated. Together they had represented the Lakehead area in the Commons since 1935.

Noted Canadian Dancer to Take Part in Ballet

One of Canada's best known male dancers, David Adams, will take part in two performances with The National Ballet when it appears in the city on November 15. He will be seen in "Dances from Sleeping Beauty," the matinee performance, when "Swan Lake" and a new Canadian humorous ballet, "Pas de Quatre" also appear on the program. In the evening Mr. Adams will take the leading role in "Winter Night" danced to Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto played by Reginald Godden. Other ballets include "Carnaval" and "Offenbach in the Underworld."

DAVID ADAMS

Vancouver-born, Mr. Adams, a husky six-footer, joined The National Ballet of Canada and became its premier danseur when the Canadian company was formed by Celia Franca in 1951. Previously he had appeared in Europe with the Metropolitan Ballet in London and with Sadler's Wells before returning to Canada.

WITH SADLER'S WELLS

David Adams began his career while still in his teens as a result of a scholarship to Sadler's Wells school. He later danced with the Saddler's Wells company in "Coppelia." He joined the then Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet where he appeared in Celin Franca's "Khadra" "The Vagabonds," "Assembly Halls," and in the ballet for the opera "The Bartered Bride," at Covent Garden.

With the Metropolitan Ballet he danced leading roles in "Spectre de la Rose"; the Pas de Trois from "Swan Lake"; "Design for Strings" and "Fanciulla Di Roma." He often partnered with Celia Franca, then ballet mistress with the Metropolitan, in "Dances of Galanta." He toured the United Kingdom, Norway and Sweden. He was with the company 18 months.

One of his hobbies is taking photographs of the beautiful Province of Canada on its many tours around the continent. He is also experimenting with animated cartoon abstracts.

Denies Negroes To Be Settled Near Nixon Home

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The founder of an organization to move southern Negroes into northern and western all-white neighborhood has denied that an option had been taken on a Washington home by Vice-President Richard Nixon's neighborhood.

Alpha A. Fowler, a Georgia legislator, said Friday he did not believe Nixon or his neighbors would sell to his agency because of a restrictive covenant barring Negroes and Jews.

Fowler said the American Resettlement Foundation, Incorporated, does have an option on a $75,00 house. However, he would not reveal where the property is located.

Fowler said: "Of course we would be interested in considering property in Mr. Nixon's neighborhood for re-locating Negroes and I am sure Mr. Nixon would not object, for the stand integration is too well known."

However, Fowler added, "due to a restrictive covenant which Mr. Nixon and his neighbors, I understand, have on their property prohibiting the sale, resale and use of the property by Negroes and Jews, I am sure that they would not sell to our foundation."

Fowler, 37-year-old poultry farmer, theatre owner and state legislator, said the foundation may move several "worthy and qualified" Negro families into new homes in the north or west before Christmas.

The foundation's avowed purpose is to bring the South's segregation problems home to other regions.

Skeleton Found

SARNIA (CP) — A skeleton, partially clothed in a pair of men's boots and part of a shirt, was found Friday near an Indian reserve here by three youths.

Police could give no explanation of the discovery and could not say how long the bones had been there.

The youths told police they first saw the bones in the bush four years ago but "we were just kids and didn't think too much of it."

They decided to see if they could find them again and when they did agreed to report their discovery.

Famous Pianist To Open Winter Concert Series

Louis Kentner, internationally famous pianist, will play here on Monday evening in the Collegiate auditorium. His appearance will open the winter series of the Belleville Community Concert Association.

Although for many years an established artist of great stature in Europe, his American debut was not made until last November, at New York's Town Hall. He was heralded by the critics as a master pianist, one of the "greats." In the spring he made his debut with the New York Philharmonic, and since that time has made six appearances with this orchestra.

Starting his musical studies at the age of six in Budapest, he has acquired, in the intervening years, an enviable musical background. He is a mastery of one of the largest repertoires of any living instrumentalist.

During Mr. Kentner's residence in England, he became a naturalized citizen. He married himself in performing new works by British composers. Mrs. Kentner, an Englishwoman, is a sister of Mrs. Yehudin Menuhin and Kentner has been on several concert tours with his famous violinist brother-in-law.

Two World Wars, revolutions, in private life, have played havoc with his plans, but Louis Kentner has emerged as a man of resilient spirit and phenomenal musical abilities.

He admits that when he began his triumphant recital in New York last November, his thoughts were not on his music; they were with his countrymen in Hungary who once more were struggling for freedom and independence.

COSTLY WASP

ADDINGTON, England (CP)—When a wasp flew into bus driver Walter Worrell's cab he swiped at it with his hat and sent it out of the window. But his hat hit a car, and he was fined a total of £15, 15 shillings, for careless driving.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Gram, Grandpa Should Not Show Favoritism Among Grandchildren

By THOMAS COLLINS

Set aside a little time tonight to take stock of your relationship with your children. And your children's children.

It could be the making of your Golden Years.

And if you fail to do it, it could be the ruination of them.

A married daughter this week brought an indictment against retirement-age parents. She said th's wars with the deep feeling that these children are mine. And they're not negligible. They're terrific. . . And so I begin to feel I'd rather stay home than visit my mother.

"Call it jealousy if you will. I don't think it is. My mother's favorites are sweet kids. But it's simply impossible for me to consider anyone else's children are better than my own. And when I am asked to, I resent it.

"Favoritism is natural, so much so even parents have trouble with it with their own children. But please can't Grandma and Grandpa sott-ped! it!"

You may be the soul of impartiality with grandchildren and grandchildren. But it might wise to take stock.

She says she felt badly about this, but thought it wasn't proper to tell those grandparents, say more than to tell her mother now, how to act.

RATHER STAY HOME

She says her mother infers, by making other grandchildren her favorites, that "my children are negligible. I begin to feel, unconsciously, perhaps they are. But it's the deep feeling that these children are mine. And they're not negligible. They're terrific. . . And so I begin to feel I'd rather stay home than visit my mother.

Eisenhower's Former Adviser Worked for Beck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mervyn Pitzels acknowledged Friday he collected $15,000 as a teamsters union adviser while serving on the New York State mediation board and as labor editor of the magazine Business Week.

He made the disclosure before the Senate rackets committee, telling the Senators he went to work for teamsters president Dave Beck in 1953 because he thought Beck was going to clean up the Union.

Pitzels was President Eisenhower's labor adviser in the 1952 campaign. He also advised Thomas E. Dewey when the former New York governor sought the presidency in 1944 and 1948.

Pitzels said he didn't tell Dewey or Democratic Governor Averell Harriman, Dewey's successor, about the arrangement with Beck which continued from 1953 through 1955. Nor did he inform his superiors on Business Week, he said.

A CHALLENGE!!

TO THE ELECTORS OF HASTINGS-FRONTENAC faced with the opportunity to elect either Ross Dowson or Sidney Smith to the House of Commons on Nov. 4th, AND TO ALL CANADIANS.

FROM VARSITY, a daily published by the Student's Administrative Council of the University of Toronto, over which Mr. Smith presided before his appointment as minister of external affairs;

"We respect his (DOWSON'S) ideas and support many of them. His recognition of Communist China in the United Nations, an obvious move which should have been made several years ago. He favors diverting of defence expenses to give Canada national health service and free university tuition. He wants the government to ease regulations governing labor unions. He says the government should urge abolition of H-Bomb tests and withdraw its troops from Germany.

The Conservative government and Dr. Smith oppose these proposals. Yet the new External Affairs Minister has remained remarkably quiet on issues of policy since assuming office. Although we respect Dr. Smith, we feel it's time he came out and defended his views on foreign policy. The chance will be last in this by-election because of Mr. Dowson's lack of strength. If Dr. Smith and the Canadian people take Mr. Dowson's challenge seriously, the ex-president's views on foreign policy would be made explicit. He would benefit by stating them and the Canadian people would benefit by knowing them.

Wedding

INGLEDEW — STEWART

Northlea United Church, Toronto, was the setting on Saturday, October 26, at 11.00 a.m. for a pretty, lake shore wedding when the Reverend Donald Amos, pastor of the church, former pastor of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, united in marriage Dorothy Evelyn Stewart, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Stewart, to Bruce Harold Ingledew, of Toronto, son of Mr. George Ingledew of Newmarket, Ontario, and the late Mrs. Ingledew. The graceful ferns [illegible] lovely background for the ceremony.

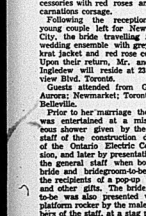
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in a light grey ensemble with dusky-pink accessories with navy note, with shades of white gardenias.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Audrey J. Stewart, of Edmonton, Alberta, who wore a grey tweed ensemble with fur capuoise hat and gloves, and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Harold Craddock, of Newmarket, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bridegroom was groomsman.



A reception at the "Chez Moi," followed the ceremony, where the bride's table was appointed with white linen damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a cluster of pink carnations and baby's breath.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by the girls staff of the construction division of the Ontario Electric Commission, and later by presentations by the general staff when both the bride and bridegroom-to-be were the recipients of a pop-up toaster and other gifts. The bridegroom-to-be was also presented with a platform rocker by the male members of the staff, at a stag party.

SOMETIMES there's an unavoidable lapse of time between getting your baby in his highchair, and actually feeding him. To divert his attention from the delay, try sticking odd-shaped bits of adhesive tape to the tray. Unsticking them will keep him busy until you're ready with food.

America Named for St. Emeric

By DR. HOWARD-V. HARPER

Monday, Nov. 4 — The continents of North and South America are named for the man whose memory is honored today in the Church calendar — St. Emeric. The process, it must be admitted, was somewhat roundabout.

Actually America was named for the Italian navigator, Amerigo Vespucci, but although his family the Italian form of Emeric and there can be no doubt that Vespucci was named for the saint.

One wonders what two such great continents would be called if Vespucci's parents had named him after some other saint, say, for example, Ignatius or Polycarp.

Emeric was the eldest son of St. Stephen, King of Hungary. Not much is known about him beyond the fact that he was a prince and was born in 1007. No legends make him appear especially devout. The reason for his Christian name is supposed that after his death he was killed in a hunting accident) a great many miracles are reported as his tomb.

Emeric generally called Saint, Emeric has never been canonized. He is listed in martyrologies as a martyr-prince which means he has been "beatified" by the Roman See. This is one step short of sainthood.

THE BAPTIST'S PARENTS

Tuesday, Nov. 5 — Today commemorates Zacharias and Elizabeth, parents of John the Baptist. There is no evidence these good people were in existence — indeed, it is most unlikely they ever were. But they must be occupied an important place in the events leading up to Christianity, and it is only right they should be honored by the church.

Zacharias was a Jewish priest in the Temple at Jerusalem. According to St. Luke, chapter 1, he and his wife were well along in years when one day, as he was serving before the altar, he had a vision in which he was told Elizabeth would bear a son, whose name was to be John. The rest of the chapter tells of John's birth and circumcision, and from it we learn that Zacharias saw Elizabeth is ever mentioned again.

So nobody knows what finally happened to them. It was a confused period in the early church that Zacharias had been martyred by command of King Herod when he refused to tell the King's soldiers where John the Baptist was hiding. The martyrology of the Roman church, however, does not say anything about this martyrdom.

BIRTH

Americans are getting steadily better about going to church and synagogue, and more of them go during November than in any other month. Much of the credit for this happy condition goes to Rial, the Religion in American Life engagement. Since 1949, when Rial began, church attendance in the U.S. has increased 12 per cent. A poll has shown that 61 per cent of the population now attends church regularly.

Every Thursday is Rial month. American business and the advertising profession spend millions of dollars worth of time and space to reach people through every kind of mass medium, urging them to develop the family habit of going to church.

This year's theme, "Find the Strength for Your Life — Worship Religion This Week," will be held before the entire nation all through the month. The campaign through the usual advertising media — newspapers, magazines, TV, posters, radio, etc. — will be augmented in local communities with concentrated attendance campaigns by parish churches and synagogues.

Rial's American Life month will be proclaimed this year by governors in 46 of the 48 states. The movement is sponsored by a committee of 8 laymen, and laywomen, and supported by 24 national religious groups.

Canadian R.C. Hears Reports

A regular meeting of the officers and executive committee of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held in the Red Cross rooms, 9 Bridge St. West on Tuesday evening, under the chairmanship of president A. S. Lewis.

Due to illness and other causes, attendance was not large but the reports of the several committees indicated no decrease in the amount of work undertaken by the branch.

Word from headquarters for the Women's Work Committee and Water Safety Committee this project would be warmly welcomed.

Reports from the Welfare Services, Loan Cupboard and Disaster Services indicate that these groups have been active in their public service projects. Thousands on the Loan Cupboard particularly are always great and all equipment is at present on loan in home where sickness or disability exists.

The Homemakers' Services report a particularly busy year, the services of the nine full-time Homemakers in Belleville, the increased demand due to the greater prevalance of illness at this time. All request for part-time help is received from the Homemakers have been handled without difficulty. Assistance involving 403 children in the Belleville district.

Delegates from the Belleville branch have recently attended Institutes of Training for the Ontario Division Executive Committee, Homemakers Services, Loan Cupboard and Disaster Water Safety.

Plans for an extension of the Red Cross Services, locally, will be discussed at the next meeting.

Emotional Security Childhood Necessity

Security is defined as "a state of mind which is accompanied by a willingness to accept the consequences for one's own decisions or actions," in an article by Michael F. Grapko appearing in the current issue of Health Magazine, official publication of the Health Education Council.

The author points out that this does not mean the passive acceptance of failure, but it is only if a person is willing to face up to unpleasant consequences that he will try to improve his judgment in making future decisions.

Security begins at birth, and the child's first need is that of security which depends on the relationship between child and mother gives way to security based upon the child himself. Security is achieved as the parent took responsibility are gradually transferred to the child.

During the school years, he knows his way to school, is beginning to read — he may scribble his own letters, figure out problems from his own problems, select his own friends, spend his allowance in his own way, develop many new interests.

The child who succeeds in acquiring skill in line with his needs and aspirations achieves emotional security. Thus the boy who reads at a level of efficiency which meets the standard for his grade and also his own level of aspiration is independently secure in regard to his reading activity. However, as the school work gets harder, the boy tries to reach a higher level of performance, his feeling of independence may be threatened for the time being.

Therefore, the author says, the Latin Lover Porfirio Rubirosa Is Gold Coast's Latest Luxury

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

With some justification Miami Beach long has claimed to have everything. But now its pride and joy which can be nothing but outer space and Sputnik.

It has Porfirio Rubirosa running a hotel. Not only that, the same hotel has a retired colonel for a cabana manager.

Rubi — as Elsa and the rest of the gang call him — you'll remember as the Latin lover whose unpronounceable name didn't keep two of the richest women in the world from taking it, successively as their own.

He has been named director of the Deauville, the Gold Coast's latest, and the sky quickly him on the grounds that he is "one of our generation's greatest connoisseurs of luxurious living." That he must surely be.

Just what his duties as director will be is difficult to assay since he will be ably assisted by a veteran general manager and two resident managers. But even if it is just to titillate the lady guests and accentuate the positive luxury this newest palace offers, he will earn his suite and keep. At least he's no longer — as he once described himself — "too busy to work."

The pool director is Col. Joseph P. Grey, whose specialty, the ads say, "is superb supervision of your sunlit hours." We wonder if that was his army specialty.

THIS YEAR'S HOTEL

The Deauville unabashedly promotes itself as "this year's hotel" in a market where how new a hotel is counts considerably more than how well established it is.

It cost $20,000,000 to build, $3,000,000 more than "last year's Americanas and heaven only knows how much more than 1955's Eden Roc and 1954's Fontainebleau.

If things go onward and upward-like this, they may all be slums by comparison in 20 years, showing up on those TV public service commercials that ask, "What's happened to our Gilsells?"

Miami's progressive attempts to make everyone feel and live like the other half are most successfully executed in the ads and color brochures that transport the reader to the haut monde of Rubirosa and field-rank pool boys for $7.50 or $8 a day per person, double occupancy, two sumptuous meals included. Reading the literature is easily the next most exciting thing to going.

You learn much fascinating things. The Saxony's chef has just returned from a three-month sojourn in the gastronomic capitals of Europe. The Sea Isle now offers three hours of the same two meals a day on their American plan — it you can eat that much — and produces its menus so to show you it's not done with mirrors and you can even have steak every night. (Next to sunup is unpleasant consequence, the most important commodity.)

The Seville is offering free parking, free television, and free pool lounges during the fall season and still another hotel has 21-inch color television in every room. Most of us don't even have black and white in our homes.

AMERICAN PLAN POPULAR

American plan, this continent's gift to the resort business, has taken a firm hold now in Florida and will be generally offered by a majority of the Gold Coast's swanky places this season. The usual additional charge is a highly personal $3 a day per person, at which the hotels must barely break even and the best comes out way ahead in everything including his waistline.

Once the stronghold of the rich — new rich, mostly, but still rich — Miami Beach certainly rates a bow for being smart enough not to price itself out of business, especially during the offseason, and to successfully bridge the gap between the common man and his deep-seated desire to live uncommonly.

Mrs. G. Black, First Lady of Yukon, Dies

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Mrs. George Black, who enjoyed a career which left her a wealthy United States home to the rugged gold camps of the Yukon, died at her home here Friday following a long illness. She was 91.

The first lady of the Yukon for many years, Mrs. Black, wife of the former House of Commons speaker, was the third woman to sit in the Canadian Parliament.

She acted as an independent Conservative member for the Yukon from 1935 to 1940, the only term between 1921 and 1949 that her husband, because of illness, didn't represent the constituency. She survived by her husband and a son by her first marriage. Two other children died.

The first woman MP in Parliament was Agnes Macphail, who elected in 1921 in Grey-Bruce as a Progressive. Cairine Wilson was appointed as Liberal representative to the Senate in 1930.

"PROFOUND SORROW"

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said "it is with profound sorrow that I learn of the death of Mrs. Black, one of the great ladies of the Far Northwest of our times.

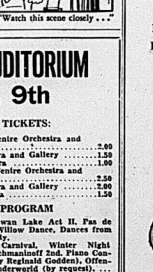
"By her courage and daring in pioneer days, her faithfulness to the Parliament of Canada as a member of the House of Commons, and by her energy, wit and sincerity, she made a contribution to this country that was equalled by any other woman."

Mrs. Black was quoted as saying after spending more than 60 years in the Yukon "I never yet met a man who was down-right bad."

Always looking for adventure, she landed in Dawson July 4, 1897, after visiting Alaska's Skagway, Alaska, where she was one of 200 women among 2,000 men.

WORK AMONG TROOPS

Her career also took her overseas to work among Canadian troops in the First World War and, only a few weeks before her 70th birthday, to the House of Commons to represent the country's most northwesterly constituency.



Born Martha Louise Munger in Kansas, she moved at an early age to Chicago with her parents. In 1897 she married Will Purdy. He died in 1900.

Mrs. Black assisted her husband in his bid for federal election campaigns in the Yukon. In 1930, he was appointed Speaker of the House of Commons and in 1949 a member of the Privy Council.

She was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for her cultural and social contributions to the Yukon.

This — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

When John Osborne, one of Britain's so-called "angry young men" of literature, of the stage and of living, calls out to be shown someone with enthusiasm, it is evident he has never met any of Canada's National Ballet Company, for, apart from all the other attributes that must exist to make a truly great ballet company, enthusiasm is what they have most of. (We hope you will remember what Sir Winston Churchill did about ending a sentence with a preposition.)

To return to ballet and enthusiasm, this feeling is not confined to the dancers, but permeates all the organizations which promote and help ballet. We find men and women who never did and never will stand on points spending, very willingly, their time and energy and skilling to further the progress of our fine new art.

If any one person were to be named as the mainspring of this enthusiasm and work, that person would be Celia Franca. We have been very fortunate Belleville to have been shown not only the results of her work in ballet presentations, but also Belleville's own Miss Franca which have made it all possible. Not only a great dancer, she, but an organizer, a co-ordinator, an inspiration and the possessor of a sure artistic taste; finally, she is a very warm, charming personality. Many will remember the Ballet Guild meeting when her hour-long talk seemed like ten minutes. On her several visits to this city, she has indeed won friends and influenced people.

When Ninette de Valois, the guiding light of the Sadler's Wells Ballet (now, the Royal Ballet) was asked by a Canadian ballet group for someone to guide and direct them, she said "Celia Franca is the one for you." And so Celia Franca came to Canada. We are happy that she likes us and our country. She has found time to show some enthusiastic fan of our national game, hockey, and holds the famous Maurice Richard in high regard for his style, dexterity and dedication. It is a small part of her success that this energetic group of young people forms a harmonious, working company. She rules with authority and fairness; she encourages with kindness and inspiration.

And so, we welcome back to Belleville a week from today Celia Franca and the National Ballet Company and look forward to some hours of beauty and enjoyment.

With the foregoing in mind, we use a quotation from "The Dance of Life" by Havelock Ellis as our weekend thought: "Dancing is the loftiest, the most moving, the most beautiful of all the arts, because it is no mere imitation but an abstraction from life; it is life itself."

It is fairly general in this country to have extra-curricular [illegible] in the secondary schools to take care of special interests of the pupils. This is probably true in many other countries. It was interesting to read only recently the similarities and differences of this idea in New England, as expressed by one of the writers in Wellington.

At the start of a new term the pupils join different clubs. For both boys and girls there are a chess club, a choir, gymnastic lessons, a camera club, and a first aid class, each to their liking, all they have to do is ask for something else and the school will try to provide it.

Unlike the clubs in our schools, these groups are accommodated during school hours. For three-quarters of an hour a week, the pupils can have lessons in almost anything they feel like learning about. The school will teach the boys who are in the bachelors' club the finer points of bookcraft, making and mending, debating, preparing meals, sewing buttons, darning socks and washing up. The culinary side of their education is given in an ultra-modern, bright kitchen at the school. While the boys' club is in progress the girls may be busy with soldering irons, chisels, hacksaws and hammers. The boys get considerable pleasure from the baking class and the girls are developing into first class handymen.

Tutelage in these subjects is given by the school's teaching staff. At the beginning of each year the teachers arrange among themselves what club they will take, according to their interest in the subject or their qualification. There is a sameness and a difference. Ideas, activities and organizations are tending more and more to become international. We may really be one world some day.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

COME, EVERY SOUL BY SIN OPPRESSED

Come, every soul by sin oppressed,
There's mercy with the Lord,
And He will surely give you rest,
By trusting in His Word.

For Jesus shed His precious blood
Rich blessings to bestow;
Plunge now into the crimson flood
That washes white as snow.

Yes, Jesus is the Truth, the Way,
That leads you into rest;
Believe in Him without delay,
And you are fully blest.

Come, then, and join this holy band,
And on to glory go,
To dwell in that celestial land,
Where joys immortal flow.

If you were living 50 or 60 years ago, you must have known America's famous nineteenth century evangelistic partners, Moody and Sankey.

Dr. Dwight L. Moody was the preacher; Ira B. Sankey the singing evangelist. They held a long string of revivals on both sides of the Atlantic, in cities throughout this continent and in the British Isles.

It was during an ocean crossing to hold a revival in England, in 1873, that Mr. Sankey found the gospel song, "Come Every Soul By Sin Oppressed", while paging through his musical scrap book. It was written by an American clergyman, the Rev. John Stockton, and its words and melody so appealed to the evangelist that he decided to use it in his London meetings.

The Stockton song had the chorus:

"Come to Jesus, come to Jesus, come to Jesus just now."

Mr. Sankey substituted the refrain:

"Only trust Him, only trust Him,
Only trust Him now.
He will save you, He will save you.
He will save you now."

It was published with that change in a collection known as "Sacred Songs And Solos" brought out by Mr. Sankey during his stay in England. And it was Mr. Sankey's refrain that gave the hymn its popular swinging chorus.

Mr. Stockton, the creator of the song, was a Methodist minister and a member of the New Jersey conference of his denomination for many years. He was born in 1813, died in 1877, held many notable pastorates, and was a musician, composer, and hymnist as well as a preacher. He published "Salvation Melodies" and "Precious Songs" in 1874 and 1875, respectively. Both were popular gospel song collections.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Irene R. — My parents are partial toward my kid brother.

Mrs. M.R. — She's been jealous of him all her life.

Irene R. — I am a 18-year-old girl and I have so much trouble with my kid brother it's just terrible. Fred is 12, but he has a mind of about 4. He is allowed to do anything he pleases and he never gets blamed for anything.

My parents will never hit Fred. They spoil him because he has a slight (very slight) handicap from a childhood sickness. They don't make him do anything around the house, but I have to do everything. There isn't any reason why he can't do the dishes or help out with different little things. I'm the one who is always called on to go to the store and other things like that.

I don't suppose my parents will ever love me as much as Fred. After all, he is their baby boy. But they could at least try to be that.

Mrs. M.R. — We have tried very hard to teach Irene to love her brother, but she has been terribly jealous of him all her life. She is physically much stronger than he and has been beating him up regularly since they were babies. When we point out Fred has a handicap, she accuses us of loving him more because of it.

Fred is a little behind in school because of his illness, so we try to give him more time for his homework by relieving him of some of the household chores. Irene says the meanest things to him, calling him stupid and a sissy because she can beat him up.

Things have gotten so bad I am very much inclined to take my sister up on an offer to have Irene stay with her for a year. She has no children and loves Irene.

The Council: Difficult as it is to put up with the squabblings of jealous teenagers, these parents should try to weather through this period without sending Irene away from home. The more troublesome she is, the more she needs proof of her parents' love and loyalty. Sending her to live with a doting aunt may please and flatter at first, but in the long run it would only be interpreted as an attempt to get rid of her.

From the picture given by both Irene and her mother, it appears Irene is at least as handicapped as her brother. She is emotionally crippled by her jealous rage. These feelings can't be put blown away and she can't be "taught" to love her brother. In fact, she'll have to learn to love herself — and the way she learns is through truly believing she is loved by her parents.

It would probably help Irene to get some special attention from her father. The feeling she is somewhat of a favorite of his because she is a girl will help to foster her self-confidence. The household chores should be apportioned as fairly as possible, but if Irene is called upon to do a little more, she should be asked because she is a girl will help to re-well.

She should also be encouraged to exercise her abilities outside the home — to join clubs and take part in school activities. This will draw her feelings away from the store spots.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Letter: (from Mrs. Glady's McD. gives recipe for):

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

Six lbs. green tomatoes (chopped), 6 lbs. apples (chopped), 6 lbs. brown sugar, 3 cups of ground suet, 2 lbs. seeded raisins, 2 lbs. seedless raisins, 1 small package of mixed peel, 4 level tablespoons of salt, 2 level tablespoons cinnamon, 1 level tablespoon cloves, 1-2 level tablespoon nutmeg, 1 cup vinegar, 2 cups water. Cook together until tender. This amount makes 8 quarts. If desired, some of the juice may be drained off the tomatoes before cooking, and the grated rind and juice of 1 orange may be added.

Answer: Thank you Gladys for the four recipes you sent. I have filled the others away for future reference.

Question: "Would you please send me the recipe for liver paste? . . . G.J.

Answer: I am not sure whether you said liver paste or liver baste, so I will give you both.

LIVER PASTE

One pound liver, 1-2 pound fat fresh pork, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-3 teaspoon white pepper, 1-8 teaspoon ground cloves, 1-2 small chopped onion, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs, 2 1-2 tablespoons water. Wash the liver thoroughly and remove veins and membranes. Grind the raw liver and pork twice through a plate with 1-8-inch holes, to make it very smooth. Add the seasonings. Beat the egg well and combine with the bread crumbs and water. Stir all ingredients together until well mixed, in top of double boiler. Cover and cook 1-2 hour over boiling water. Store covered in refrigerator. I have mailed you a recipe for Chicken Liver Paste.

PETE'S LIVER

(In Pete's own words) "Throw a pound of beef liver in a greased dish. Slice a big Spanish onion, and a green pepper over it. Pour over a small can of tomatoes (or two cups). Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover. Bake 1-2 hour at 375 deg. Fahr."

Question: I noticed in a magazine a "blitz" diet using cottage cheese, fruit and Norwegian flat bread which I would like to try. Would you have a recipe for this type of bread as I am not able to get it from our baker? Is it similar to the sour dough bread called Bowenbrod? Have you come across this diet?

Had guessed some time ago that our Sally Hamilton of the Farmer's Advocate was your sister. Hope you save the lovely write-up she got last month. Want to help me a bit with the reducing routine by sending along some suggested diets? In my circles your recipes are thought tops and the human interest part of the column is just as one of your writer's said "like a letter from home" . . . Mrs. M. R.

Answer: Yes I have heard of the diet. Use rye crisp, or you can make your own. Glad you enjoyed story about my sister. Have mailed reducing diet helps. Your cheery letter gave me a lift.

Actress Allowed To Control U.S. Military Plane

LONDON (Reuters) — The tabloid London Daily Mirror Friday cocked its brow at reports that actress Jessie Royce Landis, the wife of a United States general, had flown from Iran to London in a military plane and had even taken over the controls.

"Imagine the row there would be if a British army general flew his wife around with him in a service airliner . . . and even allowed her to plot the thing," said the paper's Diary columnist.

"The questions in Parliament and the rumpus would go on for weeks. But it seems the Americans can do it without fearing a question in Congress or a Senate investigation."

The comments were provoked by the arrival here of Maj-Gen John P. R. Seitz, chief of the U.S. military mission to Iran, and his wife, Miss Landis, on their way home via Cairo and Paris.

The columnist said he asked the actress whether she had any flying experience or a licence.

"Gracious no!" she said. "I've never had a lesson in my life. I've just watched the other pilots. about it, and I said, Hay pop, sup-

Remove Pictures Of Soviet Chiefs, Leave Only Lenin

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Huge portraits of Soviet leaders mounted on Moscow's main buildings for the 40th anniversary celebrations of the Bolshevik revolution Nov. 7 have been taken down again.

Workmen earlier in the week had put up pictures of Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and several other members of the 15-man Praesidium of the Communist party, Marshal Zhukov, replaced defence minister, was not among them.

If the portraits are not displayed during the celebrations, it will be a surprising break with precedent.

On the other hand, their removal may have been ordered temporarily to avoid premature public comment pending an announcement about Zhukov's future, which must certainly come before the Nov. 7 celebrations.

The Russian people only know that Zhukov lost his post as defence minister. His absence from the portrait gallery would clearly indicate loss of his posts in the party leadership as well.

Princess Goes To First Dance In Many Months

LONDON (Reuters) — The bright lights of London were brighter Thursday night than they have been in a long while because Princess Margaret went on the town—to her first dance for several months.

The 27-year-old princess, rested and full of energy after a vacation in Scotland, drew a capacity crowd to London's plushy Dorchester Hotel for a charity Hallowe'en ball.

RUMORS WILL REVIVE

It was like old times. For 29-year-old Billy—"the faithful" as London columnists describe him—has often been the princess' escort in the past. And the old rumors of an impending royal engagement are bound to be revived.

But the princess, who wore an evening gown of pale blue and silver striped silk, with a white fur wrap, was different.

She was wearing a new hair style—the "wispy" effect—first seen last month with a shorter hairdo and tiny curls flicked forward over the temples. She seemed gayer and more talkative than in recent months.

Margaret did not dance but stayed at her table and watched, sending her lady-in-waiting scurrying across to collect a lucky balloon prize, which she then negligibly pricked with her cigaret, as usual kept in a long holder.

She rocked with laughter and clasped her hands at American comedian Leo de Lyon. She said: "I am thoroughly enjoying myself."

Tavern Which Served Robber Pays $60,000

NEW YORK (AP)—The victim of an intoxicated teen-age robber has been awarded $60,000 damages from a tavern under an 1873 law which places responsibility for subsequent actions on the seller of liquor to minors.

George Ostrander, 35, was beaten and robbed of $1 on a Brooklyn street in April, 1953, by John Gilroy, who was then 17.

Ostrander suffered a skull fracture, loss of speech for eight months, and required an operation to put a plastic plate in his head. He sued the tavern for $500,000.

Gilroy, now serving time for another armed robbery, testified the tavern served him boilermakers—a shot of whisky followed by a beer—before he went out and slugged Ostrander.

Iroquois Lock, Seaway Gate To Great Lakes, Will Soon Be Flooded to Float Test Ships

TRAFFIC OFFICER

A little ingenuity solved an aircraft parking problem at the air weapons unit on the island of Sardinia, where pilots of the RCAF's NATO air division based in Europe comes to sharpen their shooting skills. LAC Graham Faulkner of Bona Vista, Nfld., here demonstrates how a shortage of vehicles was overcome by his substitute for a "Follow Me" truck. By this time, he has become a familiar figure to incoming pilots at the Mediterranean airfield.

Mushrooms Take Seven to Eight Weeks to Develop

NORTHRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — "Sprouting like mushrooms" is a figure of speech that annoys George Schmidt.

He grows about 40 tons of mushrooms every year on his farm near this community 80 miles southeast of Windsor. And they don't grow overnight, he said.

"For years people have believed mushrooms just sort of happen, like toads in the rain, to take seven or eight weeks to produce a fully-developed mushroom."

Mr. Schmidt and his four hired hands begin producing a crop by spreading spawn imported from the United States over 17,000 square feet of ground in the mushroom house.

Winter heating is used to keep the temperature at 75 degrees for three or four weeks until the spawn, resembling fine mould, covers the entire area. Then a thin layer of fertilized soil is spread over it.

The temperature is lowered to 45 degrees three weeks later when the mushrooms begin breaking through the topsoil. In another week or 10 days the mushrooms are ready for harvesting.

Mr. Schmidt grows mushrooms from September to June. None are produced during the summer because air conditioning would be needed to keep them at the proper temperature. If the mushrooms get too much heat, they become diseased. Low temperatures slow growth.

CLAIM RECORD

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday claimed a world altitude record for its twin turboprop helicopter M-16. Officials said the plane climbed 7,874 feet Wednesday, carrying a commercial load of 26,460 pounds. The Sikorsky company said Nov. 12, 1956, that its S-56 helicopter reached a speed of 162.7 miles an hour and an altitude of 12,000 feet while carrying 11,050 pounds for a record.

"Jest a Second"

"I'm afraid I'm not much of a lady's man."

"That's O.K. I'm not much of a lady."

MONTREAL (CP)—First ships to move through any part of the new St. Lawrence Seaway are expected to sail this month into the huge concrete lock and canal at Iroquois, Ont.

The Iroquois lock, 115 miles west of here, was completed in October as the seaway's gate to the Great Lakes. Sector gates at each end of the 1,200-foot main lock have been installed and tested "in the dry."

All that remains now is to flood the lock and float test ships through its concrete channel. The lock, finished in 56 weeks by round-the-clock crews in summer and two shifts in winter, will go into operations next spring — a year ahead of the whole seaway, ON SCHEDULE

Two other locks—both on the United States side of the International Rapids section—at Cornwall, Ont.—are also to be used for navigation at the start July 1.

At that time, the St. Lawrence River will be blocked off by a mammoth new power dam 2,300 feet long, split across the centre by the International Boundary. Ontario Hydro and a New York State power authority are building the $1,000,000,000 project as partners. Two control dams, one at Long Sault and the other near Cornwall, will manipulate the water levels in the 40-mile-long lake that will back up behind the power dam.

Seven old Ontario communities and parts of the present 14-foot canal system west of Cornwall will be flooded by the new lake, so ships sailing to the Great Lakes will use the Cornwall-Iroquois locks through most of next summer.

In 1959, the rest of the multi-million dollar seaway will be opened by the Queen, permitting large ocean ships to sail from the Atlantic down the St. Lawrence and into the Great Lakes. The seaway will replace obsolete 14-foot canals that blocked big cargo boats and 700-foot lake vessels from entering the St. Lawrence River and Montreal.

HUGE CONCRETE JOB

The Iroquois lock, much the same as the other seaway locks, contains 227,000 cubic yards of concrete—enough to build a sidewalk from Montreal to Winnipeg. Some 2,000,000 man-hours went into the job.

The ship passageway — canal and lock—measures 450 feet in length. But dimensions of the lock are 768 feet usable length, 80 feet wide and 30 feet over the sills. This will permit ships up to 27 - foot draught to navigate the channel and channels dredged in the river.

To cut the lock channel, engineers had to slice through clay and boulders packed in place by glaciers 10,000 years ago. Some 4,700,000 cubic yards of this yard, tough gluelike clay, was removed.

Vic Grant, who supervised the excavations, says the brown and grey clay is not as hard to work out teeth on earth-moving buckets as monumental engineers feared.

"You'll never get excavation work any tougher on this continent," he said.

SEES WESTERN TRIUMPH

LEEDS, England (AP) — Gen. Lauris Norstad predicts there will be no war and that current East-West tensions will end in Western triumph. "I am confident we are going to win the battle in which we have been engaged for the last several years and I am confident it will be won without a war," the supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said Thursday night.

Satellites Might Be Used To Jam Electronic Devices

OTTAWA (CP)—An expert on missiles and electronics says the Russians conceivably could put up fleets of earth satellites which could drop weapons anywhere the Soviets chose.

He also suggests that satellites might be used to render useless any electronic means of defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile.

The expert is Group Capt. C. B. Limbrick, recently retired from the RCAF. He was director of the air force's guided missiles and special weapons branch and also director of radio warfare. He was responsible for the organization and installation of major Canadian radar facilities during and after the Second World War.

He makes his comments in the monthly Canadian trade journal Aircraft.

Group Capt. Limbrick says the successful use of radiating electronic devices—such as that made during most of the Second World War was drastically limited by the development of powerful electronic countermeasures.

"The cold fact is," he writes, "that any radiating electronic device can be detected and to a greater or lesser degree countermeasured or made useless to inform its function."

(North America's three aircraft warning networks — the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line, the mid-Canada chain and the Pinetree system — are all radiating electronic devices.)

Group Capt. Limbrick says a possibility is use of earth satellites as vehicles to carry equipment to interfere with the West's missile detection and anti-missile control systems.

EASIER THAN DRIVING CAR SAYS PILOT OF MISS SUPERTEST II

How does it feel to drive a powerboat to a world's speed record? Art Asbury, right, who recently chauffeured Canada's Miss Supertest II to a new world mark, says it was easier than driving a car. Asbury piloted the propeller-driven craft at an average speed of 184.4 mph at Picton, Ont., to eclipse the former world mark of 178.497 set by Slo-Mo-Shun IV in 1955. Owner of Miss Supertest II, Jim Thompson, left of London, Ont., was on hand to see his craft on her record-shattering run at seven under-near-perfect conditions.

Pure Research in Favor After Russians Launch Moon

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Pure research, the stuff of which Scientists are made, undeniably has regained favor in U.S. military circles.

Two months ago, under the pressing urgency of an economy drive aimed at balancing its military budget, the Eisenhower administration slashed by 10 per cent the appropriations for basic research, the exploration of scientific unknowns which may contribute to the development of new weapons.

Then a step created great concern in scientific and congressional circles and this week the Soviet Secretary Neil H. McElroy ordered the U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force to restore their research programs to full strength. He also restored moneys needed for the development, testing and evaluation of new weapons.

There are four possible reasons for the sudden Pentagon consideration on pure research, and Sputnik, the Soviet Union's globe-girdling satellite, certainly ranks high among them. Nonetheless the government would be the last to admit it.

Notwithstanding President Eisenhower's statements that he is not perturbed by the Soviet achievement, great uneasiness has been apparent in Washington over Russia's latest ability to do something the Americans have yet not been able to do—successfully test fire an intercontinental ballistic missile and then follow it up by shooting a small moon into outer space.

Distinct probable factor is the difference of opinion about the value of research known to military scientists between McElroy and his predecessor, former defence secretary Charles Wilson, the man who issued the original cut-back order in August.

Wilson, a hard-headed businessman and brass-tacks sort of administrator, had little time or patience for the type of research which produced no immediately practical results. As once was quoted as describing pure research: "Something you do when you don't know what you are doing."

McElroy, on the other hand, recognized the need for such departments. On his first day in office, upon Wilson's retirement three weeks ago, the new secretary laid down the law: It was to be won without a war," the supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said Thursday night.

Stock Values Go Tumbling on N.Y. Exchange

NEW YORK (CP)—Stock values fell about $2,000,000,000 on the New York Stock Exchange Friday in a session dominated by unfavorable business news and forecasts.

Stocks dropped for losses ranging to about $2, closing around their lows for the day in moderately active dealings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished at $155.90, down $2.40. Volume totalled 2,060,000 shares compared with 2,170,000 Thursday.

At the close, total value of stocks listed was down $40,800,000,000 from the July high, although almost $9,000,000,000 above the October low.

Meany Pledges Federation Will Clean up Mess

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Friday labor corruption is more extensive than he had realized but he pledged that the federation will succeed in cleaning it up.

Meany said labor is willing to accept reasonable corrective legislation from Congress but will rally no man to fight off any move "to fasten anti-union legislation on us in the guise of eliminating corruption."

Meany said in a speech to the AFL-CIO's industrial union department that in forming the AFL-CIO over two years ago labor's leaders realized a growing corruption trend and knew it would hurt organized labor as an instrument for getting more benefits for workers. For that reason, he said, the AFL-CIO constitution contains strong rules against labor corruption and he said these "will be enforced."

While suspecting some corruption unrelated to labor, Meany said, he does not know their union's finds . . ."

OLD CELEBRANT

LONDON (AP)—Mahmud Eyassou, a Soviet citizen who says he's 150 years old, intends to do a little drinking next month after a lifetime of abstinence. But a row Radio quotes him as saying he intends to quaff a glass of wine Nov. 7 in honor of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Murder Stalks Streets of Paris, 589 Killed

PARIS (AP) — For months, murder has stalked the streets of Paris. Rival Algerian killer gangs have slain 589 persons in the French capital since the first of the year.

Thursday, for the first time, the target was a Frenchman of note and now Parisians are up in arms, demanding that police do something about it. Newspapers say Paris, soon to welcome a NATO leaders, has become a city "ruled by gun and knife."

Stunned by Thursday's sub-machine-gun attack on Socialist Deputy Henri Bourgeaud, the executive committee of the Radical Socialist party called for "repressive acts" against the Algerian gangs. The demand coincided with the third anniversary of the Algerian rebellion.

In the last week gangs shot a man dead in the middle of the crowded Boulevard des Italiens, the city's main shopping street, and mowed down another one with a machine-gun in a subway station at the height of the rush hour.

No one ever has been executed for any of these crimes, which until now have been regarded as squarely on the shoulders of rival Algerian nationalist organizations. Police in Algeria said he is not regarded by most French-men as a very serious crime.

Lord Altrincham Praises Queen's Television Talk

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Altrincham said Friday the Queen still has a lot to learn about public speaking, but praised the television speech she made while in Ottawa.

The 33-year-old Conservative peer made headlines in August when he described the Queen's speaking style as a "pain in the neck."

Renewing the controversy in his small magazine The National Review, Lord Altrincham found much to praise but more to criticize in the speeches made by sovereign during her North American visit last month.

In her television broadcast in Canada, he said, she displayed "every sign of being a television natural in the making."

But, he added, she was unable to "play a part for the time cuff." This was especially true, he said, when she left her brief from Ottawa.

Remanded 25th Time

TORONTO (CP) — Michael Dobbie, 25, Friday was remanded for the 25th time when he appeared in court on a charge of theft.

Dobbie first appeared on charges he fraud involving more than $2,000 theft of a convertible car almost a year ago.

Magistrate J. C. Graham, Friday put off his case until Nov. 6 and said at that time the document go ahead although he had previously set Friday as mandatory for the trial.

Ceremonies in connection with the retirement of Magistrate Fred C. Cullen, scheduled for Friday, upon the case was postponed again.

Dobbie is out on bail. He has pleaded not guilty to the eight charges of fraud and one of auto theft.

Canada Keeping Anxious Eye On Washington's 'Fire Sale' Says Finance Minister in Talk

NEW YORK (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming says the Canadian government is keeping an anxious eye on Washington's "fire sale" farm disposal policies and is not content with recent assurances in this regard.

Fleming, speaking frankly as "only friends can do," said in a New York speech Friday night that he considers the United States disposal policies a breach of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Addressing the annual Maple Leaf Dinner of the Canadian Society of New York, Fleming said the U.S. has "very seriously damaged Canada's export opportunities and disorganized normal marketing."

He recalled that representatives of both countries recently met in Washington, where the Canadians formally protested the policies.

GAVE ASSURANCES

The U.S. then gave assurances "that in all surplus disposal activities they [would] be guided as far as possible interfering with normal commercial marketings and that the barter deals will not hereafter be limited."

Although the assurances were appreciated, Fleming said Canada "is far from satisfied" and will continue to "deal with an anxious and apprehensive eye fire-sale disposal policies."

The finance minister touched on a number of other Canadian sore spots.

Most Canadian corporations understood their proper role, but others had established "a pattern of behaviour which, while denying Canadians any opportunity of participation, has sought control of stock in these companies."

Fleming noted that last year Canada had a deficit of $1,348,000,000 on commodity trade with the U.S.

Considering its huge trade advantage, the U.S. has a special responsibility not to damage Canadian export opportunities" and should also appreciate understanding attitude in cases where Canadian policies touch particularly U.S. interests adversely."

Canada hopes to see the U.S. "take serious account" of policies excluding Canadian finished products from the American market.

New Commander

MONTREAL (CP)—RCAF air defence command Friday announced the appointment of Commdr. John R. Braham, 37, described as the most decorated fighter pilot in the commander of No. 433 all-weather interceptor squadron at Bagotville, Que.

A wing commander at 22, Braham was shot down during the Second World War when he shot down 29 enemy planes in the RAF fighter pilot.

His decorations include the Distinguished Flying Cross with two bars and the Distinguished Flying Cross with two bars.

To take up his appointment at Bagotville he left a post at RCAF headquarters in Ottawa. He also served a time at RCAF station North Bay.

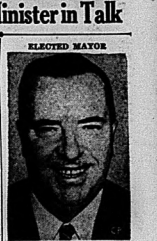
Members Dokis Indian Band Build Road to Timber Stands

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the small Dokis Indian band of northern Ontario are completing a 14-mile access road to rich timber stands, as the climax of a two-year, $150,000 development program on their reserve.

Nearly every able-bodied man took part in the project, which is outside help, says Indian News, published by the Indian affairs branch of the department of citizenship and immigration.

The new road, which will enable the band to tap abundant stands of yellow birch veneer hardwood and pulp wood, crosses the 30,000-acre reserve of the Nipissing agency, links with a road provincial No. 21 in Latchford Township, 80 miles north of North Bay.

Experts say that, properly managed, the new forest resources may provide a ready-made livelihood for years to come—depending on the timber market. It is estimated that timber does alone in the next five years will pay for construction of the road.



The new road also will result in closer contact between the Dokis and neighboring settlements and will eliminate hazardous lake and river crossings. In the past the Dokis were isolated during spring break-up and the fall freeze-up, and at least two persons have died in recent years while trying to cross thin ice.

The band, however, is not content merely to build a road. Early last spring it completed a 24 - mile right - of - way to bring hydro power to the reserve and cut and installed poles for the line. By supplying labor and materials the band obtained light and power at comparatively small cost.

The band also built a wharf and loading dock on the French River, and laid steel rails on a Bailey bridge. School children were given a holiday off from classes to celebrate completion of the bridge.

Future building plans call for a community hall and more housing. Already many of the homes have taken advantage of electricity to bring in television and other modern equipment.

Socred Support For PC Minority Seen to Waver

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative minority government, whose policies to date have received Social Credit backing in the Commons, may see the support wavering.

Social Credit leader Low said Friday in an interview that his party has been "much disappointed" by Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Commons statement Thursday that the question of natural gas export by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited must await the recommendations of the royal commission on energy, only recently established.

"Very serious consideration" is being given by the Social Credit group to the extent of its support for the new administration, Mr. Low said.

Generally, declared Social Credit policy is to support the government as long as it tries to fulfil its election campaign promises and stands on principles with which the opposition group is in agreement.

FIRST MAJOR RIFT

The question of export of Alberta natural gas by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited to the U.S. midwest at Emerson, Man., is considered the first major policy rift between the two parties in the Commons.

On Thursday Mr. Low asked in the Commons whether the government will hasten action on the taking of former Liberal trade minister C. D. Howe to allow the export.

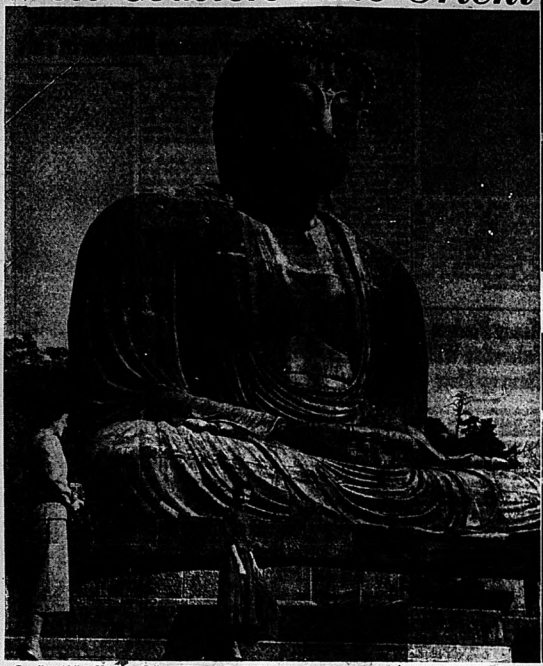
Mr. Diefenbaker replied: "Because I have belief that all pertinent questions in connection with Trans - Canada should be considered by the Borden royal commission, no final answer can be given at this time."

The commission was appointed only two weeks ago and—it is expected to be months before any recommendations are forthcoming from it.

Canadian Corn Picked as Best For Romania

BLEMHEIM, Ont. (CP) — Warwick 742, a long-maturing hybrid corn developed here, has been picked as the best variety for growth in Romania.

Bruce Schoop, agriculture vice minister and one of five Romanian agriculture tourists touring Ontario, Friday told officials of the Warwick Seed Company their seed has proved best for Romanian conditions in competition with many other varieties.

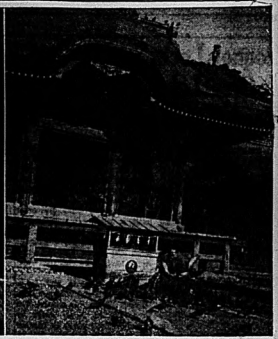


Professor Ghizela Glosan, director of Romania's Corn Institute, said after touring the company's pant at this community, 10 miles southeast of Chatham, that Warwick 742 produced more than 200 bushels of shelled corn on each of 2 irrigated land.

Though the Romanian officials did not announce plans for purchase of Canadian seed, it is believed this country's seed will be an important factor in raising Romania's corn growth to an objective of 8,000,000 acres in the next few years.

The party will also visit the Dominion experimental station at Harrow, the Ontario College of Agriculture at Guelph and fruit and vegetable canning factories.

Canadian Girls Fly Between Two Worlds



West Coasters Like Orient

Canadian Airline Hostesses Colleen Watt of Rosebud, Alberta, (left) and Joanne Saimoto of Vancouver, B.C., (right) ply the skies regularly between Canada's West Coast and the Far East. Flying the Vancouver-Tokyo run, the girls have come to feel equally at home in both worlds and enjoy exploring the unique beauties of each. Above, the famous bronze Buddha at Kamakura is photographed for their album.

When in the East Colleen Watt believes in doing as the Orientals do. She uses chopsticks to sample the Sukiyaki dinner which the Japanese maid has prepared over a charcoal burner.

Japanese shrines are among the finest in the world and Miss Watt travels Japan seeking out the most beautiful ones. Pigeons, she says are the same everywhere: eternally curious, perpetually hungry.

Pelee Hunters Shoot 10 Mills Off Tax Rate

PELEE ISLAND (CP)—If the 900 Canadian and American hunters all got their bag limit at this island's annual pheasant shoot, they'll take home half the bird population of Pelee Island.

But the residents of Canada's southernmost point don't care. The hunters shoot about 10 mills off their tax assessment.

The residents of this little island get about one third of their annual tax revenue — $30,000— from $35 licenses.

It was a real sacrifice to cut to 100—from the usual 1,400—the number of licenses issued this year, islanders admit. But they did it for safety.

Ontario lands and forests department officials here estimated the bird population at 16,000—before the shoot. By Thursday, the hunters—almost all with their two-day, nine-bird limit—would have cut the population in half.

J. G. Roxborough, lands and forests biologist, says the bird population will not be harmed. The island hatches about 3,000 pheasant eggs artificially each year.

Given 5 Days

LONDON (Reuters) — Jimmy Reid, the Scots Guards 20-year-old reluctant hero, Thursday was ordered confined to his barracks for five days for staying at home when he should have been on parade to receive a medal.

Jimmy was to have been presented Tuesday with the medal for saving a fellow-soldier from drowning in the Thames. But he didn't show up.

He told reporters he could not bear the thought of receiving the medal before the eyes of all his comrades. The shy, fair-haired six-footer returned to his unit on Wednesday.

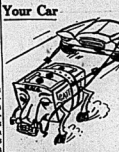
More News for Tulip Fanciers

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A report from Holland states that a sailor mistaking tulips for onions ate seven of them before his error was discovered. The dealer to the dealer was over $2 hundred dollars. The man was hanged for his crime. This happened over one hundred years ago during the "tulip craze" when fantastic prices were set upon rare varieties.

The people of that country still set a high value on their tulips for they provide a steady income to many people. Tons of bulbs are exported each year and their hybridizers present the world with many fine new tulips as well as other types of bulbs.

Tulipa Fosteriana hybrids include The Red Emperor that spectacular scarlet tulip which is twice the size of an ordinary one. It is one of the earliest to bloom and the color combination of red with yellow and black base and sheen of the petals contribute to its popularity. There is now a white and a yellow emperor. The white is named Purissima. Imagine a bed centred with the reds a circle of yellow and the white emperors around the edge. Sir Daniel, also a Fosteriana, crossed with Greigiaurea has a very large yellow bloom with red flamed margins. The mottled leaves are handsome.



From Turkistan we have the water lily tulips, T. Kaufmanniana. The original has white petals with pink centres. Expanded these do look like water lillies, hence the name. For years the hybridizers have worked with this strain and have produced a wide variety both in color and form. Fritz Kreisler has large salmon pink blooms and is much prized for its beauty. Chuck is soft yellow with red patch on outer petals, and has fine marked foliage. Many from this strain have beautiful blotched and stripped foliage. The most beautiful of the Kaufmanniana is Joseph Kapka, a deep golden yellow with a red rim. Solanus has deep yellow exterior with red blotches. First, is a white flower with a band of crimson. This is the earliest to bloom.

There are many species tulips which are well worth trying. Sax-atilis is one from Crete. Each plant may have one to three lax-watias in most prolific with white and gold star shaped blooms three to five blooms on each stem. This increases rapidly. A few bulbs planted this fall will soon make a sizeable clump. If you would like a perfumed tulip buy fersica. This one is from Iran, has two or three blooms to a stem, interior bright yellow, exterior bronze. Greigi aurea is a beautiful golden yellow with orange flushed exterior petals. Clusiana, the "Lady Tulip" quite distinct with graceful reflex petals. Fine for bedding and cut flowering. A favorite is The Clown, or Court Jester, it has soft yellow pointed petals that last well.

The peony flowered tulips are late, blooming in May. They have large double blooms and long strong stems, making them ideal for bedding. Eros, a silvery pink is perhaps the best. Parrot tulips have always been considered exotic and fascinating, but their weak stems were discouraging to growers. Here again the hybridizers have worked hard and have come up with a whole new range of strong stemmed parrots from the long looked for solid white to the black parrot — which is almost black with a fine sheen. Sunshine and Orange Favorite have a pleasant scent.

Pick early, mid-season and late flowering types to extend the tulip season from April to June. Choose types that bloom at the same time for borders and beds. Buy from reliable dealer and pick the top size bulbs for the best display. If bulbs are to remain in the same place for more than one year mix bone meal, or vigoro in with soil before planting.

Strong Battery Needed During Winter Months

By EUGENE MILMOE

At any time a weak battery brews trouble, but especially so during the cold months. Freezing temperatures can actually cut battery cranking efficiency in half, yet the engine will demand more than twice the cranking power required in mild weather.

Greater use of lights, heater, etc., in winter adds more drain on battery energy, and if engine oil should be too heavy, there's an added strain.

Starting trouble isn't the only headache accompanying a weak battery. Skipping or missing at idle and low speeds will often plague and puzzle the driver, too.

Overcharging, believe it or not, tops the list of battery killers, but watch out, too, for corrosion, loose connections, too little or too much water, and excessive discharging.

* * *

H.A. asks: "Recently you stated that a bad fuel pump could bring on overheating troubles. How?"

(A) If the pump pressure is too weak, the fuel mixture will be too lean for proper combustion, especially on hills and at high speeds.

* * *

C.V. writes: "Yesterday I couldn't start our car. A station sent over a mechanic who found and eventually cleared the trouble, a defective distributor rotor. I know this is the black plastic unit on the end of the distributor shaft, just under the cap, but just how does it function?"

(A) The rotor's job is to rotate and direct high tension current to each of the socket terminals in the distributor cap. This current continues, of course, through the wires to the spark plugs.

From W.C.: "I have a 1955 car. In the fall of 1955 I filled the radiator with permanent antifreeze and since I have not drained the radiator nor added water since. Will I add one quart of antifreeze last fall to strengthen the solution. I did this same thing in the car I owned before getting this one. Are there any harmful effects to this procedure?"

(A) This is definitely a poor practice. After the long winter's use, the antifreeze solution tends to become corrosive. Inhibitors are no longer fully effective, and dirt, rust and scale soon contaminate the coolant and threaten to clog or restrict cooling system passages.

E.W. writes: "I have a 1950 tight-cylinder car. There is a large amount of smoke coming from the exhaust. I am not lucky if I get 100 miles to a quart of oil. I have been told I need a ring job. I would like to know if it could possibly be something else."

(A) Worn rings are the most common cause, but sometimes high oil consumption (accompanied by the telltale smoke) is due to a punctured vacuum pump diaphragm which allows oil to be sucked into the intake manifold. Worn intake valve stems or guides can also allow excessive oil to pass into the cylinders and out the exhaust. A few simple checks will tell an experienced mechanic where the trouble exists.

Negro Lawyer's Home Blasted By Dynamite

BESSEMER, Ala. (AP)—A dynamite blast on Friday damaged the home of a Negro lawyer who is attempting to open Bessemer's two public parks to Negroes.

Windows of the home of David Hood Jr. were shattered. Hood said some of the glass fell on him as he slept on a living room couch with a loaded rifle nearby.

Hood said he has received numerous telephone threats against his life. He had dismissed only two nights ago three guards who protected his home for three weeks.

The home was circled by spotlights.

Police said the dynamite charge apparently landed on a terrace beneath a window and then rolled to the ground. A hole was blown in the ground.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

THE STRANGE WOODCOCKS

Now that so many birds have left for their winter vacation in the south the remainder must have some good reason for staying longer. Why are most woodcocks still with us? Other shore birds, into which class they are put, have passed through settled districts — some of them weeks ago.

As a matter of fact they should not be in the shore bird group, because they do not live on shores, but in moist alder thickets or boggy ground. The chief reason for migration is the food problem, and woodcocks have no need to worry about that until snow covers the ground or it is so hard frozen that they are unable to pierce it with their long bills.

Few birds have as many peculiarities as woodcocks: their unusually placed eyes, the division of territory between males and females, remarkable courtship flights with their extraordinary accompaniment of whistled notes and explosive calls, manner of carrying their young, and so on. Their unique bills and way of using them really account for the woodcocks' ability to put off migration until very late in the year, sometimes December. The upper mandible of the very long, straight bill is made in two sections, the outer, pointed end of which can be opened up (as though on a hinge) without moving the section nearest to the head. Their staple food is earthworms, which they seem to be able to locate in the damp ground both by their sense of hearing and by somehow feeling them with their feet.

The bills can probe down as much as 3 inches. Then the worm is grabbed by the manipulation of that specialized section, and the bill is withdrawn holding the precious prey. The round hole left in the ground provides us with a clue (if we are like Sherlock Holmes), and if it is followed up we will discover a woodcock in the vicinity.

Should earthworms not be available, the larvae of flies and beetles, seeds, berries, or leaves may be needed to fill in temporarily. Clearing land and then allowing it to become overgrown attracts woodcocks. But the way our population has increased recently leads to the belief that these odd birds will find it more and more difficult to discover suitable homes. They are still counted as game birds in many parts of the continent. If this continues much longer these curious creatures will disappear.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PEACE, AIN'T IT WONDERFUL!

Anyone who wants their hockey pink-tea, panty-waist style had better stay home and watch "Howdy-Doody." Senior "A" arenas this winter, if what has been dished up in the 1957-58 season affords a key criterion, will be the homes of the hockey lions and gladiators.

And that reasonable facsimile of a third world war in Memorial Arena between the Cornwall Chevies and the Macs last night was no Alphonse-Gaston affair. Some of the Macs were at fault, but most of them were not. The Chevies did not wear any sprouting wings under their sweaters and they found the Macs a club that can play their style of hockey if that is the way they want it.

It was a rough, rugged, hard-hitting, no-quarter-given-or-taken embroglio that was yet another clever argument in favor of the two-referee system. Twenty-six sentences were handed out with the clubs splitting the verdicts.

In fairness to the Chevies, and this plus the bloodthirstiness of the Macs will probably be the Cornwall theme, they were short Bill Bingley, Reg Grigg, Don McPhee and another player. At that their defence, despite its size, was on the porous side. Bradley, Brown, Jones and Marineau had no trouble going through or around it to hit paydirt.

Meanwhile the Macs are now sitting on top of the heap, at least they will be until tonight when the Chevies can tie them by whipping Whitby. On the other hand the Macs can increase their lead margin to four points by whomping their arch-foemen from Kingston in the Roddenville Community Centre.

* * *

QUIZ!

The Cornwall scribe who announces he is the publicity director for the hometown Chevies has been needling or whacking other clubs and players a bit mercilessly without having had the benefit of reeing them in action.

In a recent edition he asks a lot of questions, answering some of them himself. A sports writer naturally sticks up for his home club, and is supposed to write unbiased reports of games played without reference to editorial comment in the stories.

It seems to this department the Cornwall bloke is either trying to rile the opposition or building up a strong fan following in his own home town.

He wrote recently: "In the senior loop these are the things we hope to have answered:"

"Will the people keep on supporting hockey the way they have been?

They will in at least five centres of this six-team loop.

"Have we any 30-goal men on the Cornwall team?

We hope not.

"Can Minnie Menard score fifty this season? We doubt it."

"So do we. Minnie will either score 49 or 51. With two or three other McFarlands equalling the feat.

"Are the Whitby Dunlops as good as last year, or was their success just luck?"

Down in this neck of the woods, the Macs and their supporters only hope they have the same kind of "luck."

"Can Pembroke finish the season?"

We have seen the Lumber Kings play and they will not only finish the season, but will end up looking down at the Chevies.

"Is Kingston going to be the weak sister in the league?"

The Limestoners were supposed to be the "weak sisters" last year. Look where they finished, and what they did to Pembroke. Kingston has always been, and we think will be again, a club to be reckoned with. They did hard down Roddenville way.

"Will Ted Sadlowski (Cornwall's junior "A" sensation) wait until the playoffs to get his first goal this season, as last?"

We hope so.

We would say at least thirty per cent.

"How long can the Chevies continue the fine start they are off to!"

It's all over now, bub.

"How strong are the Chevies defensively?"

Ask Wicner Brown, Bart Bradley, Eddie Marineau and Davy Jones. They all made first downs through the line last night for puck touchdowns.

Lions Can Shake 'Unrest' Charge With Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Lions get into action for the first time since "dissension" charges came last week when they face San Francisco 49ers Sunday in San Francisco.

Lions, a disappointment in the National Football League race so far, are said to be angered by and Leon Hart for his lackluster performances to date. Officials of the team have denied there is any unrest.

It will be up to Lions to prove they are a well-knit team and they have picked the top outfit in the western division to work on. The 49ers lost their opener, then came on to win their next four.

With all their troubles, though, Lions currently are tied for second place in the western section with Baltimore Colts, each with a 3-2 won-lost mark.

Colts will have something to say about the western division title, too. If they polish off Pittsburgh Steelers while Detroit is defeating San Francisco, then a three-way tie for the top would ensue. San Francisco, Detroit and Baltimore all would have 4-3 marks.

Teams Divide 26 Penalties Is Rugged Senior Fight-Fest; Eddie Marineau Paces Pack

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands toppled the Cornwall Chevies from their perch atop the Eastern senior "A" league ladder here last night defeating the eastern huskies by a 5-3 score before 2119 fans.

The victory was the Macs' third in four starts, while the Chevies are now in second place with four points, tied with the Pembroke Lumber Kings. It was Cornwall's first schedule defeat.

The game was a rough, rugged, penalty-riddled fray with Referee Al Promaine of Toronto, handing out 26 penalties, including two majors and two misconducts, with the teams splitting the sentences.

Fights were a dime a dozen with both squads tossing everything at one another including the kitchen sinks. Four ice battles broke out in the third period alone with players going off in pairs. Eleven penalties were incurred in this period alone.

The Macs spotted the Chevies a goal after four minutes of play in the first period, soared back with three and never looked backward. They took command in the second period ripping home two unanswered goals, then bowed to the desperate Chevies in the rugged final chapter when the visitors cut the margin to the final 5-3.

Eddie Marineau paced the Mc-Farland attack with two goals, one the prettiest of the night, Bart Bradley, Davy Jones and Gerry Coyer scored the others, like Hilderbrand and Moe Benoit each had two assists, Bolley, Jones, Wicner Brown, Bradley and Paul Payette one each.

Campbell, Burke and Aitken were the Cherub marksmen with Moe Savard having three assists and Lepine and Burke one each.

Both teams were a man short, Lepine and Bradley sitting out sentences when the Chevies Campbell slithered a shot from the left boards that never left the ice and slid past Bell in the Macs net in the first period.

Neither team seemed organized and there was a lot of heavy hard checking. Midway through the period Szydlowski got the heave ho and Ike Hildebrand spearheaded a Macs power play. He slipped the puck to Brown who in turn tobied it to Gerry Goyer and the centre made no mistake.

Kowalchuk and Szydlowski started a roughing match and both were sent off. Then Marineau pulled one of the prettiest goals of the game.

The stocky winger took a perfect pass from Bolley, raced down the right boards, swept around two Chevie defencemen as though they were not there and scored a beauty.

With less than a minute to go Davy Jones, who has scored in every game thus far, picked up a puck near the Cornwall net. He worked it neatly past two Chevie defenders and drove it behind Fredrick in the Corn- wall net to put the Macs two goals up.

The game roughened in the second frame with Referee Al Promaine handing out nine penalties, five to each squad with Campbell and Kowalchuk receiving misconducts for roughing.

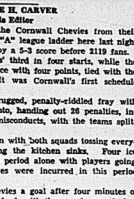
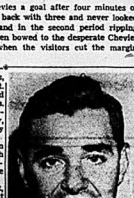
Benoit went off at 26 seconds and three minutes later' Kowalchuk and Lepine got the heave ho. Burke scored at 3 seconds later and the Macs were a man up, Bell stopped Aitken on his doorstep, then Hershey tpdc Jones' pass, hopped like a bunny through the Cornwall defence, and sped in on Frederick to score.

A minute later from the face-off near the Chevies net, Paul Payette got the draw, passed the puck back to Marineau and the winger blasted a slapshot past Frederick to give the Macs a 5-1 lead.



Benoit and Mule started a mild war and got the gate and two minutes later Campbell and Kowalchuk tangled with the Chevie smashing his stick in anger on the ice. Both got misconducts.

The "war" took up where it left off fifteen seconds after the third period started with Benoit and Aitken sitting the next two minutes out.



The Chevies put on the pressure and hemmed in the Macs in their own end, Burke finally backhanding a screen shot past Bell with assists from Lepine and Savard.

Aitken and Marineau started a scramble in front of Frederick and started again. The Chevies claimed a major penalty drawing blood. Eventually Marineau drew two minors and a major and Aitken a minor and major for their share of the set-to.

The Chevies kept up the pressure and Gordon Bell pulled off some sparkling saves. Then the wars started again with Jones and St. Hilaire tangling. Kowalchuk and Szydowski got into the act with the Chevie throwing his gloves and Kowalchuk tossing one of them into the seats. Open warfare threatened for a time but eventually everybody was cooled off and all four participants drew minor penalties.

BARTON BEADLEY

EDDIE MARINEAU

With seconds left to play the Chevies scored their third goal when the puck slithered into the Macs net from a scrimmage. Aitken got the credit with Savard and Burke being given assists.

Petes Bow to Biltmores 3-1; Teepees Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rebuilding a hockey club can be a long, arduous task, as Guelph Biltmore coach Eddie Bush will testify.

Bush's Biltmores won the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A crown last season but had to start this season from scratch. They lost their first two games but Friday night came up with their first win — a 3-1 victory over Peterborough Petes.

In Barrie, Hap Emms' Flyers, one of the weakest clubs last season; also gave notice of improvement with a 4-1 victory over St. Catharines Teepees, generally picked as the team to beat in preseason predictions.

Though Bush might be cheered by Biltmores' triumph, his team isn't over the hill yet. The victory was mainly due to the splendid goaltending of Bruce Gamble one of the few holdovers from last season's powerful club.

Gamble was forced to stop 40 shots from the sticks of the weak Peterborough team, which has only one win in four games. He had a shutout going until midway in the third period when Larry Babcock scored the visitors' only goal.

Guleph managed only 30 shots on the Peterborough net, but Ron Ryan made two of them count in the first period and Ron Brain scored in the second.

Flyers' win was their second in four games. The two teams were 1-1 at the end of the first. Barrie scored three unanswered goals in the second to take and hold the lead.

Tonight, Peterborough is host to Toronto St. Michael's and Flyers and Teepees square off again in St. Catharines. Sunday in Toronto Marlboros play Hamilton Cubs and St. Michael's meet Guelph.

Webb Verdicts Willie Vaughn; Wants Champion

NEW YORK (AP) — Spider Webb is no exception. Like all good fighters, he wants the champion. If the champ has other business pending, like Carmen Basilio, and his obligation to give Sugar Ray Robinson a crack at the Spider is willing to take on the others.

We'll take Joey Giardello, Gene Fullmer, Charles Humez or anybody to get in there," said Webb's manager, Jack Rosner, after Spider's unanimous 10-round decision over Willie Vaughn Friday night. "All we are looking for is a chance at the title."

Some of the 2,000 who watched Webb Friday night at Madison Square Garden aren't sure the Spider from Chicago is quite ready for Basilio. In fact, a minority thought he didn't beat Vaughn.

All three officials had Webb on top. Referee Barney Felix scored it 6-4-1, Judge Bert Grant 6-4 and Judge Artie Aidala 7-3. However, it was a close fight with Vaughn closing strong to cut down on Webb's early lead.

Webb found Vaughn, a 4-to-1 underdog from Los Angeles, tougher than he expected.

"I wanted to try for more but he kept coming in all the time," Webb said. "He was hard to hit with a right. I guess I should have thrown more hooks. I hit him a dozen punches like the one I knocked out Jackie Labus with but nothing happened."

Webb, 158½, seemed to lose some of his steam as the fight wore on. Vaughn, 160½, kept boxing in forcing the favorite to trade freely in head-to-head exchanges.

Pacific Coasters Turn Down Giants, Dodgers Peace Offer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Negotiators for baseball's Pacific Coast League and the National League Giants and Dodgers have scheduled new talks today after a late session Friday night.

"We are far apart. They made an offer but I would feel humiliated to discuss it."

"They" are San Francisco Giants' president Horace Stoneham and Los Angeles Dodgers' vice-president E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi who were dickering with O'Connor and six PCL club officials over indemnities.

THORNY PROBLEMS

The six-member PCL negotiating committee was picked after a day-long session of the full PCL directorate to work out the thorny problems of a new coast league makeup and the question of damages to be demanded from the National League now invading San Francisco—and Los Angeles.

Bavasi called the closed session "a very, very good meeting." Stoneham declined comment.

O'Connor said after the night meeting that there was no discussion of coast realignment but he would hold that power in reserve if a settlement can't be reached.

PCL directors empowered O'Connor to go into court if necessary to seek indemnities for disrupting the league.

ASK "JUST PAYMENT"

O'Connor told reporters, however, the PCL has no intention of trying to prevent Giants and Dodgers from playing in California next season.

"The whole effort now is to get just payment," he said.

He and Fred David, president of the Sacramento club, said neither Stoneham nor Bavasi had made any money offer.

"Things appear stymied," David complained. "They haven't made any offer for just compensation. That's it in a nutshell."

O'Connor said whether the PCL can operate next year depends on successful reorganization. This means finding new cities for the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood franchises. Hollywood club will have to be shifted because of the major league attraction in neighboring Los Angeles.

Hawks Could Pose Problem With a Potent Power Play; Meet Lowly Leafs Tonight

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Chicago Black Hawks can muster a potent powerplay from their roster in the near future the rest of the National Hockey League will have a problem.

So far this season Hawks have been able to score only one goal while the opposition had men in the penalty box. Centre Eddie Litzenberger got that one against Montreal Canadiens.

The lack of scoring punch on their powerplay is perhaps the main reason Hawks have only 14 points to their credit in nine starts But they've utilized those balls to full advantage, winning five games and tying another for nine points and sole possession of third place in the standings.

Hawks will be trying for their seventh tonight when they meet Toronto Maple Leafs at the Stadium.

Leafs, like Detroit Red Wings, who are tied with Boston Bruins for fourth place with eight points, tangle with the leading pacemakers in Montreal.

In today's other games, Bruins host the second-place Rangers in New York. The game is the first of a Saturday afternoon games being nationally televised - and Rangers will get a chance to substitute Harry Watts, Willie Hicke, Harvey Wasley, Wally Hergesheimer and Bill Gadsby.

The 24-year-old Pailie was recalled by the Rangers from Providence farm team of the American League to replace Ivan Irwin, Wasley, Worsley pulled a left thigh muscle Wednesday as Rangers lost 4-0 to Detroit and then aggravated it Thursday as he blanked Boston 3-0.

Pailie will also be in the net Sunday when Rangers visit Chicago. In Sunday's other action, Boston host Detroit.

Led by Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Canadiens have scored 12 goals while enjoying a man advantage. The Rocket has four of them, including his 500th regular-season goal which was scored against Hawks.

At times this season Canadiens have had to make some changes in the combination. While Geoffrion was injured, Beliveau moved back to the right point and Henri Richard and Dickie Moore took over on the team's first line with Rocket.

The powerplay, with both combinations working as effectively, has scored four goals each since while taking his regular turn on the ice.

Two of the teams have scored the following number of goals in shorthanded attacks: Boston, seven; Detroit, five; and Toronto, four, three against Canadiens.

Dutchies Tie With Sudbury Chatham Wallops Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen on their second tour of the North in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series, were finding opponents as inhospitable as on their first trip when three games yielded only one point.

Crushed 9-1 by league-leading Dutchmen, still holding second place, Friday night salvaged a tie at Sudbury Saturday.

Other action in the series Friday night saw Chatham Maroons climb up to second win of the season 6-2 against Windsor Bulldogs.

In an OHA eastern division game Belleville McFarlands beat the league - leading Cornwall Cheviers 5-3, while in the Northern division league Sudbury-Schumacher Flyers defeated Kapuskasing Huskies 4-1.

After a scoreless first period, Dutchmen and Wolves split four goals in the second and two in the final.

Alex Vikelets opened Maroons' scoring in the first period, the others coming from Jack Kane, two, Freddie Pletsch, two, and Bob Seravalli. Windsor goals came from Bob Brown and Bep Goldolin.

Belleville led Cornwall 3-1 at the end of the first period and made it 5-1 at the end of the second before Cheviers came back with two goals in the final.

Ed Marineau, with two, Gerry Goyer, Davey Jones and Barrie Bradley scored for Bellevile. Hugh Campbell, Neil Burke and George Aitken answered for Cornwall.

Gordie Walker passed Timmins' Expos Eric Pranlice and Chuck Guarda scored the others. Wayne Rumsdale and Jimmy Lone replied for Huskies.

Tonight's OHA eastern division schedule: Belleville at Whitby, Belleville at Kingston and Ottawa at Pembroke. In Pontypool Mines league action Timmins are scheduled to play Kapuskasing.

Palmer Leads Balding in San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP)—Toronto's Al Balding ran into putting troubles Friday and lost his lead in the $20,000 San Diego Open golf tournament. But he's still well up in the running, just one stroke behind Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa.

Balding, who had an eight-under-par 64 in the second round to take a two-stroke margin over Palmer and Fred Hawkins, carded a 71 Friday. That gave him a 54-hole 211—202 and left him in a second-place tie with Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y.

Palmer, former United States amateur champion, posted a second straight 68 to lead the pack with 201—15 under par for three rounds.

The tournament gives way today for a $2,500 pro - amateur tourney in which 38 professionals join with several celebrities and amateurs.

Final rounds of the open proper will be played Sunday.

Defending champion Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif., is fourth at 204, followed by Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Billy Casper, San Diego, both with 205.

Solunar Tables and Salt Water

Every now and again letters come in asking whether or not the solunar tables are as useful in salt water as they are in fresh water. The answer to that one is both easy and emphatic — they are!

In late August, responding to the urgent plea of my son, Dick, who is outdoor editor of newsday, published in Garden City, Long Island, we journeyed to Long Island for a visit. He complained that we had given him short notice and that suitable plans could not be made. As it was he had a four-day schedule laid out that almost made me a hospital case. He forgets that his male parent is now close to 67.

The first day came the awakening at the unearthly hour of six a.m. Come on, hit the deck, we're goin' fishin'! By the time we had our eyes nicely opened, we were driving into the famous fishing camp which bears, or rather bore, the name, Port of Egypt, at Southold, Long Island.

Port of Egypt is owned and operated by the Lieblein brothers — Bill, Bert and Herman — with assists of a commodious bar and grill, where excellent food is served, a combination store and ship chandlery, where just about any sort of fishing gear you need and parts can be found, and a whopping big boat dock with slips for rent up to 125 skiffs and 45 outboard motors. Moreover, the boats are all clean and in good shape, the motors all run willingly — an exception for-rental outboards.

Over a cup of coffee with our hosts, we were informed that we were in luck for the fishing was better than "Weakfish Charley" had offered to take us fishing. Being a stranger, this bit of news meant little to me although it did sound impressive. However, an explanation brought the welcome information that "Weakfish Charley" was the name of a fish as many weakfish during the course of any season as any other fisherman in the entire Peconic Bay area.

Peconic Bay, as you no doubt know, is famous the world over for its weak-fishing. Its many square miles of pleasant waters are fished annually by thousands of weakfish addicts who know their secrets. That, when the key is named, without a dissenting voice, as the weakfish king, it gives him the undisputed status of champion of the world.

WEAKFISH CHARLEY

Weakfish Charley's correct name is — hold your — hat Charles G. Bergen, Sr. Freely translated, his surname means "Pretty Little Mountain." This, without question, is a misnomer as Charley consists of 250 pounds of avoirdupois-good nature and perpetual conversation. "Babbling Brook" might come closer but still it doesn't quite fit.

It is difficult for the Lieblein brothers to get away from Port of Egypt for a spot of fishing. After all, an operation the size of that requires constant and careful supervision. They worked things out so that Herb went with us in the morning and Bill in the afternoon.

As you might well imagine, Charley knows Peconic Bay as he knows the back of his hand. He took us to the best spots and we caught weakfish — not too many of considerably more than the other boats out of Port of Egypt. During the day, I asked him about the solunar tables.

That crack was allowed to pass for the time being, but I kept careful track of the weakfish that we caught. Sure enough, every weakfish that was landed came on a combination period. Charley, after being given an autographed copy of the solunar tables, had his nose rubbed in the day's record while we were having dinner.

Two days later we went blue-fishing with Dave Rubin, sailing the Atlantic Highlands. We found fish about eight miles east of Sandy Hook, New Jersey. It was a heavy ground swell rolling, but Dave's big boat can skiff, Miss Ann, took that in stride.

Again, Dave, who knows his bluefish better than meat, took no stock in any such trifling nonsense as solunar tables. Tides had nothing to do with it, he declared, and that was that. Just the same, we caught bluefish every time the morning made up solunar period.

When the activity tapered off, Dave announced that there would be little fishing until the tide turned about two in the afternoon. The fish were there, he told us, but there would be little or no feeding on the part of the fish.

How a bluefish, eight miles offshore, 60 feet of water, when there could be little or no indication of tidal flow, would be able to tell the difference between high tide changed was not explained.

As Dave predicted, little or no action was found between the morning major solunar period and the afternoon minor solunar period. However, when the minor period came, they had all the blues fishing we could handle. In all, we divided 32 weakfish among our rods. All of these same fish were caught during solunar periods.

Tides in salt water do provide an easy way to keep track of the fish. But doing and not likely to do. Tides, of themselves, have but little effect on the feeding habits of fish. Only in cases where tidal stages or tidal flow actually do bring food to the fish does the exception prove the rule. Otherwise, the solunar tables are dependend upon to tell you what is apt to happen.

Let me tell you from us and com pull your solunar tables when you go saltwater fishing. For the majority of times you will find them to be surprisingly accurate.

Top Teams Could Be Named After Today's Grid Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It may be possible to name first-place finishers in all three eastern football leagues after today's six games.

One winner will be decided positively — the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, holding a three-point lead over Toronto Lords, entertain Lords in the regular season finale.

In a second game that has no effect on the standings, Kingston Raiders host Sarnia Golden Bears at Sarnia.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four hold a four-point lead over Ottawa Rough Riders. They play two games, the first against Ottawa and can clinch first by winning in Ottawa today.

Meanwhile Montreal Alouettes, bidding to move up from fourth spot on points, host Ottawa Rough Riders in a game that has no effect on the standings, tonight.

Montreal Alouettes, bidding to move up from fourth spot on points, host Ottawa Rough Riders in a game that has no effect on the standings, tonight.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs need a little help to capture the Ontario Intercollegiate League. They are two points better than Mustangs and host Queen's Golden Gaels. McGill is at home to Toronto Varsity Blues. Blues Combine a Western win and McGill loss and Mustangs can't be budged from the lead.

In the Western Interprovincial Football Union, playoff positions are already decided and it's just a matter of playing the schedule today.

The league-leading Edmonton Eskimos, with 13 wins in 15 starts take on the tallest Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina.

Second - place Winnipeg Blue Bombers are at Vancouver to battle Lions with the resurgent British Columbia Lions who boast four wins in their last six starts. Both losses were to Eskimos.

Calgary Stampeders, fifth best in the loop and third in the final standings, are idle. Stamps meet Edmonton in Edmonton Nov. 9 in the first game of a two-game, total-point semi-final.

Quebec League

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Bob Gauthier scored twice to give Chicoutimi Saguenees a 5-4 decision over Montreal Royals Friday night in an afternoon Quebec Hockey League contest.

Gauthier's goals enabled Saguenees with a two-point lead atop the league ahead of Shawinigan Falls. Royals remained tied for third spot with Quebec.

Guy Rousseau fired two goals for Chicoutimi, with Jacques Lucas and Gary Blain adding one each. Walt Bradley, Murray Balfour, Denis Boucher and Lulu Denis were the Montreal scorers.

Six Fighters Will Try for Welter Title

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Championship Committee Friday named six fighters to participate in an elimination tournament to decide the vacant world welterweight title.

Those named were Isaac Logart of Cuba, Carmen Turner of Philadelphia, Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., Gaspar Ortega of Mexico and George Barnes, the British Empire champion from Australia.

The announcement was made by Julius Helfand, president of the committee, and chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Tony DeMarco of Boston, former champion who was knocked out by Akins in the 14th round Tuesday night in Boston, was not named. Helfand said this was because DeMarco is ill.

The welterweight title became vacant recently when Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., gave up the welter crown after defeating Don Jordan for world middleweight honors.

Helfand said "it is the aim of the committee that the tournament be completed not later than March 31. The final bout between the last two survivors should be 15 rounds for the title.

TV NOTEBOOK

By: John Weillanfer

What was undoubtedly one of the most lavish collections of TV stars recently got together and performed before an audience with a Nielsen rating which under normal circumstances would send directors, producers and sponsors alike in search of a high spot ideally suited to jumping. The starring in the special program put on for one solitary viewer, a nine-year-old lad doomed by muscular dystrophy.

Spearheaded by comic Jerry Lewis and including the likes of George Gobel, Eddie Fisher, Eddie Cantor, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Hugh O'Brian, and a host of others, the special produced-director tribute proved, if nothing else, that humanity's worth is not entirely lost on hoi polloi and not in the sudden rash of fears and demonstrations plaguing most of the world these days.

Incidentally if you are plagued by a tired old TV set badly in need of some expert electronic nursing, call on CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. We're just what the doctor ordered for that ailing set. Seriously, for top-notch repairs — always — call on CIRCLE SERVICE. Phone WO 8-6701. (In Trenton, phone Zenith 6-3800).

Ed Sullivan Is Not Worried By Host of Variety Shows

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—How does the grand old man of TV variety feel about the avalanche of variety shows hosted by singing this season?

Ed Sullivan isn't worried.

"A good number of them will fall by the wayside," said the great stonefacer, indicating that Perry Como's show is among them.

Why?

That's the question that has been asked in and out of show business since Sullivan started his Sunday night clambake 10 years ago. He himself offered some reasons:

"I think my show has succeeded because it's a newspaper man's show. I don't sing. I don't dance, I don't tell jokes. But I think as a columnist I've satisfied enough attraction to know what it takes to put together a good show. And I can do it without any feelings of a performer myself.

"That, I think, is important. I can roustine the acts without having the performer feel that saving the time for myself. I've cut big-name acts from their usual 18 minutes to four.

PERFORMERS JEALOUS

"But if I were a singer or a comic myself, I'd have trouble doing that. Performers are jealous. That dates back to vaudeville. When a comic heard another one getting big laughs onstage, he'd turn on the water faucet so he wouldn't hear the laughs. Or a singing star would appropriate the number of a younger singer who made a big hit with it on the same bill.

"Singers are up against such jealousies when they have their own TV shows. But nobody's jealous of me as a performer."

Another hazard, he said, is the practice of singers exchanging guest shots on each other's shows. Such over-exposure can be dangerous, said Sullivan, who has seldom guested on other programs.

"The audience is bound to get tired of seeing performers all the time," he added. "That's what happened to Milton Berle. I told him to cut himself down to one number in his show. But instead, he had to tell the way through it every week. If he hadn't, he'd still be on TV today."

There is much to be done at office and in the outside world of activity. Schedule your hours precisely and you will accomplish much in both spheres. Be prepared to answer questions wisely that come up.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Though your own worries are heavy, retain that kindly expression for others today who come to you with theirs. Help to build up their morale as you build yours. Attend to repairs, cutting records, etc. Keep busy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Attending to business and errands away from home, from which you must escape today for the sake of soul development, be sure you are not loquacious and be specific about your desires. Work diligently.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Private worries can be relegated to the background today if you put all your thought and energy into the work at hand, inventory, data, etc. Get shopping done early, too. Buy efficiencies.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A tried and true pal has the right suggestions for your welfare today. Pay great heed to advice and sip your purse now. Get real estate in better condition. See that your vocal chords are healthy.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Take time now to do all that is necessary to make your appearance radiant, your personality wonderful. Avoid crusty bloke up who wants to vent spleen on someone. See that duties are performed with precision.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting child born today will possess a sort of dual personality which will make it possible for him, or her to see both sides of any given situation, then bring it down to its proper level and easy solution. See that a well-rounded education is given your progeny, practical, spiritual, scientific. A fine lawyer, doctor, minister is in the chart, male or female.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new
"Astrology and You")

"The Stars impel . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

For Saturday, Nov. 2, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Your regular duties are vying with your new ambitions and you are tempted to sacrifice one for the other. However, by planning your time carefully, you can combine the two very nicely and to your satisfaction.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Your pocketbook and your circle of acquaintances do not go well together so take care not to try to keep up with them, or to put on a false front. Real people care only for the individual. Increase abundance for the sake of dignity.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you do not keep strictly hands off, the debate between an authority and an associate will ruin things for you instead. Keep nose to the grindstone and remain perfectly neutral, since it does not concern you at all.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Do only those things today which are absolutely necessary to do, then dash off somewhere. You can uncover the data you desire, make new friends, bring finer things into your life. Watch and grow.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Are tempted to go overboard financially on entertainment, even try to borrow, and be ungracious if unsuccessful. Take care you do not try the patience of dearest friend and benefactor. Be practical.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Someone within your family circle is not at all enthused about your associates. Keep the two apart for real harmony. It is your right to deal with whomever you please so long as you know what you are doing.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Someone within your family circle is not at all enthused about your associates. Keep the two apart for real harmony. It is your right to deal with whomever you please so long as you know what you are doing.

Mag Suggests U.K. Withdraw From NATO

LONDON (CP) — The New Statesman, a magazine of considerable influence in Labor party ranks, proposes that Britain should withdraw from the North Atlantic alliance unless the West takes steps to reduce the tension of the cold war.

In a front-page editorial, the left-wing weekly says the withdrawal should be accompanied by a ban on the production of hydrogen bombs and the removal of United States military bases in Britain.

The editorial is accompanied by a lengthy article by novelist J. B. Priestley, which calls unconditionally for an end to reliance on the H-bomb in Britain's defence planning.

Although the Statesman has no official status in the Labor party, its contributors include a number of Labor members of Parliament and it normally supports Labor policies.

The editorial proposes that Britain's continuing NATO membership be made conditional on three changes in Western policy: Recognition of the present Polish-German frontier; withdrawal of troops from the dividing line between East and West Germany and acceptance of Russia's proposal for an exchange of observers at key points to safeguard against a surprise attack.

The article urges that the West in guaranteeing all existing Middle Eastern frontiers.

The Week's News

By The Canadian Press

The week pondered the fate of the latest man to slide under the Moscow table.

The man was Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, the greatest of Red Army heroes. There seemed little hope that he would retrieve anything like a rank equivalent to his former post as defence minister.

He visited the Turkish embassy in Moscow to proclaim—over a number of hearty toasts—that he could depend on getting a job according to his abilities. Khrushchev also made it clear that his visit to the Turkish embassy meant that things had become much less dangerous in the Middle East.

NATO MILESTONE

Spaak, the current glory of the Soviet, has resulted in plans for the most important meeting that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has ever organized.

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and Prime Minister Diefenbaker are among the government heads of the 15-nation organization who announced they will attend a Paris meeting of the alliance.

Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, secretary-general of NATO, was one of the key figures in arranging the meeting, which is expected to aim at an historic pooling of Western knowledge to combat Soviet gains.

BOMB THROWER

A fanatic heaved a grenade into the Israeli Parliament, a Knesset, alen. The Jewish bomb-bro per —who has been a mental patient and was nursing a grudge—injured Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, Foreign Minister Moshe Shapiro, seriously, and Foreign Minister Golda Meir.

MONTREAL CHANGE

Mayor Jean Drapeau went down to defeat in the Montreal municipal election. He was beaten by Senator Sarto Fournier, who thus finds himself not only the mayor of Canada's largest city but also a member of the Canadian Senate.

LIQUOR VOTE

An Alberta plebiscite showed a firm vote in favor of a greater variety of liquor outlets in the province.

But this doesn't necessarily mean that the province is going to get, for instance, cocktail bars.

The government made it clear before the vote that the result would only be an expression of opinion and not binding on anyone.

Voters in Calgary and Edmonton were heavily in favor of permitting mixed drinking in beer parlors, as is already allowed in smaller Alberta municipalities.

STUDIES EXODUS

Newfoundland started a study to determine the "feasibility" of moving thousands of persons from isolated outports to central communities.

Premier Smallwood announced that a "short-term organization" had been set up for the purpose and he added:

"It will be possible for the government to come to a conclusion as to the probable cost of moving people who might wish to move —numbering perhaps as many as 50,000."

IRISH SWEEPS

Canadians won a total of about $1,400,000 through the luck of the Irish —the Irish Sweepstakes, that is.

Three persons held $140,000 tickets in the winning horse, Irish-bred Stephanotis. They are: Mary Micallef, 41, Kitchener, and Allan Richardson, 22, Trenton, and Manny Allen, Calgary.

There also were five $80,000 second-prize winners and a total of nearly 2,000 money winners in all.

ASIAN SPUTNIK

Russia announced, in effect, that it has something better than a Sputnik—for people with Asian flu.

It is a flu serum that you sniff like snuff.

In Washington, a visiting Russian scientist said the powder will cure the flu in one day—but one miserable ruble (34 cents Canadian).

Little Benny's Notebook

None of the fellows were around and I didn't know what to do, and I thought, Oh boy, it hasn't even started to get dark out, but I'll go in for dinner just a same and be early instead of even a little late. Oh boy, ma wont hardly believe it, I thought.

And I went in and ma was back in the kitchin getting dinner ready, and I stood there waiting for her to act serprized.

Which she didn't, and I said, High, ma.

I wish you wouldn't say High ma, you address grown people, ma said, and I said, I meen how do you do.

That's better, how do you do ma said.

And she kept on stirring something, and I thought, Heck, she dont even realize, I better give her a kind of a hint, I thought, and I said, G, ma, pop's late today.

Oh I wouldn't say that, he'll be along any minute, I dare say, ma said, and I said, Well suppose he really is late?

In that case he would of telefoned, your father is a very thoughtful man, when he thinks, ma said, and I said, G, it must be nice to have everybody on time for dinner.

That's the least I expect, after the time and care I take preparing it, ma said. Now go and wash your hands and face, and I mean wash, not dib and dab, she said, and I said, Aw okay.

Which just then I thought I heard whistling, and I went out but nobody wasn't out there, so I whistled myself and Puds stuck his head out his front window and I went in his house, and I was a little late for dinner but of enough to be serious.

DIES IN TRACTOR MISHAP

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP)—James Paisley, 36, was killed Thursday and two other men injured when an automobile crashed into the back of a farm tractor three miles west of here. Paisley was riding on a tractor driven by Gerald Mann, 32, who suffered head injuries.

Ottawa Reaches Appeal Target

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa became the first major Canadian city to pass its objective in 1957 charitable donations Thursday as deficits struck the campaigns of three other Ontario centres.

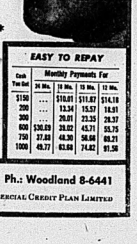
Two cities—Hamilton and London—decided to extend their fund raising.

Toronto's United Appeal officials said there will be no extension, even though the month-long campaign was 13 per cent—more than $1,000,000—short of its $6,926,952 objective.

Chairman John S. Kilmour said if the deficit is not met there will have to be a "reassessment of needs" among the 94 social agencies.

"GOING TO MAKE IT"

"However," he added, "there's much more to come and I know we're going to make it."



In Ottawa the Community Chest Donations were still coming in.

Hunters Shoot Steers, Dogs Instead of Deer

HALIFAX (CP) — Trigger-happy deer hunters are taking toll again this year—of everything but deer.

Farmer Bamford Marshall of Springfield found his yearling steer shot twice through the neck but still alive.

Other victims: A horse, a cow and several sheep.

British Liner Sails Minus Four Members

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — The 20,256-ton British liner New Australia sailed for home on today minus four members of its crew, discharged after crew members accused them of making the voyage here "a nightmare."

The return trip to Britain was delayed several hours when 150 of the ship's 600 crew members walked off their jobs and refused to go back until company officials took action.

A spokesman said they would refuse to return to their jobs — despite threats of jail — "unless the officers or police take off the thugs among the crew."

The men returned after the four alleged ringleaders were dismissed "by mutual consent," a spokesman for the liner said.

COMPLAIN OF FIGHTS

Interviewed here, members of the crew who walked out said: "The voyage from England was a nightmare, with fights every night between 'Teddy Boy' gangs, Scotsmen, Irishmen, and others."

The trouble reached such a peak that at Penang, Malay, police were called out to control members of the crew and herd them back on board to complete the voyage here.

"We heard men screaming at night," said one crew member.

"You might think we were silly walking off. It could mean six months' jail. But I want to get home safely."

Another man complained: "Many of us slept in other people's cabins together on the floor and on bunks with the door bolted. Several men were battered with fire-hose nozzles or they lay in their bunks."

The liner, formerly the Monarch of Bermuda, was burned out in 1947 and rebuilt. It arrived here Thursday and since then, a score of crew members have been arrested by police here on charges of offensive behavior and drunkenness.

Most Powerful Atomic Research Reactor Starts

Built at Chalk River At Cost of $57,000,000

By JOHN BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The free world's most powerful atomic research reactor is in operation at Canada's atomic energy establishment at Chalk River, Ont., 130 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The reactor, known by the code name NRU, was started up at 9:10 a.m. EST Sunday. Atomic Energy of Canada Limited announced last night.

"As a tool for research, engineering development and testing, the NRU reactor will be unsurpassed," the Crown company's announcement said.

The huge versatile research reactor, which will produce significant quantities of plutonium, the metal used in atomic bombs, began construction four years after construction started. NRU replaces which stands for National Research Universal, cost $57,000,000 to build.

Housed in a 145-foot structure, equivalent to a 12-storey office building with three basements, NRU will be used for research and experimental facilities unparalleled in the Western world.

TRIPLE PURPOSE

It is a triple-purpose reactor, a factor which has contributed greatly to the complexity of its design and to its cost.

Besides producing plutonium to be sold to the United States Atomic Energy Commission, NRU will be used for research and experiments in the development of electrical producing reactor power stations and for manufacturing a wide variety of radioactive isotopes used in medicine, industry, agriculture and research.

NRU will enable Canada to increase greatly output of cobalt 60, the huge source of cobalt therapy units for cancer treatment.

Some 100 engineers, operators and maintenance personnel were on hand for the historic event.

At the time of start-up, 29 technicians were in the reactor's control room. Dr. David Keys, scientific adviser to William Lee Bennett, president of Atomic Energy of Canada, said the reactor will be operated 24 hours a day.

CONDUCT TESTS

NRU will be operated for several months at a low power, when tests will be made. Eventually the reactor's power will be increased to some 200,000 kilowatts. This will be five times the power of NRX which has been in operation.

Consumer Price Index Climbs Tenth of Point

It was the seventh straight monthly increase in the index which is based on 1949 prices equalling 100. The latest increase reflects price changes during September.

The 123.4 index compares to 119.8 a year earlier.

There was a decline in the food index in September — to 131.7 from 131.9 — but this was offset by increases in other consumer products groups.

MANY FOODS LOWER

Lower prices were reported for pork with lesser declines for beef, most fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, margarine, coffee and eggs. Prices for milk, butter, cereal items, tomatoes and oranges rose in a number of cities.

The shelter index increased to 135.9 from 135.6 as a result of further continued increases in rents and home-ownership costs.

Price increases for new seasonal lines, particularly men's and girls' winter coats, were largely responsible for the moving the clothing index to 107.7 from 106.3.

A rise in the household operation index to 120.1 from 119.8 resulted from scattered increases in fuel, floor coverings, house-hold supplies and appliances. Lower prices were reported for refrigerators and ranges, higher prices for washing machines and vacuum cleaners.

COAL, UP, OIL DOWN

Further general increases in fees for doctors, dentists and optometrists, as well as higher prescription drug rates in the Maritimes, moved the health and personal services and commodities to 137.4 from 127.1.

The price index of 30 industrial materials decreased a further one per cent between Sept. 24 and Oct. 24 to 232.9 from 235.7. It was the ninth straight monthly decrease.

NEW WORLD WAR NOT LIKELY NOW SAYS RED CHIEF

Replies to Questions By Toronto Telegram

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev says present world conditions indicate a third world war is not likely.

Replying to a series of questions put to him by the Toronto Telegram, Khrushchev said the peoples of the world are striving for peace. He said it was a matter of "common knowledge that there are statesmen in some capitalist countries . . . who advocate war."

He was answering questions put to him by Peter Dempson, the Telegram's chief Ottawa correspondent, through the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. The replies were published today in the Russian magazine International Affairs.

Asked if he thought the danger of a new war is smaller today than a year or two ago, Khrushchev replied:

"It may be said that the peoples of the world are striving for peace, and that the current situation is not of a pre-war sort that prevailed before the Second World War is one instance.

WAST "MADMEN"

"But of course no one can say categorically what will be in store for us? Could anyone, he asked, vouch for the "madmen" holding government posts in the West who advocate war?

One question asked if the Russian leaders would agree to exchanging visits with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"We always favor the exchange of visits between statesmen if these visits are well prepared and can make for better understanding," he replied.

Asked about the problem of ending nuclear weapon tests, Khrushchev said:

"The Soviet government is ready at any time to sign an agreement on ending nuclear weapon tests as soon as the Western powers agree to assume similar commitments.

"Today science has reached such a level of development that the fulfillment of the assumed obligations can be controlled. If the other countries hold that international control is necessary in the territories of countries staging these explosions, we are also ready to study conditions for establishing such control."

HITS COMMITTEE WORK

He dismissed the work of the United Nations committee on disarmament of which Canada is a member, as useless and absolutely fruitless.

'We Better Do Something' Reaction Of 'Father of H-Bomb' to New Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's second Sputnik—a brand new model with a dog aboard—brought a renewed controversial question for a speech in United States missile and satellite programs today.

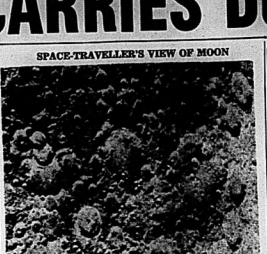
Behind the strong indications, however, that administration officials would cling to the old light attitude they defended when Russia's first earth satellite zoomed into space a month ago last month.

Immediate reactions to the weekend appearance of Sputnik II ranged from predictions of imminent discovery of the first secret to assurances that U.S. scientific programs are on a safe and sane schedule.

Defence Secretary Neil McElroy could predict that, regardless of Sputnik II, U.S. missile and satellite programs are "on good shape right now."

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Navy's Vanguard launching program, told reporters this country has a "thorough and well thought-out" satellite program which does not need to be turned into a crash operation.

Dr. Edward Teller, University of California nuclear scientist, said Sputnik II means "it is clearer today than it was yesterday that we better do something."



Dr. Teller, often called the "father of the H-bomb," said it is even more evident now that Russia is ahead of the United States in the satellite field.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass. said the new satellite "should be seen as an evening object in United States latitudes."

Senator Clinton Anderson (Dem. N.M.) called for immediate appointment of a missiles and satellite U.S. missile programs. "More time — and Russia will be much more well able Russia to man its satellites and threaten destruction to secret bases," he also devige circles the earth."

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem. Mo.) said the launching of Sputnik II is an indication of a great lead in the Russian claim to have successfully tested the first intercontinental ballistic missile.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, president of the United Nations General Assembly told a television audience that the Russian feat may have increased the chances of peace and disarmament because "The more we realize the urgency of our quest for peace, the more the possibility of solving it."

SPACE-TRAVELLER'S VIEW OF MOON

Neon-Lit Flying Egg Stalls Cars of Motorists in Texas

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP)—Reports of a mystery object which one witness said flew round with a "great sound and rush of wind" had officials and the public puzzled, today.

Reporters and authorities had reports of sightings over a wide West Texas area Saturday and Sunday.

Police checking areas where sightings were reported were unable to find any trace. Air force officials declined to say whether an investigation was being made.

Observers told reporters of at least five instances in which the engines of cars approaching the object were unaccountably stalled but resumed as the phenomenon rose into the air.

Sheriff Weir Clem, who said he observed the brilliant light but didn't get a close view, reported one witness fainted from fright.

Officers inspected the reported landing sites Sunday and found no marks to indicate anything had set down there, the sheriff said. Policeman A. J. Fowler said at least 15 persons told of getting a good look and dozens sighted what appeared to be flashes of light.

They seemed to agree that this something was 200 feet long shaped like an egg and was lit up like it was on fire—but looked more like neon lights," Fowler related.

They said it was about 200 feet in the air, and when it got close car motors and lights would go off. Everybody that called was very excited."

Pedro Saucedo, 30, a farm hand and part-time barber here, said: "I was driving out to a farm near the Petit community (west of here) Saturday night with a friend, Joe Salas, when we first saw the thing.

"When it got near, the lights of my car stalled and so did the motor died. I jumped out of the truck and hit the dirt because I was afraid. I called to Joe but he didn't get out. The thing passed directly over my truck with a great sound and a rush of wind. It sounded like thunder and the truck rocked from the blast. I felt a lot of heat," he said.

It was "torpedo shaped" or like "a rocket," but much larger.

Sputnik II Seen Tremendous Propaganda Victory for Reds

LONDON (AP) British and French commentators agreed today that the launching of the second earth satellite has given the Soviet Union another tremendous propaganda victory over the West.

There was widespread speculation that the Red scientists may be on the verge of sending a rocket all the way to the moon, perhaps within a matter of days.

Military correspondents agreed that with rockets of the titanic power necessary to put Sputnik II into orbit just over a thousand miles out in space, the Soviet Union could easily pelt North America with H-bombs.

China's Red regime was quick to seize on the propaganda implications of the Soviet feat. Peiping radio asserted the new launching proved the "absolute superiority" of the Communist system over capitalism.

"The outstanding achievements of Soviet science and technology are all the more admirable compared with the repeated failure of the West to send an artificial satellite into space," said the broadcast.

London's Conservative Daily Telegraph called it a joint British-American effort, saying Sputnik II "gives an even more urgent warning to Britain and America to get together in a close scientific partnership."

"Nothing but a big joint effort will suffice to overtake the Soviets. Nothing less will save the west."

Hastings-Frontenac Voters Will Proceed to Polls Today

MADOC, Ont. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, 60, stands today for election to the Commons as Progressive Conservative member of Hastings-Frontenac where his party has held sway since 1940.

The former president of the University of Toronto has only one opponent, Trotskyite Communist Ross Lowell Dowson, 46, who has been defeated in several Toronto mayoralty contests.

An estimated 18,000 persons are eligible to vote. The polls are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST.

It had been thought that Mr. Smith, called to the external affairs ministry by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, would gain an acclamation. Mr. Dowson, however, filed nomination papers 10 minutes before the deadline Oct. 21. Liberals, CCF and Social Credit spokesmen had already said they would not contest the traditionally Conservative seat.

The by-election to elect Hastings-Frontenac was won by George S. White, 59-year-old Madoc lawyer who had held it since 1940. Mr. White's appointment to the Senate shortly afterward opened the seat to Mr. Smith's candidacy.

The minister campaigned largely on the record of the Diefenbaker government since it took office.

Mr. Dowson, former leader of the Canadian Trotskyist revolutionary workers party, distributed posters and pamphlets. His platform included a ban on nuclear tests, taking Canada out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which he called "a war pact," cutting military spending and taking a referendum "on war or peace."

GERMAN CARRIES LETHAL RADIUM, HELD BY POLICE

Loaded Revolver Found on Person

TORONTO (CP) — A German immigrant threw a civil defence drill into an uproar Sunday by pulling from his pocket a vial of lethal radium which he later said he wanted tested for potency.

The radium passed the test. A policeman a few feet away pointed his geiger counter at the German. The indicator swung wildly right in the dial.

The mild-mannered German, Gunder Kuhn, 39, was searched and promptly arrested on a charge of carrying an unregistered revolver which was loaded.

Then he was hurtled off to the Don Jail and given a decontamination bath while police and civil defence agents spread out to cordon off the radioactivity in his wake.

Kuhn, who told police he brought the radium into Canada from West Germany eight months ago, said he had been working with it for a year, applying it to the dials of wrist watches. He said he intended to use it to make them luminous. He is employed by a radium equipment company as a mechanic.

FIND OPEN SORE

Police found an adhesive bandage covering an open sore beside Kuhn's left eye. J. D. Nesjerenko, an expert in radioactive minerals who examined the German, said such sores are common in the early stages of radiation sickness.

Other officials said there is no doubt the man's blood is infected. A more complete diagnosis was awaited.

Police said the vial contained about 30 grams of the grey powder, more than is kept on hand by a metropolitan hospital for the treatment of cancer.

Kuhn's clothes were burned at the jail. He was given prison garb and taken to a police station for the night. He was to be taken to the Don today for further examination.

Police found in the immigrant's boarding house room strongly contaminated and it was cleaned after the deciclothes were burned. The other nine occupants were checked for radiation and told water to neutralize any radiation.

DETECTIVES ROOM

Geiger counters clicked omin the detectives' room at Toronto's College Street police headquarters when it was checked after Kuhn was taken away. A despatcher reported his radio plate used by static.

All those living at the room-ing house and others who came in contact with Kuhn were to be given blood tests.

Police said the German was among spectators at the CD exercises exercise at the International Exhibition grounds. When he spoke of his radium he was here being used by 23 police trainees he went home to get the radium.

NEW YORK (AP) — Animal lovers around the world are protesting Russia's use of a dog as a passenger in its new earth satellite.

Warren W. McSpadde, general manager of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said Sunday a protest will be sent Premier Khrushchev through the state department.

McSpadden said the dog is "with unnecessary sacrifice" or with "great pain and suffering until it survives."

Sending a dog to outer space, he said, "cannot possibly advance human health and welfare."

In another protest, telegraphed to the Soviet embassy in Washington Mrs. D. Kibbe Riddell, president of Bide-A-Wee Association, Inc., condemned "this atrocity."

Mrs. Riddell said the Russian government "has once again proved its inhumanity."

Her association maintains an adoption service for animals in Manhattan.

Dr. Lindlahr, the National Canine Defence League asked dog-lovers everywhere to observe a minute of silence each day on behalf of Curly, with special hopes for its safe return to earth.

The group leader said it will send a delegation marching on the Soviet embassy today to condemn use of the dog on the artificial moon.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said it is shocked. It was being flooded with protest calls. An official said the possibility of Curly being harmed by cosmic rays "are too horrible to contemplate."

He said the Soviet Union should be "forced to tell the world why human volunteers or undesirables could not be used instead of helpless animals.

Pup Fares Well In Rocket Kennel 1,000 Miles High

Satellite's Radio Reports Breathing, Heart Normal

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union reported today that its space-travelling dog is faring well inside the half-ton rocket satellite circling the earth at more than 1,000 miles out in space.

Moscow radio said the small, fluffy-haired passenger inside Sputnik II survived the shock of being blasted into space and her breathing, heartbeat and blood pressure are normal.

Housed in an air-conditioned casing inside the rocket, the dog hurtled around the earth at a speed of 17,840 miles an hour.

Signals from two radios in the satellite are sending scientific data about the dog's reactions and space conditions, the Russians said. Monitors around the world picked up the "beep, beep" on one frequency and a hissing sound from another.

MAY PARACHUTE

As the spectacular achievement of the spaceship carried the dog out of space travel, a Soviet scientist hinted that the dog may parachute safely back to earth.

Indicative of Russian plans to lead to human travel into outer space, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda says Soviet scientists may send ships up in future satellites to study biological effects of space travel.

Pravda added that such rapidly breeding small creatures as rabbits, mollusks and insects also may be sent aloft. This, the article said, will give a better possibility for genetic studies."

Apparently it was assumed that by then the satellites could be brought back to earth.

The Russians originally announced that Sputnik II, launched at about 7:58 a.m. Sunday (11:58 p.m. Saturday EST), was in its orbit reaching 932 miles out. Later maximum distance was revised to 1,056 miles.

HUGE WEIGHT

The new satellite weighs 1,120 pounds and circles the earth in 103.7 minutes, Moscow said. The second satellite, launched Oct. 4, weighs 184 pounds, has an orbit reaching 560 miles, moves at 18,000 miles an hour and circles the earth every 96.2 minutes.

Sputnik I, still circling although its radio now is dead, is a globe 23 inches in a three-stage rocket. Two pieces of the rocket apparently still are circling with the satellite.

The second satellite, described by the Russians as "the last stage of the carrier rocket," apparently is still in orbit, too. Moscow said no other parts of the rocket trail it.

Precision moons travel at an angle of 65 degrees to the equator. Sputnik II crosses the south, while the direction of Sputnik I has not been stated.

One Moscow broadcast said the new satellite was built to orbit higher than the first satellite which has completed about 500 circuits of the globe.

NEWS EVERY HOUR

Instruments aboard Sputnik II were reported designed to send information about cosmic rays, ultra violet and x-rays, temperature and pressure, measurements of the earth.

Little Lemon To Be Catapulted From Satellite

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet scientists said today the dog in the new Soviet satellite will be catapulted out at a "suitable" altitude and there is a good chance of being recovered alive.

The dog, named Limonchik—Little Lemon—will be the first of one of the satellite scientists.

Dr. Viktor Pazielin and Professor Vladimir Petrovsky, director and lecturer at Moscow's Veterinarian, said the satellite will not be affected by the catapulting of the container bearing the dog and will continue orbiting for a "long time" afterwards.

A television link records the dog's heartbeat, breathing, blood pressure and temperature. On the basis of this information scientists in Moscow can decide when to "press the button" and retrieve the dog.

OTTAWA (CP) — Police said Sunday that Marianne Burke, 45, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Mary Bell, 31, found dead in the Burke apartment on Saturday.

Car Wrecked, Driver Swerves To Miss Dog

Although city and provincial police reported a number of accidents over the weekend, the Bay of Quinte district escaped any highway fatalities.

A Trenton man, Frank Scalcia, escaped serious injury on Sunday morning when he swerved his car in an attempt to miss a dog on Highway No. 2. His car skidded out of control on the wet pavement and it rolled onto its top in the ditch. Mr. Scalcia was admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital for observation. His car was almost a complete wreck.

Douglas Faul, 11 Earl Street, Belleville, had his car skid on the four-lane highway east of the city and the vehicle skidded into two trees on the centre Boulevard.

Saturday night Gerald Locke of Campbellford, fell asleep at the wheel while driving near Chatterton and his vehicle swerved to the side of the road ripping out several guard rail posts.

In the city a three-vehicle crash on North Front Street caused close to $500 damage. Vehicles driven by Douglas Arnold of Stirling and Halloway, and Phyllis Fox, Springbrook collided head-on. Mrs. Asselstine suffered chest injuries. Driver of the third vehicles involved was Margaret Walkom, Toronto.

Police Blotter

Stolen cars and complaints regarding intoxicated drivers kept city police busy over the weekend.

Two cars were reported stolen and although one turned up later, the second is still missing.

And Ivo Kvarda, 199 West Dundas street, said his car was stolen from where it was parked on Victoria Ave. The vehicle was later located on the Collegiate campus.

Local Theatre Called Tonic For Community

"Local theatre is a tonic to any community," Dr. William Angus, professor and director of drama at Queen's University, told members and friends of the Belleville and district branch of Canadian Alumni at their annual fall dinner.

Speaking of diverse occupations within the community find pleasure and relaxation working together creating entertainment for others," he said.

Dr. Angus told the alumni what local actors and actresses lack in skill and polish they make up for in sincerity and integrity. "Local theatre brings a much enjoyment to the participants as it does to the audience. Its support costs little; its returns are many-fold," he concluded.

A delicious turkey dinner was provided alumni members and friends by ladies of the Centenary church. It was held in the spacious new parish hall where tables were festively decorated with streamers and figures depicting football at Queen's. Miss Jean Hamilton, B.A., assisted here in charge of decorations.

Miss Hamilton, in bringing greetings from Queen's, informed the group that Queen's new faculty of Law has 23 students this year. He also mentioned a Queen's tartan is being designed.

A rousing sing-song, led by John Ross Robertson accompanied by Linton Read at the piano, culminated a most enjoyable evening for the local Queen's alumni branch.

Two Persons Die When Montreal Building Burns

MONTREAL (CP) — Two persons died, seven were injured and about 20 others escaped to safety when fire burned through an old three-storey downtown apartment building Sunday.

Bodies of Pierre Albert Lordong, 72, and his wife, Mary Ann, 74, were found in a third-floor apartment. Flames apparently trapped the couple.

Seven other persons were taken to hospital for treatment of burns and cuts, but all were later released.

The flames are believed to have started in a passageway leading from the second to third floor. Persons living on the top floor were trapped by the fire, and long ladders to windows were used to get them to safety.

Rocket to Moon Coming 'Soon' Canadian Told

MONTREAL (CP) — A Radio Moscow spokesman indicated today Russia intends to send another space aboard rocket ships as the next step towards human space flight.

Ivan Alexanderson, director of Radio Moscow's English-language news division, told a Montreal radio newsman in a telephone conversation from Moscow that Russians are already planning to shoot pipes into space.

The call to Moscow for more information on Russia's second earth satellite, launched Sunday, was made by Richard Johnson of radio station CFCF.

Asked by Mr. Johnson about Soviet plans to launch a moon rocket, Mr. Alexanderson said it would be "soon." Its chief purpose would be to prove beyond doubt man's ability to navigate inner space and live.

The information it would be invaluable to world scientists, the Soviet official said, assuring Mr. Johnson that satellite information will be shared.

Could the second satellite be salvaged?

"I think so, I hope so," was the fervent reply, Mr. Johnson reported.

Syrians Fire On Jet Planes

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria announced that anti-aircraft guns opened fire today on unidentified planes which violated the Mediterranean port of Latakia.

An official statement said the planes flew at sea level 10 miles off the port at 10 a.m. at an extremely high altitude, and that the planes "immediately dispersed and headed westward."

Another statement said six Turkish infiltrators crossed the border Nov. 1 and were forced back.

Use of anti-aircraft batteries against planes was the first announced since the start of Syrian-Turkish border tension.

Another Grower Of Peaches Chops Down His Trees

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A second Niagara Peninsula peach grower has begun chopping down his peach trees in protest against the Ontario Peach Growers' Marketing Board.

Cecil Sherman of nearby Beamsville, a post-war immigrant from Holland, said he slashed down four acres of marigold and vedette peaches during the weekend.

He said he will fight the peach board "with everything I have" because he wants Canada to remain "a free country." He said he saw enough dictatorship in Holland when he was forced to work with the Germans during the wartime occupation. He became a Canadian citizen in 1956.

Lloyd Smith of Winona has also been chopping down peach trees in protest against the board.

The peach co-operative requires all wholesale peaches be sold through it and controls the size and price of peaches. Growers must buy a $3 license to sell wholesale or retail.

Report Uranium Found in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Columbus Dispatch says a vast deposit of uranium ore worth several billion dollars has been discovered in Ohio.

The uranium-bearing soil borders Lake Erie along the northeastern section of Ohio, and runs in a northwesterly band five to 20 miles wide and more than 200 miles long almost directly through the center of the state, the newspaper says.

The band also shoots off into West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, the newspaper says.

The information comes from the find to Laurance W. Hunting, a 77-year-old retired mining engineer-geologist. Huntington has developed and patented a process to extract the uranium from the waste material, the dispatch says.

Hurricane-Force Winds Hit Britain

LONDON (Reutege) — Hurricane force winds swept inland off the North Sea and English Channel early today, battering the British Isles and continental countries and driving ships to harbor.

Huge waves crashed against coastal areas as 100-mile-an-hour winds whipped across country, uprooting trees and wrecking homes.

In the North Sea early today, rescue boats navigated through high winds toward a Polish fishing trawler adrift and in danger. Another steamer north of the Polish fishing fleet struggled into the shelter of Great Yarmouth harbor, Norfolk.

Flooding and fallen trees throughout Southern England upset rail and road traffic. Roofs blew off, telephone and power lines were cut.

Assoc. President Colored People Turns Self In

Mrs. L. C. Bates cut short a lecture tour to turn in Little Rock where police had a warrant for her arrest.

She was charged with violation of a recently-adopted ordinance which requires the NCAAP and certain other groups to submit membership lists to the city clerk. She was released on $300 bond. Another officer of her group earlier had been released on bond.

Three pro-segregationist organizations obeyed the ordinance and turned in their records Thursday, the deadline. But the NAACP did not comply and the city council ordered police to arrest all officers of the group who could be found in Little Rock.

Dixie Beehives Defeat Juniors By 7-3 Score

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Junior "Bs" passed the acid test here in the Community Gardens on Saturday night although the Dixie Beehives, last year's Ontario champions defeated them 7-3. Manager Ted Steadman, critical of his charges after the game, said they played as he expected in the first period but seemed to suffer from stage fright in the middle session and fell apart at the seams. Notwithstanding Steadman expressed the opinion that his team was capable of better things and with more training would be the team to beat in the Eastern Ontario loop this year.

On the other hand the 650 fans who watched the fixture expressed more enthusiasm than has been heard in this town in years. In the first period in particular the Trenton followers went wild when the locals broke into the lead over the vaunted visitors. And when winger T. Burleigh broke the tie after Dixie had evened the count a thunderous roar went up again from the faithful, encouraged by a section filled with members of the newly-formed Booster Club, blaring horns and other noisemakers.

In the second period Dixie buzzed Trenton territory with a sustained attack and while their smoother passing plays paid off the Trenton boys matched them with heavy body checks. The fans approved the way the Trenton defence hit the Dixie puck carriers.

In the third period the locals appeared to regain their first period steadiness and as time went on they pressed the Beehives and had the better of the attack when the game ended. The nicest combination scoring of the night happened with 12 seconds left to play when Lewis delivered an Austin and Scott setup. This one sent the customers home satisfied Trenton finally has a hockey team worthy of all out support.

Russian Feat Benefits World Canadian View

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian scientists regard Russia's accomplishment in launching a second, larger earth satellite as a benefit to the world.

Canadian officers of the International Geophysical Year organization consider it a big advance in world knowledge. They say they believe Russia will make available to IGY countries whatever information the gathers about outer space.

They expressed only little surprise that Russian scientists were able to launch such a large object as Sputnik II.

Dr. C. S. Beals, Dominion astronomer, told The Canadian Press: "Whether we should be surprised at anything now, I don't know. I doubt it."

FOOLED ON DATE

The only surprise for him in Russia's announcement was the date. "We had been led to believe it would come up Nov. 7, (anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution) instead of now."

Dr. Donald C. Rose, Canadian manager of IGY, said he was surprised only that Russia was able to launch such a large object.

"They must have used enormously larger rockets than they used on the first one, and larger than the rockets the United States proposed in the information they have released."

Dr. Rose, a physicist with the National Research Council, said the larger satellite will add a lot of knowledge of outer space. He said he also believes Russia will make the information it gathers available to other IGY countries.

"They promised they would give information," he said. "I don't think they will withhold anything. I don't see why they would."

Persons Finds Reason for Both Fear and Hope

ST. PAUL, Minn. (CP) — Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Nobel peace prize winner for 1957, and Canada's former external affairs minister, took a searching look at the world situation Sunday and found reason for both fear and hope.

From what the world - famous diplomat and politician saw, he drew this conclusion:

"If we wish to go forward from where we now are to something better, we must not only keep our domestic institutions strong, free and healthy, our defensive coalition firm in its collective will and power, but we should take full advantage of every opportunity to negotiate — indeed create opportunities to negotiate — differences with those whom we have had—and still have—good reason to fear."

FIVE POINTS

In a speech at the University of Minnesota, Mr. Pearson made these main points:

1. Unless the United States is willing to share its secrets of atomic weapons with other NATO members the western alliance will cease to be effective and might disappear altogether.

2. "If there are dangers ahead" which are possible now — situation is even more disturbing in the field of political and economic co-operation."

3. There is reason to hope that an evolution (even individual) freedom in Russia will bring a day when new settlements can be made with that country on "stronger foundations than any which are possible now."

4. Such an evolution "will be

SPUTNIK

The Daily Herald, Labor, said the situation calls for "meetings and frank talks between the rulers of the world."

The independent Daily Express termed the propaganda value of the new satellite immense, "particularly as the Russians had given notice of the launching."

"They said they would do it. And they have done it. The message is clear: 'You can believe Moscow.'"

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the two satellite launchings had greatly strengthened the power of Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party chief.

"These demonstrations of technological success certainly provide Khrushchev with just that kind of momentum that ambitious rulers formerly found in successful military campaigns," The Telegraph said.

Two Parisian newspapers, Figaro and Parisien Libere, suggested the Soviet Union would launch a rocket to the moon on Thursday, the 40th anniversary of the Communist revolution.

An Indian foreign ministry official in New Delhi said the high degree of Soviet technology revealed by the new satellites "makes the dreams of world problems outmoded."

"Human psychology," he added "needs readjustment to a fourth dimensional, transplanetary outlook. It must get out of the rut of 19th century, power-politics thinking."

Held back, perhaps indefinitely, if we take fixed and final positions now in opposition to every Russian move." The West must admit the hard fact that some world problems can't be settled without Russian participation.

EIGHTEEN CENTS A WEEK

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has produced a "pocket edition" of its annual report. "Because of the stated willful answer of the basic arguments advanced in debate over the CBC role in radio and television broadcasting.

For instance, the "pocket edition" says that "the average family's share" of the $40,000,000 in public funds spent by the CBC "was about 18 cents a week." Now there is no question but that the average Canadian family got a lot more than 18 cents worth of pleasure, entertainment and information from CBC programs each and every week during the year. For instance, some 5,000,000 viewers saw the Grey Cup football classic live on TV last fall and even at a modest $2 a person this one program was worth a quarter of all the public money spent by the CBC during the entire year. But the question is not what a casual radio and television sets got from the CBC for the 18 cents a week which they paid, but how much more service they got than would have been forthcoming in any event, even if there were no CBC.

Here is where an unknown enters the equation, for no matter how many arguments are advanced there is nobody who can prove, beyond a shadow of a doubt, exactly what kind of programs would be offered Canadian owners of television and radio sets if the task of entertaining and informing them was left entirely to privately-owned stations.

The question is whether the owners of radio and television would believe it is worth 18 cents a week to keep the CBC in business. Some will answer with an emphatic affirmative. Some will wonder whether they get additional service worth 18 cents but will regard this sum as cheap insurance against an unknown risk. And some will be convinced that if the CBC were abolished they could get more for nothing.

No matter how the CBC report is likely to change the viewpoints of any of these groups. What the report will do, though, is to answer any who ask: What does the CBC do with all that $40,000,000? The report proves conclusively that it does a great deal. What it does not prove, and in the nature of things cannot prove, is whether or not this would have been done anyway by private enterprise if the CBC did not exist. There will be some who will argue that we have only to look at U.S. radio and television broadcasting to get a clue as to the correct answer to this question. But the differences inherent in broadcasting to 160,000,000 people and to 16,500,000 ought to be apparent to even the most superficial observer.

CHINESE WIN PHYSICS PRIZE

There is probably no field of human knowledge so complicated as that of modern physics, particularly where the structure of the atom is concerned.

The award of the Nobel prize in physics to two Chinese-born nuclear scientists is therefore of particular interest.

There have been many white men in the past, and there are still some white men today, who believe that the calibre of brains in the skull of a man can be measured by the color of the skin which covers that skull.

Almost certainly no scientist worthy of the name espouses this theory. Nevertheless, even some scientists were probably somewhat surprised to learn that Dr. Chen Ning Yang and Dr. Tsung Dao Lee had been awarded the Nobel prize in physics for, in the words of The Associated Press, removing important obstacles to the understanding of fundamental laws of the atom. Their surprise was almost certainly moderated when they learned that these two Chinese-born scientists are now working at Princeton. This, though, only serves to prove that any lead which the Western world has enjoyed in scientific research is not the result of intellectual superiority proved from its scientists having white skins, but is the product of the advantages of superior training. When these advantages are lost, as they well may be within the life of the present generation, scientific progress will be advanced in many other parts of the globe. Who will argue that this prospect is really an unpleasant one?

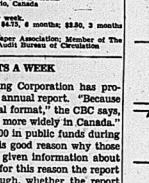
DREAM-FISHING

Last night I stood beside a brook
Where lurk the gamey trout,
And ere I'd made a dozen casts
I yanked a big one out.
Ah, never have I known such luck
While whipping any stream;
I filled my creel in half an hour—
But that was in my dream.



I had no trouble with my flies;
Most any one would do;
In every spot I dropped my hook
There lurked a trout or two.

And not a big one got away,
My angling skill was supreme;
Oh, how I reveled in the play,
If it was but a dream!

God of the fishing art, I pray
Return to me tonight;
Lead me once more beside the stream
Where fish will always bite.
Come, weave again your magic spell,
Harness your phantom team
And drive me to that hallowed spot
Where fishing is a dream.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 4, 1937

Mrs. William Mattis, Grove St., has returned home after visiting friends and relatives in Washington, D.C., Jersey City and Baltimore.

Mr. A. R. Galbraith of the CNR office in Woodstock, will succeed Mr. Cecil Christie in the CNR city ticket office here. Mr. Christie has been transferred to the railway city ticket office in Guelph.

Fire, which originated in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson at Rossmore totally destroyed that property and also gutted the Rossmore United Church Tuesday afternoon. The Belleville fire department worked hard to save the church, but it was too far advanced. Fire Chief William Lynch and his staff put in three hours fighting the blaze assisted by some local men. Firemen Gerald Griffin and Station No. 1 was trapped in the attic of the church when flames broke through the roof and seared through the hose which he was using and he was in a semi-conscious condition when he was dragged by comrades through dense clouds of smoke to safety. The building, which was a brick building, was erected in 1833. For some time services have been conducted by United Church ministers from Rossmore, principally the Rev. W. D. Harrison, the chairman of the City Missions Council of the United Church. Prior to retirement the Rev. Mr. McMullen of this city preached in the church for three years. The insurance on the church is about $3,000, which will fall far short of covering the loss. Messrs. Frank Delmap, M. Reddick, C. Reddick, E. Reid, L. George, members of the trustee board are among other members of the congregation met yesterday to consider future plans for the building.

NOVEMBER 4, 1927

Over five hundred people attended the supper at St. Andrew's church which was arranged by the members of the Ladies' Aid in connection with the 100th anniversary of the founding of this place of worship. The basement of the church, where supper was served, was beautifully decorated. Mrs. George A. Reid, the president of the Ladies' Aid, and her assistants here are to be highly commended for the splendid manner in which they looked after the guests. The supper served was indeed not be excelled.

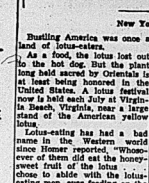
Mr. Milton Green of the 4th concession of Rawdon township, suffered a serious loss recently when his barn, containing the season's crop of hay and grain, was destroyed by fire. Spontaneous combustion is said to have

Lotus-Eaters of Virginia

New York Times

Bustling America was once a land of lotus-eaters.

As a food, the lotus lost out to the hot dog. But the plant is long held sacred by Oriental's is at least being honored in the United States, near Virginia Beach, now is held each July at Virginia Beach, Virginia, home of a large stand of the American yellow lotus.



Lotus-eating has had a bad name in the Western world since Homer described the fate of them did eat the honey-sweet fruit of the lotus chose to abide with the lotus-eating men, ever feeding on the lotus and forgetful of his homeward way." Lotus-eating came to mean idle dreaming or "woolgathering."

• • •

Actually, as the National Geographic Society says, the American lotus is not only pretty to look at, but safe to eat. The root stalks have a pleasant mealy flavour, suggestive of sweet potatoes. The acorn-shaped seeds taste something like chestnuts. They can also be parched.

American Indians prized the lotus as a food and perhaps indeed lotus seeds to food-short colonists.

Eating lotus might save the life of a man lost in a marsh, but garden clubs discourage casual lotus-eating. Though it grows in ponds and slow moving streams from Ontario to Texas and east to the Atlantic, the American lotus (Nelumbo lutea) is rare in many areas, particularly in the East.

• • •

Root stalks of the lotus extend as much as 50 feet under the water. The round or shield-like leaves, which float upon the surface, instead of resting upon it. The flowers are pale yellow. The seed pod has a flat top with perforations that resemble pepper shakers. It resembles a giant pepper shaker.

The American lotus is probably not at all like the lotus mentioned by Homer. This may have been the lily, a native of the sacred lotus of the Orient.

Another Egyptian noted that the lotus flower opens to greet the rising sun, and gave the lily the name of the sun ship. Many Hindus believe Brahma was born from a lotus. For Buddhists, the lotus symbolizes purity, since it springs from slime with its beauty undefiled.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

COST OF LOYALTY

One of the great New Testament scholars of modern times, in speaking of Christian loyalty, lived during the first century or two after our Lord's ascension, says that they were the most enthusiastic group that ever appeared in human history, because they were irrepressibly happy, and always in praise.

Why were they always in trouble? For the simple reason that they were always where we live or in what sphere, we move, they were always a penalty attached to being loyal. If we are unshakably loyal to certain principles, there are others who want our friendship and who will not tolerate our loyalty to us because of this loyalty. If we are loyal to our religious faith, there will be many who will lose no opportunity to sneer at us and call us fanatics. The early Christians were loyal to Christ and they refused to acknowledge him a god, because they had a higher loyalty to God, the Father in heavenly King, Jesus. So thousands of them were cruelly put to death and hundreds of thousands felt the sting of suffering, because of their loyalty.

All of us need to realize that it is something to be loyal. There are people who try to slip through life being loyal to nothing but their own selfish and comfortable creatures. In fact, they are disloyal.

Loyalty means the willingness at times to stand up and be counted. It brings with it often much discomfort and sometimes suffering. But it is worth what it costs.

Dr. S. Smith The Executive

A close scrutiny of the previous record of Dr. Sidney Smith who last September was named president of the University of Toronto, although he was totally without political experience, indicates a decided shift of emphasis in the administration of the department of which he is the essential executive.

It is apparent that Smith will be able to play as big a role on the international stage as his predecessor, Dr. Cyril James, did," Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's Magazine, writes in the current issue. "Previously a newcomer cannot acquire the necessary skills of negotiation that Pearson learned over a period of thirty years."

However, the marked organizational and executive abilities that stamped Smith's presidency of both the University of Manitoba and the University of Toronto, Fraser writes, will be valuable assets in managing the affairs of the department. Pearson, the article claims, disliked administration but was an excellent tactician.

The importance of Smith's executive abilities is demonstrated by a few figures; the university's budget is now the responsible for a staff of 1,391 in thirty-seven buildings around the world, and his annual budget is $8 million dollars.

Although the entire career has been as a university administrator, Maclean's article reports that half a dozen times in the past he has turned down political offers when "some group or faction in the Conservative party has hit upon him as a possible dark horse or ace-in-the-hole."

The office started in the early 1920's when Smith was a young professor of law at Dalhousie University. At that time he was asked to run for a seat in the provincial legislature in order to be groomed for the Conservative leadership of Nova Scotia.

According to the magazine Smith was invited to stand for Push-Button Education?

Ottawa Journal

According to a man named Simon Ramo, an electrical engineer and professor at the California Institute of Technology, the next thing to happen to us will be push-button education — the automation of course that push-button war is already making possible.

Teaching (Mr. Ramo still talks) will be done by machines. Not by robot machines, but by highly skilled teachers will be around for the machines to work on, and to keep track of the records; but by machines mainly.

Each student will be identified by a code punched on a metal card. This will be fed or inserted into a machine built into his desk. His presence thus recorded automatically, he will work through buttons on his desk to the proper machine at the head of the room.

By pushing a button the student will get the first step in the proper lesson of the day on any one of a variety of subjects which will be given by means of printed movies and animated diagrams. Just to make sure that he is awake and asleep he will have to punch certain buttons during the lesson.

Following the lesson the machine will ask questions and the answers will be given by the students pressing other buttons.

The clerks then will co-ordinate the results and what progress is being made by the student.

The machines will not be designed for mass instruction, but there will also be individual machines. Push-button education writers will keep tab on progress of the students through the machine records and give occasional human help.

The only catch to push-button education at present, says Ramo, is the prohibitive cost of machines. But in these days who is going to say that cost will stop them. It stops nothing else.

What a world! Artificial moons and people talking of travelling to the real one, and push-button wars, and now push-button education.

God help us all.

Ten Million Poor Souls

A Maryland reader writes that while attending a school she roomed with a woman who was disabled with what her doctor called "arthritis."

The woman was nervous and fussy about her diet. She was just skin and bone and her skin looked old, much older than the Maryland reader's in spite of the latter's 10-year seniority.

Having been a milk drinker all her life, the Maryland lady suggested that milk might be good for the woman with the "arthritis."

But the victim of the "arthritis" hokum replied that she had already undergone one operation for kidney stones and that her doctor had warned her against drinking milk or eating ice cream because of their high calcium content.

It is much more likely that the cause of the kidney stones was vitamin A deficiency through the years, and one of the best food sources of vitamin A is milk.

There is no scientific evidence that the intake of calcium in any form—whether in food, water or medicine—has anything to do with the formation of kidney or bladder stones.

Nor is there any reason to believe that hard drinking water contributes to the formation of such stones or that drinking only soft water, rain water or distilled water prevents formation of stones. Stones, or deposits known as "gravel" in the urinary tract, are rare. It will be remembered that 1.5 per cent of the weight of a healthy person is calcium (lime) and that the best food sources of calcium are milk, skim or powdered milk, buttermilk, cheese, peas, beans, greens, nuts and peanuts; and that an adequate daily ration of vitamin D or of exposure to sunshine or skyshine is essential for proper assimilation and utilization of calcium.

I imagine the poor soul who eschews milk and ice cream on the advice of her charlatan contains much less than 1.5 per cent of calcium. That would be one reason why she suffers from chronic joint disability. Another reason would be deprivation or deprivation of exposure to sunshine or skyshine.

It is a sad remark of that poor soul — and ten million others — that nothing under "treatment" with the so-called "wonder" drug while their nutritional deficiencies, and faulty digestion, their rheumatic goes insidiously from bad to worse.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now that summer is ended and we drive in comparative comfort on the highways, it is pleasant entertainment to watch the new routes we followed in the hectacy of July and August, if there it such a word.

One feature of November drives such as we can always tell the local inhabitants in their cars from the strangers. They pay no attention to anything at all, especially to the parking signs. They're at home.

We approach a town, which we have come through a dozen or a hundred times in the summer season, and perceiving the familiar sign on the right, "Speed 30 Miles per Hour," we obediently slacken. As we do so, three cars from behind whistle past us at forty-five. Entering the town's edge, we reach the next remembered caution: "Slow to 20." We slow to twenty; and the two cars that rip past us from behind have disappeared and, favor us with that languid side glance reserved for strangers in these parts.

On arriving at the business section, we find the town appears to be fastidiously crowded as far as parked cars are concerned. It is impossible to believe this is due to the fact that the cars are parked at every kind of crazy angle parked, some curb parked, some double parked. Everybody is out.

We stop for gas at the far side of town and mention this phenomenon to the service man.

"Well, in summer you see," he says, "we get a lot of our own gait. You people slow things up."

This, on reaching a few hundred yards on, the "50 MPH" sign, we accelerate to 55, just so as not to be regarded as cowboy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SOURCE OF POWER

In reading of the lives of great and useful men and women, we often wonder where their great power came from. Well, one source is that of enthusiasm. Emerson has said that there is a saying that "nothing of consequence has ever been achieved without enthusiasm." He is certainly right.

Be a believer and anyone can be. Find something to believe in and project sells it. The man with an idea, and who will ride it through, is the man who is the one whose name later becomes a household word the world wide. Such men as Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, George Westinghouse, and scores of others. Enthusiasm carries the day with a man alive with an idea.

Another source of power is that of being informed. Such a one can talk intelligently with anyone, rich or poor. The person of power is one who believes in himself and the idea that he sponsors. That one's enthusiasm lights up his face, and he has no trouble getting followers.

Sincerity is always a source of power. Without it the most brilliant could not get far — and then with that power only for a brief

Rising Costs Force 2 Papers To Fold Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Rising costs have forced two Montreal dailies—one French and one English—to cease publication within a month.

La Patrie will cease publication Nov. 15. The Herald, Montreal's oldest daily, ended publication Oct. 18. Both said they had been losing money.

They were the second and third Canadian dailies to quit within five months. The Vancouver Herald, a morning paper, printed its final issue last June 15.

An official spokesman for La Patrie announced Saturday the Sunday edition — La Patrie du Dimanche—will be continued. It is distributed on Saturdays.

The announcement Saturday also said that radio station CHLP operated by La Patrie, will be closed down, probably at the same date.

Both La Patrie and its radio station are controlled by La Presse, largest French-language daily newspaper in North America.

SEVEN STATIONS

With the disappearance of CHLP there will remain seven radio stations in greater Montreal. They are the two CBC stations—CBM and CBF—and five privately owned stations—CKVL, CJAD, CFCF, CKAC, CJMS.

In Ottawa, a CBC official said that offhand he could recall no case in recent years of a Canadian private radio station ceasing operation.)

So far as possible, some employees on La Patrie's staff will continue with the weekly Sunday paper.

Circulation of the daily is about 17,000, while that of the Sunday edition is around 200,000.

The daily, a tabloid since 1935, is in its 79th year of publication. The Sunday edition was started January, 1933.

With the discontinuance of La Patrie, there will be five dailies in Montreal, three French language and two English. There were eight as recently as 1953. In that year Le Canada, a morning paper and Liberal party organ, went out of business. Le Devoir, The Gazette and Montreal Matin are morning papers. The Star, which in recent years owned The Herald, and La Presse are in the evening-paper field.

Film Given World Premiere

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Film Board's color film of the opening of Parliament by Queen Elizabeth Oct. 14 was given its world premiere Sunday before an invited audience, including Governor-General Massey.

The 29-minute production, The Sceptre and the Mace, will be distributed in private theatres for showings starting today. A print has been sent to London for the Queen to see.

The film is not a newsreel of the Queen's visit, but a record of the relationship between the Crown and Parliament.

The narrator, Toronto actor John Drainie, asks:

"Is this all nothing but pomp and show? Is a royal visit to Canada anything more than colorful ceremonial? A chance for people to see a pleasant pageant? What does the monarchy mean to Canadians?"

It answers the questions by telling, with the help of old prints, of the evolution of Parliament in Britain and how it works in Canada.

Women Have Little Chance to Get in RCMP

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — There seems little chance of a uniformed blonde ever slipping into the RCMP force.

But there may be hope.

If the need for women "real coats" ever arises, the force certainly will do something about it, says an RCMP official.

So far, a women's division hasn't even been considered. The duties of the force don't call for uniformed women members.

The RCMP is organized essentially as a rural police force and does little work in large metropolitan areas where a police woman almost is a must.

An RCMP spokesman said he thinks whether uniformed women RCMP officers ever will be necessary.

When the force needs a police woman—to search a female prisoner, for instance — a reliable woman is engaged on a temporary matron.

SPECIAL CONSTABLES

Women have served as special constables in the force, which now numbers 14,861 uniformed men serving in detachments from the Arctic to the United States border.

Women stewards or waitresses at RCMP messes may be sworn in as special constables. Some years ago dietitians working for the force were special constables now they're listed as employed civilians.

Special constables — men or women—never wear a uniform. Furthermore, it's against the law for anyone not in the force to wear an RCMP uniform, except on the stage.

Perhaps the most recent Mountie-in-a-skirt appeared in the current McGill University musical satire My Fur Lady.

And traditionally, part of the annual Miss Canada costume is a red, Mountie-type tunic tightly belted into a frilly, well-above-the-knee skirt.

WEE WOME:

Larry Henderson To Speak Here

Mr. Larry Henderson, CBC T.V. news commentator, Toronto, guest speaker at the Women's Canadian Club annual dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Hotel Quinte, will speak on "Russia and the Intercontinental Missile".

Mr. Henderson has seen active service in Italy, and northeast Europe with the army signals corps during the war years. His free lance news reporting and world travelling, qualify him as a commentator of international reputation.

He has toured Europe, the Middle East and the Far East, plus several television news coverage abroad, was present at the Suez crisis, and this summer was behind the "Iron Curtain."

Mr. Henderson's fund of vital information will be of deep interest to the Women's Canadian Club and to all loyal Canadians.

Women's Institutes

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — Mrs. G. C. Moon was hostess for the monthly meeting of Madoc Women's Institute. Mrs. Albert Bailey, the president, was in charge, and thanked all who worked in the fair booth and also those who contributed toward it. The proceeds for the day were most gratifying.

Mrs. Warren Hill presented the financial statement.

The training school to be held in Stirling on November 11-12 will be attended by Miss Vanneck and Mrs. Herrington. Mrs. Ken Nicol, who has been attending the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada convention, will be giving a report of the proceedings at the next regular meeting. A donation of $10 was given to the Overseas Children's Fund, also $10 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Plans are being made for an afternoon tea and bazaar to be held in the Masonic banquet hall on November 9th. The members are being asked to save Betty Crocker box tops for the Girl Guides.

A letter of sympathy was sent to Miss Sandra Thibadeau, home economist, in the passing of her father.

Current events were given by Mrs. Albert Empey, who also gave the motto, "The Strength of a Nation Lies in the Homes of Its People" and the poem "Into peaceful this will influence the nation, discipline, honesty and love for our country should be stressed in every home. A man, his wife and family are the important unit of the country."

Mrs. R. N. Bread gave an interesting talk on the centennial year at Hazard's, the 100th anniversary of the church. Services were held on Sunday, a luncheon on Monday to a large crowd. Pictures of the older members of the community, school books, old letters, antiques, newspapers, machinery, spinning wheels were on display. It was a pleasant get-together. Mrs. Bread also spoke of the attractive surroundings of O'Hara Mill.

Mrs. A. Empey gave an interesting paper on the communism and a mischevous face. "Squink," by name. There was a draw for this and the happy winner was Miss Donna Dorart.

The convener was Mrs. R. Chipman and her assistants were Mrs. R. Emerson, Mrs. L. Kennedy and Mrs. D. Barrett.

DELICIOUS SWEETS

As if to vie for just as much favor, the candy booth had many a delicious treat for the seeker of sweets. There were light, dark and pink shades of fudge, cocoanut creams, peanut brittle and witches' brooms of chocolate. Attractively displayed were fancy boxes of candies, bright colored suckers and numerous other sweet morsels.

The convener was Mrs. B. Beirne and assistants, Mrs. C. V. Nichols, Miss J. Poirier, Miss J. Mullen.

The next booth had a fine selection of religious articles on display; beautiful rosaries, leather - covered prayer books, dainty little gold chains and crosses, beautiful pictures and various other lovely items. In charge of this booth was Mrs. Ernest Dumoine, assisted by Mrs. Dumoine, Miss Gail Pointer, Miss Lynn Dustin and Miss Marilyn Dumoine.

HANDMADE ARTICLES

The sewing booth held sway at the opposite side of the room. There was always a group of interested buyers, for here was displayed the variety of hand made articles. As usual, there were gay, bright aprons of pretty prints for both adults and children, cleverly made felt hats, colorfully trimmed, with matching purse for little girls. Christmas stockings with bright designs, sparkling fluffy white Christmas candles of wax in different colors and "trimmings" were crocheted articles, wash cloths, which were posing as cute little animals.

A selection of children's handknitted mitts, in an beautiful hand crocheted place mat set. This was won by Ned Campbell.

MONEY TREE

The money tree to all was a beautiful Golden Glow chrysanthemum plant which demanded special attention and a lot of observation. On the branches were growing ten and some dollar bills! A money tree to be sure! Mrs. J. Anton was in charge of the draw here and the winner was Douglas Parker, Furby Side Road, Belleville.

The floral centrepiece was won by Mrs. B. Beirne. The door prize, a picture of deer, was won by Mrs. R. Soaft, Millet St., Belleville.

This was a lovely fall festivity, bringing appreciative commendation to the convener, Mrs. F. Maund, and to all who helped to make this event such a fine success.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Sponsors Delightful Hallowe'en Tea

Lovely sunny weather and a large attendance helped make the annual Hallowe'en tea and sale in St. Joseph's school hall, on Friday, an enjoyable and successful event. The C.W.L. committee in charge, Mrs. E. Hopkins presided at the door.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. P. Hilloran and Mrs. F. Maund.

The decor was a Hallowe'en scene; here and there were small branching trees of orange tissuetty crowkows, and nearby, with cornstalks, stood spindly tingling black paper cats. Tables with articles for sale were covered with white cloths, decorated with Hallowe'en silhouettes, streamers and tiny waxed figurines in orange and black.

GAY TEA ROOM

Tea was served in the adjoining room which was gaily decorated in a similar scheme. The tea table, lovely with its dainty damask cloth, had a beautiful floral centrepiece of yellow and bronze 'mums with sprays of yellow orange Flanking this, on each side, were silver tri-branched candelabra, with bright orange tapers. Two gleaming silver tea services graced either end.

The little guest tables, with dainty cloths, were centred with a small pumpkin each. A lighted candle glowed through the cut-out face. Some pumpkins seemed to smile and some had humorous pouts. Each table had a pretty plate of daintily arranged tea sandwiches, small cakes and cookies.

In the tea room hostess was Mrs. B. Mercier.

Those who presided at the tea table included Mrs. E. Bulger, Mrs. H. Carr-Braint, Mrs. H. Boss and Mrs. L. J. Briand.

The social convener, Mrs. B. Bankey, was assisted by Mrs. M. Barlow, Mrs. R. Labelle, Mrs. J. Poirier, Mrs. C. Craig and Mrs. T. Black.

The ladies who served were Mrs. V. Carroll, Mrs. A. Mavety, Mrs. Jos. Mire, Mrs. S. Kitzek, Mrs. R. Soaft, Mrs. A. Gibbon, Miss Kerrie Lee Meagher and Mrs. J. McCabe.

The home cooking booth, near the entrance of the hall, was bountiful with pumpkin and fruit pies, many colored iced cup cakes, muffins, tempting cookies, home made bread and rolls, brownies, date and nut loaves, angel and prettily iced cakes. One lovely cake was especially attractive with decorations of tiny, delicate pink roses. Preserves, jellies and relishes were also popular here.

Receiving particular attention was a charming cake which had been made to resemble a Hallowe'en character, with a long

Fashionable Alliance

By ALICE ALDEN

A highly successful partnership, that of leather and fabric, is here again to bring the practical and the pretty to suburban and country wardrobes. Alfred Alfus does a wonderful suit of tailored leather and silk tweed, giving each its full due. The leather shaped into a cocoon jacket with raglan shoulders. The fabric lines the jacket and is also deftly used as trimming. The skirt is slim. A lovely leather luxury that is properly practical.

Winter Hats Will Be Small, Head-Hugging

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — Hats for the winter are small, head - hugging and feminine. Many of them really pretty.

Gone are the hard "buckets" of last year and, except for a few models for formal occasions, so are the enormous cartwheels with shallow brims.

This season's hats are soft and draped, off the face, but more often than not, hair hiding. Possibly because of the scarcity of rabbit fur, stiff felts have given way to soft jerseys, crocheted chenille, satin, tweed and, above all, velvet, fur and feathers.

There is something particularly feminine in the light, airy effect of feathers on the head, whether osprey or the more humble pheasant, cock of pigeon, while mink or ermine invariably spell luxury.

All the London milliners are showing models trimmed with feathers, and sometimes made entirely of feathers.

Madame Simone Mirman, who makes hats for Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent makes wide use of both feathers and mink in her current collection.

Among the more striking feather models shown by Madame Mirman is an open crown fez made of white cock feathers flecked with dark green feathers forming three rows of almost regular squares. And there is a black velvet bandeau, this year's version of the pillbox, trimmed all around with pendant peacock feathers.

PAJAMAS STAR AT DORM PARTIES

When the invitation slipped under a dorm door reads "Pajama Party," the coed's choice is limitless. This year's pajamas are the most imaginative, colorful, internationally styled, and the easiest to care for of any produced in a long time. And they're all designed to be as comfortable for sleeping as they are fashionable for playing because of their versatile fabrics — tweedy-looking cotton, warm flannelette, cotton challis with a napped finish, to name just a few. Sometimes, because the fabrics are designed not only for sleep, many pajamas are at first glance indistinguishable from other campus outfits — especially those made with Bermuda shorts or with sweat shirt tops.

Pajama parties with a purpose are the new rage on college campuses. The most serious student by day can become a completely different personality — in appearance, that is — when schoolly chores are co-operative as in the cram session, or temporarily forgotten as in the jam session. Choose your theme: Oriental style pajamas are popular in beautiful printed synthetic blend fabrics that need no ironing after washing. Calypso style pajamas are fun in gay colors with ruffled sleeves and petticoats. Playing the lady? Wear a long gown in a delicate brushed and napped fabric woven of a rayon, nylon, or synthetic blend. After all, you needn't look collegiate all the time, although some of the handsomest fun-sleep costumes copy daytime ivy-look outfits — with shorts, man-tailored shirts, crewneck pullovers.

You won't sacrifice easy care when you buy any one of the newstyle slightly frivolous pajamas, since most can be — or — washed and many require no ironing — even the types suitable for formal pajamas parties when they're on display. To maintain the good looks of deeply colored pj's however, wash by hand in lukewarm suds at first, until all excess dye is removed. If drip-drying space is at a premium, by all means use an automatic dryer if one is available in your dormitory or nearby. This applies especially to heat-set synthetics, since the heat of the dryer removes all creases.

Add Spice to Your Life

By Mary Moore

On my kitchen shelves in lovely orderly array is a new supply of spices and herbs for my Christmas baking and I am having a heyday putting new spice into my life.

I think my sweetest effort to date is a featherlight spice cake which I served with a generous dollop of whipped cream (unsweetened), over each wedge, accompanied by warm apple-sauce. I can remember many years ago reading a column by A. A. McIntyre entitled "New York Day by Day" which many of you will remember. In this one I recall he went into ecstasies over a piece of warm apple-sauce cake flavored with nutmeg, that a little off-the-beaten-track New York restaurant featured.

This spice cake of ours sends me into just such an ecstatic mood. To me it is a classical example of ordinary fare being raised to entertaining status by skilful preparation.

FEATHERLIGHT SPICE CAKE

Two and one-half cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon each salt and cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg or mace, 1-2 cup butter or mixed butter and shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 large eggs unbeaten (2 additional stiffly beaten egg whites are added), 2 tablespoons molasses, 7-8 cup milk. Sift flour and measure and sift it 3 times with the baking powder, salt and spices. Cream butter until it is light and fluffy then gradually cream the sugar into it until both are pale and fluffy. Add the eggs one at a time, beating very well after each. (If the additional 2 egg whites are added they make the cake larger and are folded in last). Add the molasses after the eggs. Then add the flour mixture alternately with the milk, one third of each at a time, using a folding motion. Turn into 3 buttered 9-inch layer tins, bottoms of which are covered with greased wax paper or into 1 buttered and greased paper-lined 13x9-inch pan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. from 25 to 35 minutes; 25 minutes is sufficient for 8-inch layers. Turn out and cool on cake racks. If desired put together and spread top and sides with unsweetened whipped cream or put together with date fillings or apple butter, and sprinkle top with powdered sugar.

A new butter tart filling I concocted yesterday for the boys filled 18 tarts generously and went like this: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1-4 cup butter, 2 large eggs, 1-2 cup chopped dates, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind 1-2 lemon, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg. I bake them at 475 deg. Fahr. about 12 or 15 minutes. Comments: Herbie: "Very good". Danny: "Best Butter Tarts ever made"; Pete: "Give me more."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CONCERNING THE DOCTOR'S BILL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

About four months ago my wife, our two young daughters, and I were all in bed during the end of the month. Up to the present our doctor had not sent a bill for his services to us for that month. Yesterday my wife telephoned to the doctor to come to look at the two girls: I was at home at the time to come, and I heard my wife ask the doctor to add these new charges to the bill he had not yet sent us, and then we would send him a check for the whole amount. After he left I told my wife that her suggestion about the bill was out-of-order, that it might seem to criticize his bookkeeping. She insists her way was the honest way to do, as something may have happened to his bill for former services. Which of us is right? — R.E.

Your wife was completely right. Instead of criticizing her, you should be proud of her direct, honest, natural mode of dealing with the doctor's delayed bill. She recognized that his bookkeeping service may have made a error or perhaps the bill might have been lost in the mail.

Also, were you by any chance hoping to avoid paying the good doctor for his services for your family of four, hoping that your honest wife would make no reference to the bill so that perhaps it would be forgotten or permanently mislaid? Doctors have to live, you know, sir, have to pay their bills, so you should pay yours. My admiring salutations to your good wife!

HER PROBLEM ABOUT GOING TO EUROPE ALONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Like most girls I have always dreamed of taking a trip to Europe, and for this I have been saving up my money. Now with what I have saved and with a generous gift from my aunt, who is also my godmother, I have the wherewithal for the trip. I would like to plan to go in the early Spring, but for this there is only one of my friends who will be free to go with me. I'm 23 years old, and wouldn't mind going alone, but my mother and father are against this, insist they will be "miserable unhappy" if I do this. What is your opinion about this?

— Dorothy M.

I agree with your mother and father that it would be (quite unnecessary) for you to go alone. I urge you to go to a well-established travel agency and find out what they can offer you on a personally-conducted tour for which they would make the arrangements at the time of year you wish to go. And why not ask your mother, and perhaps that devoted aunt of yours also, to go with you for the "conference" with the travel agency. Then they would happily feel that they are a close and important part of your plans.

A "GOING-AWAY" CORSAGE NOT A MUST FOR A BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it absolutely a "must" that a bride wear a corsage when she and the groom leave on their wedding trip? My groom is going to give me just the rather small, simply designed bouquet I want to carry at our wedding. But I have never liked to wear a corsage, and definitely do not want to wear a corsage with my going-away costume. My groom says I should do as I wish, and not bother about what is the conventional thing to do. Please advise. — Bride-to-be

— "It's not at all a "must" that a bride wear a corsage as she and the groom leave on their wedding trip. My advice to you: Just do what you prefer and don't wear a corsage.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Harriet R. — He acts as though I'm driving him into a corner.

Alfred M. — She should marry another man.

* * *

Harriet R. — I guess it sounds a little crazy for a girl of 20 to say she has been in love for seven years, but that is really my case. Al and I met when I was 12 and he was 15 and it was love at first sight. My feelings haven't changed toward him in all these years and I know he is the only man I can ever love.

I was so sure of my own feelings I guess I never could believe Al could be less sure. We had physical relations. We talked about getting married as soon as he got out of the service. Now he is out. Al says he wants to go to college and it will be years before he can support a family.

I am willing to work while Al goes through school, although I would really prefer to settle down and start raising a family right now. The only trouble is that Al makes me feel as though I'm driving him into a corner when I talk about marriage.

* * *

Alfred M. — I know Harriet very well after all these years and I know, although she is sincere when she says something, she can say the opposite thing the next day and be just as sincere about it.

She has been working for the past three years and she likes it. She'll never be able to stand another four years. She is a born wife and mother and it isn't right for her to have to wait so long to start a family.

I feel rotten to string Harriet up in this way. She's really too good for me and shouldn't have such a rotten deal. She is very attractive and a couple of real swell guys want to marry her — even though they probably have an inkling of what has gone on between us.

I want Harriet to do the right thing for herself and I think she should try to forget about me and marry one of those other men. I am sure she can learn to love someone else.

* * *

The Council: Al appears to be cagily maneuvering himself from the position of Harriet's husband-to-be to that of her adviser. He is really taking much too much upon himself and Harriet would do well to turn the tables on him and offer some advice of her own.

Neither Harriet nor Al showed much understanding of the importance of what they were doing when they decided to have relations without fully committing themselves to each other with the sanction of law and church, and it is doubtful whether they have yet arrived at this understanding.

Harriet's advice to Al should be, "If you are sincere in your concern about me, come with me to a clergyman of our faith and let's talk the whole thing over."

There may be no wedding bells in the offing for Harriet and Al, but they will at least have faced themselves and each other with more honesty and will gain insight that will help them in the future.

What's their big "secret"?

If it can be said that there is a "secret" behind the dependability of TCA operations then it lies in team spirit — on the ground and in the air. With painstaking care, meticulous attention to detail, TCA personnel have made the Viscount ready for flight. Skilled mechanics have tuned the prop-jet engines. Technicians have checked fuel and electrical systems; navigational equipment. Cabin staff have finished their brushing and polishing.

Now the flight crew takes over — themselves specialists, mature in experience, proud of their profession.

Says Retirement Does Not Result In Poor Health

CLEVELAND (AP)—It's time to lay aside the notion that retirement generally leads to poor health.

That's the conclusion in a study made by Cornell University and reported today by Dr. Wayne E. Thompson to the 10th annual gerontological meeting. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

Thompson says "if any general effect at all can be discerned, it is that retirement leads to an improvement in health."

He said that the study did find many persons in retirement are in poor health. But, he said, "it would seem that this can best be understood in terms of poor health leading to retirement and not the reverse."

The study was based on information from persons who have retired as well as from doctors who examined them.

The idea that retirement usually leads to a decline in health, Thompson said, results from inaccurate assumptions.

"Popularly it is assumed that retirement leads to a decline in physical well-being, for everyone known at least one person whose health deteriorated or who died suspiciously soon after retirement."

Oakville Fire Damage $75,000

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Firemen from Oakville and adjoining Trafalgar Township battled for more than three hours Friday night to control a $75,000 fire which destroyed a downtown radio and electrical equipment shop.

The fire laid a heavy pall of smoke over several blocks in this community midway between Toronto and Hamilton, and for a time threatened to spread from the radio shop to an adjoining bank. At the height of the fire nine pieces of equipment and 50 firemen were at the scene.

FIRE ABOARD PLANE

NEW YORK (AP)—A London-bound plane's 21 passengers and eight crew members escaped injury Friday night when one engine of a Trans World airliner caught fire on an Idlewild Airport runway. The plane had taxied several thousand feet when the blaze broke out. The pilot brought the craft to a halt and all aboard scrambled to safety through the emergency chute.

Butlers Become Vanishing Breed Is Consensus

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Washington butlers agree with a British colleague that they're a vanishing breed.

"People don't keep the staffs they used to," they lamented Friday. Young men who might go into the profession are attracted to other jobs with more free time and higher wages.

The butlers, about 15 of them, all out of uniform, but sticking to somewhat subdued suits of dark blue and grey, appeared to greet James Boyd. He is butler to the 13th Duke of Bedford, Ian Robert Russell of Woburn Abbey, some 40 miles from London.

Boyd, the only one who came dressed for the part in striped trousers and black jacket, has been turned over by the duke to help publicize a movie story about a butler.

He admitted he's finding the experience somewhat "terrifying." As part of his new chores—far from the 118-room mansion of the duke—Boyd found himself riding in a Rolls Royce in Hollywood and farmed out as a television program first prize to a Los Angeles family who won his services for a weekend.

Boyd, 40, with grey eyes and wavy dark hair, has all the aplomb you'd expect of a butler. He says he really lost it just once with the duke and had "to retire for a titter with the footmen" when a guest dropped a monocle in the soup.

Dentist Assists To Get Rocket Fired on Time

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP)—Two men lugged a gold-plated satellite into a dentist's office.

The satellite needed quick treatment, the men told Dr. Richard C. Hardy, who was just getting set to work on a patient.

The trouble, the men told Dr. Hardy, was this:

The naval research laboratory had sent the satellite to the Grand Central Rocket Company for vibration tests on the solid propellant rocket motor that is to est the satellite in its orbit.

About an hour and a half before the scheduled firing test last Monday, engineers told Wilbur Hartzell, Vanguard project director:

"We can't make that schedule. The cement we use to make our electrical contacts takes 14 hours to dry."

"Take it to my dentist," said Hartzell. "He can tack your wiring on with some of that quick-drying bridge cement."

Dr. Hardy plopped the satellite in his dentist's chair and went to work. Twenty-five minutes later the job was done.

The firing schedule was met, the company announced Friday, and the results were satisfactory. It didn't hurt a bit.

Britain Reports Strontium-90 Increase Found

LONDON (AP)—A definite but small increase in quantities of strontium-90 deposited in bones of human beings and animals has been detected in Britain.

A report today by the health physics division of the atomic energy establishment at Harwell made the disclosure.

The radioactive substance is a danger to health if accumulations exceed certain limits and studies are being made at Harwell to determine whether an increase may be due to nuclear explosions in distant parts of the world.

The highest previous measurement of strontium-90 in a human being in Britain was 1.2 strontium units. In the inquiry just made, covering roughly the year 1956, there were measurements of 2.3 and 2.4 units in human skeletons.

The British Medical Research Council has reached a conclusion that there would be a general danger to health if strontium-90 in bones of the population exceeded 100 units, and that a concentration of 10 units would call for the "immediate consideration" of authorities.

WINDS DELAY FLIGHTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Winds from 45 to 55 miles an hour over the Atlantic delayed the arrival of planes Friday at Idlewild Airport from 30 minutes to 2½ hours. Twenty flights were affected.

Rangers Push Within Point Of Canadiens On National League Perch

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHAT'S COOKING, MAC?

H-m-m-m, we wonder. Just what is behind this reported professional pick-up of Kingston's Bob Senior by Eddie Shore, manager of the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League. A few days ago the news that Senior had been picked up by Shore with the Kingston club left to play the Santa Claus role, stunned the faithful of the Limestone City.

That Kingston deemed the pick-up official is seen in the fact that club prexy Reg Walton, his executive and other officials secured the services, on loan, of a Montreal Canadiens goalie. In fact that guy was around Saturday night. This in lieu of accepting Shore's offer of Norm Defelice on loan for $3000 or outright sale for a reported $2,400.

In the meantime nothing has been done by Shore regarding the taking over of Senior's services. It would have been a natural transfer of Senior's Kingstonians had he done so prior Saturday night unless the young Canadiens' goalie ... her "Senior."

News from Springfield comes a report that Coach Cal Gardner of the Indians says he knows nothing of the rumored transfer of Senior to professional ranks by his boss. So will someone please tell us what goes on?

The Macs were off form Saturday night and this is not detracting from the fine, high-spirited performance of the Kingston club, which not only pleasantly surprised nearly 3600 fans but stunned the task force from Belleville, some three hundred strong. Even the wail of the Belleville tipers and the "More, Macs More," of the Boosier club failed to spur the Macs to greater feats. It was Kingston's night to howl—and howl they did—over their arch-foemen from the banks of the Moira.

It was not so much the slightly-off color performance of the Macs that gave the CKLC's a well-earned, well-deserved victory as the sensational performance of Bob Senior in their nets. Senior was practically invincible and the improvement, which covered the entire Whitby-Kitchener-Kingston senior pilgrim's route last winter, is no hesitation in saying the Senior's performance Saturday night outshone any he displayed while in a Dutchmen uniform.

However, it will be a grim gang of McFarlands which will trot out on Memorial Arena ice tomorrow night when the CKLC's are their guests. They haven't forgotten Saturday's setback and will go all-out to avenge the defeat and cling to a position on top of the league heap.

Kingston's performance Saturday night rather gives the laugh to the Cornwall sports editor's remark that the CKLC's would be the weak sister of the league. There was nothing "weak-sisterish" about their display Saturday night and the victory probably sent their morale well over the pilmmall mark.

Manager Dick Allen, former warden of the Kingston penitentiary, now retired, told this scribe corner in the Kingston ... from prior to the game, that he had a good club ... could be heard from before long. Dick never ... words. And incidentally, young Mr. Senior ... make no comment when he was queried about ... proposed shift to professional ranks.

... while things happened in other centres of the circuit, the Dunlops rose on their haunches before a homeless roof and whomped the short-handed Cornwall Chevies 10-2 on Saturday. And just to show their Saturday night victory over our side was no flash in the pan the CKLC's from Kingston handed the Chevies their third straight defeat by a 5-3 score in the riverside city's arena.

The Lumber Kings from Lenserville came up with their power, defeating the starry Canadiens 6-3 in Pembroke but had their Sunday fixture in Hull postponed because ice is not yet available.

So the Kings trekked to North Bay instead where they played an exhibition game with the Trappers of that city who at present are tops on the OHA-NOHA senior "A" division. The Kings came out on the long end of a 4-3 score with some 3,400 fans looking on. The game was a benefit affair for Bob Scherra, coach of the Trappers who will lose an eye through a hockey injury.

OTTAWA HERE FRIDAY

Word from Manager Sammy Pollock of the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens this morning says that the Junior Habs will play the McFarlands here Friday, November 8, instead of Pembroke. The Lumber Kings will be here on January 14, instead of the Canadiens. Seems the managements have come to a mutual agreement over the switch in dates.

Ottawa's three home dates scheduled for October 30, November 1 and December 1st have all been cancelled and new dates will be announced as soon as possible, Sam stated. It is likely, however, that the McFarlands will open Hull's beautiful new arena on November 10th against the Junior Habs, although that is not definite as yet.

Hockey's Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henri Richard of Montreal Canadiens has moved ahead of his brother and linemate, Maurice, in the National Hockey League race for individual honors.

The Pocket Rocket scored his 10th goal of the season Saturday night against Detroit to tie Maurice in the league lead in that department, but he has nine assists, one more than the Rocket, who was held pointless.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts

WILLIAMS RETIRES

REGINA (CP)—Stan Williams, a 28-year-old offensive end and defensive halfback who has been a standout for Saskatchewan Roughriders for five seasons in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, has announced his retirement from football.

Defeat Black Hawks, Bruins As Habs Get Single Victory; Wings Suffer Twin Setbacks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins took a look at the face in the Detroit Red Wings' net Sunday night and it did them good. The man behind the face came off second best.

It was goalie Terry Sawchuk's first National Hockey League appearance on Boston Garden ice since he quit the city last year with what he called a bad case of frayed nerves. There were a lot of words exchanged and the sudden move left the Bruins hung up in the goalie department which didn't improve Boston feeling toward Terry.

In the meantime, the Red Wings acquired Sawchuk in a deal that sent winger Johnny Bucyk to Boston.

And this is the way it worked Sunday night:

Boston beat Detroit 4-0 to end a six-game losing streak. Sawchuk was snowed under by rubber shots in 48 saves.

Bucyk assisted on two Bruins goals. Don Simmons, hustled into the net by Boston when Sawchuk left it, made 26 stops and scored his first season shutout.

RANGERS WIN

Elsewhere in the NHL Sunday night, New York Rangers poked one past Glenn Hall in the third period to edge Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 and move the New Yorkers to within a single point of the league - leading Montreal Canadiens, who were idle.

Saturday, Montreal trimmed the Red Wings 6-3, Chicago and the Maple Leafs battled 3-3 at Toronto and the Rangers beat the Bruins 5-0 at New York.

In the Boston game Sunday, Larry Regan and Bronco Horvath made it 2-0 in the space of 11 minutes in the first period. Horvath got his second in the second period and Jerry Toppazzini closed it out at 2:46 of the third. Sawchuk made a save-a-minute in the hectic first period.

Harry Howell got credit for the third-period New York goal at Chicago Saturday. It skittered through a batch of players that Glenn Hall who managed to stop 27 others.

OPENS SCORING

Ex-Black Hawk Red Sullivan opened the scoring in the second period but Eddie Litzenberger tied it up with eight seconds remaining. Early in the third period Litzenberger's second goal, a screened shot, proved the winner.

Marcel Paille, playing only his second game with New York, made 39 saves.

In his first game Saturday at New York, Paille got a shutout in the Ranger drubbing of Boston. The youngster was summoned from Providence of the American Hockey League to replace injured Gump Worsley.

Andy Bathgate led the attack with two goals. Sullivan, Guy Sanderson and Bill Gadsby divided the other three.

SAWCHUK BUSY

At Montreal where the Habitants beat Detroit 6-3, Sawchuk's nerves were not helped by the 49 shots directed at him in the three periods. Bernie Geoffrion and Don Marshall each got a pair for Montreal and singles went to Dickie Moore and Henri Richard. Don Poile, Bill Dineen and Alex Delvecchio scored for Detroit.

Litzenberger put together a star performance for Chicago Saturday night as well; his long shot with 10 minutes left in the game gained the Hawks a tie with the Leafs.

Teepees on Top Edge Barrie 4-3; Marlies Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees, taking a revenge 4-3 overtime win from Barrie Flyers who beat them 4-2 the previous night, took over top place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings during the weekend.

Toronto Marlboros, previous holders of the top berth, could only manage a 3-3 tie in a brawl-marred game with Hamilton Tiger Cubs, and now trail the Teepees by one point in second place. Other weekend action in the series saw St. Michael's beat Peterborough Petes 5-3 and then tie 1-1 with Guelph Biltmores.

Trailing 3-0, St. Catharines roared back, levelled the score, then scored their clincher at 3:27 of overtime against the Flyers.

Jack Cole, Pete Panagbko and Dany Patrick scored for Barrie, Brewer Gamble, Chico Maki, Ed Hockstra and Wayne Hillman scoring for St. Catharines.

Hamilton defenceman Howie Young collected a match penalty misconduct and automatic suspension from the league, in the fracas against Toronto Marlboros for a brawl involving Marlboro players Bill Kennedy, Carl Brewer and Bob Anderson.

HAS CONCUSSION

Kennedy was taken to hospital with concussion after a tussle with Young who also collected a misconduct penalty assessed to Young. Marlies' Bob McMaster, with two, and Gord Haughton scored for Marlboros, Dave Amadeo, two, and Barry Sullivan scoring for Hamilton.

Two goals by Gerry Brisson were all Peterborough could muster against St. Michael's. Terry Sullivan, Bill Sweeney scorers were: Jim Sonoski, Jack Martin, Dick Mattiussi, Tim Hook, and Barry Sly.

London Lords Finish on Top; Sarnia Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Indian Jack Jacobs, the one-time Winnipeg Blue Bomber quarterback, is entitled today to stand up and take a bow for the Lions, job he has done as coach of London Lords.

The Lords finished on top of the Ontario Rugby Football Council Union Saturday in their second season in the league and now will go on in the Finals against while Sarnia Imperials and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen battle it out in a sudden-death semi-final next Wednesday at Waterloo. The Lords will meet the Sarnia-Kitchener winner in a best-of-three series for league championship won by the Dutchmen the last three seasons.

London, under Indian Jack sticking this season strictly to coaching with the role of player-coach in 1956, emerged in first place by a single point by blanking Ottawa Rough Riders 40-0 Saturday night for their eighth win against two losses and one tie. Kitchener-Waterloo ended in second place, three points ahead of Sarnia, who walloped Toronto Beaches 56-0 at home for a record of six wins, five defeats and one tie. The Dutchmen won eight, lost three and tied one.

Goalie Bob Senior Sparks Kingston To 5-2 Victory Over McFarlands

Turns in Sparkling Effort Before Record 3600 Crowd; Three Teams Share Top Rung

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

A fighting Kingston team spared top spot with two other clubs today after weekend victories over Belleville and Cornwall, inspired by the sensational work of Bob Senior in their net. The CKLC's defeated the McFarlands 5-2 Saturday night and walloped Cornwall 5-3 on Sunday.

Senior was magnificent and gave ample reason why Sporting-Lady Eddie Shore has claimed him for the Indians of the American League.

Nearly 3,600 fans, a record for the season, saw the club that has been dubbed the "weak sister" of the Eastern Senior "A" circuit go full value for their dough over the star-leading McFarlands with their defensive work standing out especially in the third period when the Macs threw everything they had at it.

The game was a comparatively clean affair, Referee Stan Boucher handing out 14 penalties, two of them misconducts. The stars proved costly to the Macs while two of them in the third quarter of the third period effectively cut their offensive strength while they were driving to cut the margin.

The teams battled hard with close checking in a scoreless first period. Kingston held a lead of one apiece at the end of the second frame and outscored the McFarlands 3-1 in a driving final session.

The McFarlands, minus the services of Bob Perreault, played better hotter hockey. They appeared disorganized at times, but their fighting plays clicked on occasionally. The CKLC's played hard-up hockey and took advantage of every opportunity presented them. They were outshot 34-24 in the third frame which gives some idea of their battling ability.

Kingston goals were evenly divided with Bukachevski, Bellinger, Topppazzini, Pretty and Colvin scoring, Bellinger getting the winner in the second period. Bukachevski had two assists. Coach Ike Hildebrand, the Regina top point-getter added a goal and an assist to his total with Montgomery scoring the other Macs goal.

Kingston had an edge in the first period play although the two clubs were evenly divided at seven each. Both Bell and Senior were "hot" in this frame with both defences standing out.

The Macs tested Senior three times in the second period, especially when Thomson was set up for close in shot at 11.05 Davy Jones got chased and the Kingston club put on terrific pressure with Bukachevski breaking through centre with Bolduc's pass to beat Bell but the first score of the game.

Three minutes later the McFarlands proved to have bit off their stride when Hildebrand, taking Crawford's pass to beat the almost impossible Senior. The Macs took another costly penalty when Poets got chased and the CKLC's raced in on power plays. Bellinger smashed home Moore's rebound from close-in back with Hubert getting an assist to score the winning goal.

The Macs ripped back tenaciously but they could not beat the brilliant Dutchman in the Kingston nets.

With less than two minutes gone in the third period, Levanduski slipped the puck to Toppazzini in front of the Belleville nets and the winger backhanded a drive which Bell fanned and to put the homesters two up.

Montgomery was chased and on a breakaway Senior beat "Wiener" Brown when the Macs fleet winger raced in on him alone. Another Macs passing play clicked at 5.06 when Montgomery, Hildebrand and Brown roared in close with the former beating Hubert for the Macs second and last goal of the game.

Partridge got that one back four minutes later, teaming with Bellringer and Moore on a neat combination. Then Les Colvin broke into the clear after Benoit fell in trying to check him and scored the fifth Kingston goal unassisted.

With six minutes left Levandoski got chased and the Macs roared in on power plays only to be thwarted by Senior. They came close on several occasions then their chances to pull the game out of the fire dimmed when Benoit was penalized. He had a few seconds left to serve when Montgomery got chased reducing the offensive strength still more.

At that Marineau scored with seconds to go but the referee disallowed the goal, claiming that Bradley tripped a Kingston defenceman before the puck entered the net. Bradley protested a bit too strongly and was tabbed with a misconduct as well as a minor.

The Teams:

Belleville — goal, Bell; defence, Benoit, Bolduc; Crawford, Montgomery; forwards, Menard, Marineau, Kowalchuk, Brown, Bradley, Goyer, Jones, Hildebrand, Poeta.

Kingston — goal, Senior; defence, Levandoski, Thomson, Hubert, Tilley; forwards, Colvin, Bukachevski, Montgomery, Bellringer, Partridge, Youngberg, Bukachevski, Bilodeau.

NHL Will Meet Players But Not Association

NEW YORK (CP) — Clarence S. Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Saturday night that NHL owners would meet players at any time but would not meet the National Hockey League Players Association.

Campbell was asked if the owners would meet the Players Association if the association withdrew its $2,000,000 action against the owners.

"We will be pleased to meet the duly accredited representatives from each club at anytime but we are not willing to meet the association," he said.

Meanwhile, at Montreal Saturday two members of Detroit Red Wings said in interviews they felt the $2,000,000 action was too drastic a step but at the same time they felt the association "has a good thing."

Both veteran players, here with their club for Saturday night's game against Montreal Canadiens, asked that their names be used.

Their views generally coincided on all points and they said they thought their feelings represented that of other members of the team.

"As individuals no player is in any position to bargain with the owners, but as a unit we can," said one of the Red Wings.

Eskimos Oust Sasky Riders As Bombers Wallop BC Lions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Interprovincial Football Union has ended its 1957 schedule and looking back the only surprise with the provided experts figured the Riders had the best chance of any team in the conference to upset the defending-champion Edmonton Eskimos.

Saturday night, as the 16-game schedule ended, Eskimos shut out Riders 22-0 before 8,000 fans at Regina That left Saskatchewan in last place with three victories and a tie in 16 games and out of the playoffs for the first time in five years.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers finished in second place, four points behind Edmonton, by walloping British Columbia Lions 43-19 before a crowd of 17,696 at Vancouver Lions were fourth with four wins and a tie.

FIRST SINCE 1952

Calgary Stampeders, who finished their part of the schedule a week earlier with a 5-10 record, won a playoff spot for the first time since 1952 and will open the two-game total-point series against Bombers at Winnipeg Saturday. The second game is scheduled for Calgary Nov. 9 and the winner will meet Eskimos Nov. 16 in the opening of the best-of-three final.

Eskimos, pre-season favorites to finish first in the league, made a bid for their fourth straight Grey Cup title, lost only three games—one each to Bombers and to Winnipeg—but their scheduled-ending victory over Riders proved costly than either loss.

Frankie Anderson, veteran guard and end who has been a key man inv Eskimos' defence the last three years, suffered a knee ligament injury that may keep him out of the playoffs. Doctors said he suffered a set-aside chance he will play again this season.

TWO FOR PARKER

At Regina, Jackie Parker, Eskimos' quarterback, Normie Kwong got the other and Joe Moore kicked up two points to Winnipeg—but their scheduled-ending victory over Riders proved costly than either loss.

Canadian-born Gerry James of Blue Bombers, Dick and John Bright of Edmonton increased their individual league marks and Edmonton widened several team records they set earlier.

James scored three touchdowns, a single and a convert to boost his season total to 120 points, 22 more than the previous WIFU record set in 1953 by Bob Mahoney of Calgary.

James established a second scoring record when he kicked his convert total to 19, one more than the previous mark of 18 set by Gord Rowland of Saskatchewan in 1953.

Mohr's convert pushed his record total to 50, eight more than the old mark set by Andy Bieber of Calgary in 1953. No official figure was available on Bright's individual pass receiving record but he has surpassed the previous mark of 1,440 by nearly 200 yards.

In team records, Eskimos put these further out of reach: Most points for season, 406; most rushing yards, 4,517; most yards from scrimmage 7,042; and first downs 284.

At Vancouver, Dennis Mendyk, Norm Rauhaus and Jim Pitts got touchdowns for Winnipeg, along with James. Quarter Ken Ploen kicked a convert.

Jerry Janes, Paul Cameron and Sy Bailey scored for British Columbia. Ted Hunt getting one of the convert attempts.

Palmer Beats Balding by Single Stroke

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A five-foot putt for a birdie three on the 16th hole Sunday gave Arnold Palmer a victory in the $20,000 San Diego open golf tournament by a single stroke over Toronto's Al Balding.

Balding, who led the field after the second day's play and fell one stroke behind Palmer in the third round, went ahead on the final nine with a five-under-par 31, sinking 35- and 60-foot putts on the second and fourth holes.

Palmer, out in 32 and home in 30, birdied No. 13 to get a stroke on the lanky Canadian and grew even when Balding went one over par on the 15th. A former U.S. national Open champion, Palmer sank the short putt for a birdie three on the 16th and that proved to be the deciding stroke as they played even the rest of the way.

The victory, the sixth tournament win of the year, was worth $2,800 to Palmer. Balding earned $1,600.

Palmer's 72-hole score was 271, 17 under par. Balding's 272 was made up of rounds of 67, 64, 71 and 70 over the par-72 Mission Bay Country Club course. Palmer's 271 score, were Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., Bob Duden, Los Angeles, and Billy Casper, San Diego.

Argonauts Rout Larks 40-27, While Riders Claw Tabbies

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes, who have won all but the big ones with their basketball style of play the last three years, still aren't convinced the way to victory is stong the ground.

Edmonton Eskimos showed them how it should be done in the 1954-55-56 Grey Cup finals and Big Four clubs followed suit this season. That's why the Als can't do any better than a third-place finish.

Toronto Argonauts, hardly a screaming success on the field and at the box-office this year, crunched out a league ruining record of 433 yards Saturday en route to a stunning 40-27 victory over the pass-happy Als. The loss coupled with Ottawa's Rough Riders' 9-4 squeak over the first place Hamilton Tiger-Cats, made it certain that Peahead Walker's Larks will play in the league semi-finals for the first time since 1956.

Saturday's loss was the third straight and also the second time this season that Argonauts, who have won only three of their 13 games so far, have beaten them. While quarter Sam Etcheverry and cohorts were throwing 31 passes, Argos gave the slim 12,971 crowd at Toronto a big bang with some old-fashioned Canadian football — onside and quick kicks, hot potato lateral plays, the Statue of Liberty oldie and sparkling line-busting crashes.

With one game terminating in the 14-game schedule, the standings show Tiger-Cats at the top with 18 points, two up on the Houghies and six ahead of Montreal. Argonauts, who will drop an estimated $50,000 in their operations this year, have six.

The Cats' bid for a fourth straight Big Four first-place finish was made by two straight losses to Hamilton and Argos supplied the cruncher. After next Saturday's windup here with a home against Argonauts, Als will meet either Tigers or Hamilton in the sudden-death semi-finals Nov. 13 away from home.

Ticats and Riders wind up at Hamilton on Saturday and an Ottawa victory would give coach Frank Clair's Riders first place on points.

Jet Morgan was the big gun as he broke into the two-game total-points lead. They would be tied in points but Riders hold a 69-67 edge in total points for and against in their four games with Hamilton so far this year.

Two of Toronto's five touchdowns were scored via the aerial route, from Canadian quarterback Gerry Doucette to Pete O'Garro, but they were set up by ground offensives. Hometown Bobby Kuntz also scored two touchdowns, going from the one and zero-yard lines in the 5th off drives of 46 and 49 yards and Corky Tinsley wiggled through the centre of the Montreal line for a 49-yard touchdown gallop.

Vic Kristopaitis booted field goals of 26 and 37 yards and made the convert good on four touchdowns.

Fat Abruzzi, line - busting Montreal fullback, cracked over for three touchdowns from deep in Toronto territory after the Als moved downfield on Etcheverry's passing. Hal Patterson scored Montreal's first touchdown in the opening quarter on a pass from Etcheverry and later suffered a slight concussion when he collided with Toronto's Boyd Carter on a pass play.

Bill Bewley made good on three converts.

The Als, with Etcheverry doing most of the throwing, completed 27 of 51 pass attempts for 340 yards. Toronto tossers completed 17 of 32 for 253. Their 433-yard ground gaining compared with Montreal's 200.

The game at Toronto, played on a rain-soaked muddy field, was practically an all-star contest between Bobby Judd of Ottawa and Gerry McDougall of Ticats. Judd booted a total of Ottawa's total 182 yards gained on the ground and McDougall netted for 140 of Ticats' 207 yards gained on the ground.

Riders led 9-0 at half-time on a one-yard first-quarter touchdown plunge by quarter Tom Dimitroff and a five-yard field goal in the second quarter by Gary Schaffer. Ottawa's touchdown in Hamilton's pointa--a single when his field goal attempt went wide in the third quarter and a 20-yard placement in the last 15 minutes.

Texas, 'Sooners' Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas A and M and Oklahoma, fighting right down to the wire for the mythical U.S. national collegiate football championship, both continued unbeaten Saturday.

The Aggies, leading the Southwest Conference, just nipped Arkansas 7-6 on Clyde Taylor's conversion, while Oklahoma had to sweat all the way to record a 13-0 win over Kansas State, the Sooners' 46th consecutive victory.

It was a rocky day all around for the top teams in the Associated Press weekly poll. Third-ranked Texas was tied at 21-21 by Michigan, fifth-rated Notre Dame dropped a 20-6 decision to Navy in the Irish's first defeat of the year and Duke, No. 7, was humbled by Georgia Tech 13-6.

Fourth-ranked Auburn had no difficulty with Florida, 13-0, and Michigan State, No. 6 and trying to gain some of its lost prestige, halted Wisconsin 21-7. Only Ohio State and Army, No. 8and No. 9 had easy sledding among the top 10. The Buckeyes clobbered Northwestern 47-6 and the cadets gave President Eisenhower a show of their power, crumbling Colgate 53-7.

Varsity Upsets McGill 21-8; Gaels Beaten

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A win over McGill University Redmen is all that stands between University of Western Ontario Mustangs and the Intercollegiate Senior Football League championship.

By downing Queen's Golden Gaels 24-6 Saturday in Kingston, while University of Toronto upset the Redmen by the same score, the Mustangs retained first place in the standing.

The two teams meet Wednesday in London, Ont., next Saturday and can take the crown with a victory. Should the Redmen win, however the Mustangs get another chance in a sudden-death playoff.

Intercollegiate rules stipulate the second-place team can challenge for the championship if it has won once over the second place team. The Mustangs are unbeaten in five starts.

LITTLE TROUBLE

Western had little trouble handling the visiting Gaels, running almost unhindered through the line. Neil Desborough, Bill Britton and Lionel Conacher, Jr., scored touchdowns, with Willie Cassanova converting all three.

For Queen's, Bob McAteese scored the lone touchdown, converted by Fred Feder. The other point was scored when Jocko Thompson kicked a single.

At Montreal, Tim Reid scored two touchdowns for the Blues and Bobby Mady one. Peter Mair converted one and Dick Rick kicked two singles. Dan Sandzelius got all McGill's points on a touchdown, convert and single.

May Protest Speedboat Mark

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian Boating Federation official said Sunday that he believes the recognition of a record record for propeller - driven powerboats will be "only a formality" when the performance of Canada's Miss Supertest II is studied.

Miss Supertest II, owned by Jim G. Thompson of London, Ont., was clocked at 184.66 miles an hour in covering a measured kilometre off Picton, Ont., last Friday.

Shortly after the run, a spokesman for the owners of Sio-Mo-Shun IV of Seattle, Wash., which set the present record of 178.497 over five years ago, protested that Miss Supertest II had raced a kilometre instead of the longer mile which, he claimed, disqualified her.

Canadian officials said the kilometre course conforms to requirements of the Union of International Motorboating which now will rule on the application.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Schmidt, who invaded New York after a strike closed California tracks several weeks ago, rushed up in the stretch at Jamaica Saturday and won the $56,900 Gallant Fox Handicap in a blanket finish.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela piloted Eddie Schmidt to a half-length victory over the King Ranch's Beam Rider, who got beyond victory by a nose over Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land. It was another length back to Jr. C. Cherry's Third Brother, the favorite of a crowd of 33,109 which turned out to watch the 1-mile marathon.

At Inglewood, Calif., Lady's First upset a fine field Saturday when she edged to a half-length victory in the first leg of the $75,000 American Trotting Classic at Hollywood Park.

Jean Laird, in second place, had moved into the role of favorite when defending champion Scott Frost, who was to be driven by Joe O'Brien, pulled up lame and was scratched.

TORONTO (CP)—Chomiru, a complete outsider and winner of only one previous race, Saturday won the 21st running of the $10,000 added Cup and Saucer Stakes handicap at New Woodbine race track. Chomiru is owned by Frank A. Sherman of Hamilton.

Guided tight to the stretch turn and down inside the others, Chomiru and Jockey Lou Cosentino, an apprentice winning his first stake race, drove to a length win over Happy Harry who was three quarters of a length ahead of Caledon Beau.

Time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:45. Chomiru returned $67.50, $22.20 and $9.40.

In the $7,500 Mohawk Stakes, Flying Trapeze ran the fastest mile and a quarter in the history of Canadian racing. Flying Trapeze, owned by M. J. Boylen of Toronto and ridden by Eddie Plesa, defeated Noble Roman by a head and ran the distance in 2:01 4-5.

Flying Trapeze erased the record of 2:02 3-5 which was established by Lyford Cay in winning

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Today you are at last appreciated for your remarkable ideas, inventiveness, etc., and everyone is eager to back you, close friends, financiers, et al. All you have to do is use wonderful astrological foresight.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Get an early start and see that fine person of influence who will extend the backing you have sought for so long. Then put your great gifts before those others who can help you commercialize them, also.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Step out of dull-doldrum existence and watch how the other half lives. Read papers, watch great TV programs, acquire other valuable information. Meet wonderful people, be on the go, make this a banner day.

VIRGO (August 22 to Sept. 23) — Those who come within your sphere today will bring forth fine ideas and plans for a better future for you. Close ties will then be pleased and happy with your possibilities. Tonight, be happy and put romance on the menu.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Keep busy A. M. and P. M. analyzing what others desire from your joint ventures. The right questions put wisely will clarify picture, bring out better modus operandi and a chance to show your loyalty and affection.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Begin the new week properly by rolling up your sleeves and finishing in earnest what you've ever needs doing, make more efficient, more workable. Improve health, charm, personality. Write. See that fellow workers are congenial.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If tuned to your stellar influences, you awaken feeling aces and you get a bang out of whatever it is you have to do today. If out of tune, you are stymied, so relax and meditate, restore your forces and energies.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You have only to tap the source of your inspiration and strength to know how better to add to your security and make life more successful now. Take family ties in your confidence, gain their love and respect.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is a day when you can accomplish so many things — repairs at home, car cleaned, correspondence caught up, shopping for staples and business, cleaning, clinching deals with right persons, etc. Keep busy!

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Real estate and personal holdings should be the things to occupy time until late today, for your future security and success depend upon your activity now. Get books in order, voice in the pink of condition.

If Your Child Is Born Today — The alive and alert young-ster is the impatient kind whose action immediately follows thought. This is a wonderful horoscope since the mentality is very great and pioneering is as natural as breathing. The "inventrall" detective is here, the scientist who will give the world greater service, etc. Show others your appreciation of fine progeny's exceptional talents and you gain support for your child.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was watching ma sewing, and I said, Hay ma, do you always believe everything you hear

Well I should hope not, ma said. Rumors are always flying around thicker than water, and half of them are pure imagination and the other half are wild exaggerations. You should see a thing with your own eyes before you believe it, and even then there may be circumstances that are not visible on the surface, she said.

That's how I feel, ma, I said. For instance if I heard a rumor that Puds Simkins broke our front window, I'd want a lot more proof I said, and ma said, Well naturelly. What's all this? Has anything happened to our front window? she said.

No mam, G, ma, I said. There's nothing a matter with any front window on the whole block, I said, and ma said, I'm sure you're getting at something. What is it? she said.

It's a back window, I said. But not in our house, I said, and ma said, Well whose house then?

Puds's house, I said. I threw a small stone up at the window of Puds's room, but it was such a little stone it couldn't of hardly hurt a big fly, so that proves the glass must of been awful weak, so that's the extenuating circumstance you were just talking about, I said.

Not being quite the end of the subject, and if I'm not lucky my allowance may have to suffer to help pay for the window.

FREAK SHOOTING

NEWPORT, Ky. (CP)—Robert Gloden, 11, was shot Friday by a bullet in a pot of boiling water. The boy was standing near a stove at his home when a 22-calibre bullet rolled from a shelf, dropped into the boiling water and exploded. He suffered minor wounds.

FINE GESTURE

LENOIR, N. C. (CP)—Debbie Austin, 8, left a bouquet of fruit on the doorstep of the home of Mrs. Fletcher Odom, 63-year-old widow, instead of trick-or-treating on Hallowe'en. A note said: "I hope you have a happy Hallowe'en, you remind me of my grandmother." The little girl's grandmother died last year.

Chinese Member Of House Will Visit Red China

OTTAWA (CP)—Douglas Jung, Chinese - Canadian member of Parliament for Vancouver Centre, says he plans to visit Communist China either next year because he has "never been there."

But the 33-year-old Progressive Conservative member, a lawyer and the first Canadian of Chinese descent ever elected to Parliament, will be making the trip strictly as a private citizen.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said Mr. Jung could expect no passport from the next year because he has "never been there."

But the 33-year-old Progressive Conservative member, a lawyer and the first Canadian of Chinese descent ever elected to Parliament, will be making the trip strictly as a private citizen.

Mr. Jung says he isn't worried about getting a visa. He will be a fact-finding mission and he does not expect to get into trouble by asking questions.

"I believe that because of my own background with a foot in the bridge the gap between the East and West. I can also help to interpret China to the Canadian people."

He plans to visit many Asian countries on the trip lasting three or four months.

He said he will leave with no assurance that he will be able to get into China. "I am a democracy—equal opportunity. If Communist China refuses to let me see me, a member of Parliament for a constituency which is predominantly Canadian of Chinese descent, then I will have to accept it."

ACTOR FINED

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Actor Allen Jenkins, 57, has lost his driver's licence for 30 days after pleading guilty to a drunk driving charge. He also was fined $750 when he appeared in justice court Thursday. Jenkins was arrested Aug. 3 after his car was involved in a collision.

DOG MOTHERS TIGERS

BERLIN (AP)—A lady shepherd dog has gallantly entered the West Berlin zoo and adopted two tiger cubs in need of a mother. The cubs were born two days ago to the Indian royal tiger "Rani" who refused to nurse them. The shepherd, hunted up by zoo officials, however, is doing the honors cheerfully.

Military Leaders, Journals Endorse Ousting of Zhukov

MOSCOW (AP) — The position of Nikita Khrushchev as top man in the Soviet Union appeared unchallengeable today following the political disgrace of Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Military leaders and journals of the armed forces were quick to endorse the expulsion of the former defence minister from the Soviet Communist party's central committee and from its ruling Presidium. No public dissent was heard.

Crowds jamming Moscow streets in advance of the celebration Thursday of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution displayed little interest in the fate of the Second World War hero. Instead their attention appeared captured by the launching of Sputnik IV, the second satellite of the two-day anniversary holiday, and reductions in the price of pork, ducks and geese, announced just in advance of the report of Zhukov's downfall.

The announcement of the marshal's degradation had been expected since soon after his dismissal from the post of defence minister was revealed Oct. 26. The party central committee finally announced Saturday night that he had been stripped of his party posts.

The announcement added that he would be given a new job but did not say what it would be. Presumably he will get some obscure post in a remote local town. The promise of a new post, however, apparently meant that Zhukov held on to his membership in the party.

As expected, the central committee said the marshal was guilty of trying to liquidate the party's control of the armed forces and of trying to establish a "cult of personality" centred on himself. He was also charged with a "tendency to adventurism in his understanding and evaluation of the most important problems of foreign policy," an accusation which was not explained further.

Zhukov's successor, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, and other military leaders joined in publications of the political leaders. The sons of Zhukov's downfall. The Soviet press announced meetings of political groups within all major military units, called for reaffirmation of the Leninist principle that the Communist party is supreme.

West Needs More to Combat Communism Says Pearson

ST. PAUL, Minn. (CP)—There are signs that social, economic and political institutions in Western nations will not be equal to the challenge from Russian communism, Hon. Lester-B. Pearson said Sunday.

"A car in every garage, frozen food in every supermarket refrigerator and kissproof on every lipstick—things will not bring us victoriously through competitive co - existence, however glamourously we display them in the advertising copy," he said.

In a speech at the University of Minnesota the former external affairs minister said it is a mistake to think all Russians are more merely as "moujiks and lumpish proletarians."

"Somehow or other a strong dynamic impulse for national creative fulfilment is inherent in Soviet Union . . . as an incentive to excellence and accomplishment the expanding scientist and engineer is put on a level of prestige and privilege which in our society is reserved for heroes of sport or entertainment."

SUPPORT NATO

Mr. Pearson, whose travels have taken him to Russia, asked "what do we mean to this controlled and centralized society?"

"Too often, merely by the short sighted view of the superiority of freedom and democracy and 'our way of life.'"

He added:

POWER BASIS

"Soviet life. Soviet policy, I know is founded on power and compulsion rather than consent. But are we sure that our own social purpose, stated in the right of the individual to make his own choice, is steady, strong, constructive and based on enduring values?

"Perhaps we should worry more about that and not only about what is going on behind or over the Iron Curtain."

DIES FOR DOG

BLOOMINGBURG, N.Y. (AP) An old man saw his dog struck by a car Sunday night. Seeing the pet was still alive, he ran to the dog's side. Standing guard, Matthew Corll, 76, diverted traffic around the dog, afraid it might be hurt. But one car struck old man. Matthew Corll died a half-hour later in a hospital. Corll's dog, taken to a veterinary hospital, was expected to live.

Large Amount Taken to Pay Income Taxes

TORONTO (CP) — C. A. Peachey, of Montreal said Saturday at least 25 or 30 per cent of the over-all income of Canadians is taken away from them in taxes. "Not a million of other people."

He estimated that the average man must work 20 minutes of each hour providing tax revenue for all levels of government.

Some of this money went to waste, Mr. Peachey charged, citing the methods of growing African violets, he told members of the Canadian Club at a Forement's Clubs.

Mr. Peachey, general manager of the Northern Electric Company, said he had written the department of agriculture asking for information on the African violet to test how far the government would go with inconsequential matters. A month later he received a two-page study of the plant.

LEAVES FOR MOSCOW

New Russian Liner Can Carry 220 Passengers

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said Sunday it has put into operation the largest passenger craft in the world," powered by four prop-jet engines twice as powerful as those of similar type craft outside Russia.

The announcement said the plane is so big it must have two elevators, a telephone system and a restaurant for 48 persons.

The official news release on the prop-jet ship, called the Ilyushin 114, said it can transport ,120 passengers from Moscow to New York in from 8 to 12 hours.

It is said to be able to carry 220 persons on short distances or from 800 to 900 miles and 170 on medium-range flights. The Russians say it can do this at costs comparable to rail travel.

Prop-jet propulsion, frequently used in the Soviet population, consists of jet-type engines powering propellers in contrast to pure jet or propellerless propulsion.

"Already it is serving scheduled passenger, mail and other goods both on internal and international airlines," the announcement said.

PUP FARES WELL

The two radios send on frequencies of 40.002 and 39.960 kilocycles with wave lengths of about 7.5 and 15 metres respectively. Signals on one of the frequencies were heard in Tokyo 22 minutes after the first Moscow announcement. The beep lasts three-tenths of a second and is followed by a pause of the same length.

A. A. Blagonravov, one of the Soviet Union's top scientists, said the building soared on the second frequency provides information about the dog's condition. He hinted that the dog eventually may be ejected from the satellite to parachute to earth.

The dog is being fed artificially and has instruments attached to her body to record and transmit information on her heartbeat, heart action and blood pressure, he said.

He added that the dog is housed in a separate, air-conditioned container inside the satellite.

GREAT ENTERTAINER

The animal is a Laika, one of a Russian breed resembling the Spitz and Samoyed. They are shaggy and have pointed noses. They are easy to handle in preliminary training and have great endurance.

Blagonravov said Russia's stepped-up program for training engineers had a lot to do with the satellite launchings.

"The number of engineering graduates in the Soviet Union rose from 86,000 in 1950 to 71,000 in 1956," the Communist newspaper declared. "In the United States it fell during the same period from 52,000 to 26,000."

MOST POWERFUL

NRU will be used extensively for fuel-element experiments and some will be rented to the United Kingdom and the U.S. for similar research. Engineers also have been received from other countries.

One of the unique features of NRU is a new method for changing natural fuel rods. The NRX reactor must be shut down to change fuel elements, but NRU can be refueled without a shutdown.

NRU was designed entirely in Canada and all but a few of its components were manufactured by Canadian manufacturers.

If the U.S. and the other Western powers liquidated their military bases, the Soviet Union and the other peace-loving states would immediately take steps toward further disarmament, he said.

A 50-year-old Toronto nurse was killed by a car Sunday night, Toronto's 99th traffic victim this year. Her name was withheld until her family could be notified.

Ontario Veterans Want Citizens To Register

SARNIA (CP)—A group of Ontario veterans raised the memory of the Second World War on the home front Saturday by requesting the government to reintroduce national registration of all citizens.

The appeal was contained in one of several resolutions to be forwarded to national headquarters by the annual convention of the Canadian Corps Association, Ontario branch.

The convention also urged that jobs be given only to Canadian citizens, that the federal government establish a 44-an-hour minimum wage for all employed Canadians and that the pensions of veterans' widows be increased to as much as $1,200 annually.

Reds Threaten To Quit Two UN Bodies on Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Russia's threat to pull out of the United Nations' two working disarmament bodies was regarded generally today as more of a propaganda move than an actual step away from international consideration of this vital issue.

The implication, however, as expressed in Vasily Kuznetsov's statement to the UN's political committee late Monday, was unmistakable: That further talks within the UN on disarmament are useless without Russian participation; and such participation can only be achieved now through some compromise agreement on the Soviet demands.

The political committee was considering today a resolution condemnation of some 10 resolutions and amendments put before it for streamlining by the parent General-Assembly. But the Soviet move indicated that those procedural votes would have to wait until the interested powers expressed their views on the new stumbling block to a disarmament settlement within the UN.

CANADIAN REACTION

Canada was expected to take the floor today, as a member of the five-power disarmament subcommittee, to give its reaction to the threatened Soviet walkout. Britain also called for rebuttal time and the United States, as the power most concerned in the East - West dispute with Russia, was reported working on a resolution as well.

The neutralist members, most of whom have endorsed that last week's Soviet call for a permanent full - time disarmament commission of the UN were so far beyond their previously expressed idea of an expansion of membership in the working groups, were reported ready to read large of Russia's open statement in the political committee that Moscow "does not see any sense in further participation" in the UN machinery outside the assembly itself.

This machinery, summed up in brief, consists of two bodies. The sub-committee made up of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada; and the 12 - power commission, composed of the sub-committee members with Canada again represented as a major atomic power.

CANADIAN SPEAKS

Monday, Canadian delegate Wallace Nesbitt, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, addressing the UN assembly's 81 - member political committee, said that for the present Canada would abstain from comment beyond saying:

"The Canadian people are shocked and disappointed by this ultimatum from the government of the U.S.S.R., particularly in view of the manifest desire of this committee to make progress on the grave issue of disarmament."

Three bits of advice for speakers: Be sincere; be brief; be seated.

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — There has been little change in the weather picture over the last 24 hours. Skies are cloudy over almost all of Ontario. A few light sprinkles of rain are occurring in Southern Ontario. Scattered snowflurries are continuing in the north country where temperatures are below freezing. Little change in weather is forecast for the province for tonight and Wednesday.

MADOC (Staff) — External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, 60, former president of the University of Toronto, won the seat in the House of Commons for Hastings-Frontenac yesterday after dousing Trotskyite Ross Dowson, 40, by 10,000 votes in a federal by-election in this constituency — the largest riding in Ontario.

In what observers termed a "very quiet" by-election, Mr. Smith was "not surprised" about the outcome, Neither was Mr. Dowson, who entered the election on a Labor ticket "only so that a Tory would not receive acclamation."

Of the 27,000 eligible voters in the riding 12,592 went to the polls.

Returning Officer Coburn at Enterprise said this morning it is not likely all returns will be in today. There are 153 polls in the riding out of 169 in the riding.

Mr. Smith's overwhelming victory gives the Progressive Conservatives 112 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. Liberals have 105, CCF 25, Social Credit 19 and two seats are held by independents, one by an Independent Liberal and one vacant.

NEVER IN DOUBT

Midway through the evening, when the minister had received over 5,000 votes, he told this reporter: "I have never really had any doubt about the outcome of this election. Any congratulations should not come to me, but should go to the electors in Hastings-Frontenac who showed they do not want any part of Mr. Dowson's mealy-mouthed policy."

At 8 p.m. Mr. Dowson issued this press release: "Mr. Smith has won the election — a temporary and explosive success. It only means that the final solution of the crisis that is developing in the capitalist world has been postponed."

However, "under no circumstances" would Mr. Dowson contest the election.

"What, and disquality myself" he said.

WINTER NAVIGATION

QUEBEC (CP) — Winter navigation on the St. Lawrence River is only a few years away, declared Premier Maurice H. Trudel, the trade and industrial bureau of Greater Quebec said Monday. It told a press conference on conclusion of the first phase of a study on the subject sponsored by the bureau that the federal transport department, shipping companies and industry are interested and prepared to act to keep St. Lawrence shipping lanes open through the winter.

CANADIANS TRACK DOWN SATELLITE ORBIT IN SPACE

Predict Moon Will Bring Economy Boom

OTTAWA (CP) — While Canadian International Geophysical Year scientists continued to gather information on Sputnik II, after successfully tracking its orbit, other authorities predicted the satellite will bring a boom to the economy and a reappraisal of defence policy.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday in an interview the Russian launching Saturday should act as a new spur for Western pooling of scientific information.

And Defence Minister Pearkes said enormous expenditures would be needed for what has to be done to counter the dangers of modern attack.

Dr. John C. Rose, chairman of the Canadian national IGY committee, said Monday night Canada has an excellent network to co-ordinate Canadian satellite hunting. Setting up the sub-group, however, had merely "formalized an organization already working" since shortly after the first Soviet satellite was launched Oct.

Dr. Rose said that up to Monday night there had been several radio soundings of Sputnik II but so far it knew it had not been seen in Canada because of the "blackout" of darkness.

One high financial authority said Monday it may take a little time to sink in, but Sputnik II would probably bring on abandonment of the U.S. light money policy. The country would embark on new and heavy expenditures in order to catch up with the U.S.S.R.

This would have an effect on Canada where the economic boom had slowed down and unemployment was steadily increasing.

Latest finion estimates have predicted unemployment as high as 500,000 during the winter unless positive measures to reverse trends shift.

INTENSIFY REVIEW

Defence officials said Monday a policy review, begun soon after the Progressive Conservatives took office in June, would be intensified following appearance of Sputnik II over the U.S.S.R.

Mr. Pearkes said Monday at a service club luncheon it was necessary to fight with weapons proven to be obsolete. The second satellite would give the Russian information enabling them to further develop their intercontinental ballistic missiles or supersonic aircraft.

The launching, he said, indicates the Russians have gone a long way towards developing the power needed to launch intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Other defence officials said the Russians have already developed propellants for long-range missiles.

New System Will Allow Pilots To Easily Follow Air Course

QUEBEC (CP)—A test flight ends here today inaugurating the newest link in a system that allows pilots to follow their courses through the air as easily as a motorist follows a highway.

The plane made by an RAF Valiant jet bomber from England via Ireland and Gander, Nfld., was using the Bendix - Decca radio navigation aid produced by the Canadian firm.

The plane was due here at noon.

With the system, a pilot sees his course traced for him in ink on a roller map mounted on his instrument panel. The ink trace shows his exact position in relation to the land or sea area over which he is flying.

Toothed wheels move the map forward or back and the aides-de-camp mounted pen moves in from side to side—all on orders from a compact computer.

The pilot can plot his course in advance on the map, then make sure he is on course at any time he sees the pen point waver from the traced line shown on the moving map.

Orders come to the computer from low-frequency transmitters on the ground. In each area where the system is used there is a master station and two or three slave stations at points up to 100 miles from the master station.

All transmit signals which give the position line—the direction of the transmitter from the plane. The intersection of these lines gives a continuous location or fix.

Doubt New Power Sources Used to Put Sputnik in Sky

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The West today weighed the significance of a Russian achievement that new instruments and spurces of power were used to send Sputnik II and its 1,100-passenger more than 1,000 miles into space.

Some doubts were expressed that the Russians had used any new kind of fuel, but no one could be certain about the Russian claims.

U.S. scientists, who have received meagre information from the Russians on Sputnik I and its successor, have studied their own studies and knowledge in reaching any conclusions.

Laika, the fluffy little female dog making a lonely space journey aboard the satellite Sputnik II, was reported by the Russians to have come through her first 24 hours aloft in satisfactory condition.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow that this was confirmed by recordings of Laika's pulse, breathing, blood pressure and other information sent back by the satellite's radio transmitters.

However, there appeared to be differences of opinion among Russian specialists as to Laika's life expectancy.

Tass said at the Soviet Planetarium suggested the dog may be parachuted back to earth for study. But Professor Kiril P. Sanyukovich, a Russian rocket expert, implied Laika may die encased in the huge satellite which was sent aloft last Saturday.

Old Age Pension Boost Given Commons Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government's proposed $9-a-month boost in federal old age pensions has received final Commons approval in a whirlwind windup to a drag-ging debate.

In its wake remained a hint by Health Minister Monteith Monday night that further increases in living costs might bring about another pension rise later.

But there was no answer to the question of how the increase —the second this year—will be financed.

The bill will raise to $55 monthly the $46 federal universal pension to those 70 and over, received by 810,000 persons. The government stated to take effect in month-end cheques for November, then go to the Senate for passage and royal assent.

Today the Commons takes up debate on three parallel measures. They would authorize similar increases to $55 in maximum payments for old age assistance to the needy aged 65-69 and to the disabled and blind in need. Means-test ceilings governing the payments also would be raised, or sacred" about the $55 payment.

But Hon. George Marler (L—Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount) said a $6 boost by the Liberal government last spring, "will not the federal old age security fund "very much in the red." The government should say how it planned to meet the deficit.

Mr. Monteith indicated it will be up to Finance Minister Fleming to decide whether to meet it.

Ont. Tories Told They Must Fight to Keep Govt. in Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario branch of the party which swatted last June from federal opposition to government was warned Monday it must fight to stay there.

More than 1,000 delegates to the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association's annual meeting heard Prime Minister Fulton outline the Liberal return-to-power campaign as being based on exploitation of "any latent possibilities of national disunity."

Earlier, the convention heard Charlotte Whitton, former mayor of Ottawa, warn the Liberals would "concentrate on rebuilding and they going to begin to fight Ontario."

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, secretary of state, expanded the theme and said women must play a part in the overall planning and work in the party's usually relegated to women alone.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is scheduled to address the convention today.

Mr. Fulton said the Conservative party has emerged as it did at the 1867 confederation, "as the only truly national party."

"Nor is it strange that our opponents in the 20 days gone by have sought to play on fears of the development of Canada for Canadians and Canada for Canada's people, are to open up and exploit any latent possibilities of national disunity."

Four former Liberal cabinet ministers, Paul Martin, Hon. James Sinclair and Hon. George Marler were there to be "occasional whipping boys" for Mr. Pearson.

Whether government acted to help farmers, agriculture, the Liberal party tried to represent it as hostile to the interests of fishermen. When the government tried to bring about Commonwealth trading relationships, the Liberals tried to present the attempts as hostile to Canadian interests.

Armed Robbery Charges Brings 2-Year Terms

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A man and a youth who pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of the Royal Bank of Canada in Norwood, Ont. last month were sentenced today to two years in reformatory.

Elmer Armstrong, 35, of Carp, and 17-year-old James Watson of Armstrong were each sentenced to two years less a day definite and one year indefinite on the subsidiary count and one year definite for car theft. The sentences will run concurrently.

The bank was held up Oct. 2 by two armed men who escaped with $3,718. Four hours later Ontario Provincial Police arrested Armstrong and Watson while they drove along the Twin Lakes road, 20 miles northeast of Norwood which is 16 miles east of here.

CHEESE BOARD GETS INDIRECT TAXING POWER

Order-in-Council Passed on Oct. 19

OTTAWA (CP) — An order-in-council has been passed conferring federal indirect taxing powers on the Ontario cheese marketing board.

No announcement was made of the order passed Oct. 19, the first under the taxing powers legislation introduced by the former Liberal administration. It was understood at least two other Ontario boards — wheat and dry bean—plan to seek similar powers.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, as opposition leader, had sharply criticized a clause in the legislation requiring that any person accused under the legislation must prove his innocence. Normally such onus of proof is on the prosecution. So far no action has been taken to amend the legislation.

HAD ASKED DELAY

The Canadian Manufacturers Association urged Oct. 23 to the government to consider the effect of granting the indirect taxing powers to organizations which could monopolize the marketing of products. In a brief to Agriculture Minister Harkness asked that the Ontario board's application be kept up for "full study of the long-run possible effects."

Under the order the cheese board may impose a fee or levy to collect tax of nine-tenths of one cent a pound to equalize returns to producers from the sale of their reserves. The fee normally is incorporated in the selling price and in this sense borne by the consumer.

An estimated 10,000 to 11,000 cheese producers, turning out about 45,000,000 pounds a year, will be affected.

Two months ago the Canadian Association of Consumers argued that the government should be cautious about granting the powers before they would be passed along to boards exercising subsidiarity to ensure that competition is maintained, should be exercised only by responsible government officials.

Engineer at U.S. Missile Centre Sees Brilliant Car-Stalling "Egg"

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)— A missile engineer reported seeing a brilliant colored egg-shaped object which stalled his car here Monday at about the same time the U.S. Air Force announced the launching of similar reports in this and other areas.

Witnesses say a mystery object skipped about the countryside miles ahead. As it passed — I could feel a kind of heat wave, like radiation from a giant sun lamp. But there was no sound. It had no visible portholes and there was no tail.

"When I got back to my car I found the engine, I found it intact but the battery was steaming. But the engine started with no assistance. I called the air force and notified them.

The object moved very rapidly and its surface looked like "glowing mother of pearl."

Allan D. Baker of Las Cruces, N.M., reportedly shot pictures of the object.

Col. Barney Oldfield of the air defence command said "The object was not picked up by radar. It did not seem to be traceable."

Family Car Gone, Stop Teen-Ager At Parry Sound

Police Hold Boy Under 16, Victims Both Shot in Head

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CCP) — A mother and her child were found shot to death in their home at Kirby's Corners, three miles north of here, Monday night. Police are holding a juvenile for questioning.

Police identified the victims as Mrs. Patricia Murphy, 30, and her three-year-old daughter Rosalie. Both had been shot through the head with a .22-calibre rifle.

Police said a family car was missing and roads blocks were set up. The juvenile was picked up at Parry Sound on the Georgian Bay, 55 miles north of Orillia.

FOUND WIFE DEAD

The shootings were discovered about 8:45 p.m. Monday night when Gordon Murphy, the husband and father, returned home. Ontario Provincial Police Insp. T. S. Crawford said Murphy called a doctor who pronounced Mrs. Murphy dead. The doctor said she had apparently died immediately.

The child was still alive and was brought to hospital here where she died in shortly.

Insp. Crawford said Murphy found his wife and child in the living floor. Another child, an eight-months-old boy, was in the house at the time but was not injured.

The inspector said the shootings had apparently occurred about 6 p.m. EST Monday.

U.S. Air Force Buys Four Bears, Not for 'Moon'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force disclosed Monday that it has purchased four black bears —but said they positively will not be passengers in future U.S. space satellites.

Personal effects salvaged from the wreckage of the crash which claimed the lives last August of all 79 persons aboard were put in 36 boxes and delivered to Legion headquarters here.

Rain, Fog Make Hunting Poor For Opening of Deer Season

Back in the northern haunts where the deer roost and the moose bull their way through the undergrowth, a small army of hunters is trekking, some fuming and the majority champing at the bit.

Old Man Weather put an effective quietus on the opening day of the deer-hunting season yesterday shutting out this entire Tweed district of the Department of Lands and Forests under an umbrella of rain and fog.

Today, a Lands and Forests official said, the cloudy condition was still evident but the mists were lifting and the rain had stopped. Up to this moment, he said, there had been no snow in the district.

However the prospects for a good "kill" this year are good. The deer population is about the same as last season, with hunters out in good force.

Deer "signs" are better in some parts of the district than others, with the better "sign" showing south of Highway No. 7. The district to the south has been extended this year to the new Highway 401.

Little or no reports of kills had trickled in to Lands and Forests headquarters today, the official said.

SHOOTS MOOSE IN ERROR

There was one kill, however. Back in Griffith's township, north of Denbigh, a resident living hunter drew a bead on an "animal" in the underbrush, brought it down, then discovered it was a moose, king size.

He reported the kill to officials claiming it was an accidental one and he did not want the moose. Officials are considering plans to use a helicopter to bring the huge chunk of meat out of the woods.

Lands and Forests officers will attend to the annual systematic checks of hunters and deer. Check stations will be established this year at Hillbridge, Kaladar and Arnprior.

Some Aldermen Critical of Work Progress on Line

Criticism of slow work progress by the Lakeland Natural Gas Company which was said to be already a week behind its promised schedule in completion of pipe-laying work on Dundas Street was heard last night in city council.

Alderman Dr. John Stock said the firm had promised Dundas Street would be completed in two weeks' time but the work is already a week late and will not be finished for another week.

The alderman said that the re-routing of highway traffic along Bridge Street was resulting in a heavy loss of business for service station operators and other business men along Dundas Street.

There were also a few misgivings expressed by other aldermen who asked if the same delay in completion of work might be expected on Front Street.

City Manager Drury Denyes said he had been speaking with Lakeland officials frequently in an effort to have the work speeded up but they claimed they were unable to do anything possible.

Mr. Denyes said the original intention on Front Street was to complete the laying of pipe one block at a time but had decided to do several blocks simultaneously in an effort to speed the work. He promised he had promised to have Front Street completed by 30th and said that the speed the work was progressing it was felt this date would be met.

City Engineer Charles Mott said the work was being done as rapidly as possible.

"The contract calls for Lakeland Gas to pour a concrete sub-base over the tamped ditch fill following which a two-inch asphalt top would be laid by the city to repair the pavement. Laying of the asphalt top is to be paid for by Lakeland Gas.

New Engineer M. Turnbull Arrives in City

Since November 1st the city of Belleville had a new commissioner of works.

He is Malcolm Turnbull, Scottish professional engineer who comes to Belleville from the city of Ottawa where for the past seven months he has been with the streets and sanitation department.

A native of Edinburgh, he was senior engineer in that city for nine years before deciding to come to Canada to settle down. "I hope that Belleville is the spot," he says.

In recent months the engineering department in Belleville has seen considerable re-organization.

Still head of the department is City Engineer Charles Mott who now has Mr. Turnbull as commissioner of works to take care of much of the outside detail.

Former superintendent of works, Mr. Clifford Matthews, has gone with the city assessing department, and Mr. Adam Stalker, former building inspector, has been named superintendent in his place. Building inspector and chief clerk is Mr. Grant Sickels, former stock keeper at the city yards.

Re-Zoning Recommendation To Make Commercial Area Is Postponed Indefinitely

After a delay of many weeks during which time the matter has been periodically discussed, city council last night decided to lay over indefinitely a recommendation calling for the west side of Church street from Bridge to Campbell street to be re-zoned as a commercial district.

The matter is now before the Ontario Municipal Board which held a public hearing in the city during the late summer on an application from Mr. James Jenkins to have the above area rezoned as commercial to enable the establishment of a hotel parking lot.

As a residential area a commercial parking lot would be illegal in the area.

Speaking on the recommendation Mayor Jane Forrester said the matter had been "put on and off" for more than a year-and-a-half. She pointed out that council was asking business to provide parking and the only way this could be done was to expand the commercial area.

Referring to the fact that a parking lot had already been established in the Church street area, Mayor Forrester noted that the lot was not confined to hotel clientele parking and therefore there was no infringement of the by-law.

Opposed to the recommendation was Alderman Ben Safe who objected strenuously to the establishment of a parking lot adjacent to his home.

NOT AN OLD ONE

"The present zoning by-law is not an old one and was adopted by council in 1953 and approved by the municipal board in 1954," he said.

"You are simply being asked to legalize an illegal act by an influential citizen of this city," he said.

He said that council had already voted no on the question on two different occasions.

"I don't think council will be on the dangerous ground of establishing a precedent. There are enough laws on the books for the rich and one for the poor."

Alderman Dr. John Stock wanted to know if any illegality had taken place and was told by City Solicitor A. R. Pringle that as yet there had been no illegality.

"Then what was the hearing for?" asked Ald Doug Mcxam, "and why have the by-law changed?" Ald. Safe replied in code.

MAYOR DISAGREES

Mayor Forrester disagreed that council had previously voted no to re-zoning the area. What council had done was to lay the matter over, she said.

Alderman Wilbur Deroy observed that the municipal board had failed to make such decisions, while Ald Digby moved the matter be tabled indefinitely as one of the most controversies triggered by the city solicitor.

On a recorded vote the motion to table was carried by a 7-5 vote.

"This is just passing the buck," tommented Mayor Forrester as the vote was taken.

Cattle Breeding Unit Outlined To Rotarians

Members of the Rotary Club yesterday were told that it is now possible for a bull grazing in an Ontario pasture to become the sire of a calf in Australia without leaving home.

Dr. J. M. McLean, manager of the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association, told his fellow Rotarians that because of great advances made in the study of artificial insemination, cows in almost all parts of the world now can bears calves of Canadian bulls.

He pointed out that it is now possible to produce healthy calves through processes of artificial insemination using semen from a bull that has been dead for some time. A few years ago this was not possible. However, after researchers found a way of freezing fresh semen and mixing it with egg yolk and sodium citrate to preserve it for weeks, and even years, cattle breeders the world over have been able to improve their herds quite satisfactorily.

Artificial insemination is still in its infancy in Canada since it only began in the late 1940s. Now there is no cattle breeder in Ontario who cannot be assured success.

Dr. McLean said that many of the herds in the counties bordering Hastings County have been bred through artificial insemination.

He remarked that experiments on swine will be conducted this year at the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph. Artificial insemination has been used successfully on swine in the Netherlands for some time.

One of the apparent advantages of this new method of conception is that several hundred descendants which attack naturally-born calves have not appeared in Canada since the first importation.

The Breeders' Association near Belleville is employing frozen semen in selective breeding. Although semen from over 100 bulls men is killed, it has been found that by adding glycerine to it some protection is provided.

Danger of Play On R.R. Tracks Featured in Talks

Hazards faced by children who play on the ground railway property are being brought to the attention of the Public and Separate school children in Belleville this week by G. E. Appleby and Constable Dan Dippie of the C.P.R. Department of Investigation, by means of a series of short, illustrated safety talks. This series of illustrated talks is done with the co-operation of the city police force.

The branch of the railway is more concerned with the risks confronting youngsters who innocently or wantonly endanger their lives and limbs by playing in railway yards, or walking on tracks, than railway police force which constitutes the part of the human life and safety as important as the protection of the company's property, and no branch of the railway is better qualified to do this than Constable J. L. LePage, head of the Canadian Pacific Railway's department of investigation, in Ontario, addresses this appeal to the public:

"We are asking your help in keeping children from needlessly losing their lives and limbs along railway tracks and yards as a playground. We are also asking your co-operation in our educational campaign to prevent trespassing by passengers and employees, and damage to railway property and equipment by vandals and thoughtless acts of children. Serious accidents have resulted from children throwing stones at trains, by placing obstructions on tracks and by tampering with switches and signal rods.

As parents, guardians, or simply friends of children, you can do your part by teaching youngsters the dangers of play on the right-of-way or interfering with the operation of trains. Without your wholehearted support and co-operation, our task is extremely difficult. Through their inexperience and thoughtlessness children are endangering others using our railway? Insist that your children respect safely and keep off the tracks."

Ratepayers Petition Thurlow Council to Improve Traffic Conditions on College St.

At a special meeting of the Thurlow Township Council held in the township hall Monday night, a delegation of between 30 and 80 ratepayers made a representation to the council with regards to the hazards of traffic problems on College Street.

Before a meeting which was further heated at times, was presidated by the recent tragic death of a child on this road.

Spokesmen for the ratepayers presented a general review to the council covering representations which they had made annually to the council over a period of some five years. The council was asked what steps they had taken to correct the conditions on College Street and what steps they were planning to take in the immediate future.

The ratepayers were advised that a detailed study had been made of conditions on the Dundas-Golf Course Street; that plans and recommendations had been made in this study and that present Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers, and township had drafted an agreement and submitted same to the City of Belleville with regards to the sharing of costs for these improvements.

FRIENDLY CO-OPERATION

It was suggested that when the township stated they planned to undertake any of these improvements, city council lost interest in co-operating with the former. It was further pointed out by the Thurlow council that the Dundas-Golf Course Street connection from Street to the Belleville Secondary School on city property, was paid for jointly by the township and the city, and did represent something rather rare in that one municipality paid for the installation of an improvement in another municipality.

The delegation pointed out that they had been advised that an Ontario land development scheme on that all of College Street lay within the township's boundaries. With this in mind the delegation requested that the council take immediate steps to widen College Street and to improve it according to the recommendations and study made by Gore and Storrie, and they proceed with the preliminary work on this at once, and, if unable to reach agreement, that the work be debentured after clearing this with the Municipal Board, due to the present application for annexation which is before the board.

SUGGESTIONS SUBMITTED

The submission from the ratepayers recommended, with the approach of winter, this complete and permanent job could not be done until spring, but requested that the council take the following steps immediately to improve traffic conditions and the physical condition of College Street.

(1) That the Council approach the Provincial Police to ensure that the road would be patrolled, particularly during the period when traffic conditions are heavy and when children are going and coming to and from school.

(2) That large signs be erected on the road, stating "School Area Drive Slowly With Extreme Caution."

(3) That stop signs be installed on College Street and Lemoine Street, making this intersection a four-way stop, to allow pedestrians to cross the street in safety.

(4) That a stop sign be erected on College St. at the junction of Sidney and College Streets.

(5) That the township investigate the feasibility, and, if permission is granted, to install a stop light on the corner of College St. and North Front Street, that this be done in co-operation with the city council and the provincial department of highways.

(6) That the knoll just northwest of Quinte Secondary School be cut back on the north side of the road in a manner similar to that presently being done by the city on the south side of the road.

(7) That steps be taken to complete the walk erected a few from Lemoine Street west to Sidney Street.

(8) That the ditch full in the area north of College Street to build a shoulder on the road, similar to that being built on the south side by the city, and that this be proceeded with at once while suitable and low cost fill is available which is presently being excavated from the industrial building now under construction in Belleville.

The council promised to take immediate action on some of the requests made by the delegation and further stated that they would meet with the Parkview Ratepayers' Association on the night of November 12, at the Parkdale Community Centre to review in detail the requests of the delegation.

Council Votes to Acquire Property at Rear of Stores To Provide More Parking

The second stage of a three-phase program to provide additional off-street parking will be proceeded with almost immediately following a unanimous decision of council which last night voted to start expropriation proceedings to acquire property at the rear of Front street stores and south of the footbridge gangway.

Plans call for paving and installation of parking meters on the property.

Alderman Ralph Graham noted that the three-stage program for off-street parking included the Pinnacle Street municipal parking lot, the area at the rear of Front Street stores south of the footbridge gangway and the area behind Front Street stores and north of the gangway.

Belleville merchants, through the Chamber of Commerce have pledged themselves to raise funds to assist in the cost of the off-street parking project and were now asking that the city take steps to commence the second stage.

The merchants' campaign to raise funds "to assist with the cost for the off-street" has been somewhat successful with about $38,000 pledged, the alderman said.

This would be treated by the parking committee as a loan and would be paid back out of meter revenue.

PRICED BELIEVED NOMINAL

The five owners of property required for the off-street parking area south of the footbridge gangway had not committed themselves as to what price they expected for their lands but several aldermen felt the price in mind would be nominal.

Alderman Graham said however that in the best interests of the city the best action would be to expropriate. Then, if agreeable to the price the matter would go up for arbitration.

By starting expropriation proceedings the city was not committing itself to pay the price which may be arbitrated. If the city was not satisfied with this price it could reject the deal.

Alderman Les Digby agreed that off-street parking was required but said he was strongly opposed to what he termed was a "loaded deal."

He said he was opposed to the city paying money to purchase property owned by merchants which is already being used for parking.

He said the area was already used for employee parking. "Let the merchants use their $37,000 to fix up the lot. Let's not get the city into a 'loaded deal'," he said.

Ald. Digby said if new parking areas were to be developed there might be some excuse for the city to get involved.

A BIT SKEPTICAL

The alderman was also a bit skeptical of the decision of council to take parking meter receipts from the general fund and use them to pay for off-street parking facilities.

Ald. Ian Sinclair couldn't see the project as being a "loaded deal" as was suggested by Ald. Digby.

"Some people forget that the business area pays a large share of the total taxes. The city is only as strong as its commercial area," he maintained.

Alderman Frank Grandame complimented Ald. Graham for what he said was an excellent job in providing parking but claimed it did not make sense to buy property from merchants to provide parking for merchants' customers.

Then, speaking of the money pledged by merchants to assist in paying the cost of the parking area, Ald. Grandame pointed out that this was to be treated as a loan. "They (the merchants) will get their money back."

Ald. Robt. Temple agreed with Ald. Safe that the city's commercial assessment pays many tax dollars and warned that unless off-street parking was provided business in the downtown area would be slowly stranded. He agreed that parking meter receipts should be used to provide parking.

"It's time we gave the merchants something for their money," he said.

ADVOCATES SPECIAL FUND

"We are going to do just what I advocated when parking meters were first put in this city", said Alderman Tice. "I advocated that the money derived should not be put in general revenue but should be put in a special fund and if this had been done, there would have been plenty of money now to go with this project without the help of the merchants. The money in this fund could also have been used to pay maintenance cost on streets, which would have saved the home owner some of the load."

Ald. Doug. Moxam felt it was the duty of council to support the measure. "It's time we started getting some action in the city," he said.

Mayor Jane Forrester agreed with the recommendation declaring it was time the city showed some leadership. The matter in question was used for employee parking now and if metered would be available for customers, she said.

FAVORS AUTHORITY

She favored the setting up of a parking authority with lots to be operated as a business project.

Ald. Robertson said he still was not entirely in favor of expropriation of private property for parking lots of the owners had plans for using their properties for business purposes.

In reply Ald. Graham said only one owner has posed any objection of expropriation but in view of the city's proposal of planned parking, had agreed to forego the expansion plan.

On a recorded vote the recommendation to expropriate the properties required was carried by an 11 to 3 vote with only Alders. Digby and Grandame opposing.

Will Try to Buy Bushy Island In Bay of Quinte

The city of Belleville may soon become owner, or part owner, of Bushy Island, in the Bay of Quinte.

Last night at city council the board of control was empowered to negotiate with the Ontario Department of Highways, who are the present owners.

But the island will be used for possible road widening purposes and not as a summer retreat for city council.

Bushy Island is situated east of Zwick's Island and the Bay Bridge and is a part of it is a right-of-way.

City Engineer Charles Mott will determine what portion of the small island may be necessary for possible road widening and the city manager will negotiate with the department of highways.

And although within the present city limits, Hungerford is also in Ameliasburg township. So Belleville has a chunk out of three townships — Sidney, Thurlow and Ameliasburg.

SOUTH'S PRACTICAL JOKERS

American Resettlement Foundation Inc. plans to move low-income Southern Negro families to upper class northern neighborhoods.

The first family to be moved will pay only a dollar a year for rent of a $75,000 home in an exclusive all-white neighborhood in an unnamed northern city.

Who are the Good Samaritans behind American Resettlement Foundation Inc? Well, unfortunately, there aren't any, no Good Samaritans, that is. The aim of the Foundation is not to assist low-income Negro families, but to attempt to embarrass high-income white families. The Foundation was organized by Georgia State Senator A. A. Fowler, Georgia's Welfare Director Allan Kemper and Roy V. Harris, an Augusta, Ga., lawyer. Fowler is quoted as saying that the transfer of the first Negro family "will give one of the country's fine country estates integration a chance to practice some of the 'mixing' he has been preaching to the people of Georgia and the South."

Now we are all for people being required to practise what they preach, but as far as we know nobody has been suggesting that because a man has a dark skin he is necessarily a desirable neighbor. All that integrationists have contended is the possession of a dark skin does not necessarily make a man an undesirable neighbor. There is a great difference between the two contentions. We are not at all sure that American Resettlement Foundation can be trusted to give integrationists an even break, leaving the question of whether the transferred Negro families are good or bad neighbors to the laws of chance. We suspect that they might not be above handpicking the Negro families and resettling only those whose members are known to have objectionable character traits.

Nevertheless, we trust that integrationists in the upper class northern neighborhoods which are selected for the resettlement of these Negro families go out of their way to make these families welcome. There is nothing which will cure a practical joker faster than giving him a minimum of fun for a maximum expenditure - - and providing $75,000 homes for a dollar a year rent ought to make the joke fairly expensive.

ASSER JAILS COMMUNISTS

It may well be that the danger of Soviet Russia gaining a foothold in the Middle East and eventually turning Arab countries into her satellites is as acute as some persons believe it to be. But to admit this is not to accept the view, held by a few, that the present rulers of these lands are Communist sympathizers.

The Arab nations are countries where there is the sharpest kind of contrast between the lot of the wealthy few and the poverty-stricken masses. Immense riches and complete destitution can be found in close proximity.

This type of contrast could not exist if the poor had much political power. The rulers of the Arab lands, even when they oust a king like Farouk, do not turn power over to the peasants. It is to the starving masses, and a handful of intellectuals, that the Communists must look for their support. Therefore Communists are the natural foes of the present rulers of the Arab countries.

If one desires any proof of that statement, it was provided the other day by a ten-line Associated Press despatch from Cairo. This reported that an Egyptian military court had sentenced 13 Communists accused of "conspiring to overthrow the regime of President Nasser to prison terms ranging from two to seven years."

Nasser may accept arms from the Soviet Union and her satellites, but Nasser has no desire to see the Reds take control of Egypt. The danger is, of course, that they will do their despite his opposition, rather than with his connivance. Nasser and other Arab leaders apparently believe they are smart enough to trade with the devil and get the better of the bargain. Western diplomats, not unnaturally, wonder whether the Arab rulers are quite as clever as they fancy themselves to be.

JUST FOLKS

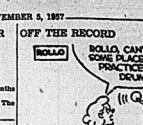
A PROTEST

I want to raise a protest here
About a time-worn silly phrase
That's quoted countless times a year,
And serves the gossips countless ways.
If some fair maid decides to wed
Of course all manner of men
Will say and wisely nod the head:
"She's not good enough for him."



And when a man has won a maid
And she agrees his life to share,
That last fact his all is laid
Why should the rank outsider care?

But when from church they drive away,
If conversation needs a spur,
You may depend on some to say:
"He is not good enough for her."

How wise the Master was when He Let Eve and Adam all alone.
Today it seems that He could see
Just what succeeding tribes have known.
Had others dwelt in Eden fair
The Master knew, we may suppose,
Of Adam some would then declare:
"He was not good enough for Eve."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 5th., 1937

Alderman Clarence Clapp, chairman of public works in the city council, announced today that he will not seek re-election at the coming municipal elections owing to lack of time to spare from his business.

Bishop A. M. Hubly, former pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church here, died in Vancouver Tuesday night Nov. 2nd. Bishop Hubly came to Belleville in 1901 and retired in 1918 and went to reside in Toronto; later he moved to Vancouver, B. C., and in 1933 he was consecrated a bishop of the Free Church of England. Bishop Hubly was a son of the late Reformed Episcopal Church in Canada. He was 82 years of age. The funeral will take place here with service in Emmanuel Church on Friday, Nov. 5th, and interment will take place in Belleville cemetery.

W. Lorne McDougall was elected president of the Y's Men's Club at a special meeting of the directors following the regular meeting of the club at the M.C.A. Monday evening. The election was made necessary due to the resignation of Jack Wilson owing to pressing business which did not allow enough time to devote to the work of the position. Mr. Wilson served loyally and efficiently for one year and a half. Don Ridley will take on the position of secretary vacated by Lorne McDougall when taking on the office of president.

Hall, Jimmie Lafferty, "Red" Townsend, Johnnie Ashley, Harry Redfern, "Fat" Kerr, "Chubby" Bisker, "Buster" Allaire and many others of the old clan will be there. The high school boys will miss "Nig" Ross, who is laid up and the backfield will be filled up with Galway, Redfern and Tommy Byrnes with "Wiener" St. Denis at wing. Man Not Fit For Space

By E. J. Meenan, Editor
Memphis Press-Scimitar

Some hold man's present aspiration to conquer space and reach other planets a high and noble adventure.

Rather it is another example of the folly of man.

This is "know-worldliness" in a new form. Formerly man was obsessed with the west after death. He was so concerned about the state of his soul in the next life that he neglected to learn how to live in this one. Modern theolo gians have put him out of step.

Now man is looking for other planets.

We've made a mess of this planet. The scars of soil erosion are seen on every continent. The damage below the surface is even greater.

With the multiplied consumption that comes from a mass production system we have to run with we are using up our mineral resources at an even faster rate, with only a hope, unwarranted by any known science, that somehow we'll find a way to replace them.

A truly civilized man would produce and use over all materials, if for no other reason than cleanliness, but our devastated landscapes grow wider and our refuse heaps grow higher and higher.

We talk gaily of a wonderful new age to come from the peaceful use of atomic energy — ignoring the fact that science does not know any method of disposing of atomic wastes safely.

Now, like the worst destructive farmer who wore out one farm and moved to another, we are looking for other planets.

Our spiritual leaders have taught us to give up obsession with a future life in the sky and give our attention to the eternal life we are now living. Wise men agree that if we learn how to live on earth we'll not only find a home in heaven but feel at home there.

The present obsession with other planets, this new otherworldliness, is just as unreasonable. It will take all our thought to learn how to live well on this planet, the only other planet we may reach will probably not prove to be a bit better than earth — and easier to wreck, no more pleasant to live on, if we care to learn how to live.

Why investigate to see whether man can survive in space? We not first see whether man can survive on earth? Between uncontrolled population and the atom bomb, it's doubtful.

And what's this chatter about spacemen? When we haven't learned to live with earthmen of different hue, despised from birth, get along with inhabitants of another planet?

Let's stay home.

Teaching Pipe-Smoking

New York Times

The world of man is divided into two parts: those who smoke pipes and those who do not. And the world of parents also is divided into two parts: those who positively forbid their children to smoke while they, the adults, are living under the parental roof, and those who do not remonstrate in the least if detected by children under 21 years of age in the habit. Of course, we take the philosophical view that if a young man decides it is time for him to try smoking it is better to have him undertake this venture in the living room than to begin out behind the garage (which, in suburbia, has taken the place of the barn of yesteryear).

So if one leans toward the latter view, it may not be surprising, also, to find that it is now that a young man who is pretty close to going off to school is thinking about acquiring a pipe and some tobacco. There is something about the aroma of smoke of burning leaves, perhaps — and there is no denying that of a certain age the desire to assert themselves, to prove that they are not as young men, and they seem to think that one way to demonstrate their maturity is to smoke a pipe. They may shave, from time to time, in their young men, but shaving is a task performed in the bathroom and therefore it is not in the same category as pipe-smoking, which can be done in public, with the flavor, oh's of an appreciative audience and, perhaps, encouragement. Not tied to believe, rightly or wrongly, that the man who smokes a pipe is good, strong, faithful and true.

One may have noticed, from time to time, that the household supply of tobacco has suffered on occasional inexplicable slump, and if one has suspected that a young man has been experimenting with the numbing qualities of nicotine, one has said nothing. But when the young man of the house, who could borrow one's own trousers with impunity, is discovered with a pipe in his mouth, one is moved to ask a few questions.

Irrigation Pipeline

Windsor Star

Mr. Roger Babson foresees the day when a new, man-made river will join the state's northern lakes—Great Bear, Great Slave, Athabaska and Winnipeg—and bring the six-state grouping of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas "blossom like a rose."

It is a long-range forecast, but there is no doubt that its possibilities too casually for us are interesting, realistic and economist. The carrying out of such a project, if feasible from the engineering point of view, would be much more than a matter of men, machines and financing. Those lakes are Canada's territorial possessions, and the new man-made waterway would extend hundreds of miles into the heart of Canadian territory. It is the widest presumption to regard Mr. Babson as a wild visionary in such day-dreaming or planning. Many more of our best friends may as well realize that from the start.

Mr. Babson thinks well of this idea, incidentally, Mr. Babson concedes it's not his. Credit for conception is given one Mr. John W. Fowler, of Hempstead, N.Y., a lawyer, under thinks big thoughts, he also has some grandiose notions that he can't be accused of stealing.

It's his thought, as Mr. Babson envisages it, that the flow of the Great Lakes should be changed "so that instead of this fresh water running out of Superior the St. Lawrence into the Atlantic, it would run westward, and would flow westerly and be distributed where needed. "So much for the new lakes and the St. Lawrence and Niagara power developments, and the unbelievable benefits of the million whose lives are conditioned by them! Mr. Babson's friend has gone from

Colored Folk Get Cheers

Nicholas in the London
New Statesman

A few nights ago, I was at a nurses' prize-giving in a large country town. A little girl after girl went on to the platform—applause took place. A school boy, from friends and family. Then a roar of applause, about ten times louder than the previous level: it was a colored girl walking on.

The second applause, I wondered? But just the same thing happened. Then a third time. The second colored girl was clapped all the way across the platform. Then a third girl. A fifth girl, perhaps, but that was not half of it.

The point is, color-discrimination is the one world problem everyone seems enough there. I forgive to understand. People have grown up that they mirrored with an overwhelming majority all over the world have decided they will stand no more of it.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DEADPAN AND LOW PULSE

The word "enthusiasm" is derived from a Greek word meaning "inspired by a god." It has been shortened down to modern English until it means that general fervor and zeal which one may find in a football game.

But an amazing amount of enthusiasm has departed from this world in recent decades. This is noticeable among all classes, but particularly among the young generation of enthusiasm is considered not good form.

A few evenings ago I heard a college professor speaking to an audience of freshmen. He was telling them how to be popular in college. Never wear a necktie, he said if you do you will be taken for a faculty member. Never wear anything clean. Go about with dirty clothes, look and act slovenly. Never say anything you haven't heard someone else say at least twenty times. Finally, never make a good mark. Once in a while be late to class, but in a straight face, a student may slip by with a "D" in some subject, but if it can be proved that he never did any studying, it will be forgiven and forgotten.

Of course he was speaking facetiously, and the students roared with laughter.

But here is an example of what we are up against. Dead pan and low pulse are popular among modern youth. No enthusiasm. To be enthusiastic is bad, bad form.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

It Is Interesting If True But Anyway It Is Profitable

"This summer when I was visiting my brother, I happened to mention that I eat an egg every morning for breakfast. "He has a son who is a Doctor of Internal Medicine. "My brother told me his son says that if I continue to eat so many eggs I will perhaps eventually develop a coronary lesion. He says cholesterol deposits have been found in heart tissue or in the coronary arteries in a great many autopsies.

Is this true? If so what is your advice.

(Signed Mrs. R. P.)"

What the doctor says about the findings in autopsies is true. But what he says about what will happen to you if you continue to eat an egg every day is absurd, in my opinion. Nobody really knows whether the cholesterol in such excellent, healthful foods as milk, eggs and meat is in any way related to the cholesterol deposits or plaques commonly found at autopsy, in the coronary and other arteries, in the heart, in the joints, no matter what may have been the cause of death.

There is no proof that limiting the intake of high cholesterol foods prevents them from the diet will prevent atherosis or coronary arterial or joint trouble of any kind.

One correspondent told me her two elderly bachelor uncles carefully dissect out all fat from any meat they eat, as they won't develop atherosclerosis, clogged or other dire consequence of consuming too much cholesterol. Maybe the old boys enjoy practising such self-denial.

I believe this to-do about "cholesterol" deposits and high blood cholesterol levels is founded on ignorance of pathology. One might as well imagine babies will eventually develop arteriosclerosis if they continue to take so much milk as that is the richest food source of calcium.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is a confession of faith. During recent weeks, I have been telephoned, written to and met on the streets by many gentlemen with the public attacks in the press on Her Majesty the Queen. One of these critics is a journalist, who for a time, had been the holders of the sceptre, the crown, the sceptre, the orb and the sword. There is something close to religion in the attitude of most of us towards the throne. The crown is the most religious symbol of our history and our destiny. We can, and have, removed the holder, and the crown remains miraculously suspended while we insert another bearer under it. But whoever bears it has our devotion, even, as the past two generations have shown, unto death.

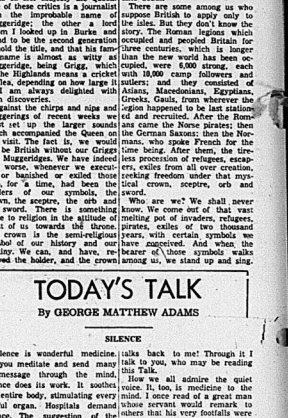
There are some among us who suppose Britain to apply only to the isles. But they don't know the story. The Roman legions which occupied and peopled Britain for three centuries, which is longer than the new world has been occupied, were 6,000 strong, each with 10,000 camp followers and sutlers; and they consisted of Italians, Spaniards, Portuguese, Greeks, Gauls, from wherever the ocean-highways of the Mediterranean and recruited. After the Romans came the Norse pirates; then the Norman Saxons; then the Normans, who spoke French for the time being; and then the endless procession of refugees, escapees, exiles from all over creation, seeking freedom under that mystical crown, sceptre, orb and sword.

Who are we? We shall never know. We come out of that vast confusion of Britons, refugees, pirates, exiles of two thousand years, with certain symbols we have conceived. And when the bearer of those symbols walks among us, we stand up and sing.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SILENCE



Silence is wonderful medicine. As you meditate and send many a message through your mind, silence does its work. It soothes the entire body, stimulating every useful organ. Hospitals demand silence. The suggestion of a physician is to "keep quiet."

There is room for an inventor who will devise a way to pump silence in a forest as well as traffic in our largest cities Living as I do on the edge of a great city, what a blessing is accorded to me when I awake at night — and enjoy the silence of my home, right now so beautiful with the colorful leaves that have fallen in masses for many days.

I love to listen to the silence of the sea when calm, and I am thrilled by the rain's patter upon the roof of my home in silence when the shower is over. Most of these Talks are written at night in the silence. I love to silent and so full of peace. I imagine the voices of scores of authors as I sit and listen. Even this small typewriter is a silent one, yet it is not wholly so.

European Military Bases Not Obsolete Says Pearson

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Russian launching of a dog-carrying satellite into space has been described by Hon. Lester B. Pearson as "the most far-reaching scientific development of our time."

But while Sputnik launchings have "given quite a shock to everyone," Mr. Pearson denied at a press conference Monday a Russian claim that intercontinental rockets developed by Russia have made Western European military bases obsolete.

The 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner and former Canadian external affairs minister said Sputnik launchings undoubtedly will expedite American efforts in this field.

"In six months the United States will launch its satellite," he said. World tensions then will drop back to pre-Sputnik days.

Commenting on Nikita Khrushchev's claim—broadcast by Moscow radio Sunday that Russian military missile developments have made obsolete Western defence bases ringing the Soviet Union, Mr. Pearson said: Khrushchev sometimes talks loosely. I'm sure he is quite anxious to see Western countries feel that their defence efforts have been wasted.

U.S. THREAT

"Don't think for a minute they are obsolete, because the United States still has the ability of manning a massive retaliation. As long as it can Mr. Khrushchev will be cautious in turning to war."

Once called the head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's three wise men, Mr. Pearson said "fear created by Russian advancements and power has brought NATO countries closer together.

"We can thank Khrushchev for the fear that is cementing nations together to search for a solution. It has resulted in the first NATO meeting to be attended by the heads of the 15 member nations.

"But we must find something else besides fear to cement our unity," he said.

Trenton Ousts Quinte Saints With 24-0 Win

By ALLAN SILLS

Trenton broke into the lead on a touchdown by Hutchison on a quarter sneak in the second quarter. After recovering a Quinte fumble, Trenton moved 45 yards for the score. Twice Quinte threatened to score but were unable to click.

Late in the third quarter Cottrell broke loose for a 76-yard run to give Trenton a 12-0 lead. Quinte fell to pieces in the fourth quarter as Kennedy, a lineman, raced 40 yards after picking up a Quinte fumble. Cottrell finished the scoring as he raced 54 yards for the T.D. giving Trenton an undisputed 24-0 victory.

Quinte lacked the drive that they displayed during the season has they fumbled on many occasions.

Kerruish, Ritchie, Clarke, Garrison, Aquino, Green and McGurn stood out for Quinte while Scott, Cottrell and Anderson produced a fine ground game for Trenton.

Trustee Head Raps Catholic Request for Provincial Aid

WINDSOR (CP)—Orval Grant of Sault Ste. Marie, retiring president of the Ontario Public School Trustees Association, says request for special provincial aid by separate school groups would result in public school supporters aiding separate schools.

In a speech to the association's annual meeting Monday, he said:

"All pronouncement by the separate schools are thinly disguised pleas for special aid from the government and are being solicited for the operation of schools for Roman Catholics.

"Main purpose of these schools is to spread the Roman Catholic faith and to convert as many as possible of the "godless" public school supporters who may be attending."

Separate schools could solve their financial difficulties by allowing only the children of separate school supporters. "Why not limit enrolment to the number the board can afford?"

OBVIOUS FACT

He said:

"One obvious and important fact will not be admitted by any separate school board. That is that Roman Catholic separate school supporters in Ontario are and always have been an economically poor minority."

Separate schools in several centres "have been expanding madly without due regard to cost." Mr. Grant said the provincial-last year gave public schools $89,399,997 and separate schools $10,516,072.

The convention heard pleas for higher teachers salaries, more teachers and better quality teaching.

J. N. Wilker of St. Catharines, assistant superintendent of elementary education, Ontario education department, told delegates:

"Paying high enough salaries to attract highly competent teachers is a guilt-edged investment that pays great dividends. Paying low salaries for the services of poor teachers is wasteful and extravagant."

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maxwell, of Shannonville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon May, to James Haywood Rainie, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rainie, Harold, Ontario. The marriage is to take place Saturday, November 23rd, 1957, at 12.00 o'clock in Grace Chapel, Stirling.

Wedding

LAKE — DOYLE

Tall bronze standards of white gladioli, mingled with gleaming huckleberry sprays, adorned the sanctuary of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, October 12, at 10.00 a.m. for a pretty fall wedding when Margaret Elizabeth Doyle, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Lee Patrick Doyle, became the bride of William Richard Lake, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hamilton Lake. The Reverend William McGee officiated.

Miss Dorothy Grant presided at the console of the organ rendering the nuptial wedding music and accompanying the soloist, Mr. Albert Burke in his rendition of "Ave Maria", "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Arthur James Doyle, the bride was lovely in her full-length, imported, bridal gown of frost-white bombazine, fashioned on princess lines with fitted bodice, having cathedral motif, and bateau neckline outlined in seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt was completemented by a matching crinoline. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a nosegay of red and white rosebuds and cascading streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Mrs. Allen Vance, of Belleville, as matron of honor; Mrs. Grant Kells, of Belleville, sister of the bride, and Mrs. George Newton of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in crystal blue, embroidered organza with Elizabethan cumberbunds and bows of matching taffeta. They wore matching shoes and hats and carried nosegays of white and pink carnations tied with pink streamers and mingled with pink roses.

Little Amber Vance, of Belleville, as flower girl was daintily gowned in her white Venetian-cut, nylon dress over a blue taffeta foundation. She wore blue and white button 'mums in her hair and carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations mingled with pink roses and tied with pink streamers.

Mr. Allen Vance, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Galloway of Trenton, and Mr. Grant Kells, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas St.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a two-tier wedding cake in blue and white, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom and clouded about the base with white tulle. Tall, white and pink candles in candelabra accented the bridal note.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing navy shantung with matching accessories, and corsage of pink, Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, gowned in powder blue nylon lace with matching accessories and corsage of red, American Beauty roses.

Guests attended from Trenton, Detroit, Toronto, London, Ontario; Canilton and Halloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Lake will reside in Belleville.

Showers honoring the bride were held by Mrs. George Newton, Mrs. Franklin Lake and Mrs. Allan Vance and by the bride's co-workers at the home of Mrs. Robert Beal, Camilton.

Guides', Brownies' Leaders Gather

A training day was held at the Kiwanis Centre on Saturday for all the Girl Guide and Brownie leaders in Hastings District. Leaders were present from Madoc, Stirling, Havelock, Marmora, Napanee and Belleville.

Two classes were held, Miss Margaret Potter of Toronto instructed the Brownie Guiders, and Mrs. Eva Smith of Trenton instructed the Guide Guiders. All of the leaders came away from the classes inspired with new ideas and with the desire to improve their Brownie Packs and Girl Guide Companies.

Speakers Want More Women In Politics

TORONTO (CP)—Two leading women Progressive Conservatives have advocated a more active role for women in politics.

Secretary of State Fairclough and former Ottawa mayor Dr. Charlotte Whitton both stressed Monday that women should run as candidates, not merely work behind the scenes.

They addressed the women's advisory board of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association at a business session. Later a reception was held for Mrs. John Diefenbaker.

Dr. Whitton said: "It is not good enough for us to work our fingers off and still not carry any women as candidates in ridings where there is any hope of success. We've got to get some women nominated and we've got to elect them."

Mrs. Fairclough said: "What they (the women) want is a voice and a representative voice in the councils of our nation. I can't leave this meeting of politically active women without urging you to do something in that direction."

Mrs. William Tatham of Campbellford was elected chairman of the board.

Major Problems In Nursing Are Discussed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian nursing profession's largest selfexamination ends today.

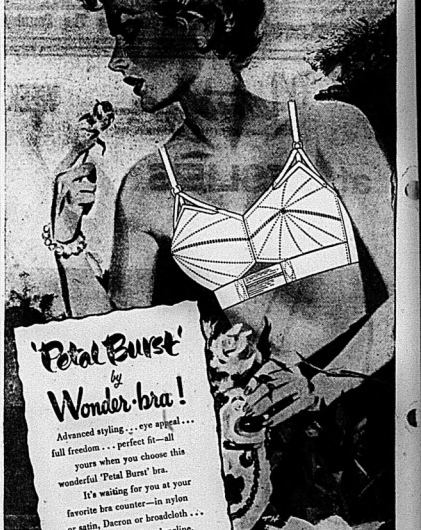
More than 100 representatives, a cross-section of Canadians attending the two-day, first Canadian Conference on Nursing generally agreed the conference may contribute to finding remedies for nursing problems.

The major problems being discussed in eight conference groups centre around Canada's population growth, medical advances and public expectations for more and better health services balanced against the increasing need and education of nurses and changes in nursing services required.

The groups, which are to present their findings and recommendations today, are pending for a definition of the real role of today's graduate nurse, studying the effective use of auxiliary personnel and attempting to accurately assess Canada's nursing needs.

Famous Hungarian Pianist, Louis Kentner, Is Heard In Brilliant Recital Here

By EUGENE LANG



Practically the entire membership of the Belleville Community Association was present in the Collegiate Auditorium last evening for the first o fthe 1957-58 series of concerts took place. The artist of the evening was the internationally renowned Hungarian pianist, Louis Kentner, who has captivated audiences all over the world with his brilliant playing and superb musicianship. Mr. Kentner is well known all over Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia as one of the leading virtuosi of the keyboard, but not until the fall of 1956 did he make his long awaited American debut when a packed house of music intelligentia at Town Hall acclaimed him as one of the finest artists of the generation. He has appeared with symphony orchestras the country over under the baton of leading conductors. In his present tour only two Canadian cities are privileged to hear him, Montreal and Belleville. Therefore local music lovers should count itself very fortunate to hear such a formidable pianist as Mr. Kentner played with such a special recital here.

The opening number chosen was the "Prelude, Chorale and Fugue" of Cesar Franck, a work of mystician and profundity in the hands of Mr. Kentner the majestic Prelude was the scene and contemplative Chorale and the monumental triple counterpoint fugue were enthralling in its mature and dignified summation that bespoke at once the hallmark of greatness with the cloister in the strongly suggested organ colors and sonorities of the composer. From the beginning the audience might have found the music hard to appreciably comprehend at first hearing; nevertheless they responded remarkably as Mr. Kentner climbed this musical Parnassus to its crowning peak of fugal perouation.

FLOWING, SINGING STYLE

Mozart's sombre toned Rondo un A Minor (K. 511) gave the pianist a respite from the power of the preceding work and a chance to exhibit his softly flowing singing style of a single toned embellished cantilena. Grace, charm, and subtlety of speech were all most apparent in Mr. Kentner's playing of this tricky but non-capricious spoken gem of Mozartiana.

After the delightful Mozartian etchings Mr. Kentner decided to use the full palette of colors in his musical portrayals on the huge canvas needed for the large limbs of the Chopin B Flat Minor Sonata Op. 35. This Sonata is by far the most popular of the three works in this form that Chopin wrote and is a "must" in the repertoire of all pianists. Although not a sonata in the true sense of the word, (Schumann called the four movements "four of Chopin's maddest children"), the composition contains wonderful music, filled with Chopin's usual moving sentiments. Mr. Kentner imbued the first movement with power and nobility, the second with the subtle and lyrical octave source motive. The closing chords of this movement, however, did get out of hand as the artist became over zealous in his chance to give them solidarity. Half notes in the time value of these chords united headlong into quarter note value in the frenzied oulburst, thus destroying these final measures the nobility that Chopin intended for them. The Scherzo was given a muscular power with the stormy sixth chords rushing like the wild wind. The Funeral March, perhaps the best known threnody in all music, was superb from first bell - like basses, through musical shrouds of death, the celestial radiance of the trio and back again to the sombre virtuoso dexterity of Mr. Kentner. Naturally, he being a Liszt specialist, he tossed all three off with ease and surety in a manner of grand bravura display.

Three encores were played to the continued applause of those "out front", Chopin's whimstical Etude in F Major, Op. 10 No. 8 the same composer's fleeting "Minute Waltz" and a delicate little Moment musical (F Minor) of Schubert. Everyone left the recital knowing that they had heard one of the finest pianists now giving concerts and it is to be hoped that Mr. Kentner will return to enhance Belleville more in the not-too-distant future.

Following the concert a small informal reception for the artist was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Cameron on East Bridge Street.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Through a friend of mine, I was introduced to a man who very kindly wrote a letter of introduction to a business friend of his in an effort to help me to obtain the special kind of position I very much wanted. The letter proved most beneficial, and I was given the job. Although I scarcely know the man who wrote the letter of introduction, don't you agree with me that I should write him a letter of thanks? If you agree, would you please give me some suggestions as to the form of this letter? — Grateful Reader

Of course you must write a letter of thanks to the man who so kindly wrote the letter of introduction for you. Indeed his special courtesy should be very especially thanked for . . . and the fact that you "scarcely know the man" makes this gesture-of-appreciation even more necessary!

Your letter might read something like this:

Dear Mr. Baker:

I do so very much want you to know how deeply grateful I am to you for your special goodness in writing your letter of introduction for me. . . of the — Company. You were very kind and generous to be so understanding and to take such an interest in my problem. Because of your kind letter I was given the interview, and last Tuesday was given the position. I cannot tell you how happy I am, and I assure you, sir, that I shall try in every way to merit your faith in me and your great courtesy to me.

My very best wishes to you, Mr. Baker, and again my deep appre-

. . . sincerely yours,

. . . WERING
. . . (Mrs.)

. . . and I have been invited to a formal evening wedding to take place in our church next month, and to the reception following. Not at all. When you arrive at the reception, take off your headcovering and leave it with your wrap.

Eat a Potato Every Day

By Mary Moore

Remember too that our own Dr. Pett, Chief of the Nutrition Division, Department National Health and Welfare, said (as I told you in September): "Potatoes contain quite a lot of other food value than calories. Vitamin C or ascorbic acid, vitamin B1 or Thiamine, iron and

In an ordinary week I asked the clerk for a 10-lb. bag of potatoes. He knows me well, so he said to me, pointing: "The imported potatoes are over there Mrs. Moore." Naturally I turned and looked to see a lamperful of washed-clean Idahos. But my back fur went up. Why should he take it for granted that I would want the imported variety?

Was I to blame by my buying habits? Honestly I don't think so, but so there would be no doubt in his or any other clerk's mind I said out loud "Oh no, I prefer our Canadian potatoes."

Now some of you who read me regularly (and . . . bless you for that!) may wonder why I keep harping. I'll tell you. I persist with economical ideas when our Canadian people are so prosperous and pay rolls are so high. 2) Why I advise the inexpensive cuts of meats when then are supposed to be fattening.

The answer to your hypothetical query No. 1 is that there are a great many Canadians on strict budgets still, and many of them who are our readers are depending on me for help and regardless of their low cost potatoes are so high in food qualities and nutrients that we should include them in our daily meals, and cook them in their skins often and eat that skin. 2) Whether you are on a reducing diet or not potatoes are not the bad boy of your diet. Other higher-starch foods and fats and sugars and just plain too much food are the culprits that should be shunted.

other minerals are all present in raw potatoes."

WANTS ONLY HER SISTERS AS BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For our small wedding in the chapel of our church, I had planned to have (particularly wanted to have) only a maid of honor (my older sister) and a junior bridesmaid (my younger sister, my only other sister). But now my bridegroom-to-be has informed me that he is to have two ushers. Should I, therefore, have another bridesmaid? — E.M.

This is not at all necessary, and since you have planned to have only your two sisters as your attendants (I like this ideal), I advise you keep this number. Then your Processional: first, the two ushers, walking together; next, the junior bridesmaid, alone; next, the maid of honor, alone; and last, you and your father or whoever is to escort you. And the Recessional: first, bride and bridegroom; next, maid of honor, either alone or with best man; next, the junior bridesmaid, alone and last, the two ushers, walking together.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

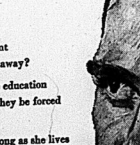
Chicken Liver Omelette, Currant Jelly; Broccoli with Mock or Genuine Hollandaise; Baked Summer Squash; Featherlight Spice Cake (see Monday); Cafe au Lait.

I have a three-in-one idea: I have attempted to combine potatoes with leftover meat, economically, in one dish, and believe that the dishes that follow are so delicious that you will put them into your regular menu patterns.

POTATO AND HAM SCALLOP

Wash very well 6 medium-sized potatoes. Pare them and cut into thin slices" (if you are real smart you will leave the skins on.) Arrange a layer in greased baking dish, then add a layer of diced cooked ham (using 2 cups in all), and a sprinkling of grated onion. Sprinkle with flour. Repeat this until dish is full. Season on top with salt and pepper, and dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Pour milk in until it just shows through the layer. Bake at 375 deg. F. until potatoes are tender — about 1 to 1-4 hours.

POTATO BEEF PATTIES



Combine 1 lb. ground beef with 1 cup of grated raw potato (1 or 3 small), 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Mix well and shape into patties. Place on broiler rack in preheated broiler 3 inches from heat and broil until browned, then turn over and do other side — each side requires about 10 minutes. These patties may be baked at 350 deg. F. if desired.

A delicious meal-stretcher.

Doctor Gives Medical Advice On Flying

Physicians can do a lot toward easing the fear and discomfort some people associate with flying according to a report from the American Medical Association received by the Health League of Canada. In the report, Lt. Col. Frederick S. Spiegel (MC), U.S. Air Force, Washington D.C. listed some of the things a doctor needs to know if he is to advise his patients about traveling by air.

He pointed out that more and more people are flying each year. Last year over 25 million passengers traveled on U.S. domestic air lines. Many people have had no experience with flying and go to their doctor for advice.

Among the things the doctor should know about airline regulations is that permission must be granted by the public health officials before any person with a contagious or communicable disease may be transported across state lines, or aboard pointed out.

SOME PRECAUTIONS

Diabetics requiring insulin may travel only if their insulin and syringe are in their hand baggage in the passenger cabin, he said.

Physicians generally agree that a woman with an uncomplicated pregnancy is not "sick" and can travel safely. However, if she wishes to do so in the very late stages of pregnancy, she must present a certificate from her physician stating that she will not deliver "for at least 72 hours," Colonel Spiegel said.

Infants less than six weeks old are not generally transported by commercial carriers unless there are extenuating circumstances Then a pediatrician's certificate is requested stating that the infant is healthy and physically fit to fly.

Patients recovering from recent coronary thrombotic attacks or those suffering from coronary insufficiency need careful examination before being allowed to fly. Anemic patients and those with certain types of respiratory difficulty also need careful checking the author said.

"Children are only fair air travelers," the colonel said. Those under five years of age experience harshness and ear trouble five to 10 times more frequently than adults.

The increased susceptibility to airsickness may be related to insecurity and apprehension. while the ear discomfort is associated with the difficulty of teaching children to swallow while descending in an airplane.

Airsickness in adults is no longer a major problem, but when it does occur, it is five times more frequent among women than among male passengers, it said. In children, this is probably due to anxiety and apprehension. Fear of airsickness probably hastens its development.

There are several effective remedies for those who develop airsickness. The same drugs also prevent it if taken before flight. The value of reassurance by the doctor in such cases cannot be over-emphasized, Colonel Spiegel concluded.

ENTON'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Carol F. — My brother and sister won't share responsibility with me.

Daniel F. — We must think of our families first.

Carol F. — I am an unmarried woman of 40 and I have a problem which seems to get worse as the years go on.

I have a younger sister whom I love dearly and who has been in mental institution on and off for the past 12 years. The doctors seem to feel she is cured, and then she breaks down again and again under the strain of life outside the hospital.

When she is well, Sylvia comes to live with me and when she is sick, I am the only one who goes to visit her. Our parents are not living and my married brother and sister will have nothing to do with her. I myself am not very well physically and it is a great strain for me to undertake all the responsibility for Sylvia.

I only ask that my brother and sister go to see her occasionally and take her into their homes at times when she is feeling better. Is this too much to ask?

* * *

Daniel F. — Carol makes out she is asking only a trifle, yet she understands how big that "trifle" is.

My sister Helen and I are married and have families. We can't keep Sylvia in our homes with the children when we don't know what can happen. Her children now know nothing about the whole thing except Aunt Sylvia is ill and in a hospital.

Carol seems to feel we are monsters and have no feeling at all for our unfortunate sister. That isn't true, but we must think of our own families first. We want our children to marry and live normal lives without having the stigma of mental illness attached to them.

As far as we know there have been no other instances of insanity in the family and it is unfair the children should suffer because of this.

* * *

The Council: No, it is not a trifle that Carol asks. It is a big and difficult thing to do and Daniel and Helen are not justified in evading that big and difficult thing.

Actually, they are wrong to abandon their mentally ill sister and they are equally at fault in shifting the entire responsibility on Carol. The fact she is single is not quite enough justification for their using her as a kind of dumping ground for the family skeleton.

From a practical point of view, Daniel and Helen are equally wrong. Family secrets like these seldom remain hidden. Skeletons choose difficult "moments to pop out of the closet and frequently create havoc when they emerge. Daniel and Helen owe it to themselves and their family to face the problem courageously.

They should take out from Sylvia's doctor all that can be learned about her illness and the possibility of hereditary mental disease in the family. They may find there is less to worry about than they believe. But if they find there is much to worry about, their children should know when the proper time comes. They may be able to avert tragedy in their own lives if they know the facts.

Daniel and Helen should also discuss with the doctor the problem of taking Sylvia into their homes for occasional visits. Here again, they may find there is little to worry about.

Whatever answers they get, however, they should remember their attitude toward the situation will leave the most lasting impression on their children. They should try to display courage and loyalty, rather than fear and selfishness.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

CREAM HANDS LAVISHLY DURING COLD WEATHER

Well-groomed hands attract admiring glances, are a definite beauty asset.

Hand care — especially where lubrication is concerned — is of year 'round importance, of course, but at this season of the year it's doubly essential since cold rains, icy winds and snow, coupled with overheated rooms, are blamed for drying. And who wants to go around with hands that are either red and roughened or sere as old parchment?

After all, hands are always on display. And, whether you're aware of it or not, people do notice them — whether you're playing cards, serving refreshments or merely gesturing in conversation. Keep them at their prettiest, then — regardless of the weather. It's a simple matter if you observe two important measures — through cleanliness and plenty of lubrication.

Where cleanliness is concerned, use plenty of soap and water. But remember that water temperature has an effect on your hands, too. So don't use either very hot or very cold water. Just warm's best. Use a stiff brush on knuckles and beneath the nails, and rinse well. Thorough drying's important, too. Nothing could possibl be worse for your hands at this season of the year than going outdoors with hands which have been improperly dried. Use a Turkish towel and rub briskly until every bit of moisture has been absorbed. While you're about it, gently shape your nails by pushing back the cuticle with the towel. Then use a good hand lotion or cream.

Nighttime lubrication is especially important. After cleansing, massage hands with a good hand cream for at least twenty minutes and leave a film of the emollient on overnight.

And don't forget your weekly manicure. This regular attention to your nails will not only keep them pretty but will increase awareness of the condition of the hands themselves.

The CREAM Crest The CREAM Home Permanent

Crest is sensational and so easy to use!

No drippy lotion—No muss—No fuss! You just squeeze a ribbon of the pleasantly perfumed cream onto your hair—comb it in—and wind up with plastic curlers on the end papers supplied.

And when you see the result in your mirror —your hair will be glossy, neat, and controllable, right from the start. None of that frizzy, "unnatural" look.

Whatever type of hair—dry, fine, normal, or dyed—the Crest waving cream will curl it, condition it, control it!

Each strand of hair gently absorbs the cream which, as it curls, makes the hair more supple, too.

France Is Few Sous Short Of Bankruptcy But Still Looks Booming and Buoyant

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—France is a few sous short of bankruptcy . . . France is booming, buoyant and full of beans.

Both interpretations are correct. As the political crisis staggers astonishingly, exasperatingly, into its second month, economic analysts study the patient's fever chart and come up with the same diagnosis.

La belle France, they say, has an economy of great intrinsic strength. Production is rising. Unemployment is down to 19,000 in a population of about 45,000,000. The birthrate is high and a new generation, unstained by the tragedies of the wartime occupation, will soon be coming of age.

OTHER SIDE

But—and it's a big but — the country that once was the light of Europe now struggles with a grim balance-of-payments problem. Some say it is on the brink of disaster. Others talk of an American loan, gasoline rationing, some temporary measure to stave off the bailiff.

The reason for the apparent paradox is the struggle in Algeria. France is fighting a war and living by peacetime standards. The costly conflict takes five per cent of the net national income, drains away export materials and deflects manpower from vital civilian tasks.

Labor shortages breed wage claims a forced draft for inflation. Prices are shockingly high in a country liberally endowed with material resources and with a people noted for thrift, industry and talent.

One tourist's battered diary shows, for instance, that a book of subway tickets cost 100 francs in March, 1935. Today the price is exactly double. Maids who were happy two years ago with 20,000 francs a month now demand 30,000, plus welfare benefits and board and lodging.

MANY CAUSES

There are many factors in French economic weakness—grasping middlemen, cosy business cartels, obsolete distributive systems, selfish special - interest groups, traditional feuds between clerical and anti - clerical elements. It would take a strong government to produce any changes, and strong government is harder to find in France than a glass of milk in a night club.

Strolling Paris these warm autumn days, the visitor finds few signs of panic. Life goes on. Traffic is so thick it takes longer to get by bus from Les Invalides in the centre of Paris to suburban Le Bourget than it does from Le Bourget to London by air.

The French theatre is exuberant. Topping the bill in a season of hits is Marcel Achard's Patate, a hot potato indeed with every seat sold weeks ahead. Other favorites are Andre Roussine's La Mamma and Irma la Douce by Alexandre Breffort, a light-hearted musical comedy with tunes worthy of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

BIG TIMES

Life goes on. Tourists jam the expensive restaurants, such as La Reine Pedauque and La Perouse, and cheerfully pay four or five times the normal price for champagne at nightclubs. Department stores are so full that customers almost have to adopt the heresy of an English queue. A merry-go-round, improbably built into a busy intersection in downtown Paris, is packed with youngsters paying 50 francs a head.

Public reaction to the political deadlock seems, as always, a blend of anger and helplessness. Some lucky people actually make money out of the inflation.

In grey, gay, gamy Paris, bitterness and discontent lurk below the surface, in sprawling dereliction on many steps, in elderly persons staying as unwelcome guests with their families, in young people who saved to buy a house and sadly see the purchase price outstrip their hoard, in the soldier from Indochina with a wife and two children living subtenly in a single room of a down-at-heel hotel in the Sebastopol district.

Reflective Frenchmen wonder how it will end. They are used to crisis. They know all the arguments about life in France being better than anywhere else, whatever the political disenchantments. But they are also acutely aware that each new crisis makes the basic problems harder to solve, and they are sad at heart.

Fiery Bevan Wins Friends In Journey Across U.S.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States, in only two short weeks, has been given a study in British contrasts—Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Macmillan and Aneurin Bevan.

The Queen took the place by storm Macmillan went about his Washington business with his customary aristocratic reserve — and then came the fiery Welshman whose fame as an orator was fed-by his often-bitter wit.

But the "reformed" Nye Bevan appeared determined that while in the U.S. he would continue to enhance his new reputation as a moderate statesman and spokesman on foreign affairs for the labor party.

PRETTY RUTHLESS

Occasionally, however, there was a flicker of his former self. Speaking to businessmen at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, he remarked that Russia's Nikita Khrushchev is a "simple sort of chap."

"We know he's 'ruthless,'" Bevan added, "but I shook hands with a number this evening that I think were pretty ruthless."

The Socialist from the coal pits couldn't resist a sly dig at his big-shot capitalist listeners.

But his jibe was tame in comparison with the day that Sir Winston Churchill termed Bevan "minister of ill health" and Bevan reported by calling the venerable tory a "piece of political cheese."

AFFABLE NYE

Remembering such outbursts in the past, the British are keeping a sharp eye on their erstwhile enfant terrible as he moves about on his U.S. speaking engagement.

In some quarters it was hoped the visit might have long - run benefits, in view of predictions of a swing to Labor in the next British election.

This possibility was not overlooked by Bevan himself, who has been at pains not to make himself obnoxious to his American cousins, many of whom view the Labor party with distrust.

Bevan didn't pussyfoot, however. The first time he opened his mouth on this side of the Atlantic he called the Macmillan-Eisenhower talks "sterile," and declared that only a three-power conference, including Russia, could solve the Middle East crisis.

BREAD, NOT GUNS

Bevan, who visited Moscow last year, started his 19-day U.S. tour by lecturing on the theme that the world's difficulties are due to the "serious breakdown in communications" between the Communist and anti - Communist countries.

Russia's threat, he contended, is more dangerous in the political, social and economic fields than in intercontinental ballistic missiles and Sputniks.

In Britain, Bevan was termed a "ruthlessly candid friend" when he told an American audience:

"You are giving weapons to people who want bread. People need money for development and not weapons."

Professor Jones Spends Night In Woods

Professor Henry N. Jones, retired professor of Bacteriology in the University of Syracuse, New York, who resides with his wife in a cottage of their own on Scootamatta Lake, Cheyne, Ontario, became lost with his dog last Wednesday and was forced to spend the night in the woods, and without matches. When the professor failed to appear for the evening meal, Mrs. Jones became alarmed, but as there were no neighbors, and no road, save that by boat, she was forced to wait till daybreak. Then she took the remaining boat, righted it, and rowed to where the road began to the mainland; walked some three or four miles to the nearest camp at Silver Lake Lodge for help.

Two helpers, who knew the area well, found his boat [illegible] on the shore, and assumed he was in the bush, hunting. Two shots were fired, and finally heard the dog barking. Professor Jones says he answered the shots, but the wind was from the wrong direction for those on the boat to hear it.

The professor, who is 75 years of age, was not much the worse for his experience even though considerably chilled and weary. The bush-conscious ladies who found him, rowed him back to his cottage, only to find that Mrs. Jones, in her haste and anxiety had locked the cottage door and taken the key with her, necessitating someone to go to the mainland and find his wife and the key.

Professor Jones is well known in Tweed district, and ironically, previous to his all night vigil in the woods, had taken part in a movie scene, entitled, "How to Survive in the Wilderness."

Professor and Mrs. Jones have two sons who reside in the United States.

In spite of his nightly sojourn in the woods, the professor did not become panicky, and smilingly remarked when questioned about the incident, "Oh, I do not think I was lost; night just overtook me."

SEEK CAUSES OF DEATHS

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Authorities today were seeking causes of the deaths of four persons in their investigation of a woman who held $4 insurance policies in which she was the beneficiary. The third and fourth bodies were exhumed Thursday night and the bodies of Mrs. Mary Perkins' son and husband had been exhumed earlier. An official said the woman's seven-year-old son died last week a day after the mother had increased her policy on his life from $250 to $1,500.

Film Director Willing to Change Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — The title The Hanging Judge for a National Film Board account of the life of Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie will be changed if it is considered offensive, the film's director, Ben Wilder, says.

Vancouver city archivist J. S. Matthews has objected strongly to the proposed title as a reflection on the judiciary.

Arthur D. Crease, a Victoria lawyer, said the Carbboo district jurist was "one of the kindest men I knew." Mr. Crease said he frequently appeared before Judge Begbie, who died in 1894.

"He was strict with malefactors, but it was a good thing we had his type."

PRIZEFETS "ABUSE"

Mr. Crease said: "Begbie's kindness of heart was shown by his help for poor people throughout his life and in his will. He was a fine man, and should not be subjected to such abuse."

Major Matthews, who was sent a copy of the script of The Hanging Judge, said: "It is felonious and vicious to suggest that there was ever a state of affairs in B.C. when a judge could hang a man in a bad temper. I would like to see the rope on the author."

Director Wilder said the author George Salverson of Toronto, had not written into the script a positive allegation of cruelty against Begbie. "He has stuck close to history. But we will change the title if it offends."

KINGSTON TONIGHT!

Tonight the pesky Kingston CKLC's are here to do battle with the McFarlands, and it is altogether likely young Marse Senior will be along to do police duty in the nets.

Marse Robert came through handsomely against our side on Saturday night and just to show the Quinwall fans he was not fooling, did a repeat performance against the road-weary Chevies on Sunday afternoon. Senior kicked out 37 or 39 McFarlands shots fired at him Saturday and Sunday the six-hungry Chevies blasted him with 42. He kicked out all but three.

But tonight is another night. At least it should be, if the McFarlands have anything to say or do about it. Jean Paul Payette was KO'd by the fin Saturday night, with a near-hellfire temperament and it is not known at this writing if the popular Paul will be back in harness tonight or not.

Be that as it may. Instead of being the "weak-sister" of the eastern senior loop, Dick Allan's CKLC's proved they will be a force to be reckoned with, in what looks appears to be a blazing race for league spots. But they can be beaten and tonight would be just as good a time as any for the McFarlands to prove it.

And there will be another win-hungry aggregation here on Friday night when Sammy Pollock's junior Ottawa-Hull Canadiens will be the guests of the McFarlands. Fans who are keeping tabs on their schedules had better jot down the revision. The Canadiens will take Friday in place of the Pembroke Lumber Kings. It appears the two managements swapped dates and Friday's game with Ottawa has been "fixed" with that of Pembroke and Belleville, on January 14.

Also there is another schedule change. The McFarlands go to Pembroke Saturday, instead of December 3, the date the Russians play in Kingston. At the moment it looks like the Macs will hit Lennerville, then back to Hull Sunday for an afternoon game with the Canadiens, since Manager Drury Denyes said today he has received no word of cancellation of the Ottawa game.

FLASH!

Word just received Senior will not play for Kingston tonight!

MINOR HOCKEY

It's near moppet hockey time and the small-fry fraternity are getting their gear ready for the opening at Memorial Arena Saturday when eight teams of the peewees and a like number of bantams get the season under way. The squirts, midgets and juveniles start action November 12.

A word to the wise. The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has completed plans for a new insurance plan for the youngsters, and it behooves every parent to take advantage of it. We understand the fee is one dollar per player with five dollars deductible instead of ten dollars as was the case last season. A buck in time will save nine, perhaps ninety. You never can tell. Pay the dollar to the coach—and he will take care of the rest. It's worth it.

Another good piece of news for those interested in minor hockey is the decision of Doug Patterson, Stirling, to again offer his services as a member of the O.M.H.A. executive. Doug decided to resign some time ago, due to business and community obligations, but reconsidered and will again stand for office.

He has done a magnificent job since he took over the executive reins from the original "Arena Canada" executive member, Sam Curry, but the expansion of minor hockey down this way has got to the point where one man cannot handle it. It is hoped the OMHA sees fit to appoint an additional executive member to look after this part of the country after the annual convention in Toronto on Nov. 16-17.

Doug is ready up to his ears in organizational work and has got together several groups of varying classifications. But he needs help if the spread of organized minor hockey is to continue in this part of the country.

Mr. Patterson foresees where "Arena Canada" executive member, Sam Curry, but the expansion of minor hockey down this way has got to the point where one man cannot handle it. It is hoped the OMHA sees fit to appoint an additional executive member to look after this part of the country after the annual convention in Toronto on Nov. 16-17.

Doug is ready up to his ears in organizational work and has got together several groups of varying classifications. But he needs help if the spread of organized minor hockey is to continue in this part of the country.

Mr. Patterson foresees where "Arena Canada" executive, within a few short years, have as many minor teams under the OMHA aegis as the more thickly populated sections of western Ontario.

"With more and more artificial arenas being built, I believe we are on the threshold of great things just as are the senior clubs which got away to such a grand start last season," Doug said.

It is to be hoped a large delegation of representatives from this part of Ontario will attend the OMHA convention. They owe it to such executive members as Patterson and Albert Watkins of Peterborough, who have done a magnificent job in putting Eastern Ontario on the minor hockey map.

Association Makes 1st Bid For Ontario Certification; Lawyer Blasts Conny Smythe

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League Players' Association had made its first bid for certification in Ontario and has accused the Toronto Maple Leaf owners of attempted intimidation.

The Ontario labor relations board Monday announced it has an application to certify the association as bargaining agent for players of the Toronto Maple Leafs and scheduled a hearing for Nov. 18.

The board matter - of - factly called the applicant - "a trade union."

Not so, says New York lawyer Milton Mound whose firm has despatched — by dating — similar applications to government agencies in all six NHL cities. He was asked Monday night in saying the association is dedicated to the welfare of past, present and future players, has no paid officers and no affiliation.

SMYTHE UNDER FIRE

Mound also opened fire on Conn Smythe, Maple Leaf Gardens managing director, saying he tried to intimidate players during a meeting Monday night. The meeting, which also drew NHL president Clarence Campbell, Gardens' solicitor Jan Johnston and Stafford Smythe, chairman of the Leafs' hockey committee, broke up with no formal statement of what went on.

There was a report that the players would vote today on whether they want the association to act as bargaining agent.

The reason for this vote, if it is scheduled, was not explained. Ordinarily, applications such as that sent to the labor relations board merely contain the results of an employees' vote.

KNEW NOTHING

Stafford Smythe claimed the Toronto players knew nothing of the plan to seek certification.

"It must be a great union if they don't even let the members know what is going on," he said.

Right winger Tod Sloan, a Leaf player-representative of the association, said this was not entirely correct. He conceded some players may have been a little confused about what was going on.

Sloan also denied the association was a union and he said some members aren't partial to being labelled union members. He said the organization would be, for example, negotiate salaries.

Views of the certification application were also given by Mound at the meeting with Campbell, Johnston and the Smyths.

A notice appeared on the Maple Leafs' dressing room wall Monday informing the players they needn't continue to support the application if they wished to withdraw their names.

The certification application bears all but two players on the paid-up membership list. Stafford Smythe entered with a claim that "four or five players" had told him personally they didn't belong.

Bill Sejba, of the NHL club execs refused to discuss salaries and working conditions with the association which replied with a $3,000,000 anti-trust suit scheduled for a hearing in New York Nov. 11.

Hal Patterson Headed for Big Four Title

TORONTO (CP)—Unless somebody goes on a great scoring binge in the schedule - ending games next Saturday, Montreal Alouettes' Hal Patterson is the 1957 Big Four Football Union scoring champion.

Patterson has a 13-point edge over runner-up Gary Schrieder of Ottawa Rough Riders, statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show today. The University of Kansas pass-catching end scored his 13th touchdown last Saturday as Als lost 40-27 to Toronto Argonauts for a 78-point total while Schrieder booted a field goal in Ottawa's 9-4 squeaker over Hamilton Tiger-Cats to give him 65 points.

Deadlocked in third place with 56 points each are Ticats' Cookie Gilchrist and Steve Oneschuk. Bill Bewley, convert-kicking ace with Als, is next with 53.

An eight-touchdown surge in the final two games gave Jim Waddell, import half from California's Compton Junior College, the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring title. The Alouettes Golden Bear ended with 90 points on 15 touchdowns, leaving the field far behind.

Mike Norcia of Kitchener scoring race champion, last week's leader with 57 points, added 12 in the last two games to make sure of second place, three points up on Don Wright of London Lords.

The Intercollegiate scoring race saw Jim Sandzelius of McGill Redmen with 37 points. Bill Britton of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs took over sole possession of third place with 30 points, scoring a touchdown in Mustangs' 21-8 Saturday victory over Queen's Golden Gaels.

Joe Poirier of Redmen and Dick Creighton of Mustangs failed to pick up ground during the week-end and are deadlocked in third place each with 24 points.

Bauer Warns Dunlops About Russian Style

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Bauer, who learned from experience, had some advice Monday night for Whitby Dunlops, who will represent Canada at the world hockey championships next year.

"Don't be deceived by how the Russians play on their Canadian tour.

"The Russian players are bothered by Canadian rinks, not pay much better on those big outdoor ice surfaces. And that's the type of rink you'll find when you get over in Oslo, Norway."

Bauer, whose Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen were beaten by the Russians at Cortina, Italy, in the 1956 championships, is acting as an advisor to Whitby until the team leaves for Europe late in January.

The Allan Cup champions are to play Moscow Dynamos in Maple Leaf Gardens here Nov. 22, three nights after the Dynamos arrive at Montreal by air for their Canadian tour.

The Russians will play Windsor Bulldogs Nov. 24, Sudbury Wolves Nov. 26, Ottawa Junior Canadiens on Monday Dec. 1, Kingston CKLCs Dec. 3 and Ottawa Junior Canadiens again in Ottawa Dec. 5.

Moscow Radio has reported the team will be "the strongest the country can send."

LIONS RETAIN CROWE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Directors of the British Columbia Lions voted Monday night to retain Jackie Crowe as coach of the Western Interprovincial Football Union team next season.

The club's 26 directors voted by secret ballot in favor of giving Crowe a one-year contract. The vote count was not announced.

Injuries Hit Blue Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Injuries have sidelined three more Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the season.

Halfback Leo Lewis suffered a torn leg muscle, end Cec Luining was knocked out with torn knee ligaments and guard Ed Kotowich suffered a broken shoulder Saturday's game against the Lions in Vancouver. Winnipeg won the game, but in the Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule, 43-19.

Bombers Monday had lost halfbacks Bob McNamara, Bob Davenport and Buddy Leake through injuries.

Bombers meet Calgary Stampeders here Saturday in the first of a two-game, total-point, home-and-away semi-final series. The winner plays Edmonton Eskimos for the league title and the right to represent the West in the Grey Cup game.

Quebec Aces May Fold Up

QUEBEC (CP)—Unless home attendance picks up sharply by next Sunday Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League may consider folding, says Jean Crutchfield, principal shareholder in the club, said Monday.

"We'll simplyy have no choice," Dr. Crutchfield said. "We're spending more money than is coming in. And I understand Trois-Rivieres and Shawinigan Falls are in the same boat."

"If we could get 2,000 fans at a game we'd breathe easier, but up to now our crowds have only been 800 to 1,000 a game."

Pocket, Rocket' Tied for Top In National Scoring Battle

MONTREAL (CP)—Les Freres Richard, who have scored nearly half the 46 goals rolled up by Montreal Canadiens so far this season, are making the National Hockey League scoring leadership a family affair.

Maurice, the 36-year-old Rocket Richard, the Pocket Rocket who is 15 years younger, have 10 goals and nine assists each. Between them in three goals and counted two assists last week while Maurice scored two goals and had one assist.

The league's official statistics, released today, give the veteran Rocket top billing. It isn't because he's older. It's because he earned a penalty box in all of Montreal's 11 games while Henri has seen his mates play shorthanded for nine minutes.

Another Montreal pair are deadlocked for third place with 15 points. Dickie Moore, who works on the line with the Richard brothers, scored a goal and an assist while Jean Beliveau picked up two assists along with one goal.

Behind Montreal's monopoly of the first four places come Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings. Each has 12 points. Bathgate picked up a goal and three one assist last week and Howe, who has won the NHL scoring title three times, scored one goal and three assists.

Deadlocked at 11 points are Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and defenceman Bill Gadsby of New York Rangers. Horvath scored two goals last week to bring his total to six. Delvecchio counted two goals and one assist and Gadsby had a one-two count last week.

Best scoring feat was the seven points gathered in by Barry Cullen of Toronto Maple Leafs, who rattled in three goals and assisted on four others. The accomplishment boosted him from a 32nd-place tie to a tie for 10th among the point-scorers.

On the week's play, New York Rangers had the best average. They had three wins and one lost for six of a possible eight points, and with 15 points now are only one behind the league-leading Canadiens. The Montrealers played three games, winning two and losing one.

Chicago Black Hawks won, lost and tied in three games. They are deadlocked at 10 points for third place with Boston Bruins, who salvaged one game in three after losing six straight.

Detroit Red Wings lost three games in four starts and are in fifth place with eight points, only one more than the last-place Toronto Leafs who won, lost and tied in three outings.

Calumet Farm's two-year-old filly, A Glitter, won her third race without defeat in a mile drop for the $25,000-added Selima Stakes at Laurel, Md., Saturday.

Sawchuk Well-Seasoned, Is Most-Peppered Netminder

TORONTO (CP)—Here is evidence that Terry Sawchuk is a well-seasoned netminder: He is the most-peppered in the National Hockey League last week.

Sawchuk, traded by Detroit Red Wings last summer after walking out on Boston Bruins midway through last season, ventured back to Boston Sunday night. The Bruin forwards gave him a rough time, blasting 52 shots his way as they defeated Wings 4-0.

Only 24 hours earlier Sawchuk had his hands full as Montreal Canadiens clipped Detroit 6-3 under a 49-shot attack against Sawchuk. But Terry, in the four games he played, improved his position in the "fielding average" among regular NHL goaltenders.

Sawchuk stopped 153 of the 164 shots fired at him in the four games for a .933 percentage, giving him a mark of .906 on the season. The previous week he was last, excluding Jacques Plante of Canadiens, with a .885 showing.

SUCCESSFUL DEBUTS

While Sawchuk was busy, two other goaltenders made their big-league debuts a success.

Broderick stepped into Montreal's net here Wednesday and turned aside 32 of the 33 shots Maple Leafs fired at him as the Habs won 6-2.

Broderick, a 19-year-old junior A player, was thrust into his first professional game a few minutes before the start of the contest when Plante suffered an asthma attack.

The other newcomer was Marcel Pelle, 36-year - old regular with Providence Reds of the American Hockey League. Pelle was summoned by New York Rangers to fill in for the injured Lorne Worsley. He shut out Boston 5-0 and then turned Chicago Black Hawks aside 3-2. In both games he made a total of 62 shots for a .969 percentage.

Texas Aggies Still Tops in Football Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Texas A and M strengthened its hold on the No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press college football poll this week — the first club other than Oklahoma to stay on top two weeks in a row since mid-1955.

Not since Oklahoma took the top spot from then-mighty Maryland in the eighth week of the '55 campaign have the Sooners been unable to bounce back to the top after a week's absence. They had been out of the No. 1 position only twice until last week, stepping back for Tennessee and Michigan State last year.

But this also is the first time since 1951 that Oklahoma has been held to only two touchdowns on successive Saturdays — losing the top position to Texas A and M Aggies a week ago after a 14-13 squeaker against Colorado and barely holding second this week after last Saturday's 13-0 job on Kansas State.

INCREASED MARGIN

A and M, now with seven victories this season after edging Arkansas 7-6 last Saturday moved from a 39-point edge over the Sooners last week to a big point bulge this week. The writers and broadcasters voting this week's poll apparently figured Arkansas would give the Aggies a tough time, but had expected Oklahoma to swamp Kansas State.

Auburn, jumping from fourth to third, finished just 26 points ahead of Oklahoma. The Tigers are 6-0 as is Oklahoma.

The rest of the top 10 had quite a shakeup from last week. Michigan State, up from sixth, took fourth with Iowa falling from fifth. The Hawkeyes, tied by Michigan, had been third.

Notre Dame, fifth a week ago, and Duke, seventh last week, tumbled to the second division with their first defeats last Saturday.

Ohio State moved from eighth to sixth; Navy leaped from 18th to seventh, Army moved from ninth to eighth, Tennessee advanced from 17th to ninth and North Carolina State stayed No. 10.

HAMIA WINS DECISION

PARIS (AP) — Cherif Hamia, leader from Algeria, decisively outpointed Italian lightweight Andrea Conodi in a 10-round bout at the Palais des Sports Monday night.

A crowd of more than 13,000 saw Hamia make his first start since he was stopped in the same ring by Nigeria's Hogan (Id) Bassey in the 10th round of the final bout of the featherweight elimination tournament.

McCaffery of Ottawa Throws Hot Potato at CRU Officials

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Jim McCaffrey is a thoroughly amiable fellow endowed with good-natured loquacity. He's also one of the shrewdest football men in Canada, as any executive will tell you.

He's been in football 30 years or more in an executive capacity with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four. He's bumped into many ticklish situations in the administration of football and has got out of them with the subleness of a career diplomat.

No one really knows when he's kidding or hitching a plot.

The other day, for instance, he said the Big Four officiating this season has been "extremely unsatisfactory." He hinted that the possibility of importing one or two Americans next year to act as linesmen as a start to a career in the Canadian game would come up at the union's annual meeting in January.

NOTHING TO FEAR

With this off his chest he probably hied himself off to a corner for a quiet chuckle while league officials handled his hot potato. Jim hadn't a thing to worry about, except possibly a rap on the knuckles for making such a statement, but that wouldn't ruffle him.

As an unpaid club official he's on sacred ground—he isn't liable to a fine by Judge Allan Fraser, Big Four commissioner, while there is no such immunity in Western Canada Syd Halter of Winnipeg, Western Interprovincial Football Union commissioner, has the authority over clubs connected with the game. Halter is the judge of what the fine will be.

Unfortunately football officials on the field can't defend themselves by saying, for instance, that the rules the executives put in the books are phrased in such a way that a lawyer couldn't interpret them.

They can't talk about such things in public without inviting a $200 fine and, possibly, the loss of a job.

However, referee-in-chief Cec McFaddin of Toronto, went to bat for his men. "McCaffrey's statement is utterly ridiculous," he said. "The officiating has never been as good as it is now.

"One or two rules in the book cause confusion but that's not the officials' fault—it's the phrasing in the book that causes the trouble The officials are there to interpret these and they do the best they can, a first-rate job."

UNION MEETING

Switching to hockey, Andy Bathgate of Toronto Maple Leafs passes along a story told to him by referee Frank Udvari following a Montreal Canadiens-Chicago Black Hawks NHL game this season. Andy writes:

"Red Storey was officiating and the game ended with every body shoving one another around the ice and waving lumber with governing intent as the unruly fanatical Hawks fans howled for at least a riot. Storey bellowed above the din:

" 'If you guys don't want fines for high sticking, it up fast and off the ice.' "

"Canadiens' sarcene Doug Harvey lowered his stick and rebuked Storey with 'can't the players even have a meeting without you butting in?' "

IN TITLE DEFENCE

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Brown will defend his lightweight championship against Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., at Chicago Stadium Dec. 4, Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, announced Monday.

Lopes, ranked the No. 7 contender by the National Boxing Association, held Brown to a draw in 10 rounds at Chicago Stadium Aug. 21.

Protestant College Affiliates With Catholic University

WINDSOR (CP) — The unique affiliation of a Protestant college with a Roman Catholic university has taken place here with the signing of an agreement by officials of the two institutions.

The historic document, signed at Assumption University Monday, began the affiliation of the university and Canterbury College, founded by the Anglican Church of Canada last June.

Most Rev. J. C. Cody, Roman Catholic Bishop "host" of the university chancellor, said the signing is "not an experiment but something both parties feel most certainly will be of the greatest benefit in the years to come."

He said "tolerance is a stepping stone to greater things". Mere tolerance was not enough. What was needed was "deep and abiding love for one another."

Anglican Bishop of Huron diocese and chairman of the Canterbury's board of directors, said "perhaps in this modest way two groups that have been apart . . . have dared to think of together-ness — once again."

IN HUMAN RELATIONS

Very Rev. E. C. LeBel, Assumption president, said "this is an experiment in human relations whereby Catholics and Protestants co-operate in a common cause."

He said recognizing "our differences frankly and openly, we nevertheless recognize that all of us are in quest of truth; a university is a place for scholars to pursue truth in every field."

He said this is believed to be the first time in the history of North America such an affiliation has been entered into directly by two educational institutions of different religious denominations.

Reginald Burnell, president of Canterbury's board of directors, said only two words describe the affiliation — "gratitude and responsibility."

EXPRESSES THANKS

"We are grateful to Assumption University and the Basilian Fathers for allowing us to share with them our goals."

He added "we will do our best with God's help to do you proud."

At present the fledgling college owns no property and has no students. Like its affiliate it will probably start out a year from now with a single building.

It will start out under easier conditions than Assumption, however. The university opened as a classical college in 1857, two years after Rev. Pierre Point laid the foundation stone for the first early settlers and perhaps a few interested Indians.

Canterbury, on the other hand, will have a share of federal and provincial grants, retain its donations and bequests, and have the advantage of Assumption's facilities.

They will also be welcomed by the student body. Al Lagli, 22, of Windsor, president of the student's administrative council, said the college will with help develop liberal education on the campus." He said approximately 40 per cent of the students were Protestants and "they've gotten along well for years."

The university formed Essex College under non-denominational auspices in 1956 but continued to be primarily a Roman Catholic institution.

A "CALL AT STEP"

Father LeBel says the affiliation is a "natural step" in the university's growth and "will permit the university to better meet the needs of the area it serves." He and Rev. F. J. Swan are co-signers for the university.

The agreement would permit each college to provide particular courses it wanted "and yet permit the over-all work of the university to be in common" amongst them.

President Reginald E. Burnell of Canterbury, with Rev. K. C. Hilton, Archdeacon of Essex discuss co-signers for Canterbury, said "The Basilian Fathers have always respected the integrity of students whose religious convictions differ from their own."

The signing may be repeated in future years. Father LeBel said that if college students at Canterbury sought affiliation the university would be happy to reach an agreement and seek affiliation.

Canterbury will offer only an arts course for freshmen knowledge when it enrolls its first students in September, 1958. Plans call for adding philosophy and medieval history courses. It will then register its own students.

UNVEILS PLAQUES

KINGSTON (CP) — Planning Minister Neville of Ontario Sunday unveiled two plaques commemorating early structures at Royal Military College. One marks the building known as the stone frigate, built in 1820 to store gear for British naval ships on the Great Lakes. The second marks the Fort Frederick area.

Marilyn Monroe About Ready To Return to Work at Studio

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost recovered from the flu of a baby Marilyn Monroe says she is eager to get back to work—and also to have a big family.

In her new apartment, Marilyn displayed a svelte figure in a tight, beaded white dress which emphasized her loss of weight since her miscarriage in August.

"I'm almost well again," Marilyn said in her usual breathless style. "I don't quite have all my energy back, but it's returning bit by bit.

PRIVATE ACTING LESSONS

"I've started going back to the Actor's Studio, to observe and also to take private lessons from Lee Strasberg. I'll be ready to do a picture, though I don't know if it will be Blue Angel, as the studio has announced. I haven't seen the script yet.

"Arthur Miller, her husband and I are also busy with our new farm—we bought 200 acres in Connecticut. We have just a farm house on it now, but we're going to build a house.

"Frank Lloyd Wright is going to design it for us, and he'll go up there with us the next time he's in town. We'll need a house with plenty of room. We have two children (Miller's by a previous marriage) and we'll be plenty more."

Marilyn and Miller live in a tastefully decorated apartment filled with modern paintings and sculpture and hundreds of books.

I commented that she looked like a teen-ager with her slim figure and dewey look.

"That's just because Im not wearing any lipstick," she said "As a matter of fact, somebody at Fox sent me a script that would have had me playing a teen-ager. I sent it back with the comment that I had hoped I was progressing as an actress and didn't want to go back to playing teen-agers."

Does she miss California?

"I miss the weather, definitely," she replied. "I also miss a few (emphasizing few) of the people there, but I'm not happy with what I'm doing here. I keep very busy."

One of the roles she enjoys playing, she remarked, was that of Mrs. Arthur Miller.

"I enjoy being a wife," she said. "I like to go in the kitchen and help. Though I'm not going to find something that looks interesting."

TV and Radio Learn to Live Together Says Lanny Ross

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A 25-year career in the highly competitive world of radio has given a man to some difficult decisions.

So says Lanny Ross. And certainly he should know. One of radio's memorable singers, he is celebrating his 25th anniversary in the medium. At present he offers 5½ hours weekly of song, conversation and disc-spinning on CBS radio's New York station.

Many have forgotten that Ross was a great track star at Yale. Ross says there probably would not have been a radio career at all if he had gone abroad as a member of the 1928 Olympic team.

RUN OR SING?

It was one of those close decisions, great quarter miler and holder of the AAU 300-yard indoor title, he was named to the Olympic team to sail for Europe June 26. He also was leader and soloist of the Yale Glee Club, scheduled to sail for Europe June 28.

"I went with the glee club, to the surprise of a good many people," he said. "I've never regretted it."

In the late 1930s, after he was established as a radio singing star, he made a few pictures in Hollywood. "I decided to leave Hollywood," he recalled. "and I did. Perhaps it was a bad decision. But I wanted to sing. In any case, you don't just walk out on Hollywood and ever go back."

"When television first came on," he said, "radio people talked only of television. I think that period has passed and I wouldn't be surprised to hear of radio's talking about radio. These two mediums have not destroyed one another. They've learned to live together."

CONTINUE APPEAL

Dosco Control Fight Not Over

AT THE BELLE — The screen's most talked-about young actor, Tony Perkins, stars in the starring role in "Fear Strikes Out", the intense drama of baseball and the life of Jim Piersall, famous Red Sox outfielder, playing tonight for the last time at the Belle. Lovely newcomer Norma Moore is the romantic interest. Costar Wagner Karl Malden also stars. The 2nd. feature is "Belle of Yukon", exciting action story.

HANTSPORT, N.S. (CP)—R.A. Jodrey, a rejected director of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, says a legal battle concerning sale of Dosco to A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., is not yet finished.

"It won't be me, but I tell you others are planning legal action and there will be serious repercussions," the 67-year-old financier said Monday in an interview.

Mr. Jodrey said his efforts to prevent Roe from gaining control of Dosco "cost me a lot of money."

"Now, let someone else continue the fight," he said. He declined to elaborate on the proposed legal action or name those involved.

Mr. Jodrey, who holds 100,000 shares of Dosco stock against the more than 2,000,000, or 76 per cent, controlled by Roe, was defeated in his bid Friday to retain his Dosco directorate. He said he plans to retain his Dosco shares.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

For Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1957

"The fates impel . . . They do not compell What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It is imperative you have conferences with all those with whom you work on any sort of conjuctive project, find out what they expect. This will prove very enlightening and you come to quick meeting of minds. Sign contracts.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Sit back awhile and consider all that excess baggage in your life. Know what you wish to rid yourself of and do it quickly and decisively, or replace with efficiencies, more worthwhile associations. Show appreciation to good people.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Contact as many of your pals and associates as possible and learn how to live a happier, more prosperous life with them. Tonight is then fine for relaxation at some mutually enjoyable recreative activities.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Be happy that many things break into the open for you today, since it is the best means by which to clear the air, get on a solid footing. That's a cue you do not leap before you think or you may lose out on some valuable benefits.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Your mental wheels are working to full capacity today. Rid yourself of some of that extreme dignity which makes you appear cold to others. Get marvelous ideas working, take trip, read paper. Live and be happy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The center of your active life today is the all-important matter of money. Think more practically and in affluent fashion, more up-to-the-minute. See banker, doctor, lawyer and benefit by their years of experience.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — It is important that you take into consideration seriously the ideas and advice of associates. Stop-working all those complicated schemes. Then by combining forces, great results are possible.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — No matter what work awaits you today, first study it well, see where you can make improvements, add efficiencies, then dive right in and get it done. Start living to the full. Buy a new car and move lives.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is comparatively simple today to set up different plans with those you like that will be more to your superior taste and mentality. Get ball rolling with your winning smile, let them pick it up from there.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get fundamental affairs in precise working order now if you covet fame and fortune in the future. A solid foundation, though it may be limited, is the first stepping-stone and application will do the rest.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — All those interesting situations those you love find themselves in you can today are slowly how to rectify quickly and wisely. First see that they agree and then enjoy yourself playing fairy godparent.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This is a perfect day for taking inventory of your financial standing and future possibilities. Do not hesitate to make inquiries. Get the experts to help with ideas and you are on the road to greater success.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting little child born today may give the impression of being a will-o'-the-wisp sort of individual, flightily bobbing in and out of one thing, then the other. But don't let this fool you, for here is the experimental, investigative nature with a fixed plan in mind that is steeped in secrecy.

Liberal, CCF, Social Credit and Labor Progressive parties refrained from naming a candidate in the by-election. It wasn't until a few minutes before nominations closed October 21 that Mr. Dowson entered his deposit.

On learning of Dr. Smith's victory, Prime Minister Diefenbaker today said: "I am naturally pleased at the confidence the people have placed in him and directly and indirectly in the government. I am delighted at the outcome of the contest and will look forward to having him in the House."

While Dr. Smith's committee rooms in Senator White's office were buzzing with activity, Mr. Dowson sat alone in suite 12 at the Blue hotel here. Except for occasional visits and news men, he had no way of learning how the election was shaping up.

WOULDN'T SHAKE HANDS

Asked if he would congratulate Dr. Smith, the Conservative said: "I won't shake hands with him. Mine isn't the kind with any personal animosity toward the man. He is my political enemy and I'll continue in making my opponent's hands."

The Canadian Press on the election to Dr. Smith shortly after 8 p.m., when Dr. Smith was far ahead.

Senator White was jubilant about the disposition of the election.

Mr. Dowson was hopeful he would receive a large number of votes from mine workers in the Bancroft area, but it turned out he got 12.

A good example of how the voting went is Bancroft township. Of 600 eligible voters, 500 cast ballots for Dr. Smith and four in the direction of his political opponent.

Mr. Dowson's heaviest vote to date was 12 from Havelock and Hancroft. He said he "always believed" he would win the election, but thought it a "democratic gesture" to enter himself in the contest.

DOUBT RED CLAIM

The satellite question was considered certain to come up for discussion during a special cabinet meeting called by President Eisenhower, however, while White House spokesman said the cabinet session had been planned before Sputnik II was launched and that the meeting was concerned with plans for the administration's legislative and spending programs next year.

An astronomer connected with Project Vanguard, the U.S. space satellite program, said Tuesday night his latest calculations put the second satellite in an orbit ranging from 1,037 miles from earth at its farthest point to 103 miles at its closest.

When Sputnik I was launched more than a month ago, its orbit carried it within 130 miles of the earth and as far out as 560 miles. But these distances have decreased slightly since.

The Russian announcement about new launchings and sources of power for Sputnik II came in a Moscow radio broadcast Monday night.

To be put into effect, the changes will require approval by the provinces which finance the programs jointly with the federal government.

On the universal old age pensions, Mr. Monteith said "considerable adjustments will be necessary" if living costs continue to spiral. There was "nothing final" about the broadcast quoted a person identified only as "Academician Dilbushin" as saying:

"A multi-stage carrier rocket of a new design with powerful precision controls had to be used for putting the satellite into its computed orbit.

"The increase in the satellite's size to provide for a larger number of measuring the telemetering instruments, and even for an animal passenger, necessitated the development of improved new instruments and sources of power."

THINKS CONVENTIONAL

Frederick C. Durant III, a former president of the American Rocket Society, said that in his opinion the Russian launching system is based on "conventional propellants such as liquid oxygen and kerosene." Mr. Durant said he thinks the Russians have developed large rocket engines.

While not ruling out entirely the possibility that a new fuel has been developed, Durant said such a propellant would not have been necessary to get the new satellite aloft.

Dr. H. Guyford Stever, associate dean of the engineering school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, voiced skepticism about any new Russian superfuel. However, he said it is possible the Russians are using hel-

TO MOON AND BACK

Durant theorized the Russians "can put a 50-pound satellite on the moon whenever they want to" and that "they could even put one around the moon and have it return." He said, "I expect them to do both of these things within a year."

"We in this country have considerable cause for alarm," Durant said.

In Sacramento, Calif., Dan A. Kimball, head of a rocket manufacturing firm, said the United States has a rocket that can launch a satellite heavier than Sputnik II. He said, too, "I think it would be a fair statement to say that (we the Russians) do, too." Kimball, head of Aerojet-General Corporation, formerly was navy secretary.

The association also opposed the one clause, arguing that it was contrary to British legal traditions to make the accused responsible for proving his innocence.

Previous to an action before the Supreme Court of Canada last year all Ontario producer boards had authority under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act to levy licences and fees to cover both the administration costs of the boards and to help compensate producers for losses from the export of their surplus products outside the province.

Provincial legislation applying to the Ontario hog marketing scheme was challenged in 1956 by the Perth cheese farmer Theodore Parker and the Ontario and federal governments sought in Supreme Court opinion on the subject. The court's decision was brought down last January.

the deficit out of general government revenues or to alter the scheme of special taxes which finance the pension fund.

The minister, however, denied Mr. Marier's suggestion that the pension increase might be made at the expense of Canada's defence effort.

The government's old age pension legislation, besides boosting the monthly amount, will reduce the residence qualification from 20 years to 10, and raise to six months from three the length of time a pensioner may be away from the country without payment Hoppages.

Mr. Monteith was under pressure from Liberal, Social Credit and CCF members to reward the session dealing with permissible

The association also opposed the one clause, arguing that it was contrary to British legal traditions to make the accused responsible for proving his innocence.

Previous to an action before the Supreme Court of Canada last year all Ontario producer boards had authority under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act to levy licences and fees to cover both the administration costs of the boards and to help compensate producers for losses from the export of their surplus products outside the province.

Provincial legislation applying to the Ontario hog marketing scheme was challenged in 1956 by Perth cheese farmer Theodore Parker and the Ontario and federal governments sought in Supreme Court opinion on the subject. The court's decision was brought down last January.

the deficit out of general government revenues or to alter the scheme of special taxes which finance the pension fund.

The minister, however, denied Mr. Marier's suggestion that the pension increase might be made at the expense of Canada's defence effort.

The government's old age pension legislation, besides boosting the monthly amount, will reduce the residence qualification from 20 years to 10, and raise to six months from three the length of time a pensioner may be away from the country with out payment Hoppages.

absences from the country.

The inclusion, he said, was to limit absence to six consecutive months, not counting the month of departure. But a person could reinstate residence by returning to the country for one day. A pensioner, however, could be absent more than six months in any one calendar year.

A. Wesley Stuart (L — Charlotte) said it seems unreasonable to expect a pensioner who had gone to Florida for his health to return to Canada for one day to comply with a technicality.

Mr. Monteith said that under present legislation such a person can be away only three months until he must return home to reinstate his eligibility.

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) and the legislation would penalize all because a few have not returned.

Mr. Monteith replied that any pensioner remaining outside Canada longer than the permitted six months is not entitled to any money. A pensioner would be entitled to his $55 only for the month of his departure. Payments for the subsequent months were made only if he complied with the six-month provision.

Hog Producers Ask Delay in Report

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hog Producers' Association has asked the provincial government to postpone a plebiscite on whether to continue the present system of marketing animals through a producer-controlled co-operative.

The alternative would be for each hog-grower to sell his hogs independently to meat packing companies. Both types of marketing have strong support. Under the co-operative plan, operated within the framework of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act, the packing companies bid for hogs which the growers transport to central assembly points.

Charles McInnis, Toronto, president of the association told Monday's meeting of 300 members of the government's decision to hold a plebiscite on the scheme stemmed partly from agitation by the Ontario Truckers and Shippers Association.

Tht Hog Producers' Association believes co-operative marketing keeps prices at a fair level by presenting a united bargaining front to the packing companies.

Opponents of the plan say it is dictatorial and undemocratic.

Hospital Plan Will Aggravate Nurse Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—The problem of supplying a sufficient number of well-qualified nurses probably will be intensified by the proposed national hospital insurance plan, the first Canadian Conference of nursing was told Monday.

Mrs. A. Isobel MacLeod, director of the Montreal General Hospital's school of nursing, told opening sessions of the two-day conference there has been "slight improvement" in the number of nurses during the last two or three years.

But increasing population, expanding health services and a greater complexity of nursing functions would contribute to the problem of supplying demands for personnel.

"A government plan for hospital and diagnostic service insurance while greatly to be desired, will no doubt intensify the problem," Mrs. MacLeod said.

Hallowe'en went off very well, other than a few soaped windows, witches and goblins, lighted pumpkins, tricks or treats, etc., the night was uneventful as far as can be gathered from those who should know.

Despite the seasonal rains of the entire weekend in this area, deer hunters are wending their way northward in a constant stream. Their spirits are jovial, rain seems to matter little to them as their annual trip to the bushland makes its debut again as so many times before, but each year brings new adventures and tall tales of the hunt. Taking extra precautions many wore suits of scarlet to insure against being taken for a deer. It is their week of laughs and occurrences, and all trust they will bring back their deer, and that the title will be "Happy Hunting."

OTTAWA (CP)—A Soviet trade delegation is expected to visit Canada later this month in an effort to increase Canada-U.S.S.R. trade, last year mainly a one-way flow.

Canadian trade officials say the Soviets may visit various trading centres in Canada.

Soviet-Canadian trade was limited until last year when a three-year trade pact, under which the U.S.S.R. agreed to take a minimum of 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat annually, boosted Canadian exports to $24,605,000 from $600,000 in 1955.

However, despite the pact, imports from Russia—mainly furs—remained virtually unchanged at $1,000,000 last year.

The Russians made no early move to buy her minimum wheat quota. The result was for the first seven months Canadian exports to the Soviet totalled only $656,000. Imports from the Soviet reached $700,000.

However Canadian officials say they are sure the U.S.S.R. will buy her full quota before the 12-month period ends next February.

MAY ALSO BUY

Officials of the delegation may not only try to sell Russian goods but may also try to buy Canadian industrial products.

The visit was first outlined in the realm of communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev to questions by a Canadian newspaper reporter.

Khrushchev, speaking of the "one-sided" character of Russia-Canadian trade, said Western curbs on shipment of strategic goods to Communist countries were "seriously hindering" development between the two countries.

He suggested one reason for the limited flow of imports from Russia is the possible "inadequate acquaintance of Canadian firms with the Soviet market."

BRITAIN'S PRIZE JET AIRLINER CRASHES ON TEST

All 15 Men Aboard Britannia Are Killed

BRISTOL, England (AP) — A turbojet Britannia airliner, pride of Britain's commercial aviation, crashed n flames today on a test flight killing all 15 aboard.

The big four - engined plane took off from the Bristol Aviation Company field and plummeted into a belt of woods near the plant.

The plane, the first prototype of the "Mark 200" Britannia series, carried 15 crew and technicians. It had been used for tests since it was turned out by the Bristol plant last year.

The long-range airliner was turning on its approach landing when the crash occurred, the Bristol Aeroplane Company, manufacturers, said.

NO EXPLODE

Some eyewitnesses indicated the Britannia exploded in the air. Others said they saw the plane come down "like a big ball of fire." A viscr sitting by a window said he saw the plane coming down in flames.

He said the pilot "obviously made a very plucky attempt to get back to the airport."

The plane was the first prototype of the 200 long range British airliner which has been ordered by several international airliners. Britannia 300s are planned to carry up to 99 tourist passengers.

The huge four-engined airliner crashed into trees near the British plant where it was built in Bristol.

HOUSES DAMAGED

Ten nearby houses were damaged by wreckage from the disintegrated plane. Windows were shaken in and doors damaged. Early reports said some people living in the houses were taken to a hospital but no serious injuries were reported.

A witness to the crash said: "All I could identify of the aircraft was a wheel and what seemed to be parts of bodies on the roofs of houses."

Bristol fireman said the plane caught fire and blazed furiously "all over the place."

A long series of troubles have plagued the Britannia. Several test flights on international routes were postponed or cancelled in order to clear up trouble.

Japs Say Cap Breaks off Sputnik Now Races 435 Miles Ahead of It

LONDON (CP) — Sputnik II early today passed the 400th lap around the world as scientists reported a chunk of it had broken away.

At the start of its fourth day aloft, Radio Moscow said the lowest altitude yet recorded while whirling over Britain.

In Tokyo, Japanese scientists tracking the second Soviet earth satellite's progress reported the cap has broken away from the main body. They said the cap, a minute-and-a-half, or 435 miles, ahead of the moonlet, is 1,000 miles above the earth.

Dr. Yashuhiko Takeuchi of Japanese engineers listening to the Sputnik It's signals, told reporters he has heard at least seven different kinds of coded messages.

It shot over the British Isles from southwest to northeast at a height of only 130 miles—not far above the frontier of the earth's atmosphere, roughly 100 miles up. The highest point of its egg-shaped orbit is almost 1,000 miles out into space.

Reuters listening post outside London reported the signal transmitted by Sputnik II today was a strong continuous note.

Latest report on Laika, the dog passenger in the spaceship, was marked by the same scientific fields." He favored increased industrial and provincial grants but some people felt this would mean federal interference in education.

The prime minister said that the Canadian economy is spreading a fear of mass unemployment in Canada.

"We do Canada no good, the free world no good, in conveying the impression that we have the effect of panicking the Canadian people into a depression."

The degree of unemployment, he said, is less than it was during the same period in the years in 1954 and 1955 and only fairly high in Canada is needed to prevent a depression.

Red Moons Raise Democratic Tide to Swamp Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)— Democrats swept most significant races Tuesday in an offyear election which was interpreted as indicating a measure of dissatisfaction with the Eisenhower administration's military and domestic policies.

Democrats won the big ones—victories in the governorship races in New Jersey and Virginia and in the election of Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. of New York City by the greatest margin ever—more than 500,000 votes.

Republicans held on to governorships in the face of Democratic tide.

Democrats also could assess accurately the political effect of the firing of two Republican officials who gave general opinion this admitted U.S. satellites would be used to shoot down what could only be regarded as a Democratic sweep.

It seemed apparent the Democrats had cashed in to some extent on what Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate's Democratic leader, told reporters was the "earth satellite issue." American people were "worked up" over an issue—the Russian satellite—that comes into space while the United States only talked about it.

Meyner added a fillip to his victory when he helped carry into office a Democratic majority in the state assembly, which Republicans had long controlled since 1937.

Democratic gains in governorships and legislatures got an answer from Virginia in the president's action in sending federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce a federal court order for racial school integration.

Republican Theodore Roosevelt (Ted) Dalton was crowned under the Virginia governor's race by State Attorney-General J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Dalton polled 45 per cent of the vote in normally Democratic Virginia in his first try four years ago. He received less than 35 per cent Tuesday.

Almond was backed vigorously by the state organization of Democratic Senator Harry F. Byrd, who has called for "massive resistance" to integration.

But in Little Rock itself, six of the seven candidates for a new school board—segregationists as race mixers were elected city dictator. A segregationist won the seventh post.

Legislation Watch Planned By Public School Trustees

WINDSOR (CP)—The Ontario Public School Trustees' Association today voted unanimously to hire a full-time "parliamentary agent" to watch all legislation affecting education in Ontario.

Prior to the vote, C. T. Lane, business administrator for the department of education, said the public school system is "in grave danger."

He said: "There is a move afoot to have legislation introduced in the provincial legislature to have local industry split on a per capita basis."

At present taxes are allotted to separate schools from corporate taxation in proportion to the number of shares held by separate school supporters.

Mr. Lane said separate schools know what is happening all through Park "but we don't until it's on the floor of the House."

He added: "This is going all over Ontario. We've got to get together and do something."

Gene Shaw of Kitchener, who proposed the resolution at a workshop session held in reply to an executive statement that it would mean an increase in association fees, said: "I'm not cut off. If we can't work in the interests of public, we can't."

The resolution was referred to the trustees' council which frames policy proposals to the government and arranges implementation of proposals.

Sputnik II Has United West Declares Prime Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Sputnik II has done more to arouse the West to the need for action and unity than any event since 1945, Prime Minister Diefenbaker says.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the closing session of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association Tuesday that Communist leader Nikita Khrushchev's propaganda "are" are beginning to backfire.

The announcements had created a greater sense of unity among non - Communist countries and made them realize they must expand science courses and exchange ideas if they are to survive freedom in the world."

SENATE LIBERALS PASS CHANCE TO FORCE ELECTION

Will Support Cash Advances for Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal majority in the Senate is having no part of an apparent challenge by a cabinet member to force a general election on the issue of cash advances on farm-stored prairie grain.

Senator John T. Haig, minister without portfolio and government leader in the Senate, suggested in the upper chamber Tuesday that Prime Minister Diefenbaker would welcome an opportunity to go to the country on the issue.

However, Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald said Senator Haig was wrong in suggesting the Senate Liberals were interested in defeating cash advance legislation. The Liberals intended to support the proposal but did not think it would solve Canada's wheat surplus problem.

Senator Haig referred to a general election on cash advances after the upper house had given second reading — approval in principle—to a bill to implement the proposal. The bill, already approved by the Commons, was sent to the Senate's banking and commerce committee for detailed examination.

SUGGESTS OPPOSED

Senator Haig said that Senator Macdonald had suggested that the Liberal majority in the upper house was opposed to cash advances.

Liberal strength in the Senate is 77. There are 13 Progressive Conservatives, one Independent Conservative, two Independents and nine vacancies.

Senator Haig would welcome more than the prime minister of Canada to have the Senate defeat this bill," Senator Halg said. "That is all he wants. Just do that and he will do the rest.

"If you men and women on that side of the house had the courage to get up and vote solidly to kill this bill, that is all he (Mr. Diefenbaker) would have to do."

Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia) said Senator Haig had challenged the Liberals to take such measures that would enable the prime minister to call an election.

"Everyone realizes, of course, that the government is just waiting for such a thing to be moved by the opposition."

Referring to the government's cash advance plan, Senator Macdonald described them as a "Chinese puzzle." He said the measure was confused than it had ever been before.

Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) said there is no disposition among Liberal senators to oppose the legislation. It must be regarded as temporary and designed for such a time as the way the former liberal government viewed it legislation to enable farmers to obtain government-guaranteed bank loans on stored grain.

Canada's surplus grain problem was one that should be solved "once and for all" rather than over-production. There must be more markets found to absorb all of grain if Canada's agriculture industry were to grow normally.

Urges America End Arms Race, Compete In Space

Asks World Leaders Meet, Plan Peaceful Competition

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today called for a new East-West meeting of world leaders to outlaw war, end the arms race and establish peaceful coexistence.

In a major policy address Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev gave a solemn "no war" pledge on behalf of Russia, providing his nation is not attacked.

He said "competition in Sputniks is preferable to competition in lethal weapons." Russia, he said, is preparing for American and other Sputniks to appear and form a "commonwealth of Sputniks."

The Communist chief addressed 17,000 cheering Communists from 81 nations at a "jubilee" session of the Supreme Soviet in Moscow's Sports Palace. He hammered away at the theme of peaceful coexistence at his plan for a meeting of world leaders.

STOP COLD WAR

Purpose of the meeting would be to reach a mutual understanding on the banning of war and the settlement of international problems, to stop the cold war and the armaments race and to establish relations between states on the basis of coexistence," he said.

Ideological differences between East and West should not be settled on a basis of war "but through competition," Khrushchev declared.

He said an understanding should be reached to obtain "a better satisfaction of a man's needs."

OLD FACES RETURN

Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov, members of the "anti-party" group expelled from their posts last June, were seen at today's session. They looked healthy and well-dressed.

Some 1,300 delegates and 15,000 guests from the 81 nations—delegates to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Russian revolution — included Premier Chou En-lai of Red China, who sat at Khrushchev's right.

Khrushchev said Russia's "victory" in launching the Sputniks had caused "fear and dismay" among her enemies, who had now seen how strong Soviet science is.

"The Soviet people do not forget that there still exist imperialist countries whose ruling circles have not given up the idea of destroying socialism," he said.

SEEK ARMS ACCORD

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union seeks "not only partial but really acceptable agreements with the West on all questions of disarmament.

Felix Gaillard Wins Approval For His Cabinet

PARIS (Reuters) — France's new premier, Felix Gaillard entered his 36th birthday as party today after winning parliamentary approval for his cabinet by a vote of 377 to 172.

The party took place in a lefbank cafe and was attended by his wife, outgoing premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury in whose cabinet he served as finance minister and National Assembly Speaker Andre le Troquer.

Scores of his friends and political associates shook hands and offered their congratulations to the man who ended the nation's 23rd post-war political crisis after a record-breaking 37 days.

Tuesday, the day which he presented his cabinet for approval, was his birthday. After the party over, the serious chore of guiding France back to stability in the order of the day.

HEAVY BURDEN

As Gaillard told the National Assembly before winning its approval as premier, more children and longer-living adults have placed a heavier burden on the growing population and created a need for more schools and homes.

"We have raised our standard of living and continued to ensure the weight of battle-tanks Algeria and the same time," he said.

Although he made no references to a loan, it was expected he would ask the United States and possibly West Germany for a loan of up to $500,000,000 on which to re-establish a sound basis for the faltering franc.

As for the war in Algeria, he is to present a new home-rule bill within the next few months. He also appealed to the rebel insurgents to agree to a cease-fire.

He has warned them: "Do not count upon any weariness on our part. Do not count upon the abandonment of Algeria. Nor will terrorism in France weaken our determination."

NO FLUORIDATION

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — A proposal for fluoridation of the city water supply was defeated decisively Tuesday by a vote of 3,949 to 668. Two members of the board of health claimed fluorides are poison and their use is advocated by Communists.

Red Parade in Moscow Thursday Will Feature Rockets, Missiles

By HAROLD K. MILES

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's military parade Thursday will be the biggest in years, but there still will be enough heavy guns and clanking treads to delight the old guard.

The march through Red Square will reveal a true indication—will unveil not only a number of giant guided missiles but a whole family of new tanks and rocket launchers.

The military rehearsals reassumed Monday after being broken off Oct. 25, the day before Marshal Zhukov was ousted as Soviet defence minister.

Thus far aerial practices have shown no new equipment. But if current foggy weather changes, Russian fliers certainly will demonstrate a number of new models, including some speedy turbo-prop transports.

The sun broke through at noon today after three days of fog. The rehearsals were raised hopes that there might be a parade flyspat of new Soviet planes.

Thursday's rehearsals so far have shown a lineup opening with conventional armored personnel carriers.

Canvas hoods have covered the suspected to be 40-foot-long guided missiles on tank-type carriers.

Following them have been canvas-shrouded vehicles with rockets long which apparently will carry ballistic missiles of some type.

The most intriguing item is a pair of giant cannon or rocket launchers mounted on a tank-type chassis.

The weapons are so monstrous they could be a type of atomic gun to match those of the West.

Police Alerted After Convict Flees From Pen

Provincial police from Belleville headquarters set up roadblocks in the area last night following the report from Kingston that a convict had escaped from the penitentiary.

The report of the escape was received shortly after one o'clock and the officers were called out to set up the roadblocks.

Otherwise city and provincial police reported a generally quiet night.

The day city yesterday at the corner of Bridge and Foster an 11-year-old girl, Alice C. Codling, 37 McDonald Gardens, suffered abrasions to her face when she dashed out from the curb and into the path of a car driven by Wilbert C. May, 167 Sidney St.

The car was said proceeding slowly at the time but police said the girl was fortunate to escape more serious injury. Police Constable Robt. Bisland investigated.

An attempted break-in at the Western Tire store on 10 Front St. was reported.

The glass in an overhead door was found broken but a double lock on the door apparently prevented any entry.

FIND MISSING GIRLS

WINDSOR (CP) — Police said two young girls missing from their homes since June 30 were located Monday in Hamilton. Hamilton police said Judith Anne Byrne, 13, and Gloria Anne Lavoie, 12, are being held until arrangements are made to bring them back to Windsor.

Automatic Tea Kettle Fails to Turn Self Off

An automatic tea kettle which failed to turn itself off while in use to provide steam for the relief of a young girl's cold, brought firemen to an East Durdas street home last night after it burned a hole through the kitchen floor.

The kettle, set on the floor in the little girl's bedroom, boiled itself dry and when it failed to turn off, burned its way completely through the hardwood flooring.

Possible further damage was averted when the girl woke up to find her room full of smoke and the acrid fumes still rising from the floor. She alarmed her parents who pulled the electric plug and called firemen.

Real Progress Being Made on Curling Rink

Every day and in every way the new curling rink at the fairgrounds is rapidly progressing toward completion. Since the first of the week, a gang of ex perts has been working to put the trusses that will support the roof in place and when the roof is covered and the shingles placed it will be a smart looking building. These trusses were manufactured in Burlington and it is a novel idea in structure construction. The view of the new surface will not be hampered in any respect.

The dirt in the centre, where the pipes will be laid has all been removed and the required amount of gravel placed to give the ground proper drainage. The ditching machine will soon be at work to prepare the surface for the weeping tile that will be used to carry off the water from under the pipes.

The clubhouse beams have all been placed in their proper laid, while the plumbers are working every day and soon will have the last of the job completed. The electricians will soon move in and when they are through the rink to be exceptionally well-lighted.

The excellent cement block job has been done on the walls, the clubhouse being constructed of cement and the back wall done. As soon as the trusses are put in place the roof will be placed then will be finished and then the machinists, who are going to install the artificial ice plant, will move in with their equipment and put the plant in place and set the machinery. The whole procedure is running like clock-work and the gulding hand of Ernie Jones, the contractor, and it is fully expected that the rink will be ready for occupancy by the middle of December or the first part of that date.

Last week there arrived in the city 32 pairs of Kay Kendrior matched rocks from Scotland. These stones weigh 42 each and everyone is just aching for the chance to get on the ice and throw a couple.

There is still an opportunity for anyone to become a member of this fine club. Any of the directors will be willing and glad to give all the information that is required. Some 200 members have joined and the club will be definitely closed when 200 have signed up.

Emergency Test By Radio Club Great Success

The Quinte Amateur Radio Club held its simulated emergency test on Sunday afternoon with their control station set up in the Kiwanis Centre at Belleville.

The club's portable generator operated the station, simulating an emergency condition, having caused a power failure. Ross Hogle, emergency coordinator for the Bay of Quinte district, was in charge of setting requirements.

The control station was operated by Mr. Dryden with the assistance of Donald Duke and Earl Lind with the portable generator in control of Ron Chapman.

Three mobile stations owned by Donald Fralick, Bill Barrie and Bill Thompson, participated in the test, the purpose of which was to keep the club's emergency facilities prepared for any emergency which might occur in the Bay of Quinte area.

The test was pronounced successful at mid-afternoon following which members packed up their gear and returned home to tune in their receivers and listen for Russia's new satellite "Muttnick."

Russian Satellite Opens New Age of Space Conquest Women's Canadian Club Told

"With the appearance of the new Russian satellite in our skies, we have entered on a new age; the age of space conquest, an event as significant for mankind as the invention of the combustion engine, or the discovery of the wheel," stated Larry Henderson, CBC TV news commentator-Toronto, as he addressed the Women's Canadian Club dinner meeting last evening in Hotel Quinte, on "Russia and the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile."

"The shocking thing to most people is that this has happened under the aegis of a Communistic State, and that Communism is leading the way, not ourselves. But this need not surprise us when we know the facts. The facts are that there has been a steady shift of power from ourselves to the Communistic world in the field of technology, over a period of years, and we have done nothing to date to reduce the balance."

RUSSIAN EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

"One of the factors in the technical advance has been the Russian educational system. In the Soviet Union technical education is the basis for all education. Education does not cost a ruble; the state pays young people to go to college, and the highest paid jobs go to the technicians.

"Education in the incentive system in Russia, is that the scientists are a preferred class of citizen, living in a scale many times higher than many of our scientists; they have cars, villas, yachts." The scale of living runs: leaders, scientists, writers, ballet stars, workers.

"The most potent facts in the Russian drive for scientific training's many is the existence of a thoroughly indoctrinated, docile, willing population. The main reason that the Soviet Union is seething with political unrest, is because of its misconception. The Communist doctrine has put down deep roots in a generation that has had no contact with the outside world for 40 years. There is a real confidence among educated people that, whatever its faults, Communism is the way of progress and must be taken seriously."

ENTERING VALLEY OF SHADOW

Looking at the western world, Mr. Henderson stated that "we are now entering the valley of the shadow; Russia has succeeded in man-producing the ICBM before the west, the facts have proven that she can take a weapon or a plane from the drawing board to the assembly line in three-fifths of the time it takes the west.

"In this race for supremacy, are we going to be able to compete successfully with the tremendous mobilization of manpower going on in the Soviet Union with an equivalent mobilization of our own in scientific, educational morale?

"To do that we would have to change our incentive system, which would necessitate a spectacular above the teacher and the inventor. We would have to redirect our resources away from the luxuries and toward the development of the backward areas of the world.

Mr. Henderson concluded his stirring address with the statement that we sure we are equal to the challenge once we face it; we have been told; we have been selfish; we have thought of our comforts, our luxuries before our role as leaders of the world. If the Russian challenge changes this, it will have done us a great service."

Following the address a period of questions pertaining to the status quo was most effectively answered by the speaker.

Mr. Henderson was presented to the large assembly by the Women's Canadian Club president, Mrs. E. S. Fairman, and thanked by Mrs. John Hall, to which Mrs. Fairman added a special "thank-you."

Kiwanians Will Aid 'Santa' Cooper Put Damaged Toys Back in Action

An appeal for toys and for volunteers to help mend them, was made today by Mr. Eric Cooper, Belleville's No. 1 Santa Claus helper, who in the past several years has mended thousands of toys that have restored happiness to children in the city and immediate district.

This year the Belleville Kiwanis Club is giving Mr. Cooper a big assist and the basement at the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas street is being set up as a toy repair shop and Mr. Cooper is sure turning out to help in the "first" program.

"But the big item is our need for toys," Mr. Cooper says. "It's not only broken toys that are needed — the better shape the toys are in the better for us."

NEED MORE TOYS

Discarded and broken toys are already coming in but many more will be required to fill the demand for toys to be distributed to the more unfortunate kiddies this Christmas.

Any person with toys to donate to the cause may phone Mr. Cooper's office at Woodland 8-3400 and he will be pleased to up or they may be delivered any evening at the Kiwanis Centre.

Every evening, Monday until Friday, Mr. Cooper and his repairmen will be busy at the Kiwanis Centre, but the more the merrier and anyone with a "clever hand" like who feels he can repair toys will be welcome.

Last year, Mr. Cooper and his workers repaired over 2,000 toys which were distributed among the more unfortunate kiddies for Christmas.

This year's crop of repaired toys will be available to any church or social group as well as needy people in the city and district.

Extended Street Creating New Traffic Hazard

For many years vieing with Dundas Street as being the longest east-west artery in the city, Bridge Street finally has won that honor with its recent extension beyond Herchimer Ave. Bridge Street now extends from the Ontario School for the Deaf Road on the west to Farley Ave. on the east, the recent extension beyond Herchimer Ave. making it much more convenient for residents of the Woodland Acres and newly developed Farley Ave. area to get back and forth from the city.

Opened a little more than a month ago, the Bridge Street extension has been rough graded but more work needs to be done to make it satisfactory for winter travel.

At the same time, however, the extended artery is creating a traffic hazard at the intersection of Bridge and Herchimer and the confusion of stop-signs has been raised in city council. Alderman D. Whalen noted at council Monday evening that the danger of accidents had been greatly increased and said stop signs were necessary.

Thurlow township clerk Earl Dafoe notes that the opening of the roadway has been a big convenience to school children in the suburban area who attend St. Joseph's School and is also a stop-saver for Herchimer Avenue children attending the Kingston Road public school.

The township has also purchased much of the rights of way for the extension of Victoria Ave. and Pine Street east of Herchimer Ave., but the demand for the opening of these arteries has not been as great as for the Bridge Street extension.

2 Moose Hunters Drown in North, Third Man Saved

TIMMINS (CP)—An American business man from Cleveland and a Hungarian immigrant acting as guide were missing and believed to have drowned Tuesday on a moose hunting trip on Bromley Lake 150 miles northwest of Sudbury.

A Canadian companion from St. Catharines clung to the overturned canoe and was rescued. He was to be flown here today for treatment. His condition is reported critical.

The victims were identified as the replacement division of Whitnell Rison, 41, manager of the replacement division of Thompson Products Incorporated in Cleveland, and Raesley Wiksdal, 36.

The survivor is Jack Abel, formerly of Winnipeg and now replacement division manager of Thompson Products Limited Canada in St. Catharines.

Remembrance Day

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Once again, on Friday evening and Saturday next, the citizens of Belleville and district will be asked to purchase and wear a poppy in remembrance of the many young Canadians who laid down their lives for freedom in two world wars and the Korean war.

Each will no doubt remember in his or her own way. Perhaps veterans will think of comrades as they were a few seconds before their death, Wives will remember the long wait for husbands who went to war and never returned. Parents will think of boys who were so young when they left home for the last time, and some will think of a father who went away such a long time ago.

Last November, five and a half million poppies bloomed in Canada. They dotted the lapels of one-third of Canada's population, the symbol of Remembrance made its 36th appearance in this country.

Perhaps at this time it might be advisable to state what happens to the money that is raised from the sale of poppy emblems. These poppy emblems are made in the DVA vetcraft shops by disabled veterans who are physically unable to perform any other work. The various local poppy committees across the country purchase the poppies and all monies remaining after the purchase of these poppies is retained in the district in a separate fund to be used for emergency assistance to needy veterans or dependents of veterans.

In Belleville the Poppy Fund is administered by a committee comprising delegates from the local branches of the Canadian Legion, the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, the R.C.A.F. Association and the Red Cross.

Everyone realizes that in these days of inflated prices the cost of assistance has risen with living costs, and therefore in order for the Belleville Poppy Fund to continue to give the same service as it has in the past we would ask that everyone give generously on Poppy Day.

We ask that all citizens buy a poppy and wear it proudly in remembrance of those who paid the supreme sacrifice for Canada.

"They grow not old, as we that are left grow old

Age does not weary them nor the years condemn.

At the going down of the sup and in the morning

We will remember them."

Lest Digby,
Chairman,
Belleville Poppy Committee.

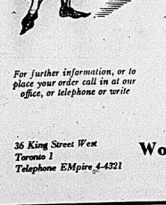
S/L R. Trumley Will Address 418 Wing Assoc.

Belleville's 418 Wing, RCAF Association will meet tomorrow night at eight in the lower lounge of the officers' mess at RCAF Station Trenton, to hear an address by Squadron Leader R. K. Trumley, commanding officer of No. 4 (Transport) Operational Training Unit.

His topic will be "Training a Captain on Transport Aircraft."

S/L Trumley has many years of experience in the air force and has been CO of the O.T.U. for some time. He has been on trans-Atlantic training flights out of the unit and has many interesting facts about some of the aircraft training transport aircraft captains.

No. 4 (T) CF) O.T.U. is a satellite of Air Transport Command, Lachine, Que., which is the home of the famous 426 squadron which flew a million miles during the Korean airlift, without an accident. The unit at Trenton flies North Star, Dakota and C-119 aircraft, soon to be augmented by a transport version of the Bristol Brittania



Presidents of 418 Wing, Al. Smith, said membership in the Wing has increased to 47, with present members expected to bring in more.

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP)—A train laden with 2,500 tons of ore today eased slowly out of this Northern Quebec mining centre to mark completion of a railway branch line into a wilderness rich in minerals, forest and power resources.

READING MACHINE FOR THE BLIND

A short time ago a U.S. scientist predicted that the day was not far distant when blind persons would be able to "see" with television. The way he explained, is to transmit a message to the brain and all that needed to be done was to devise a method by which television could by-pass the eye and transmit the desired message directly to the brain.

Napoleon is reported to have said that nothing is impossible and the day may yet come when somebody invents a way of confounding the rebuttal of the sceptic by striking a match on soap. So, though by-passing the eye may seem a difficult task, it would be a brave man who would predict it will never be done.

Meanwhile, though, a Hungarian scientist has already invented a device which, by utilizing the basic principle of television, enables blind people to "read" ordinary books or typewritten texts. This machine, though, uses a method already familiar to the blind in by-passing the eye and sending the desired message to the brain. The blind person using the machine reads by touch.

Laszlo Zelenka, from the Institute of Physics attached to the Technical University in Budapest, accomplished this by constructing a machine consisting of an instrument similar to a fountain pen containing a "seeing-eye", which is used to follow the lines of the text and which is attached to a box on top of which is a small, perforated square, the size of a postage stamp. When the blind reader, as he moves the "seeing-eye" along the text, feels with his other hand the outlines of the letter or sign on the perforated square, creating by a process similar to that of television the "seeing-eye," moving over the letters, transmits electrically the light and dark outlines to the apparatus in the box. This then sets in motion needles which re-create the form of the letter or number through the perforated square.

700 MILLION ILLITERATES

According to a United Nations report, there were 700,000,000 adult illiterates in the world in 1950. This amounted to 44 per cent of the total world population aged 15 years and over.

Figures like this startle those of us who are fortunate enough to have been born and brought up in those parts of the world where literacy is taken for granted, where it is presumed that children will learn to read and write as naturally as they learn to speak.

European and English-speaking North America are listed in the United Nations report as the parts of the world with the highest literacy rates. (Probably French-speaking North America should be included but Quebec appears to have been over-looked the qualification "English-speaking" having almost certainly been inserted to exclude Spanish-speaking areas.)

Next to Europe and North America, though, where do you suppose the rate of illiteracy is lowest? In the small islands of the South Pacific. Since only a century ago the people on these islands were in the main extremely primitive, the United Nations' experts regard this as giving reason for hope that illiteracy in other areas of the world may be sharply reduced by intensive educational campaigns during the next 50 or 75 years.

MIRROR IN THE SKY

One thing has been flying higher than Sputnik. That is man's imagination.

Prof. Herman Oberth of Germany now proposes that man hang a gigantic mirror in the sky. And when we say gigantic we mean super-colossal — mirror 60 miles in diameter. This mirror, he says, could be used to melt dangerous icebergs, open up frozen sea lanes, counteract night frosts threatening fruit crops and light large towns at night, by focusing the sun's rays.

A trip around the moon we'll accept as possible, but the thought of man hanging a mirror 60 miles in diameter in the sky and then manipulating it so that it will focus rays to hit something as small as an iceberg a few-hundred miles below it - - that we have to see to believe.

CHARM OF BUCKWHEAT CAKES

The Summer flowers all have faded and autumn's chill is in the air;
The sere leaves by its purple head and bleak the garden is that bare.
The end of harvest time is here and shorter, shorter grow the days;
The long our only pleasures here will be the operas or the plays;
The mother Nature sink to rest, in me a spirit of joy awakes,
Now comes the time I love the best, the time for eating buckwheat cakes.

The days I sat upon my porch, enjoying oft a good cigar,
The days when Nature seemed to scorch, and early rose the morning star,
I will attend them well; and in the twilight, I'll agree,
I used to love to sit and tell quaint fables to the children three
While out of doors we wooed the breeze; but time a very grous difference makes.
Today I'll gladly pass up these to get a plate of buckwheat cakes.

Each season has its special charms; the spring returns with grasses green,
Then summer comes, upon her arm a shower bouquet of flowers seen;
But later, when the nights grow chill, upon the hearth we light the wood.
This form are many joys of fall, each one a sense of charm awakes,
But I—I count the best of all a steaming plate of buckwheat cakes.

Ignorance Is for Wise

New York Times

We live in a startling era. In the lifetime of men today there have come the electric light, radio, telephone, radio, television, aviation, nuclear power and now a man-made moon thrust aloft by rocket power. Around this there surely are manned space ships and strange sounds in the void. Just how knowledgeable is man?

This question was pondered at length by the late Dr. Daniel W. Morehouse, for many years president of Drake University and an astronomer for whom Morehouse's comet is named. In due time he advanced an interesting proposition for his students. It was that ignorance increases geometrically the more one knows. Conversely, he said, the less one knows, the more knowledge he possesses.

To prove this theory Dr. Morehouse used spheres to represent the amount of learning accumulated by given individuals. He said that each of the sphere of knowledge was surrounded by the unknown, represented, he said, by each individual's contact with the unknown in proportion to the surface area of his sphere. (Or geometrically, 4 times Pi R squared.)

Thus, Morehouse thinks he has of very little learning, would be represented—for the purposes of illustration—by an area of knowledge equivalent to the size of an orange. The small wide surface of this little sphere would represent his contact with the unknown which is little. Thus, said Dr. Morehouse, he who knows little thinks he knows much because he is unaware of the extent of the unknown.

Now comes Individual B, who has a greater amount of knowledge than does Individual A. The surface area of his sphere might be compared with the surface of a grapefruit. Because of this greater surface area, and the greater contact with the unknown, Individual B is more aware than A of the things he does not know. Individual C relatively is a man of knowledge. He has great learning and accumulates many facts about many things. As the extent of his knowledge has increased, the surface of his sphere of knowledge has come to touch on ever more of the unknown. His knowledge, as compared with the orange and the grapefruit, could be likened in size to a basketball. Because of his great knowledge, said the good doctor, he is more aware that he knows relatively little.

It is relatively easy to argue either for or against the theory of Dr. Morehouse. Arguments over the simple Polynesian way of life, say, or those of the trophylacal pursuits with all its phenomenal ramifications compounded by the atomic age, and/or which it finds itself today in the Middle East. Dr. Morehouse was not interested, as such, in beachcombers, astronomers, Mediterranean cruises or atomic or theoretical physicists. Nor is it known whether most of Dr. Morehouse's students accepted his theory without challenge, such is the academic. It does seem clear, however, that perhaps the most important theory of all is the encouragement of the humility and modesty that typifies great minds. And perhaps that was this scholar's objective all along. It seems remarkably consistent in a world of extraordinary events today.

Peace Force Of Highlands

By W. L. Clark, in The Windsor Star

Back in the early 1700s the different Highland clans used to take delight in fighting with each other. Casualties were terrible. But, the clans considered it fun. They loved it.

In an effort to keep the peace some trusty Highlanders were recruited into "independent companies." If any clan got up with the other, these men were supposed to calm them down.

These companies used to patrol the areas in the wee hours of night and early morning. Because they adopted the dark tartan which is still worn. From a combination of the dark hour and dark tartan, they became known as the Black Watch.

In 1739 George II formed the Black Watch into a foot regiment. Ever since when a Scotsman outlawed the bagpipes and the kilt, the Black Watch was allowed to keep both.

It's a famous regiment, this Highland outfit. Its members have fought well in many parts of the world.

Suggests MP For Commons

Ottawa Citizen

Fresh ideas are to be expected of newcomers to the House, though it is not too often that they are produced as early as the maiden speech. Mr. Frank Howard, the new MP for Skeena in British Columbia, has brought forward one idea that can certainly be classed as a novel. And it is also one not to be brushed off-handedly aside. He says he like the idea of a permanent Speaker, one not automatically changing with a change of government. But he is not so sure Canada should adopt the system that prevails in Britain, whereby the Speaker, having been named, third and found acceptable, invariably receives an acclamation in his own riding and is able to keep on serving the House. The new member of Skeena thinks the Speaker might well be consigned an ordinary seat at all, on the ground that he would have the problems of his constituents and to speak in debate on the various matters affecting people all across the nation."

So he suggests, why not have the Speaker — and a continuing or "permanent" one — represent the Highlanders of Skeena, namely the House of Commons itself? The 265 other members would then be the constituents. All other Canadian "ridings," then, would be represented "not restricted in his speech as Mr. Speaker normally is."

Doe Kicked Benefactor

Ottawa Journal

When urging the Ontario government not to permit the shooting of deer in Algonquin Park, the Windsor Star told a story of these tame deer, who will even come out of the bush when summoned by a blast on an automobile horn, can be "fed and touched by hand." Enough is true enough except that all the tame deer, unofficially along Highway 60 in the Park have shown a very distinct reluctance to be touched unless they'll eat all the chocolate bars and other goodies offered them — any given amount.

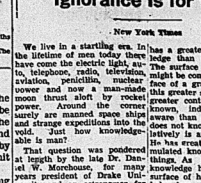
At the same time, these well-fed creatures never dream of — do not hesitate to touch or crowd up against human beings when visiting them in their homes. Sometimes, One instance occurred not long ago at the Lake of Two Rivers, rearing up on his hind legs and putting his forelegs on a visitor's arm to get further food. The same day a doe, still hungry although with its host's generously fed, followed a girl back to her car and tapped her on the shoulder with its hoof to convey — like Oliver Twist — that she wanted more.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

KEEP IT IN LEASH

It has long been known that anger produces grave physical consequences and often leaves one depleted and half sick. The glands and other types of ancient literature describe the evil effects of ungovernable anger.



It has remained, however, for modern scientific men to analyze the effects anger has on body and mind. It has been found to produce very decided glandular changes. Anger so interferes with the normal functioning of the body as to produce at times almost as disastrous effects as prolonged illness. The mind is inflamed by anger. The heart beat is increased. Everyone knows the effect which tension at all times, and especially tension caused by anger, tends to produce — a disturbance which may even result in gastric ulcers.

We can be pretty sure that all this physical and mental disturbance has a corresponding spiritual effect. Unrestrained anger has its origin in an unsettled spiritual state and in turn causes more spiritual disturbance. Anger is therefore, an endless and devastating circle.

Anger, we should never forget, is not a human weakness. Anger is an endowment by which nature equips us with emotional reactions designed to protect us against evil. Anger becomes a weakness and a liability only when we lose control of it. We are expected to learn to rule this strong tool and to keep it from throwing us over its head.

Starlings Stubborn Foe

BBC London Letter

A war has been going on for ten years in the manufacturing city of Birmingham, but it has nothing to do with industrial disputes. The opposing armies are not trade union leaders and employers but wily starlings, that congregate in their thousands on the city buildings every night, and the officials of the Corporation Parks Department.

No matter what method is tried with the intention of discouraging them, these birds will learn by experience and find a way round it. Lord Mayor Godfrey Green in the BBC program "The Eyewitnesses". The officials, for their part, have learned, enough to write a voluminous book on the habits of migratory starlings, and have only too well that tactics that may appear foolproof on paper, don't work out in practice.

"At one stage, they posted stuffed owls on roof gutters in the roosting places in the hope of scaring off starlings away," said Green, "but even that didn't work. We decided to try and appeal to the birds' sense of humor by broadcasting through amplifiers the cry of a female starling in distress. But unfortunately, isn't a strong point with starlings. Searchlights were used to bewilder them, electric shock treatment and transmitting high-frequency sounds were tried, but the birds found a way around that. They evolved tactics of diving underneath the sound-barriers. Exploding fire-crackers didn't last long, either. Various sprays which would give off an irritant vapour-naptha and creosote - were painted on the ledges, but the trouble with that sort of treatment is that the starlings' feet seem to evaporate or harden, and lose their effect.

After so many defeats, officials of the Birmingham Public Works Department showed a natural reluctance to talk to Green about their latest secret weapon which some might describe under the heading of psychological warfare. But they admitted reluctantly that they had hopes that the greasy substance with which they have coated the ledges of the Council House would prevent the birds from getting a firm enough hold and would give them a sense of insecurity. This might defeat the Scandinavian birds that passed through the city, said Green, "but we've got a sneaking feeling that the Birmingham native-born starlings will find a way around this latest hazard somehow."

The Business of Gargling

Antiseptics, germicides or medicaments applied to gargles do not get past the anterior pillars of the pharynx or throat which separate the oral or mouth cavity from the throat or pharynx. The anterior pillars arch down on either side from the uvula (top of soft palate) just in front of the tonsil.

Gargle until you're blue in the face and the neighbors call the police, the antiseptic or medicament will not get to the tonsil of the throat lining, the vocal cords or the gizzard — unless perchance you happen to swallow some of it and maybe lose your last meal.

For that matter, since I can make a decent living without your patronage, I'll tell you this: In no conceivable circumstance would I use or want any antiseptic or medicated gargle for sore throat strait of my own volition. But of course if I consulted a physician and he or she ordered me to use this gargle or that, I'd follow the orders or fire the doctor.

Gargling with an antiseptic, germicidal or antibiotic agent gives no different result than would rinsing the mouth. And in my opinion rinsing the mouth with soap and water—I prefer 1½ teaspoon of certain kindgives every benefit one could get from any other mouthwash.

Yahhuu how shall I account for this fat file of reports received from readers who have used the England gargle with uniform satisfaction?

Where you have me. The gargle prevents or relieves hoarseness or laziness on so a good many amateur and professional speakers and singers.

In the next piece about gargling I'll give Mr. Lionel W. England's directions for preparing his gargle. He was a pharmacist in Philadelphia hospital in my diaper days.

Meanwhile, here's a recipe for a home made gargle which, when used before singing or speaking or between songs and speeches, prevents hoarseness your patronage. I'll tell you this: In no conceivable circumor roughness of the voice.

1. Dissolve a rounded teaspoonful of powdered alum in ½ teaspoon of barley water, (honey scented with rose) to ½ a half pint total.

3. Gargle quietly with a spoonful just before speaking or singing or between songs and in the course of the program.

Barley water, formerly much used in infant feeding, is made by pouring a quart of water on one ounce of pearl barley (not pot barley (the grain deprived of its husk) and boiling (not polished in a mill), boiling away to a pint and straining.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man's brightest ideas often come to him in the peace and quiet of his car, driving all alone on the open road in traffic. There is a sort of sweet isolation in being in your car with five thousand cars ahead of you and five thousand behind, and nobody able to get on the running board, and nobody able to get in the seats. Even if those five are on the voters' list as income voters and nine who are assessed for incomes less than $400, are not on the voters' list. There are 2567 names on the voters' list out of a population of 9,515. There are 1189 names on the voters' list not polled. Starlings Stubborn Foe

BBC London Letter

A war has been going on for ten years in the manufacturing city of Birmingham, but it has nothing to do with industrial disputes. The opposing armies are not trade union leaders and employers but wily starlings, that congregate in their thousands on the city buildings every night, and the officials of the Corporation Parks Department.

"No matter what method is tried with the intention of discouraging them, these birds will learn by experience and find a way round it," said Lord Mayor Godfrey Green in the BBC program "The Eyewitnesses". The officials, for their part, have learned, enough to write a voluminous book on the habits of migratory starlings, and have only too well that tactics that may appear foolproof on paper, don't work out in practice.

"At one stage, they posted stuffed owls on roof gutters in the roosting places in the hope of scaring off starlings away," said Green, "but even that didn't work. We decided to try and appeal to the birds' sense of humor by broadcasting through amplifiers the cry of a female starling in distress. But unfortunately, isn't a strong point with starlings. Searchlights were used to bewilder them, electric shock treatment and transmitting high-frequency sounds were tried, but the birds found a way around that. They evolved tactics of diving underneath the sound-barriers. Exploding fire-crackers didn't last long, either. Various sprays which would give off an irritant vapour-naptha and creosote - were painted on the ledges, but the trouble with that sort of treatment is that the starlings' feet seem to evaporate or harden, and lose their effect.

After so many defeats, officials of the Birmingham Public Works Department showed a natural reluctance to talk to Green about their latest secret weapon which some might describe under the heading of psychological warfare. But they admitted reluctantly that they had hopes that the greasy substance with which they have coated the ledges of the Council House would prevent the birds from getting a firm enough hold and would give them a sense of insecurity. This might defeat the Scandinavian birds that passed through the city, said Green, "but we've got a sneaking feeling that the Birmingham native-born starlings will find a way around this latest hazard somehow."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHEERFULNESS

I believe that we can look upon cheerfulness as a major virtue. Certainly those who are cheerful are not likely to be troubled with all human beings, for they so often shame us into being cheerful. The advent of a cheerful person into a room immediately gives an impression that the entire place in a matter of moments a new light is turned on, and that there is one of complete friendliness. It's like walking into a garden of fragrant flowers.

It costs nothing but the desire to be cheerful to make it a genuine fact. Cheerful people are usually healthy and happy, ready to pass their cheer on to others. The cheerful curse in a hospital is often more beneficial than an entire bottle of pills, about which the patient may know nothing. These nurses cheer patients back to health and happiness.

Many cheerful persons give out their cheer when they have with many a cloud hidden within their hearts. We never know what is going on in one's heart, but we know that it is a heart worth knowing and having! I often think of that old friend of Dr. Johnson's who came to pay him a visit and in the course of the talk that friend said: "Dr. Johnson I too have my little secret sorrows but I didn't know how, Cheerfulness kept creeping in."

Cheerfulness is a philosophy, one worth striving to gain. It's so easy to put it into use in the task, and make it a living thing. The best cure of a friend and companion is the cheerful person. One who creates sunshine when all else may be darkness.

Tea and Sale By Women's Group Enjoyed

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Warren Chase, president of the Grace United Church Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Association, and Mrs. G. A. Puttenham, wife of the minister of Grace United Church, welcomed the guests at Saturday's tea and sale held by group members at the church parlors. In spite of the rain which prevailed all afternoon a large number of guests attended the tea and enjoyed the good things to eat.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Charles Johnston, Mrs. Pauline Carswell, Mrs. Iva Buckstuhl and Mrs. A. Scott. The head table was decorated with a horn of plenty filled with flowers and buds, all made in sugar by Mr. Van Gyzen, who is a clever confectioner and often decorates for Trenton social functions. Mrs. Van Gyzen convened the tea.

Miss Elsie Fowler took the tickets from the guests as they entered the hall, and the bake table and sale tables were in charge of Mrs. Betty McKinnon, Mrs. Darwin Sager and Miss Clarabelle Allison. A novelty table was convened by Mrs. Hazel Chapman. Serving the delicious tables were: Mrs. Betty Hamilton, Miss Gwen Southern, Mrs. Sadie Fraser, Mrs. S. Demille, Mrs. S. Weedon, Miss B. London and Miss Pearl Cole. The tea was prepared by the able hands of Mrs. Hilda Goodsell, Mrs. Helen Bowen, Mrs. Doris Pound and Miss Muriel Alyea.

The proceeds of the successful event will be used for the work of the church.

Also present from Trenton at the convention was James Uttley.

Popular Ballet Will Be Presented in City

Celia Franca and David Adams, stars of the National Ballet Company, are shown in a scene from "Offenbach in the Underworld."

Among the National Ballet Company's most popular programs, is "Offenbach in the Underworld" with which the company will close its performance next Saturday evening in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. Depicting the evening's events in a Montmarte Cafe, during the period when Paris was really gay, the ballet bubbles with high spirits and humour, catching with great accuracy the infectious gaiety of Offenbach's music.

The company's seventh annual tour will take it to a wide section of Canada and the United States this season. New ballets by the eminent choreographers, Michel Fokine and Walter Gore have been added. Fokine contributes the classic "Carnaval," and Gore, a contemporary British choreographer, created "Winter Night" both of which will be featured in the Saturday night program.

Business Manager Don Thomas reports ticket sales have been brisk, but seats are still available for both performances, particularly the matinee where the seats are at reduced prices.

Kiwanians Hear Talk on Surgery By Dr. G. Stobie

Some aspects of modern surgery were outlined yesterday by Dr. George Stobie, FRCS, to the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Dr. Stobie credited Dr. Louis Pasteur as being the man who gave medicine the first "break" toward combatting infectious diseases effectively. Pasteur's discovery of the micro-organisms, or bacteria, gave scientists an inkling of what caused some infectious diseases and hence, not much later, vaccines were developed to fight the spread of small pox, typhoid and diphtheria. Then, when the sulphas and antibiotics were pulled out of a test tube, physicians had new weapons to drive some diseases out of victims.

The speaker is a native of Belleville. He entered McGill University in Montreal and graduated in 1950, later to take post-graduate work in surgery in several hospitals. After a brief hitch in the RCAF, Dr. Stobie went to Toronto where, in December of last year, he was named a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons. He is now practising in this city.

Even though scientists are finding ways to combat infectious diseases, nature is giving birth to new bacteria which, in some cases, appear to thrive on antibiotics.

HEART SURGERY

The doctor told of several ingenious operations that make possible the mending of a congenital heart condition. Surgeons now can work inside the heart using a mechanical "heart" to bypass blood around the real one, without permanent damage being done to nervous tissues for several minutes. Although in some cases surgeons have only about 15 minutes to perform a delicate operation inside the heart, Dr. Stobie said 15 minutes is 12 minutes longer than the time previously allowed for superficial heart surgery. Among other techniques used in heart surgery is that of lowering body temperature to such a point where the patient goes into a state of hibernation.

Dr. Stobie was introduced by Ralph Graham and thanked by Robert Brain.

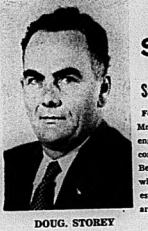
Directors of the club for the new year were announced. They included R. Brain, William Slade, Don Rose, Don Templeman, Don Stanton, Wilfred Mills, Roy Dulmage and George Tripp. New president, to succeed J. C. (Bud) Punchard, is Charles Lusk, while the vice-president will be Gerald Wishart.

The annual president's dinner and ladies' night will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall on November 25.

Kiwanians will canvass retail businesses in the city during this year's Community Chest Campaign, November 18-23.

Calls Meeting for Industrial League

Don Dolan, president of the Industrial hockey league, announced this morning that a meeting of importance has been called for the loop on Thursday. The meeting will be held at Memorial Arena at 7.30 p.m.



Anyone interested in entering a team is asked to attend. Little interest has been shown by prospective entries so far and it is necessary that at least four teams enter so a league can be formed.

Election of officers is also on the agenda.

SPARLING — DARRINGTON

CAMPBELLFORD—St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, November 2, when Nancy Geraldine Darrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Joseph Darrington, of Campbellford, became the bride of James Orne Sparling, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Orne Frederick Sparling. The Rev. D. Mansell Smith, of St. John's officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of ivory delustered satin, designed on princess lines, featuring a "V" neckline with lily-point sleeves and a bouffant skirt, falling to a chapel train. Her full-length heirloom veil was caught to a Juliet cap and she carried a small white Bible crested with gardenias and trailing stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Pearce, of Campbellford, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of copper-tone crystal charm. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Hardill, of Peterborough, and Miss Joyce Rowe of Campbellford, wearing sea-foam green chromespun. Their gowns were also in princess style with "V" necklines, three-quarter length sleeves and crinoline skirts. They wore matching bandeaux and mittens and carried cascades of deep bronze and gold 'mums, accented with bliterswest.

Brenda Darrington, sister of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a sea-foam, green taffeta frock styled with puffed sleeves and sash, with tiny white organdy bloats appliqued on the bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a circlet of white blossoms in her hair and carried a small cascade similar to the senior attendants.

Mr. Craig Witthun, of Campbellford, was groomsman for his cousin, and the ushers were Mr. Wilson Darrington, of Tweed, brother of the bride, and Mr. David Leaver of Port Credit.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. George Nicholls, and soloist was Mrs. D. Bennett of Campbellford, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church where the bride's mother received in a turquoise green silk dress with black and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. William Witthun, of Campbellford, also received, wearing a charcoal sheath dress with dusty-rose and black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

For a trip to the southern states, the bride wore a beige tweed suit with gold and brown accessories and a corsage of deep bronze and gold 'mums. On their return the couple will live in Campbellford.

DOMBROSKIE — DERRY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday Octob-

Anglican Church, Madoc, by the Rev. Richard Fleming, rector of Marmora church, when Edna Mae Sharon Derry, of Eldorado, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richmy Derry, Eldorado, became the bride of Raymond Joseph Dombroskie, of Barry's Bay, son of Mrs. P. Dombroskie, of Aylmer, Quebec, and the late Mr. Andy Dombroskie.

Mrs. Aylsworth, church organist, provided the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly crowned in white satin with nylon net and nylon lace overskirts, with large satin bow. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held in place by a sequined cap with side clips. She carried a white Bible crested with pink Sweetheart roses and white streamers.

Miss Beverley Wickens, of Crookston, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of powder blue nylon net over satin with lace accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums.

Mr. Garry Davis, of Eldorado, was groomsman, and Mr. Max Derry, of Oshawa, brother of the bride; Mr. Robert Ashe, of Summerville, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sandford, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in navy blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore grey taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Kingston, Ontario; Clayton, N.Y.; Watertown, Alexandria Bay and Massena, N.Y.; Cornwall, Ont.; Ottawa, Ont., Hull, and Aylmer, Quebec, the bride wore a grey suit with red accessories, and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Dombroskie will reside in Belleville.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Dack are shown following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Thomasburg. Dack of Belleville, and the late Mr. Thomas V. Dack. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Bridge)

DACK —GRILLS

Yellow and mauve chrysanthemums, crimson and gold autumn leaves and potted foliages, formed a lovely setting in Christ Church, Thomasburg, on Saturday, October 12, at 3:00 p.m. for the marriage of Margaret Leona Grills, of Thomasburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston Grills, to William Herbert Dack, of Belleville, son of Mrs. T. V. Dack, and the late Thomas V. Dack. The Reverend Dalton Woodward, of Roslin, officiated by the Reverend Everett P. Smith, assistant rector of Christ Church, Belleville, officiated.

Mrs. Arthur Bates, of Roslin, furnished the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Allan Gardiner, of Belleville, who sang, "Love Divine" before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Charles J. Grills, was charming in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, net and taffeta, fashioned with molded, strapless bodice, accented by a bolero jacket of matching lace, featuring a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves pointed over the wrists, and full-length skirt of double-tiered net over taffeta with sequin-dotted peplum cascading to the hemline. She wore a crown of white satin studded with seed pearls, and short veil, and carried a cascade of red garnet roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Irene Grills, of Thomasburg, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in mauve nylon chiffon over taffeta in ballerina length, with molded shirred bodice having a Sweetheart neckline, V-pointed at the back, and cap sleeves. Her headdress was a matching feathered and sequined bandeau.

Miss Nancy Morton, of Thomasburg, and Miss Helen Carney, of Roslin, were bridesmaids, gowned in dresses fashioned similar to that of the matron of honor, but in shrimp shade, with matching headdress. All attendants carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies.

Mr. Edward Dack, of London, Ontario, attended his brother, while Messrs. Clare Grills, of Thomasburg, brother of the bride, and Robert Dack, brother of the bridegroom ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the IOOF hall, which was also adorned with autumn leaves, perennial daisies and colored 'mums.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and misted about the base with white tulle, and rosebuds. The bridal bouquets added a pretty nuptial note.

Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, rector of Christ Church, Belleville, proposed the toast to the bride, to which the bridegroom responded.

The bride's mother received, wearing navy blue lace, with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore pale blue lace with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, through the Adirondacks, to New York city, Washington and Niagara Falls the bride travelled in a blush-grey ensemble with pink accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Dack will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from London, Toronto, Dundas, Burlington, Belleville, Corbyville, Plainfield, Roslin, Thomasburg, Guelph, Carrying Place, Shannonville and the United States.

For the bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Allan Gardiner, Belleville; at a miscellaneous shower by Miss Irene Delaney, and the staff of the Corby Public

This - - - and That

Going shopping?

Those two words will soon either strike terror to your heart or fill you with a wonderful excitement, depending on how you approach Christmas. We won't go into that for a week or so yet, however.

We were interested in two new offerings in the meat line, one for adults and one for babies. It is at the frozen food counter that adults will find the new stars, breaded beef and veal cutlets, that may be grilled or deep fried in - four to seven minutes on evenings when you have little cooking time to spare.

The new products make their bow and take their place with quick frozen steaks, roasts and sausages in that meat showcase. Weighing a net half-pound, the cutlets number three to a box. Both beef and veal cutlets are mildly seasoned, chopped, shaped and breaded, and are then packed in colorful waxed cartons with an overwrap of moisture-proof film.

We are told that these chopless call for a pat of butter, a medium hot, a generous amount of fat, and six to seven minutes' cooking time on each side, once. They may be deep fried by placing them frozen in deep fat 360 degrees and allowing them to cook three and a half to four minutes.

The new meat for babies comes in cans. Foods prepared especially for babies and juniors have been a boon to busy mothers for many years, and these babies may enjoy the same fruit flavored meat combinations long enjoyed by grown-ups, too. Three new varieties are available, pork flavored with apple sauce, ham flavored with raisin sauce, and mint-flavored lamb. They are, of course, strained for babies and chopped for juniors.

We are not sure if the babies know that japonicas goes with pork and so on, and we only hope they appreciate all the extra effort that is being expended for them.

Good shopping.

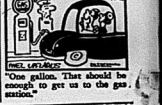
T & T has subscribed to "The Courier," a window open on the world, published by UNESCO. We have done this because we desire periodically to pass along information, authoritative information, about or originating in this world important division of United Nations. Our first copy is the September edition and from it we quote: "Man-made satellite the first step into outer space. No one man will get credit or make the first voyage into unknown space. Columbus did, or Magellan. This present-day man will be a sophisticated electronic brain that will go where no man can go, yet will be man's willing, invisible agent and report continuously to its masters and masters far below, glide through silent space for a few weeks, then end its career in a brilliant ball of flash.

"Why? Because man wants to know. Every boy in every land throughout the ages has gazed on the clouds and blue sky, and on the stars at night, and has wondered what lay beyond. During centuries of ignorance and mysticism men filled the heavens with visions. Then, with increasing knowledge, the air became a material substance and the blue of the sky lost its reality to become only an optical effect of scattered light, and beyond — nothing, cold empty space, interspersed with remote stars and galaxies. But that was a passing stage.



"Because man have ever wanted to know more — which is their chief distinction from the animals - space is no longer called empty."

With all the furore about the Soviet satellite, it might be well to remind ourselves that this is International Geophysical Year; that the Russians have come in first in the race to outer space.

It is encouraging to hear some great leaders like our P.M. who do not panic easily but rather accept a fact as a challenge. Surely the female can afford to indulge in a little humor. We have been chosen to name the great hurricanes. Canada's first astronaut-elect cheerfully agrees with a German rocket specialist that the female will fly the first Canadian ship. And they say that the first passenger in a man-made satellite is an innocent female. T & T hopes the male does not become alarmed. Oh dear, is the female coming into her own out of the dark cave age? Will it take the age of scientific, interplanetary knowhow to establish the interdependence and equality of the sexes, equality that is in their owl and interlocking fields? We hope that the "weaker sex" keep their heads and feet on solid ground during these exciting, challenging days; let the battle of the sexes rest in the limbo of the past as they join hands in the unknown future. T & T trusts that where no offence is intended, no offence can be taken because quite seriously we believe in the partnership of the sexes.

Cranberries—Moulded And in a Pie

By Mary Moore

One Thanksgiving or Christmas time, I can't remember which— we paid 49c per lb. for cranberries.

Now when I buy them for 25c per lb. — and on one "feature" table 25c lb. — I think that they are one of the more reasonably priced fruits.

By mistake 2 lbs. were purchased here for Cranberry Sauce on Thanksgiving weekend, so I did a little plain and fancy experimenting with them and turned up a jellied mould that disappeared like a breeze.

After you read through this recipe you will see why I think you will want to clip it for your Christmas dinner menu. The Christmas dinner table is usually so laden with fowl, gravy and all the traditional accompaniments that there is little space (on the table or in your tummy) for a salad. So if this Cranberry ring is filled and bordered with little relish tid-bits, the salad fiends are happy and the table is beautified by its rosy glow.

TANGY CRANBERRY MOULD

Four cups fresh cranberries, 1 large orange, 1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatine, 2 tablespoons plain gelatine, 1/2 cup cold water, 3 cups boiling water, and 1 cup granulated sugar. Wash and drain cranberries thoroughly. Cut unpeeled orange into small pieces and put cranberries and orange through food chopper. Be careful and save the juice. Jetting it drip into a small bowl. Add sugar to cranberries. Let stand for 15 minutes till sugar has dissolved. Let plain gelatine stand in the 1/2 cup cold water until thick. Dissolved the package of lemon-flavored gelatine in the 3 cups boiling water and then add the dissolved plain gelatine. Let stand until syrupy then add the cranberry - orange mixture. Pour thickened gelatine into a ring mould that has been brushed with oil and refrigerate for 10 to 12 hours, or until thoroughly set.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Potato and Ham Scallop (see Tuesday); Spinach; (at the last minute drain and add 1 raw egg and butter and salt and chop while reheating); Diced Turnip; Peach Upside-down Cake; Pouring Cream; Tea or Coffee.

Another idea is to use this cranberry ring mould as one of two features for a buffet luncheon (the other could be cold sliced chicken or turkey). Or as an item on a smorgasbord — filled with cottage cheese — the combination looks and tastes divine.

CRANBERRY PIE

FILLING

1 1/2 to 2 cups sugar (depending on how tart you like your pie), 4 tablespoons flour, 1/3 teaspoon salt, 2 3/4 cups halved cranberries. Mix together and add 1/2 cup water. Bring slowly to a boil and boil gently for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add 1/2 teaspoon almond extract. Pour filling into a 9-inch pastry - lined pie pan, cover with crust. Bake at 425 deg. Fah. for 30 to 40 minutes until crust is nicely browned. Serve slightly warm.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PROPER RINSING ESSENTIAL TO HAIR BEAUTY

For thorough hair rinsing, a spray's your best bet.

Changing her hair-do is great sport for any woman, and gives her a real lift. But before she decides to do anything drastic about her coiffure, she should see to it that her hair is in top condition.

Consistent care, of course, will keep hair in good condition. But we don't always take the time and patience to keep our beauty routine going. So before you tackle some hair stylist about a "new look," start a regular weekly campaign of thorough shampooing. Suds-scrub your scalp as well as your hair. Use a well-lathered brush around your hairline. And when you think you've rinsed your hair enough, then rinse it once more!

Rinsing is more important than you may think. In fact, hair experts attribute most of the dull and lustreless hair of which women complain to poor rinsing habits. Hair should be raised and rerinsed until it literally "squeaks" as you roll the strands between your fingers. It's the "squeaking" that's evidence of complete cleanliness, and it is because this is almost impossible of accomplishment with only two or three rinsings, that we always recommend a spray for rinsing purposes.

If, because of mechanical difficulties, you cannot use a spray or your shower, you can stick to the water glass or old pitcher method of course, but remember that this is one case where you can't go "in the well" too often. Keep pouring the clear water over your locks until every last bit of soap residue is removed or, no matter what perfumed spray or dressing you use later, they'll still remain lifeless looking.

Those who live in hard water areas will achieve better results with the rinsing routine if they'll use a water softener, of which there are many on the market these days — lovely perfumed ones included. Or they may prefer an old-fashioned vinegar or lemon rinse. The important thing is to remove every last soap particle from the scalp and hair— not only for the sake of shining tresses but to prevent scalp irritation which is often caused by improper rinsing.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Franklin T. — It is time my parents considered me.

Mrs. L.T. — We can't hurt my sister.

* * *

Franklin T. — I am a bachelor of 30 and I am now living with my parents and a widowed aunt in a small apartment. I had been living in another city for the past five years, but returned home when a business venture I was working on didn't pan out.

Now that I am back home I find there is really no room for me here. I have to sleep on a day bed in the living room and have no privacy at all. It didn't bother me so much when I was younger, but it does now.

* * *

Mrs. L.T. — My husband and I are terribly upset about this whole situation, but we can't see how to handle it. I thought my sister would understand the situation and offer to make a change of her own free will, but she has not been well and is probably afraid to undertake anything new at this time. I just haven't the heart to say anything to her that would make her feel in the way. She is so sensitive and irritable these days.

Frank accuses us of all kinds of things ever since he has returned home. He claims we never considered him, never gave him the same advantages we gave his sister. This just isn't so, but we don't want him to have such ideas in his mind. We would like to show him we really care for him, yet we can't do what he asks.

* * *

The Council: Several lonely years away from home climaxed by a business failure have probably reawakened an old and childish bitterness in Frank. He should recognize the more intelligent in such feelings, the alimoner will be his chances of coming to terms with himself as an adult.

Frank is right that he needs some privacy. A healthy man of his age should not be sleeping on the day bed in the living room of his parents' home. But he has no right to demand his parents display their love for him by electing an ill and elderly woman from her home.

Frank is old enough to make his own home. If that home is to be with his parents at the present time, it is up to him to create the proper conditions. He should find a larger apartment and make the full financial contribution necessary for this arrangement.

Frank is now in effect saying: "I am a helpless, dispossessed child and my parents refuse to take care of me." As long as he feels this way, he will be exactly that — and will be unable to take on any of the pleasures and responsibilities of adult life.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

USING THE TITLE "DR."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance has just entered a position as teacher in a small boarding school in a place quite distance from here. We are to be married during the first week of his Christmas vacation. He has received his degree of Ph. D., but he insists it would be "over-doing it" to use "Dr." before his name on our wedding invitations and announcements. Do you agree with him about this? — R.E.

Yes. Although your fiance has the right to use the title "Dr.", I agree with him that it would be more appropriate for him not to use this title on your wedding invitations and announcements. Customarily, on such items, the title "Dr." is not used unless the person holds some very high academic position.

PROPER ATTIRE FOR GROOM AT 5 O'CLOCK WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We want our formal church wedding to take place at 5 o'clock and the large reception in a hotel suite to follow immediately. Instead of wearing formal daytime attire (cutaway coat and striped trousers) my groom-to-be would like to wear formal evening attire ("white tie and tails"), because he considers this would be more appropriate for the reception and dinner, both of which, of course, would take place in the evening. Is he correct about this?

— Bride-to-be

No. Your 5 o'clock wedding is an afternoon wedding, and therefore your bridegroom should wear afternoon attire. The men in the wedding party wear attire appropriate to the hour of the ceremony, not to the hour of the reception or dinner. Therefore they should wear formal day-attire (cutaway coats, striped trousers, etc.) for the ceremony and should wear this attire through the reception and dinner.

INITIALS IN NAMES ON FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our question applies to the name of the bride's mother and father on the formal wedding invitation and also to the name of the bridegroom. Both men very often use an initial to stand for the middle name. My father uses the initial for his middle name which he doesn't particularly like; my prospective bridegroom uses the initial for his middle name because he says otherwise his middle name makes his full name too long. Is there a definite rule that applies to this circumstance?

— D. L.

Yes. Initials should not be used in formal wedding invitations. Incorrect: "Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lane." Since your father doesn't particularly like his middle name, I advise he omit it, and use Mr. and Mrs. John Lane. And the groom's name also would correctly be used with no middle name.

Thinks Nurses Have Right To Bargain

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Rex Eaton of Dollarton, B.C., says she doesn't believe professional ethics are threatened when nurses themselves seek to improve salaries and working conditions.

"I cannot see where professional ethics are threatened in straightforward discussion taking place annually in respect to salaries, hours of work and overtime rates . . . or signing contracts making discussion obligatory," Mrs. Eaton told the first Canadian Conference on nursing Monday.

Mrs. Eaton is vice-chairman of the B.C. labor relations board and the board of industrial relations as well as president of the National Council of Women.

She said nurses were the lowest paid professional group in Canada. The establishment of an international labor office study into nursing salaries and employment indicated widespread dissatisfaction in the professon.

She suggested that staff nurses be enabled to select a committee from their own group or appoint an agency to represent them on hospital boards.

Does Not Want Church to Look Like TV Studio

By CHRISTINE STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Philippe Langlois says he hopes the church won't look like a television studio" when he marries quintuplet Cecile Dionne Nov. 23.

The wedding will be held at Corbeil, near the Northern Ontario farm home where the quintuplet sisters were born.

Cecile is the second of the four surviving sisters to marry. Annette was married Oct. 11 in Montreal to Germain Allard. That church wedding was held amid the glare of photographers' lights and the whirr of TV-movie cameras.

Mr. Langlois, an amateur photographer himself, said in an interview Tuesday with The Canadian Press that cameramen and reporters would be barred from the church but only the official photographer will be admitted to the reception in a nearby hall.

About 90 relatives and friends are expected to attend the semi-formal wedding of 26-year-old Philippe and 23-year-old Cecile in the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church at Corbeil.

Annette, now Mrs. Allard, and Marie will attend the wedding but it is not yet known whether the fourth surviving quint, Yvonne, will attend. She still is confined to a hospital bed here convalescing from pulmonary complications following an attack of flu.

University W.C. Enjoys Illustrated Lecture on 18th Century Art

University Women's Club, Belleville, had an excellent preview of an important art exhibit, when Miss Nancy Robertson of the Toronto Art Gallery, gave the University Women's Club an illustrated talk on 18th century British painting.

The exhibit is currently in Montreal, but will be shown at the Toronto Art Gallery from January 10 to February 16. The paintings have travelled from England and the showing is particularly valuable because many of the pictures are from collections in private homes whose owners rarely lend them.

PORTRAIT PAINTING

Before the camera was invented, the fashionable equivalent to a Karsh photograph was a portrait by a well-known painter. In the 18th century when wars were being fought, and empires were being won abroad, Britain's prosperous middle class was patronizing the arts at home through portraits by Gainsborough, Hogarth and Reynolds.

Miss Robertson, in her lecture, did not confine herself to the paintings, but also to the writing, the society leaders, and the social gossip that was often behind the paintings. She characterized Hogarth as a "prickly pear," a man who disliked the fashionable French and who was one of the first persons to be English for the sake of being English.

Gainsborough became bored with portraits and used to leave most of the work to his assistants while he worked on his beloved landscapes. But 18th century Englishmen much preferred to buy landscapes done in Italy to England.

Miss Robertson's stories and comments opened up a new field of enjoyment to her listeners and a much more sympathetic attitude to portrait painting.

Her talk was the first in this year's series presented by the University Women's Club at the Kiwanis Centre.

Before the lecture, Mrs. MacArthur, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Haig, conducted the regular business meeting.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Beryl Campbell, and thanked by Miss Ruth Sylvester.

So-Ed Hears Talk on Japan, People, Trade

Last week the dancing class, under Misses Bimm's direc- tion, were joined with five photog- raphy class girls for their first lesson under Don McDougall of the Belleville Camera Club. The girls learned how to compose pictures of various card games.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. Que of the Japan Trade Centre where he is assistant director of the Toronto office. Mr. Que was born and educated in Vancouver.

Due to his Japanese inherit- ance and connections during the war, Mr. Que understands the outlook of both the Japan- ese and Canadian people. He is aware of a tremendous change since the war in the relationship and interchange of ideas and goods from both countries. Through the im- provement of travelling con- veniences, Japan is now only 18 hours away by air flight, and many people are taking advant- age of this service.

People who go to Japan will find that the Japanese are much the same as the average Cana- dian people. However, the Jap- anese food differs, as well as the theatre and art.

BASIC DIFFERENCES

One of the basic differences lies in the fact that Japan is about one-third the size of Ontario with a population of about 90 million and an annual increase of about one million each year. The overcrowdedness is aggravated by the longevity of the Japanese people.

Japan has the great disad- vantage of being endowed with no natural resources. The island survives by importing raw materials and sending out fin- ished or semi-finished products to other countries. The Japanese industry is something that many people are not aware of. About 70 per cent of all raw materials are imported and about 30 per cent of the food consumption, which means that about 18 mil- lion people rely on imported food. This food is paid for by exports: large quantities of wheat are purchased from Canada.

In the last 12 years Japan has increased her industrial produc- tion to about 200 per cent over the pre-war level when many large cities were completely flattened. The income per capita has gone up 115 per cent. Ship building has passed all other countries in the world: iron and steel is about double the size of Canada's production; it places 4th in the production of motor vehicles (Canada is 6th). The photographic industry has been progressing rapidly and Japan is considered one of the most popular sources of photo- graphic equipment in the world.

JAPANESE TRADE CENTRE

The Japan trade centre is supported by the Japanese gov- ernment and industry, with the purpose of facilitating trade between Japan and other coun- tries. Besides Canadian offices in Regina and Vancouver, it has offices in New York and San Francisco. There is also an office in Cairo, Egypt, which sells farm equipment.

The Toronto office displays sporting goods, canned foods, cameras and has put on shows in the major cities across Can- ada.

The quality of Japanese goods is being proven to Canadian and American buyers, and the at- titude toward these goods is becoming more favorable. Jap- an's business with Canada is ap- proximately double that of pre- war time. The biggest item Canada purchases from Japan is oil well casings — 7 1-2 mil- lion dollars now.

Contrary to popular belief, novelties and toys place 10th or 11th in importance so far as their exports are concerned.

Canadian sales to Japan are mainly wheat, about one-half of the total sales. Pulp sulphite comes second.

Japan is presently trying to promote the use of wheat as a source of protein. Most of the protein the Japanese people get has come from fish. In this ef- fort, a school for bakers has been organized to improve the making of bread.

Mr. Que presented a film en- titled "Tokyo Today," which gave a clear picture of industry, customs and a look at the beau- tiful scenery.

Mr. Que was thanked by Don Robertson.

CLOWN PARADE

Following the talk, a "co- tume parade" took place. Hon- ors was awarded the prize for the most original, dressed as the sun or William Tell, apple and all. John Lussombe was awarded the prize for the best- dressed — what he portrayed is anyone's guess.

ARREST REDS

BAGHDAD, Iraq (Reuters)- Security police Sunday night ar- rested three long-sought leading Communists, including the secre- tary-general of the Baghdad dis- trict cells. Police confiscated documents, leaflets and a print- ing press from their hoffes.

Baptist Women Take Lead in Fellowship

TORONTO (CP) — A United States church official says Bap- tist women have taken the lead in establishing world fellowship with their zeal for missionary work, devotion to the church and in the building of Christian homes and families.

Dr. Theodore F. Adams of Richmond, Va., president of the Baptist World Alliance, Tuesday night spoke to about 1,000 dele- gates at the opening session of the second continental assembly of the North American Women's Union of the BWA.

Dr. Adams said BWA was or- ganized to render service, carry on relief work, establish mission and for the co-operation and wit- nessing of the world to Christianity.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, the prime minister's wife and daugh- ter of a Baptist minister, said: "Today we live in the shadow of a dreadful arms that pay dread for the good rather than the best of the world. We should pray that we may be blessed during this three-day assembly to go home warmed and strengthened to do even better."

Other addresses were made by Dr. J. Fred Pyle, president of the Baptist Women's Missionary So- ciety, Ontario and Quebec, Mrs. P. E. Hambly, president of the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada, and Dr. Emlyn Davies, pastor of Toronto's Yorkminster Baptist Church.

Mrs. J. M. Ayorinde of Ede, Nigeria, chairman of the Baptist Women's Union of Africa gave encouraging reports on the growth of the BWU in Africa since its inception there in July, 1906.

ursing Conference Calls or Post-Graduate Courses

BY CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TTAWA (CP) — The first adian conference on nursing recommended that the Cana- dian Hospitals Association seek es- tablishment of post - graduate ses- sions in nursing at one or more Canadian universities.

The two-day conference, organ- ized by the CNA, attracted dues- sas more than 100 representa- tives of business, education and onal organizations as well as th officials had their say about the nursing profession's lems.

h recommendations urged CNA to give more attention oms nursing care in the face expanding hospital care pro- grams.

The conference also agreed that the importance of the art of nursing, with its human relation- ship should not be submerged in the "intricacies of modern ther- apy" and that nursing assistants education be included as an in- tegral part of nursing education.

The conference saw a need for greater research into a factual assessment of nursing service— particularly into the definition of nursing duties. An improved liai- son between related health agen- cies in the community also was needed.

Canada Observes A Day of Remembrance

On November 11th, Canadians from coast to coast pause for a silent, solemn moment in grateful remembrance of Canada's valiant War Dead. Every year, the beautiful Canadian memorial at Vimy, France, is the scene for a special tribute on behalf of Canada's servicemen in Europe.

Says Deficiency Payments Perhaps Better Than Govt. Purchasing Farm Surpluses

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian Federation of Agriculture economist today suggested the federal government might support farm prices by making deficiency payments instead of buying surpluses.

David Kirk of Ottawa said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture that his organization has revised its opinion of the deficiency payment system

"If any product runs into an extended period of very low prices—say below 80 per cent of parity—for two years, deficiency payments should be resorted to in order to support the incomes of such producers.

"The need for such payments and their amount would be arrived at after the crop in question was marketed by negotiation between the farmers and the government."

HAS ADVANTAGES

Mr. Kirk said several advantages followed from this system of paying farmers the difference between the guaranteed price and what they actually got at market. The government didn't acquire products it might have to sell later at a loss and the products all moved into consumption.

In addition, there would be less encouragement of surplus production if the guaranteed price were set after marketing.

Government costs could be high but this was offset by lower prices to the consumer.

Mr. Kirk said the CFA had "looked with some distrust" on deficiency payments because lower market prices for one commodity tended to depress others, and because these lower prices would mislead the consumer as to the product's true value. In addition, high government payments might not get credit from the consumer for the lower prices.

SHOULDN'T REJECT

"However, after careful study, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture has come to the conclusion that deficiency payments should not be rejected out of hand," even in the case of non-perishable products that can be stored.

The federation was asking for deficiency payments on wheat, oats and barley starting with deliveries of the 1955-56 crop year, the most recent crop for which final producer returns have been made by the Canadian wheat board.

The problem was one of prices —subsidized American competition and adverse exchange rates had caused them to fall.

Manitoba Now Supplies Half Its Own Needs in Oil and Soon May Be Self Sufficient

VIRDEN, Man. (CP) — Manitoba, which seven years ago had virtually no oil, now supplies half its own needs and Premier D. L. Campbell says some day the province will be self sufficient.

The premier made the comment in a Winnipeg address following reports that the search for oil was lagging and oil companies were moving out of the province.

Continued and increased development is in store for the province's oil industry, he said. One of the prime reasons is that wells are more economical to drill in Manitoba than either Alberta or Saskatchewan.

NEW SOURCES NEEDED

Government and oil spokesmen agree a new discovery outside the the lime-stone layer found in the extreme southwestern corner of the province would quickly increase oil exploration programs.

At present all of the province's oil is tapped from this formation, called the Mississippian, which dips from a depth of 700 feet below the surface to about 7,000 feet near the U. S.-Manitoba-Saskatchewan border.

Production in 1957 continued to show a slight increase in comparison with 1956's record figures, but the rate of increase has been steadily since the 60 per cent advance of 1954.

The main reason is that a new major discovery has not been made since 1955. However, 18 months elapsed between the discovery in February, 1951, of the Daly field — the best producer until the Virden - Roselea field in August, 1953, second only to the Daly in cumulative production.

To date 12 oil fields have been established in Manitoba, with the Daly, Virden-Roselea and North Virden, all in this immediate area, producing 90 per cent of the total output. With the exception of four minor fields, others border the big three.

WIDEN SEARCH

Now, oil firms have taken out leases on areas as far north as Binscarth, about 100 miles west of west of here, and as far east as Brunkild and Niverville, about 225 miles east. The area is well out of the Mississippian rock district.

In addition, the province has included a greater work clause in recent reservation or exploration permits. Companies now must drill a specified number of wells into a lower rock formation called Devonian, one in which much of Alberta and Saskatchewan's oil reserves are found.

The clause was difficult to enforce in early work because the province held little of the area's mineral rights. But with the new and eastward shift, it has gained a greater control.

Without wells drilled this year, double the number drilled during 1956. Wells in proven fields show a 40 per cent increase.

The Canadian Petroleum Association estimates Manitoba's proven oil reserves at 42,005,000 barrels. Daily production during August, was 17,290 barrels accumulated from 745 wells in actual production.

CHANCES ARE GOOD

Although oil has been found only in the Mississippian layer other sedimentary layers reveal areas of porosity and permeability favorable to good oil production.

In contrast to Alberta and Saskatchewan, whose governments hold oil rights on wide areas, Manitoba retains 87 per cent. Homesteaders who came to the province prior to 1890 were granted mineral rights beneath their land.

First drilling in Manitoba in 1887 gave no indication of oil.

The first systematic oil search was in 1947. Two wells drilled in 1949 in southwestern Manitoba were the first to reveal the presence of Mississippian rock formations. Then a well drilled Nov. 18, 1950, produced five feet of oil-saturated core.

BIG YEARS

The first active drilling program was in 1953 and 34 producers were drilled. The next year 97 new wells were brought into production and the number jumped to 197 in 1954.

Cumulative oil production to Aug. 31, 1957, was 16,883,839 barrels. Production value totals $40,-231,000.

During each of the last two years the province has received about $1,000,000 from oil sales, royalties and rentals. Another $1,-000,000-year is expected for 1957.

Manitoba refineries now include about 29,800 barrels a day. A new 2,500-barrel refinery is being built at The Pas and a refine oil piped in from Saskatchewan.

Father Relates Bizarre Actions Of Accused Son

KITCHENER (CP) — Bizarre behavior by 30-year-old Richard Hagen was revealed by his father at the son's trial on a charge of murder in the shooting of Mrs. Augusta Taylor May 31.

Frank Hagen said Tuesday that Richard believed he was suffering from cancer and that after the mother's death from the disease in 1949 he sat in her bedroom fondling her clothing.

The father said Richard worked for a time after leaving high school but quit because of "ill-ness" and has since been supported at home.

Richard had spent his night gazing at stars through binoculars and his days sleeping. His favorite diet was chocolate bars, potato chips and soft drinks.

On one occasion he plunged his hand into a goldfish bowl and squeezed it to death, the father said. Another time he smashed a record player after hearing his sister play it, and he had destroyed his model airplane collection after someone touched it.

REFUSES STATEMENT

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale refused to accept as evidence a three-page letter the accused youngster gave the police after his arrest, but he permitted the jury to hear conflicting details of statements.

"I shot her," was one statement made by Beam after his arrest, said Constable Edward Post.

"I had to shoot her. I hope she is not dead," was another, said Constable Archie MacDonald.

Massey Will Dedicate Book Of Remembrance

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey will dedicate the Second World War Book of Remembrance in the Parliament Buildings Memorial Chamber on Nov. 11, it was announced today.

The book records the names of 44,891 Canadian men and women who died in the armed services during the Second World War.

The dedication ceremony will follow the usual Remembrance Day services at the National Cenotaph, the joint announcement by the defence and veterans affairs departments said.

The Memorial Chamber, where the First World War Book of Remembrance is enshrined, permanently is to be the new book's temporary repository. Eventually the Second World War Book is to be placed in the new national Memorial Shrine to be erected at Nepean Point a few hundred yards from the Ottawa River from Parliament Hill.

WEIGHS 100 POUNDS

Nine years' work by federal heraldic expert Alan B. Beddoe and his staff of artists and calligraphers went into the 100-pound volume consisting of 612 pages of calf-skin vellum bound in ornate morocco.

Names of the dead, with rank, unit or corps and decorations, are recorded in alphabetical order by year of death. A page of the book to be turned every day—as with the First World War Book—is a calendar published so that persons planning visits will know the dates on which names of relatives or friends will be shown.

Final illuminated pages record outstanding campaigns and battles in which Canadians took part, including the Battle of Britain, the "Dieppe raid and the Battle of the Atlantic. These pages are to be displayed on anniversary dates.

A page without names is dedicated to the memory of those who died as a result of war service since Sept. 30, 1947. This page also commemorates Canadians who died while serving with other Commonwealth or Allied forces and whose names are unavailable or unknown.

ATTEND MEETING

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Several hundred senior Soviet Army officers attended an eight-hour meeting in the Kremlin Friday at which the Defence Marshal Georgi Zhukov, dismissed defence ministers, may have been discussed. The future of the Soviet Union's greatest Second World War hero has been in doubt since he was removed from the defence ministry last week.

'Reprocessed' American Pork Reported Sold as Canadian

TORONTO (CP) — Charles McInnis of Iroquois, Ont., secretary of Dairy Produces Association, said Tuesday that American pork is being reprocessed and marketed in Canada as Canadian pork.

Speaking at the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture here, he said processors were trimming some fat from the pork or in the curing process changing it. This "reprocessing" allowed the product to be marketed stamped as Canadian.

Huntley McKay, director of information, said later that this also was a means of avoiding the Canada-U.S. same weight for Broderick of St. Catharines said that American pork was being sold in the U.S. and sold in Canada under the label of a Canadian firm.

Delegates to the convention were warned that a split at the grassroots level is hampering the work of the federation. Harold Kirby, chairman of the wheat producers board said farmers are fighting each other and marketing plans because of this loss of contact.

The government policy also was too much dictatorial policy from the top down, he said. But the opposition (the Farmers' Union) was thinking of coming down to meet and pick up a lot of members there.

In the face of the opposition that is shaping up against the farm marketing groups, he said a program of re-education was necessary to maintain the federation.

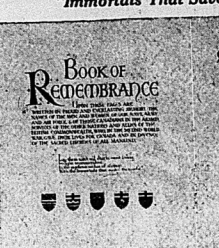
"If we are going to get anything worth while, we have to fight for it and pay for it," he said.

The convention was warned by Mr. Broderick that outside attempts are being made to destroy the usefulness of the association. There was a well-organized "concerted attempt" under way to destroy the marketing boards through the marketing legislation.

He left court cases in Windsor, Hamilton and St. Catharines revealed a similarity of arguments against the boards. Despite all efforts have been defeated, they were made somewhere else.

The producer marketing boards sometimes trampled on individuals' toes but it was for the good of the industry as a whole, he told the convention.

"The individualist, the independent, the freebooter, as far as the agricultural industry is concerned has to be sacrificed, or to put it more strongly, destroyed. We can no longer afford to destroy the industry for the benefit of the few."



Seven resolutions were passed without comment until the one supporting the present producer marketing legislation drew vigorous support from the delegates.

William Oswald, G.H.L. field man for Bruce County, said the fight was now between big business and the farmer.

"Agriculture is the only soft spot," he said. "It can't break up labor but if they can keep agriculture unorganized the remaining profits will be larger."

Bert King of Lincoln County said press reports concerning some individuals and the peach marketing board was giving the public a deceptive view.

"Let them come down to our county and look around," he said. "They'll find that people in the Niagara Peninsula are ready to fight for peach marketing."

Enshrined within the pages of the World War II Book of Remembrance are the names of Canadian servicemen and women who gave their lives during the war and the battles and engagements in which they participated. Title page at upper left, in French and English, has reproductions of Canada's ten Provincial Coats of Arms.

Page at lower left records the names of those who gave their lives during the first few months of the war in 1939. The two centre pages, dedicated to the Dieppe Raid and the Battle of Britain, reproduce Army crest, Badges and Command badges of those who participated. — Panel at lower right shows, from left, Jean Paul Champagne, writer; Mrs. Yvonne Dicenan, artist-designer, and Alan B. 'The Book of Remembrance' Will Be Dedicated Nov. 11 in Simple Ceremony

THE BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE

"Lay them with all that is most living,
In light transcendent,
In the ageless aisles of silence,
With the immortals that saved the world."

Duncan Campbell Scott

This inscription appears on the English title page of the World War II Book of Remembrance which has been completed and which will be dedicated on Remembrance Day, November 11th, the Minister of Veterans Affairs, the Hon. Alfred J. Brooks, and the Minister of National Defence, the Hon. George Pearkes VC, jointly announced today.

The Book will be dedicated by His Excellency the Governor-General in a simple ceremony in the Memorial Chamber of the Parliament Buildings following the usual Remembrance Day ceremonies at the National Cenotaph. The Memorial Chamber, where the Book of Remembrance is permanently enshrined, will be the temporary repository of the Book.

Consisting of 612 pages of calf-skin vellum and bound in tooled morocco, the Book records the names of 44,891 Canadian servicemen and women who gave their lives in the Second World War. It weighs about 100 lbs. and is the result of nine years of work by heraldic expert Alan B. Beddoe and his staff of artists and calligraphers.

The columns of names are in black script and stand out in sober contrast to the illuminations. Names of places with which the Canadian Armed Forces were associated are recorded in painted ribands on nearly every page: Hong Kong, Iceland, Dieppe, Pas-de-Calais, the Atlantic, North Africa, Hamburg, Kiel, Messina, Reghaia, Ortona, The Orne, Frankfurt — the list seems endless, for in the Second World War the Canadian contribution was world-wide and all three services were operating at full strength.

The individuality of each service has been respected in the geographical and heraldic references, and the names of the fallen, with rank, unit or corps, and decorations, are recorded in alphabetical order by year of death.

It is planned that a page of the second Book of Remembrance will be turned every day and a calendar published so that intending visitors may know the dates on which the names of relatives or friends will be shown. This is the practice which has been followed with the First Book of Remembrance, which has been visited by millions since it was dedicated to its repository in the Peace Tower on Remembrance Day, 1942.

It is also intended to provide a public reference index in provincial capitals, which will be in the page-turning calendar, so that those wishing to visit Ottawa to see the Book will know when it will be open at any particular page.

Special illuminated pages record outstanding campaigns and battles in which Canadians took part, such as the Battle of Britain, the Dieppe Raid and the Battle of the Atlantic, which will be displayed on anniversary dates.

A "Page Without Names" is dedicated to the memory of those who have died as a result of their war service since September 30, 1947. This page will also commemorate Canadians who died while serving with other Commonwealth or allied forces and whose names are unavailable and unknown.

Canadian Forces Will Not Be Automatically Committed In Event of National Emergency

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes has indicated that the government has the present thought about committing the RCAF automatically to joint Canada-United States operations in the event of a national emergency.

He told Commons questioners Tuesday that such commitment would occur only "after consultation with the Canadian government and with the United States."

Mr. Pearkes announced Aug. 1 that Air Marshal Roy Slemon of the RCAF was to be deputy to Lt. Gen. Earle Partridge of the United States Air Force, commander of an integrated North American air defence headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

At that time he said the degree of operational control was to enable "instant action to be taken within seconds" of an emergency occurring. He added:

"In peacetime (the two commanders) will live and work together, will form one headquarters staff and develop the plans and procedures required for the tremendously rapid decisions that will have to be taken in a war over this continent when instant action has to be taken within seconds."

The headquarters would take over as soon as a group of planes has been determined as "hostile."

Governmental endorsement of the plans to be drawn up by the headquarters staff include the action to be taken against a surprise attack," Mr. Pearkes said then.

Mr. Pearkes' answers Tuesday to a series of critical questions by Conservatives also will be required after the emergency had occurred.

Hon. Jean Lesage (L — Montmagny-L'Islet) asked if the American commander of the headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., would be in charge in wartime of the RCAF, which he said has been a result of the NATO pact, which had been approved by Parliament.

Mr. Pearkes replied: "And the joint defence of North America is the equivalent of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Mr. Lesage asked whether Gen. Partridge is a NATO commander.

The commander of North America air defence, Mr. Pearkes replied, would be also the commander of American and Canadian forces in defence of this country.

He gave no answer when Mr. Henderson asked whether there was any limitation to this power.

Three Bills to Implement Social Security Election Promises by PCs Passed

OTTAWA (CP)—Final approval has been given in the Commons to three bills to implement social security election promises the Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The House also launched debate on Conservative pledges to improve veterans legislation.

The three social security bills passed Tuesday would raise the $55 a month from $46 the maximum level of federal-provincial allowances to the blind, the disabled and the needy aged between 65 and 69.

The bill now go to the Senate where the government's patter-setting measure for similar increases in federal old age security pensions to all 70 and over must receive debate. That bill was passed by the Commons on Monday.

The old age security increase, which involves only federal payments, will be effective next month and cheques for November.

The three bills, providing for changes, to take effect, will require agreement by provinces to carry their share of the costs. Health Minister Monteith said the effective date of the increases, as far as the federal government is concerned, is this month. Provinces would have to set its own date for the increase, but there is no doubt of its making the increase retroactive to Nov. 1 if agreements were not signed until later.

Means-test income ceilings governing the three federal-provincial programs also will be raised $240 for married couples and $240 for married men. The ceilings operate so that no allowances are issued if a recipient earns more than the permissible ceiling.

That change would add an estimated 5,000 to the number receiving old age pensions in the 65-69 age bracket.

Commons debate opened on a government resolution to increase war veterans allowances and other amendments to the War Veterans Allowance Act.

Veterans Minister Brooks gave no details of the proposed increases but in general terms to the other amendments. First World War veterans will not be known until the resolution has been approved by the House.

The Commons today will continue debate on the resolution and the amendments also would:

1. Extend eligibility for allowances to veterans of Canadian forces who did not reach France in the First World War but served in the United Kingdom for a specific minimum period.

2. Reduce the period of qualifying residence in Canada for former members of Allied forces who were not domiciled in Canada before enlisting.

3. Extend eligibility under certain conditions to widows not now eligible because their husbands died before completing the qualifying residence period.

4. Enable children of a home a recipient may occupy while receiving allowance, if the value is exempted as part of the means test provision governing the allowance.

5. Extend the period of absence from Canada permitted in any year without loss of allowance.

6. Increase the salary of members of the war veterans allowance board.

FULL-TIME JOB

Shawinigan Engineering Co. Water and Power Company's crews are working around the clock on the parent Shawinigan new hydro-electric development at Rapide Beaumont, Que., on the upper St. Maurice river. This photo taken at night shows progress on the 246,200 kilowatt semi-outdoor type power plant. It will increase the power company's total installed capacity on the river to more than 1,500,000 kilowatts and is scheduled to start producing electric power in November, 1958. (CP Photo).

Well-Tamed St. Maurice R. Next Year Will Pour Fresh Stream of Power Into Quebec

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BEAUMONT, Que. (CP)—Late next year the well - tamed St. Maurice River is to begin to pour a fresh stream of power into Quebec's hydro - electric power system.

Six big generators will be spinning out 246,000 kilowatts at Rapide Beaumont power station by early 1959 if the construction schedule holds. Then, the Shawinigan Water and Power Company will have completed its seventh station on the prolific 240-mile river with three sites still undeveloped.

The St. Maurice has been a logger's river for a long time, floating the massive pulp cut to the mills scattered down its bank as far as Trois - Rivieres at its mouth. The Shawinigan Company began working in 1899, a year after incorporation, to turn the St. Maurice into power as well.

1,300-FOOT DROP

Dropping about 1,300 feet from headwater to mouth, it originally fluctuated wildly from a rampaging maximum flow at Shawinigan Falls of more than 100,000 cubic feet a second to less than 5,000.

Today, while still capable of raising fast in season, it has been tamed to a minimum flow into the St. Lawrence of about 22,000 cubic feet a second.

The giant Govin dam, capacity 282,000,000,000 cubic feet, and smaller tributary dams have played a part at headwater. Each of the seven Shawinigan power stations provide tributer control.

The 1½-year project here will cost an estimated $56,500,000. The dam will run 1,600 feet from bank to bank. At 240 feet high, it will be one of the tallest in Canada.

One of the first steps was to move the CNR line in the valley to the other side for a distance of 10 miles. Five bridges will be built, the largest being the highest on the CNR system.

LIBERAL FIRED THEN RE-HIRED

Fired from his job as maintenance worker at the Brantford, Ont. post office, Ambrose Truman found support in the Canadian Legion. He believes he was fired because he drove a car for the Liberal candidate in the June 10 election. When Jack Wratten, Progressive Conservative M. P., was told that Truman was a veteran with the support of the Legion, Truman was rehired.

The St. Maurice has been diverted through a 1,600-foot channel. To boost the "head" to 125 feet—the height of water above turbine—the river bottom will be gouged out a distance of about two miles below the project by the largest dragline in the country, a 750-ton monster taking a 15-ton bite.

BIG LABOR FORCE

Employment touched a peak of 1,600 men this last summer and is expected to average about 1,300 men or more a large part of the remaining time. First power is to flow in November, 1958.

Rapide Beaumont's power will be fanned by power line to Trois-Rivieres, 80 miles south. It will raise Shawinigan Water and Power's St. Maurice supply to 1,810,000 kilowatts and the three undeveloped sites, which possibly may be wrapped up later in two projects, would fill out the river's potential of about 1,865,000 kilowatts or 2,250,000 horsepower.

That compares with Quebec's installed horsepower capacity of 8,500,000 at the end of 1956.

About 40 per cent of the required 400,000 cubic yards of concrete have been poured and full-scale operations on the dam's main section is to start shortly.

Already completed are a bulkhead on the eastern bank, the sluice section with its vast curving concrete face and most of the section whose steel gates will be used to regulate the flow. Half the transmission line is built.

The Shawinigan Company, largest private enterprise producer of hydro power in Canada, estimates that the Rapide Beaumont power will be fully absorbed by industry, domestic and agricultural consumption when it becomes available. Construction has been handled by its subsidiary, the Shawinigan Engineering Company Limited whose diverse operations include the job of designing a $15,000,000 nuclear reactor for India, a Colombo Plan project.

EDITOR RESIGNS

NEW YORK (AP) — Martyn J. Pittele resigned Monday from the staff of Business Week magazine. He had been labor editor and one of its senior editors. Pittele last week told the Senate rackets investigating committee he collected $15,000 as an adviser to the teamsters union while serving as chairman of the New York state mediation board and on the staff of Business Week.

92 Per Cent Kill

Trial to Control Lampreys Said to Be 'Very Successful'

The first stream trial of a chemical developed to control sea lampreys was conducted this week, it was announced today by the Great Lakes Fishery Commission and the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

On the basis of preliminary evaluation, the results of the test were described as "very successful." Further study of the stream trial data will determine the full significance of the experiment.

The test was started Tuesday on a two-mile stretch of Little Billie's (Elliot) Creek which empties into Lake Huron near Cheboygan, Michigan. The stream trial was conducted on Thursday.

The chemical used in the trial was Dowlap, a product of the Dow Chemical Company.

It was introduced into the stream using a precision mechanical feeder at the rate of 30 parts per million. Examination of caged lamprey control specimens indicated at noon Thursday a 92 per cent kill of the lampreys resident in the stream. Indications were that the final kill would top 95 per cent.

The stream has long been noted as a good trout producer and the effect of the chemical on trout and other game fish was negligible. Several species of forage minnows were affected by the larvicide but not to a significant degree.

Literally thousands of larvae were seen dead in the stream and large accumulations of them were common in backwaters and eddies. Estimates of total kill of larvae were in the magnitude of tens of thousands. Larvae of all sizes were affected. Young adults soon to enter the parasitic stage were especially susceptible to the chemical.

The stream trial was organized and conducted by the Hammond Bay Laboratory of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service under the direction of Dr. Vernon C. Applegate and John H. Howell. Representatives of the Dow Chemical Company also participated in the trial.

The Billie's Creek application is the outgrowth of nearly five years of experimentation at the Hammond Bay Laboratory where about 5,000 chemicals were screened and tested.

Further stream trials of Dowlap and other promising larvicides are scheduled in the near future. If the results of these tests substantiate preliminary stream trial findings, the chemical controls will be used in conjunction with other weapons.

Supplementing these control methods already in use with the larvicide will hasten the day when the dread parasitic lamprey is driven from the waters of the Great Lakes and the fishery there restored to its former productivity.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Amazing Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

English Widow Wins $574,658 On 3-Cent Bet

By EDDY GILMOUR

LONDON (AP)—A 36-year-old widow arrived in London Tuesday to collect £205,333 ($574,632) for two pennies (about three cents) she invested in Britain's weekly football pools lottery.

"Thank God," said an almost hysterical Mrs. Nellie McGrail, "I can pay off the mortgage on my house—and also the mortgage on my father's house."

Her win was the biggest jackpot ever chalked up by any winner in the privately-operated pools, which are legal here. The pool operator pays the taxes on the winnings.

DIDN'T CHECK SCORES

Mrs. McGrail, who plays the football pools every week, didn't even bother to check over the results of last Saturday's games.

The first she knew of her staggering good luck was shortly after midnight Monday night when a representative of the operators awakened her at her home in Reddish, in the north of England.

"Mrs. McGrail," said the man, standing outside the door in the rain, "I have the pleasure of telling you that you have won a considerable amount of money on the football pools."

"Is a considerable sum and, by the way, may I come in out of the rain?"

HUSBAND KILLED

Mrs. McGrail's husband, a truck driver, was killed in an accident last April.

Early this morning Mrs. McGrail and her two daughters, Irene, 17, and Barbara, 11, left for London.

She will be handed her staggering winnings at a ceremony at one of London's biggest hotels tonight.

Mrs. McGrail correctly forecast seven ties.

Canadian Referees

Canada, Russian Puck Teams To Use International Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian referees will handle exhibition hockey games between Moscow Dynamos and Ontario and Quebec teams this month—but under international, not Canadian, rules.

To qualify for the job they'll take a fast course in the gentler regulations covering hockey in Europe. These rules outlaw checking into the boards and permit bodychecking only in a team's own zone up to the red line.

The Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops meet the Dynamos at Maple Leaf Gardens here Nov. 22, three nights after the Russians arrive at Montreal by air.

The Russians will play the Bulldogs at Windsor Nov. 24, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in Kitchener Nov. 26, the Wolves at Sudbury Nov. 28, the Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens at Montreal Dec. 1, Kingston CKLC's Dec. 5 and the Junior Canadians again at Ottawa Dec. 8.

George Dudley of Midland, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said, "we'll select two officials from the Ontario Hockey Association to handle the games in Ontario, and two from Montreal for the Montreal and Ottawa games.

"We've been going over the rule books and the CAHA will issue a memorandum on the changes. We propose to have the Dunlops have intra-squad practices with the referees present so they can acquaint themselves with the international rules."

DeWitt Could Be Tribes' New General Manager

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians are looking for a successor to general manager Hank Greenberg and Bill De Witt formerly of St. Louis Browns, appears the likely candidate.

The 55-year-old De Witt has talked with Indians' officials and will undoubtedly be considered at a meeting of the executive committee of the Tribe's board of directors today.

"We will have no decision to announce, but if all goes well we may decide to call a board meeting at the earliest possible date" said William R. Daley, board chairman. The five-man executive committee will recommend their choice for Greenberg's job to the 15-man board of directors for approval.

Greenberg, who is one of the directors, was informed three weeks ago that his contract would not be renewed. Slipping attendance and the Indians' sixth-place finish were cited for the firing of the one-time home-run king.

De Witt was in Cleveland last week for what was termed as "exploratory interview" with Indians' officials. Three of the executive committee said they were favorably impressed by De Witt, now an administrator of baseball's minor league fund.

MAY RETURN TO ACTION

WINNIPEG (CP) — Doctors have found that the knee injury suffered by ace backfielder Leo Lewis of Winnipeg Blue Bombers is not as serious as first feared.

Assistant coach Wayne Robinson said in a radio interview that doctors feel there is a good possibility that the fleet halfback will be back within two weeks—in time for the league final if Winnipeg eliminates Calgary Stampeders in the semi-final.

Canada's Entry Empire Games To Be Discussed

By STAN MCCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The size of Canada's entry in the British Empire Games to be held next year in Wales is expected to be one of the most important questions to be discussed at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada opening here today.

Officials of the organization which governs Canada's aspirations said the British Columbia branch and probably at least one other are believed to favor bigger representation than planned.

British Columbia officials are said to feel that this country should send more than 90 athletes because Canada was the host country for the 1954 games in Vancouver.

PROPOSE AFFILIATION

Delegates at the 2½ day meeting also are expected to hear a report on proposals that the AAU affiliate with the Pan-American Games organization and that Canada participate in the 1959 games.

Also on the agenda is a resolution initiated by the national council of YMCAs of Canada saying that it is not in the best interests of the AAU to sanction championships held on Sunday. An official said the resolution was not expected to draw much, if any, opposition.

Jack Histed of Hamilton, now vice-president, who will be chairman of the convention, is expected to be elected president at Saturday's election of officers to succeed Ken McKenzie of Vancouver. Mr. McKenzie, who has been in ill health, will not attend.

EARLY STARTING TIME

MONTREAL (CP) — The Toronto Argos - Montreal Alouettes game here next Saturday will start at 1 p.m. EST in order to assure completion before darkness.

Previous home games have started at 2 p.m. EDT, but with the end of daylight time it was decided to play the last game of the Big Four football Union's regular schedule at the corresponding standard time.

There are not sufficient lighting facilities at the field to allow the teams to play in semi-darkness.

Dutchmen Break Loss Jinx Hang 3-1 Defeat on Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have broken the jinx that kept them winless in six games with northern squads in the Ontario Hockey Association - Northern OHA Senior A series.

The victims: Sudbury Wolves, beaten 3-1 Tuesday night. Dutchmen's Lord High Executioner: Jerry Theberge, with a goal and two assists.

There was a surprise, too, over in North Bay where the league-leading Trappers, who have been playing havoc with other teams in the series recently, crumpled 5-2 before Soo Greyhounds.

MOVE TO TOP

In an OHA Senior eastern division game, Belleville McFarlands took over top spot in the standings by defeating Kingston CKLC's 5-2.

Dutchmen, whose win put them in a first-place tie with Trappers, scored two third period goals to beat Wolves.

Ken Laufman and Jack Taylor got Dutchmen's other goals. Nick Tomiuk scored for the losers.

The high-powered Greyhounds scored five third period goals in handing Trappers their first home defeat in five starts.

SCORE TWO EACH

John Bailey and Cleland Mortson each scored two for Greyhounds, Ed Jamieson, Gus Kaz, Tommy Walker and John Offidani scoring singles. Kenny Gribbons and Bob Barlow replied for Trappers.

A 3-2 lead in the first period put Belleville on the way to victory over Kingston. Subdued in a scoreless second period, McFarlands added two in the third.

Russ Kowalchuk paced McFarlands attack with two goals. Floyd Crawford, Paul Payette and Wiener Brown added singles. Don Thompson and Bob Tilley were the Kingston marksmen.

The OHA-NOHA schedule for tonight has Kitchener at Windsor and Sudbury at Chatham.

Varsity Plans To Draw More To Box Office

TORONTO (CP)—Alarmed at the steadily decreasing attendance of students at Senior Intercollegiate football games, the University of Toronto Athletic Association plans a stepped-up year to draw more students to the box office.

The association, which operates Varsity Blues, said student ticket sales reached a peak in the late 1940s, then trailed off steadily in proportion to decreasing university enrolment.

However, although enrolment increased this year, student attendance dropped off as much as 500 a game during the current season.

Varsity students can buy a four-game book of tickets that also includes an option of a seat for a possible playoff game for $5.

This year, out of a total enrolment of 13,000, 4,700 of these tickets were sold compared with 9,000 in 1946. However, the association said more students were attending university at that time.

One reason for the decline was given by Phil Loosemore, financial secretary of the UTAA. He said: "The university has become so huge and spread-out, that we probably haven't been reaching large numbers of students."

One of Varsity's games against the University of Western Ontario Mustangs this year drew 15,000 spectators, a fall-off from five years ago when Intercollegiate games bettered 30,000 regularly.

The UTAA feels since the Blues can draw 10,000 outsiders, there is an indication the fans are still there if properly exploited.

McGill university is expected to be going to lose fans "to that good ORFU (Ontario Rugby Football Union) club," London Lords, Queen's University is the only school that won't suffer, he said, because, "that's the only football in Kingston."

Rangers Move Into Tie With Canadiens For National League Lead

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TOUGH GRIND

When the schedule-makers of the Eastern senior "A" league got up from the date-board and stretched weary limbs a few weeks ago, the results, as are now apparent, had little or no respect for the stamina of the circuit clubs.

There was little or no mercy shown to any club for its seems each and all have to wade through clustered games, then take a few days off. And the clusters vary in size.

Take the McFarlands for instance. They played Kingston last night, and trek to Cornwall Thursday night. Friday night they entertain the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens. Then on Saturday they hop a bus to trek up to Pembroke to battle the powerful Lumber Kings and top the week-salad off with a game on Sunday at Hull where they open the new arena.

Then they have a five-day layoff before they meet the Whitby Dunlops in Memorial Arena on Friday, Nov. 16. It is going to be a long tough grind to the playoff horizon for all and sundry. It is to be hoped, for the Macs especially that the injury jinx won't strike again too soon, especially at a time when hockey games are nightly affairs with long treks tossed in for good measure.

Bob Senior, the Kingston CKLC goalie sensation, who has been called by Eddie Shore of the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League, had not, at the time of writing, heard from the Springfield brass. The only word received has been that by the Kingston management from Shore claiming Senior.

In the meantime the Kingston management has been having double troubles, so to speak. Immediately on receipt of word from Shore that he was claiming Senior, Kingston went to lengths to secure a goalie replacement and it seems Gerry Reardon of the Montreal Canadiens who came through with a junior star, Lin Davis.

Davis came to the Kingston club with the reported reputation that he will be the successor to Jacques Plante, the elongated roving custodian of the mesh for the Habs, so naturally Reardon has more than a passing interest in him.

It seems the Kingston club wangled in some way or another to play Senior against the McFarlands last Saturday night and against Cornwall on Sunday. Now, it seems, that since Shore had put the tab on Senior the Kingston goalie is a pro, and therefore cannot play for the hometown "amateur" club.

In the meantime Reardon got word that Kingston was not using Davis, and we hear that he contacted Kingston in no uncertain terms saying that Davis would either play for them or he would came back to Montreal pronto with all stops out. It seems there are other places who would like the services of the junior nettie.

However the youngster was in harness against the McFarlands last night and after being jolted a couple of times in the first period settled down and turned in a highly creditable performance.

Standing out with the defensive work of the team as a whole, especially in penalty-killing roles, was the good hockey played by Russ Kowalchuk. The big winger scored two goals, one of them a beauty and assisted on another. Minnie Menard was skating his heart out and working like a Trojan but that bad luck jinx around the nets is still riding herd on him.

For a couple of figurative "half-pints," so to speak, Coach Ike Hildebrand and Wiener Brown caught the fancy of the 1800 faithful. Ike and the "Hot Dog" took on all and sundry who came their way, took their own bumps and had a helluva time. In fact Ike got himself mixed with a heavyweight in a punching duel and watched the game from the penalty box for five minutes. Ike and the Wiener should pick on guys their own size. The trouble is, there's none around.

Jean Paul Payette finally caught up with the gremlin that has been robbing him of goals thus far this season. Last night with the seconds running out Jean-Paul finally sauntered the puck and sent it whistling from the wing with a prayer. It proved the Macs' fifth goal.

And every tooth, including the natural ones in the press box, shook loose when Don Thomson met Menard with as bone-jolting a bodycheck as has been seen here in some time. Minnie was looking for the pass and the rubber and Thomson reached him at the same time. Wow!

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (CP) — Pink Velvet, owned by Toronto sportsman Bill Beasley, easily captured the $31,050 Jersey Bell Stakes at Garden State Park Tuesday.

The Canadian-owned horse ran the 1 1-16-mile race in the good time of 1:45 1-5. Overlooked by most fans, Pink Velvet returned $17.20 for a $2 ticket.

Light 'N' Lovely was second and the favorite, Romanita, third.

As New York, Who's Calling, Stable's Misty Flight beat Whiskey Jin the 4th running of the $29,150 Remsen Stakes by a neck at Jamaica race track.

The chestnut two-year-old was timed in 1:43 for the 1 1-16 miles. Whitley finished 4½ lengths in front of Rose Trellis.

E. Jay Drake's Dogoon broke a 26-year-old track record at Churchill Downs, Lexington, Ky., by winning the featured $7,500 Election-Day Purse.

Dogoon covered the 6½ furlongs in 1:16 1-5, clipping one-fifth of a second off the previous record set by Gallant Knight. Tango was second and Shan Par third.

BRAVES SIGN CANUCK

Play 1-1 Draw With Detroit And Take on Leafs Tonight; Wings Nestling Near Cellar

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Science may have its Sputniks, but the National Hockey League has something almost as startling—the 1957 edition of New York Rangers, on top of the league for the first time in 16 years.

And, almost as shocking, Detroit Red Wings, once the most feared force in hockey, today are two points out of the cellar.

It all happened Tuesday night as Rangers and Wings played a 1-1 tie in Detroit. The point gave New York a total of 16, good enough to move them into a tie for first place with the idle Montreal Canadiens, who, however, have played two fewer games.

AT LEAFS TONIGHT

New York can take over sole possession tonight with a win or a tie against last-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Maple Leaf Gardens.

They almost did Tuesday night in front of 8,121 Detroit fans as Camille Henry, the Rangers' slight but speedy centre, got them away to a 1-0 lead at 9:33 of the first period.

The goal was the kind that Henry has made almost exclusively his own this season. With Warren Godfrey in the penalty box the Rangers iced their power play. Harry Howell's backhand shot was blocked by Terry Sawchuk, but the little opportunist hung right in the net and moments later took Dave Creighton's pass and banked the puck into the corner.

It was his sixth goal this season, all of them on power plays.

STOLE THE PUCK

The score stayed that way until 16:58 of the second period, when Wings once again short-handed, Alex Delvecchio stole the puck from Ranger defenceman Bill Gadsby and blasted it past Marcel Paille.

It was another good night for Paille, the 24-year-old Shawinigan Falls, Que., goalie playing his third NHL game in place of the injured Lorne Worsley.

He stopped 34 shots Tuesday night and has allowed only three goals in the three games.

Sawchuk, who stopped a total of 97 shots while having two weekend games, had a bit of a breather and faced only 25. But many of them were from right in front and he turned in one of his best efforts this season.

Gerry James Sets Two Marks In Football

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gerry James returned to Winnipeg Blue Bombers from the hockey wars to set two records in capturing the 1957 individual scoring title in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The 23-year-old fullback, who sat out the 1956 football season to play with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, scored a record - breaking 131 points and a record 19 touchdowns. The old point-scoring record of 110 was set in 1952 by end Bob Shaw of Calgary Stampeders when a touchdown was worth only five points. Shaw would have had 119 points under the present system. Ken Carpenter of Saskatoon Roughriders set the old mark of 13 touchdowns in 1935.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed James' 131 points on 19 touchdowns three converts, four field goals and two singles.

Edmonton Eskimos' halfback quarterback Jackie Parker, with 103 points, was runner-up to James. Parker scored 17 touchdowns and one convert.

In third place with 100 points was Esks' place-kicking end Joe Midora, who scored two touchdowns and booted a WIFU record 50 converts, 10 field goals and eight singles. Previous convert record was 42 by Annis Stukus of Edmonton in 1950.

Eskimos' two hard-rock fullbacks—Johnny Bright and Norm Kwong — held fourth and fifth positions respectively. Bright crashed through for 96 points on 16 touchdowns. Kwong had 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

Bobby Marlow of Saskatchewan and By Bailey of British Columbia Lions followed with 48 points on 10 touchdowns apiece.

Williams, Musial, Yanks Named to All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Batting champions Ted Williams and Stan Musial, five members of the world champion Milwaukee Braves and three from New York Yankees today were named to The Associated Press major league all-star team for 1957. Williams and Musial, the only players from non-pennant-winning clubs to make the all-stars, collected the largest number of votes among 182 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, who participated in the AP poll.

Williams, Boston Red Sox left fielder, was named on 160 ballots, Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman, received 158 votes.

REST OF TEAM

The remainder of the squad was made up of second baseman Red Schoendienst, third baseman Ed Mathews, outfielder Hank Aaron and pitchers Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette of the Braves and shortstop Gil McDougald, outfielder Mickey Mantle and catcher Yogi Berra of Yankees.

Behind Williams and Musial in this year's balloting came Mathews with 154 votes, McDougald and Mantle with 137 each and Spahn with 115.

The closest vote was between second sackers Schoendienst and the White Sox' Nellie Fox. The Milwaukee star was named on 93 ballots and Fox on 86. Another tight vote was in the righthanded pitcher category in which Burdette had 75 votes and Jim Bunning of Detroit 66.

Five of the all-stars batted higher than .300 during the regular campaign. Williams topped the American League with .388, Musial was first in the National with .351. Mantle finished with .365, Aaron .322 and Schoendienst .309. Mathews wound up at .292, McDougald .289 and Berra .215. Spahn, with a 21-11 won-lost record, reached the 20-mark for the eighth time. Burdette was three world series games after compiling a 17-9 season's slate.

TO DISCUSS PCL PROBLEMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Realignment problems and reorganization of the Pacific Coast League will be discussed Thursday at a New York meeting of baseball commissioner Ford Frick and all interested parties including New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Frick said Tuesday the meeting had been requested by "interested parties" as a result of the moves of Giants to San Francisco and Dodgers to Los Angeles.

McFarlands Take Over League Lead With 5-2 Victory Over Kingston

Score Three in First Period Of Rugged Senior Battle; Kowalchuk Tops Pack With 2

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

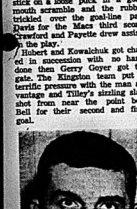
The Kingston CKLC's did not have Bob Senior last night but they had a junior almost as good but that fact did not stop the McFarlands from taking over top spot in the eastern senior division with a 5-2 victory over the CKLC's.

It was a typical Kingston-Belleville hard-hitting, sometimes boisterous battle with the fine defensive work of the McFarlands standing out, especially when shorthanded. They drove hard offensively too, outshooting the CKLC's 35-25 on the night's play.

Spotting the foemen a goal in the first two minutes of play, Ike Hildebrand's crew roared back with three before Kingston got its second and last goal of the game late in the first period. The teams battled in a scoreless second frame and the hot and heavy unanswered clinchers in the final heat for their fourth victory in six starts.

With the controversial Bob Senior watching from the sidelines, Kingston iced youthful Lin Davis, a product of the Montreal Canadiens. The just-out-of-Sage Junior had a somewhat shaky start but after that settled down and turned in a sparkling performance. He was especially good when goalbreaking McFarland raced in on his doorstep unmolested.

Referee Jack Shropshire handed out fourteen penalties eight to the McFarlands, one a major to the usually peaceful Ike Hildebrand. He tabbed the CKLC's with two majors and two misconducts. Tilley got a major, automatic ten-minute sentence for incurring two majors and Partridge the other for interference with the official.



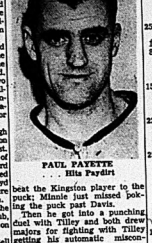
Russ Kowalchuk came through with his best hockey of the season scoring two goals and an assist. Floyd Payette got his first goal of the season, and Minnie Menard worked like a Trojan and deserved at least that much. Floyd Crawford and Wiener Brown were the other McFarland marksmen.

Thomson and Tilley were the triggermen for the Kingston club, with Joe Lemaire a standout on the defence.

Thomson's high blast beat Bell after 1.42 of the first period racing back from a Macs attack but two minutes later Floyd Crawford scorched a beauty past Davis from near the Belleville penalty box. Goyer and Kowalchuk in on the play.

Some 1795 fans had scarcely settled in their seats when Bart, Bradley, Davis' mates and Kowalchuk worked goalwards in a neat passing play, the latter hitting a corner low to put the Macs one up. At 8.29 Wiener Brown got his stick on a loose puck in a goalmouth scramble and the rubber trickled over the goal-line past Davis for the Macs third score. Crawford and Payette drew assists on the play.

Clark netted Kowalchuk got chanced in succession with no harm done then Gerry Goyer got the gate. The Kingston team put on terrific pressure with the man advantage and Tilley's sizzling slap shot from near the point beat Bell for their second and final goal.



RUSS KOWALCHUK
Good For Two

The scoreless second heat was productive of outstanding defensive work on the part of the Macs. Hildebrand and Tilley drew majors and a minute later Brown got heav. Moe Bertrand, Payette and Bodie did yeoman penalty-killing the. Don Senior was chased, Marineau raced in alone, almost scored, and took a healthy body whack at a Kingston defender which the official did not see. The Macs held the fort until both teams were back at full strength.

Russ Kowalchuk scored a beauty four minutes after the final period opened racing behind the right boards going around the Kingston defence to whip in a low blast to put the Macs two goals up.

Botley was chased for interference about as he scarcely back when he was chased for boarding Moore. Botley leaned over Crozier to see if he was hurt and Partridge got into the act. The referee punished him away and Partridge objected. He sat the next ten minutes out with a misconduct.

Gordie Bell narrowly missed an assist when he drove the puck into the centre boards down ice and Minnie Menard beat the Kingston player to the puck; Minnie just missed poking the puck past Davis.

Then he got into a punching duel with Tilley and both drew majors for fighting with Tilley getting his automatic misconduct.

With less than three minutes to go Paul Payette, Marineau and Montgomery ripped goals toward white and Paul sinking the rubber for his initial goal of the season.

Petes' Sniper Leads Junior Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — It's goals that count—or is it?

A glance at the latest Ontario Hockey Association Junior A statistics raises the question.

St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros hold top two places in the standings—but neither has a player in the top five places in the goal scorers list.

Top marksman is Peterborough Petes' Gerry Brisson, with eight goals. Three Barrie Flyers follow, Pete Panagkos, Bernie Cote and Bill Ferhan, all with seven, and Gary Darling, Peterborough, also has seven.

In the standings, St. Catharines, with six points, have a one-point edge over Marlboros. Barrie and Peterborough share third spot with four. The standings include games played Monday.

Hamilton's Weitzel leads the goaltenders, having allowed only four goals in three games for a 1.67 average. Manaigo, St. Michael's, is second with a 2.0 average for two games.

League Will Devise New Pension Plan

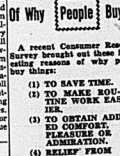
NEW YORK (AP) — Player representatives of the American Association baseball league have retained F. Norman Lewis, lawyer for major league players, to help them devise a pension plan.

Lewis said Tuesday he has asked Ed Doherty, association president, to meet with the eight player representatives to discuss pension and other points.

Although the minor league player movement is confined to the American Association at this time, Lewis said the players had been in touch with International League players and said they want to organize during spring training season.

Lewis said the players had drawn up a nine-point program that includes a pension, hospitalization, a $50-a-month salary minimum, removal of winter ball restrictions, uniform meal allowance, transportation to and from ball parks, flight insurance, reasonable winter air accommodations to their homes in the fall and grants to players who reside the hotel during spring training equal to the hotel rates.

Lewis also is a lawyer for the National Hockey League Players' Association.



Willie Toweel Beats Spaniard

LONDON (AP)—Willie Toweel, South Africa's fourth - ranked challenger for American Joe Brown's world lightweight title, Tuesday night battered Jose Hernandez of Spain into a technical knockout in the ninth round of a 10-rounder. Toweel weighed 136 pounds, Hernandez 134.

The referee stopped the fight at 2:25 of the ninth as blood gushed from a severe cut above Hernandez' left eye.

Toweel opened the cut in the second round with a powerful right cross. The South African hammered away at the Spaniard's left eye for the rest of the fight.

Toweel opened the ninth round with lefts to the face and then shook up Hernandez with a right uppercut to the jaw. The South African slammed two more rights to blood poured from the Spaniard's injured eye. The referee then stopped the fight.

France, Mexico Settle Banty Title Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The international squabble over the bantamweight championship of the world should be settled tonight when Alphonse Halimi of France and Raul (Raton) Macias of Mexico climb into the ring at Wrigley Field to fight 15 rounds or less.

Most boxing people think it will be less as these two hard-punching 118-pounders, Macias the stylist and Halimi a man with a small bomb in each glove, square off to end a dispute that has existed for almost four years in the division.

The televised outdoor bout is set for 10 p.m. EST.

MACIAS FAVORED

Macias rates only a 10-to-8 betting favorite to gain a clear claim to the title. He laid claim and recognition by the U.S. National Boxing Association by knocking out Pramuansak Songkitrat of Thailand in San Francisco March 9, 1955, in 11 rounds. Halimi on March 23 of this year d'Agata of Italy in Paris last April 5 in an elimination by the World Boxing Championship Committee.

A crowd estimated at 20,000 is expected to pay $200,000 or more to see the fight.

Macias is the magnet, and idol of thousands of Mexican nationals who have already migrated across the border towns of California, Arizona and Texas to see his battle. Added to these is Los Angeles' huge Mexican population, which has a similar affinity for Macias, or Little Mouse.

AGREES TO REMATCH

Macias, 23, has agreed to give Halimi, 25-year-old native of Algeria a return fight within 90 days in Paris if he wins.

Each fighter has lost but one professional fight—Halimi by a cut eye in a London bout June 19, Jimmy Carson, featherweight champion of Scotland, and Macias by a knockout in Billy Peacock here in June, 1955.

Since the Peacock disaster Macias has won 14 straight for a total of 31 wins. Halimi has won 26 bouts. Macias has knocked out 19 foes, Halimi 12.

Maple Leafs Vote to Accept Body as Bargaining Agent

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs have voted Tuesday night to accept the National Hockey League Players' Association as bargaining agent and speculation turned to the fate of a $3,000,000 antitrust suit by the association against the NHL.

The association's complaint, filed in New York Oct. 10, charged that the league and team owners have "monopolized and obtained complete control and dictatorship" of professional hockey in New York, New England, Michigan, Illinois, Quebec and Ontario. A hearing will be held in a New York federal district court Nov. 11.

The Maple Leaf players endorsed the association at a three-hour closed meeting in Maple Leaf Gardens. Carl Voyer, also a letter carrier, a Leaf representative on the organization, said the vote was necessary "because the club owners refused to give our association recognition."

Stafford Smythe, a son of Gardens managing director Conn Smythe, asked association lawyer Milton Mound if the anti-trust suit would be dropped now that the movement had voted for the group.

NO SAY IN DECISIONS

Mound, a New York attorney who flew here to talk to the players, told Smythe he acted only as agent and had no say in their decisions.

The association already has filed an application with the Ontario labor relations board for accreditation. The board now has ruled on Nov. 18.

Mound said Monday his firm has certification applications with government agencies in Boston, New York, Chicago and Montreal last month. He added that one will be sent shortly to the Quebec labor relations board on behalf of Montreal Canadiens.

The association has been retained since its first communication with the club owners that it will "attempt to negotiate salaries. These and certain other matters will remain with each player to work out.

"The association never at any time intended to interfere with the rights of players to negotiate," Mound said Tuesday. "The owners tried to frighten the players into thinking that one uniform wage would prevail for everyone."

Sloan said the labor relations board now will be notified of the unanimous 18-player vote. Conn Mound accused Conn Smythe earlier of trying to intimidate the players by telling them they were forming a union, which, Mound claimed, they weren't.

Smythe replied Tuesday that he had intimidated no one. He said he left the meeting at which he was accused of attempting intimidation before proceedings got under way and didn't return to the room until the meeting was over.

As for describing the association as a union, Smythe said, he was only reading from an Ontario labor relations board notice which called it one.

First of 'Seven Lively Arts' Was Disappointment to Many

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's difficult to find many persons who agree on the nature of ways of love. Everybody has a different definition of it. When two of opposite sexes agree on love's nature it often leads them into all sorts of complications: Marriage, children, mortgages . . .

Probably there is wide disagreement too on The Changing Ways of Love, the first offering of The Seven Lively Arts (CBS-TV, Sundays, 5 p.m. EST). Personally, I found it a disappointment, while believing that the program itself has great potential.

The Changing Ways of Love was an example of television's penchant for categorizing everything on the basis of available economic and social theories—and available film clips. Love just can't be categorized in such a manner. That such estimable talents as are gathered on The Seven Lively Arts should think it could be treated so is surprising.

NO NEW ITEMS

In brief live drama, in film and dance and documentary, we saw and heard theories about the manners of what we've often seen and heard before on television: (In the 1920s love was expressed by "flaming youth" and the Charleston and so forth. In the 1930s love was a proletarian affair complicated by an economic dependence. In the 1940s and after, it ranged from Rita Hayworth to Elvis Presley and Jimmy Dean.)

SUPERFICIAL SCRIPT

Perhaps if the program had been entitled Prominent American Love Objects of the Last 30 Years there would have been less disappointment. But the script by S. J. Perelman lacked incisive wit and was superficial in viewpoint.

John Crosby, the television critic who made his professional debut on the other side of the canvas, will make an excellent host when this program gets under way. His reflectiveness, eloquently expressed in a mellow brow and hesitant speech, is ideally suited to a thoughtful program.

The trouble was that he was working on a program of cheap neat tricks but little reflective content. So, too, was Mike Wallace who displayed his customary professional ease and incisive questioning of Perelman.

Three truncated dramatic sketches, which illustrated three views of love in three decades, were ineptly selected.

Roz Russell Moving Out Of Auntie Mame in 2 Years

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great marriages of entertainment — Rosalind Russell and as auntie named Mame — is over on forever. But Roz is holding it down to two years.

Auntie Mame has been a top ticket on Broadway ever since it opened a year ago. Miss Russell's initial contract at the New York run in just 11 weeks though she could remain as long as she wanted. Her reasoning:

"It's a tremendously exhausting show. By the time we finish the movie next June, it will be almost two years that I have been working with Mame. In August of 1956 we first started working with the script.

"It has been a wonderful experience, but good heavens—how many years can you be playing one character?"

At long as she wants, say the ticket agents. But Roz has other ideas. She has never been one for standing still. She played an endless procession of professional women in films — so much so that the actress suit became a uniform for her.

MAN-ROPING TEACHER

But she broke out to come back to Broadway in a musical, Wonderful Town. And her latest film, Picnic, portrayed a spinster schoolstarved, man-oeping teacher.

On St. Patrick's day next year, she'll be in the film version of Mame for Warner Brothers. Then she and husband Fred Brisson will head for a lengthy vacation to Europe. What then?

"Perhaps another play," she said. "I've had a lot of scripts offered to me, but once again, I want to do something different. It's the same way with picture. You can't get to be this age; it's not easy to find good parts. But I'll play anything — mothers, aunts, old maids — as long as they're interesting."

Giardello Wins Over Greaves

DENVER (AP) — Joey Giardello, No. 3 ranked middleweight, couldn't find the range Tuesday night on a bobbing, back-pedaling Wilf Greaves and settled for a unanimous decision in their 10-round fight.

Greaves, a native of Edmonton, now fights out of Pittsburgh.

The crowd booed almost continously in the late stages. Giardello weighed 160¾. Greaves 157½.

Giardello of Rosedale, Long Island, N.Y., rocked Greaves, 31, with a volley of lefts and rights in the fourth round. From then on Greaves, who came out of the exchange with a bloody nose, started dancing away.

AT THE MCCARTHY — Distinguished actor James Cagney, stars with Dorothy Malone and Jane Greer in "Universal-International's "Man of a Thousand Faces," opening Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

"Ole Archie" Picks Cotton

SEATTLE (AP)—Lanky Eddie Cotton, 177½, Seattle, surviving some knockdowns and wearing an egg-size mouse over his left eye, lasted 10 rounds Tuesday night but lost to light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, 172, San Diego, in an overweight non-title bout.

Cotton even rallied sharply in the late rounds against the tiring slightly bulbous Moore. The champion had Cotton, an airplane factory worker, down in the fourth round and twice in the fifth.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi 'Sagueneens maintained their four-point lead in the Quebec Senior Hockey League Tuesday night while Shawinigan Falls Cataracts made it possession of second place, breaking a three-way tie.

Goalie Gilles Boisvert turned in his second shutout of the season as Chicoutimi blanked Cornwall Aces 5-0 while Cataracts piled up a four-goal lead at Montreal and coasted to a 5-2 win.

The night's play left Chicoutimi with 12 points and Shawinigan Falls with 13. Montreal and Quebec are deadlocked two points behind the Cataracts and Trois-Rivieres Lions are last with four points.

WINS $115,000 PRIZE

COBLENZ, Germany (Reuters) — A 60-year-old destitute woman learned on her sickbed Thursday that she had won top prize of 500,000 marks (about $115,000) in Lotto, a game played by millions of West Germans each week. The woman immediately gave all the money to her son, the Lotto company said.

Prisoner Flees Penitentiary At Collins Bay

KINGSTON (CP)—A prisoner escaped early today from the nearby Collins Bay Penitentiary by cutting his way through cell bars believed escape-proof.

He was identified as Jack Hovianesian, 28, of Toronto, serving four years for possessing burglary tools and stolen goods. He arrived at the penitentiary in June.

A prison spokesman said he was found missing during a check on the cell block at 1:40 a.m. EST. He said the man is not considered dangerous.

The prison spokesman said the escape was well planned. The fugitive was still free after eight hours.

The prison official said the bars in the cell in a new wing were made of high tension, tungsten-strengthened steel and were considered "uncuttable." However, he said they could be cut if a person had a good supply of saw blades and plenty of time.

The escape was discovered when a guard investigated a loud thud. He found an opening cut through the bars on a window overlooking the courtyard. The prisoner had apparently jumped from the cell window and climbed over the prison wall or an wire mesh barrier at the vehicle gate.

The spokesman said the tool could have been made as the man jumped off a small table placed near the cell window. The man had left a dummy under the covers in his cell bed.

The drop from the window to the ground was about four or five feet.

A police spokesman said the escapee may be heading for Toronto where his wife and brother live.

Minister Can Take Seat in House Nov. 18

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Smith should be able to take his seat in the Commons Nov. 18 or 19, barring any hitches such as a demand for a recount.

The Progressive Conservative minister was elected in Hastings-Frontenac Monday. The returning officer in the byelection will make an official count Nov. 11.

A period of six clear days must then follow before the result of election can be returned to chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay, Mr. Smith then is declared in as a member of the Commons.

"But of course as the investigation proceeds it may be necessary to take further action in connection with it."

This is the result only if a study of documents already seized discloses information requiring further investigation, he indicated. It might be too late to make such a decision after the first were known.

He did not go into detail, but it seemed apparent from his remarks that the whole operation had been carefully planned and executed swiftly for a maximum of surprise.

It is understood, however, that not all the promoters from whose premises documents were seized might be involved in the department's suspicions, and that the names of those for whom they were wanted primarily as a result of an exhaustive examination of the two central promoters under investigation.

A Toronto department spokesman said amount involved in the Bergel taz evasions run into about $10,000,000. A final count would have to await scrutiny of documents seized in the nationwide investigation indicated the evasion may have run over a period of years.

Sources said that no raids were made in cities other than Toronto.

URGES AMERICA

The establishment of understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States could exert a decisive influence on improving the international situation.

Khrushchev predicted the Soviet Union could exceed America's volume of production in the next few years. The "basic requirements of the Soviet people could be satisfied in five to seven years" and the country's industrial production and heavy industry, and the basic housing shortage would be licked in 10 to 12 years.

Khrushchev also condemned the NATO summit meeting in Paris in December which President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and other Western heads of government will attend. The Soviet chief said that agreeing "promises nothing good in the cause of peace."

ONE-MAN HELICOPTER CRASHES

This experimental, rocket-powered, one-man "Pinwheel" helicopter is shown after it crashed at Van Nuys, Calif., airport. The craft was strapped to the back of test pilot Richard Whitehead, Jr., whose own legs were to act as landing gear. Whitehead suffered a probable leg fracture and a possible broken left ankle. Today was to have been the final test of the helicopter before delivery to the Naval Test Centre Patuxent River, Md.

Adenauer Calls for Support Of NATO in Assuming Office

By JOHN MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Konrad Adenauer has settled down for another four years as ruler of West Germany with a call for enthusiastic support of NATO in every way.

And when the government heads of the North Atlantic alliance hold their forthcoming meeting in Paris, the 81-year-old iron man of German politics will be one of the most remarkable present.

Perhaps more than any other country, West Germany has battled the day-to-day problems of Communist Russia through the puppet East German state. This has not stopped the chancellor from leading his country of 50,000,000 to an industrial position that is the envy of every European nation and scores elsewhere.

ELUSIVE UNITY

He also brought West Germany into the West European Union and into NATO itself despite violent opposition. Perhaps his most remarkable feat of all was to reconcile differences with the French, who hold a traditional and well-founded fear of the Germans.

In the face of Russian might, he failed utterly in his efforts at reunification of Germany during his first eight years of office. There's no indication that he will be any more successful during the next four in this aim, his fondest ambition.

Much of his cabinet remains intact, but one significant change is the appointment of Franz Etzel, a banker and industrialist, as finance minister.

The appointment is expected to speed up German rearmament. Fritz Schaeffer, the previous finance minister who now is shifted to the justice portfolio, had delayed the program because of budget worries.

There is speculation that this change was forced on the old chancellor, who dallied six weeks before completing his cabinet. Dr. Ludwig Erhard, aggressive economics minister, who was named vice-chancellor in the shuffle, wanted Etzel to get the job.

If this is so, it was one of the few times that Adenauer's hand has been forced. Austere and strict, he is more famed for uncompromising devotion to duty than flexibility. In Germany, he has become more of an institution than a politician.

Perhaps the image of calm power that he presents—the opposite of the hysterical Hitler—was what Germany needed in its return to democracy.

West Wins Arms Vote in UN; Victory May Be Empty One

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Western powers again have won a major parliamentary victory in the United Nations, this time on disarmament issues, but its real effects—as in such previous decisions—still depend almost entirely on the attitude of Russia.

Fifty-seven of the 82 countries who form the UN membership voted Wednesday for the assembly to consider the Western disarmament proposals, made public in after last summer's London talks of the UN subcommittee had ended in deadlock. Only the nine Soviet-bloc countries voted against the Western resolution embodying these proposals, and the 15 abstentions registered were far less than the Western powers had expected.

It had been feared in these Western circles that Russia's threat of Monday that she would not participate further in the UN's five-power subcommittee on its 12-member commission would have resulted in a much slimmer majority, with more neutralists and smaller numbers taking the alternative of abstaining rather than voting for an apparently empty resolution.

The result gave further hope to the Western powers who backed this winning resolution that the pressure as expressed in the UN committee vote might lead to a Soviet postponement of the withdrawal timetable.

But observers could not help but recall the similar resounding vote on Russia's intervention in Hungary—which resulted in nothing but a public denunciation by the assembly — or, conversely, the last week's assembly decision not to vote on the Turkish-Syrian Middle East border dispute, which has left the basic problem still hanging despite the outward show of unanimous agreement by the UN political body.

And Soviet delegate Vasily Kuznetsov, in his subsequent speech after the committee vote, gave no solid indication of future Russian position but made an ominous reference to a "final deadlock" in disarmament under UN auspices.

He said the Western resolution was "incapable of serving as a basis of negotiation." It had no hope of leading to any agreement, but could have the effect of driving these negotiations into this final deadlock.

He insisted that Russia still will participate in efforts at a world disarmament settlement, but did not give any public indication of whether these efforts will include private talks with Western or intermediary powers.

Reds Realists Will Not Start War—Pearson

SASKATOON (CP)—Lester B. Pearson says Russian leaders are realists and know they could not start a hydrogen bomb war without destroying their own country.

The former external affairs minister told a convocation hall audience at the University of Saskatchewan Wednesday he based his opinion on the "unforgettable evening" he had talking with Nikita Khrushchev during a visit to the Soviet Union two years ago.

On that occasion the secretary of the Russian Communist party told Mr. Pearson "if you people of the West think we are suicidal, and, if you exclude us from that charge, why fear us?"

Mr. Khrushchev also said the Russian leaders knew that if hydrogen bombs were ever used in war it would mean the end of the world.

MENTIONS SPUTNIK

"I hope he feels the same way now, after that little ball the Russians sent up 1,000 miles is still going around and around the earth," Mr. Pearson told the meeting.

Referring to the successful launching of a second satellite, the 1957 Nobel peace prize winner admitted a feeling of awe at the "tremendous achievement of conquering outer space and suggested an international under body as an "atomic warhead could be included to crash down on us."

Mr. Pearson said the Russian scientific achievement had been received on the one side with ecstasy and in the West with fear.

"It is more important than ever before, that we work together, and merely for defence, but to bring about a state of affairs in the world so that both sides could welcome a scientific achievement such as this," he said.

To Increase Grants

GUELPH (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Porter said Wednesday boards will be increased by $10,000,000 next year. Grants this year are $90,000,000.

Mr. Porter spoke to delegates at the 11th annual conference of Midwestern Ontario Rural School Boards.

Speculate Russians May Attempt To Eject Chamber Carrying Laika

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Russia's new satellite may have come apart in space, scientists said today on the basis of admittedly sketchy reports.

While Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory director, said he had no confirmation of reports arriving from various sources that Sputnik II may be coming apart, he said that such a development is quite possible.

Andrew B. Ledwith, the observatory's radio technician, reported today that the radio signals of the 20 mega-cycle band seemed to be spread out in time, as though coming pos-sibly from a separate radio-equipped object.

Similar reports received from Chicago and Tokyo indicated some object might be preceding the instrument satellite.

If the rocket satellite had separated into two sections, with one portion falling lower, the part nearer the earth would appear to be well ahead of the main rocket because of moving into a smaller orbit.

There has been speculation that the Russians might attempt to eject the chamber carrying dog, Laika, from the main rocket —possibly today.

West Watches for Any New Russian Venture Into Space

LONDON (AP)—Western scientists watched closely today for any spectacular new Russian venture into space to celebrate this 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Western technicians have speculated the Russians might try to land a rocket on the moon or announce some other spectacular as a follow-up to their launching of two earth satellites.

The Russians, while crowing over their scientific achievements have given no indication of any immediate plans to reach the moon, some 235,000 miles away. However, many Soviet scientists have said such a feat is within reach.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow Wednesday night that Laika, the little dog strapped inside Sputnik II, was in satisfactory condition after four days in the sky. The Russians have said they are getting radio information from the dog's heart action, blood pressure and breathing.

Scientists in Tokyo Wednesday reported the nose cone of Sputnik II had broken off and was leading Russia's second space satellite by some 600 miles.

But the British Isles Wednesday the satellite skimmed as low as 130 miles, the lowest yet reported over Britain. Highest point in the satellite's oval orbit is 1,000 miles beyond the earth.

Tass also said Sputnik II completed its 54th trip around the earth Tuesday night. This was the first launched last Sunday. The Soviet news agency said the small sphere had completed 900 circuits and its carrier rocket had finished 520 round trips. Sputnik I accompanied the rocket that pushed it aloft, has been in orbit since Oct. 4.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Observatory, said there still has been enough accurate U.S. observations to enable astronomers to make exact predictions as to Sputnik II's orbit. However, people can't be prepared for the rocket that pushed it aloft, has accuracy to within one degree of the satellite's actual path.

Minister Says Govt. Stands Behind Marketing Schemes

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday the Ontario government will stay the Ontario government will stay solidly behind farm marketing schemes.

He told the Ontario Federation of Agriculture annual meeting:

"I don't propose to be on the stand and I don't propose to be a jellyfish; I hold no brief for any interest group. I take the vantage of organized agriculture in this province."

The ministerial address came on the heels of warnings by farm leaders that the province should withdraw both from within and without the industry on the co-operative principle at the time when they should get out and do something about the marketing problem.

Mr. Goodfellow said.

He said marketing schemes are not dead. What is needed would work for them and explain to farmers how they try to co-operate with Ontario government would stand behind them.

Future marketing plans are operated within the framework of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act but the farmers hire their own administrative person-nel.

Earlier this week, the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board passed a resolution asking the provincial government to post-pone a plebiscite to decide the future of the hog marketing scheme which has been in existence for three years. The board plans packing companies buy hogs on the bid system at assembly yards and by the co-operative rather than hog growers individually.

Mr. Goodfellow told the convention there had been criticism of the powers extended to farms by the Marketing Act.

"I told the critics we can trust the farmers and he should. We can give them all the power in the world but they won't abuse it as other groups would."

Leader of the opposition to farm marketing schemes have been themselves has been Theodore Parker Sebring of Aylmer, a hog grower. Parker has gushed his fight on the grounds that the marketing scheme is undemocratic and an expression of undesirable state control.

Mr. Goodfellow said a two-price system is necessary if agriculture in Ontario is to remain comparable to industry. He cited the example of Ontario cheese:

"Ontario has the best cheese in the world but the hardest to sell." He said Ontario cheese was selling in Great Britain for 19 cents a pound, less than half the price of Ontario cheese.

A two-price system would establish a price floor to protect producers and another at a dumping level for foreign sales.

Mr. Goodfellow said he is in favor of measures to ensure a fair deal for farmers including floor prices to stabilize weak spots in the farm economy.

"Agriculture is basic. Without it, reasonably prosperous agriculture, the economy cannot prosper."

Eisenhower Speeds up Talk To Calm Alarm at Sputniks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower tonight delivers the first of a series of speeches aimed at calming apprehensions at home and abroad in the wake of Russia's startling scientific achievements of the last few months.

The White House, however, has indicated that the president will have no news of any special scientific advances.

Eisenhower will speak from the White House via radio and television from 8 to 8:30 p.m. EST—two days ahead of the original schedule.

The speedup in the Eisenhower speaking program followed a special cabinet meeting Wednesday and an announcement by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas that he is "researching inquiry" into missile and satellite programs.

Eisenhower's speech will be carried live by all national radio networks and by CBS television. It will be carried on film by ABC-TV at 10:30 p.m. EST and by NBC-TV at 11 p.m.

Eisenhower announced more than a fortnight ago that he intended to make a series of speeches to bolster national confidence in U.S. scientific progress, national defence, economic strength and foreign policy.

Republican floor leaders in the House of Representatives Wednesday sent a telegram to Eisenhower urging him to tell the people what he stands in the missile race with Russia — "regardless of how serious or embarrassing the facts may be."

In Seattle, Representative Don Magnuson (Dem., Wash.) said he scheduled launching next March of the U.S. earth satellite "is based upon little more than a prayer and a dream." He said it appears doomed to failure.

Magnuson, saying he based his opinion on a personal investigation of the Navy's earth satellite program, said the project is in serious trouble. He said information from highly qualified sources indicates the launching may not have a chance in a hundred of success."

Two Armed Men Steal $3,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Two armed men escaped with $3,000 Wednesday from a Montreal caisse populaire (credit union) and shot a bank guard who was escaping through an adjacent school yard.

The men held up the cashier and one vaulted the counter to help himself to $10 and $20 bills. Dozens of pupils helped nuns in picking up the paper money which was taken back to the caisse populaire after the janitor appeared and reported the holdup.

COMMONS ASKED ABOUT SPUTNIKS AND AIR SPACE

New Bill Will Increase Veterans' Allowances

OTTAWA (CP)—How much atmosphere can Canada, or any other country, claim in the new age of earth satellites?

The question was posed in the Commons Wednesday. Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested that the nations of the world get together to decide the matter.

The prime minister said that presently" national sovereignty had been generally thought to extend between 60 and 80 miles up, "to the upper limits of the atmosphere."

Soviet Sputniks I and II now are circling the earth 560 and 1,056 miles up.

"Recent events in science do suggest an early review of the present concepts of international law applicable to the question of sovereignty over air space," the Dietenbaker said.

RETURN TO EARTH

From that topic, the Commons later returned to earth and gave first reading to a government measure which would broaden the scope of war veterans allowances paid needy veterans and their dependents. Officials said the measure will add $8,000,000 to the annual veterans bill, bringing its annual cost to $54,196,000.

The bill was introduced without debate. A preliminary resolution which occupied most of the session Tuesday authorized veterans to $70 from $60, leaving unchanged the $120 top payment for married recipients. Ceilings of permissible income would be raised to $1,080 from $960 a year for single veterans and to $1,740 from $1,560 for married veterans.

Officials said the boost in the means-test ceilings of veterans allowances will be given without reduction in allowance will add some 1,200 new recipients. Another 2,000 or more would be added by extending eligibility to First World War veterans who served in the United Kingdom for one year and to widows of such veterans.

About 52,000 persons now receive the allowances.

The bill on war veterans allowances was backed by the Canadian Legion and other Veterans groups have asked increasing the income ceilings and the payments of single veterans.

MEETS COMPLAINT

It is in fact a long-standing complaint about past exclusion of First World War veterans living in the United Kingdom but not on the European continent from allowances given to those who served in a theatre of war. The U.K. was a war theatre in the Second World War but not in 1914-18.

Other adjustments are proposed.

The Canadian residence requirements for imperial and Allied veterans or their widows would be cut from 20 years to 20. The allowance for a veteran's widow would be increased to $120 a month from $100 and the recipients could be absent from Canada for four months a year, instead of the present three months, and still receive payments.

Goose Pimples Herald Early Dawn At Ducky Legge Show on the Lawn

LONDON (AP)—Goose pimples broke out on the backs of hostesses Mrs. Gerald Legge, staged her shindig for charity outdoors on the sloping lawn of baronet Sir Alfred Bossom's Mayfair mansion. But the temperature overhead was no bar to the chilling blasts when the party began at 2:30 a.m. Thursday.

Just about everybody who is anybody socially was present.

The Duchess of Argyll came as Marie Antoinette, Marie's own necklace around her neck.

"I borrowed it from the Duchess of Sutherland," she said. "But it doesn't keep me very warm."

Mrs. Antonia Fraser came barefooted as Nell Gwynne, "Poor dear."

Charles II's girl friend.

Lady Anne Tennant shivered as a pretty Helen of Troy and Mrs. Bubbles Cubitt came as Cleo-patra, chattering teeth as Cleopatra.

The East of Carnarvons, number of ceremonies, had to break the bad news that the Duke of Marlborough, struck with stage fright at the last minute, would not recite, Don't Drop Your Daughter at the Party, as Mrs. McCorquodale.

While a chorus of society's glamor girls put on a play called The Debutante's Dilemma, economist Lord Keynes lectured Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft on economics.

Sir Alfred Bossom's gardener resigned when he discovered three of his prize bushes had been uprooted to-make room for the party.

And Mrs. Legge's husband flew off to South America.

"He hates parties," she sighed. "Poor dear."

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union showed off a bristling array of tactical weapons of atomic capability today in the long-awaited parade marking the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. There was no display of missiles of intercontinental or intermediate range.

The biggest weapons were a pair of what appeared to be six-gun 85-mm rockets about 70 to 75 feet long, with a range guessed at 400 to 500 miles. The big publicer of the show was a pair of giant mystery guns of unusual design and obviously capable of firing shells with atomic warheads.

Today's parade, watched by virtually every major leader of the Communist world, seemed to emphasize greater mobility and harder hitting power for Soviet forces. Parades in 1955 and 1956 showed no new weapons.

Foreign observers in the reviewing stands estimated that most of the 38 major items shown in various sizes and types were tactical rather than strategic weapons designed for close support of ground troops.

Heavy cloud cover prevented the usual flypast of new Soviet planes. But in front of the Kremlin, rockets launchers were packed Crowd's attention just as the two Soviet earth satellites have captivated world attention.

START SLOWLY

The parade of missiles started slowly with a show of conventional multiple-rocket launchers for battlefield use. Then came larger mobile rocket launchers mounted on tank chassis—some of them amphibious.

Finally came a group of launchers spaced at intervals of 30 to 40 yards, missiles in nests of half-a-dozen each.

For the first time, the various launchers were shown in full detail with rockets in place.

There were two sizes of massive rockets possibly intended for strategic long-range use. The smaller type was estimated at about 70 feet, the other smaller. They were wheeled through the line on long tractor-drawn trailers.

These were the weapons which had been heavily covered during rehearsals for the parade.

DUAL CANNON

Accompanying a series of armored rockets were a group of dual cannon mounted on tank chassis. Their appearance and long barrels of 12 to 15 feet, each with indicated dual purpose weapons for conventional tactical fire and for launching armed warheads.

A Moscow radio commentator describing the parade said it included a "new type of rocket based on the principle of jet propulsion."

Then broadcast, heard in London, also said: "According to the animation displayed among the representatives, one could but guess at the performance of these rockets."

The commentator described a "caterpillar type amphibian tank," which he said could "surmount flood barriers of any kind."

Rockets Paraded As Soviet Union Marks Birthday

Malinovsky Says Red Army Backed Ouster of Zhukov

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's new defence minister in effect told the West today that the Soviet armed forces endorse the purging of Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Making his first public appearance since he replaced Zhukov, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky spoke to the Russian troops massed in Moscow's Red Square for the modern 40th anniversary celebration of the Bolshevik revolution. He declared:

"The army and navy, closely rallied around the Communist party of the Soviet Union and its Leninist central committee, will continue to live up to the trust of the Soviet people and stand guard over the gains of the October (1917) revolution."

OBVIOUS MEANING

Malinovsky did not specifically mention Zhukov. But his meaning was clear, since the central committee had charged the ousted Marshal with violating the Leninist principle that the party should lead the armed forces.

Malinovsky made the speech of the day—a 10-minute address—during the United Nations aid assuring the Russians could meet any clouds prevented the Soviet's attention just as the two Soviet earth satellites have captivated world attention.

Interpreted: Aggressive foreign circles, notably in the U.S.A., pursue a policy aimed at increasing international tension, intensifying armament and threatening mankind with the dangers of atomic war."

The Soviet people, he said, "ardently desire peace, but the Soviet armed forces are capable of crushing any aggressor should he attack our country."

STOLEN SAFE FOUND IN THURLOW TOWNSHIP

The small office safe stolen from Reddick's Bakery on Oct. 27 was found abandoned yesterday in a field on the 4th concession of Thurlow township and east of Ross Corners.

The door of the safe had been pried off and the money which it contained, said to be close to $300 was missing. Papers were left in the safe but were wet and soggy due to their exposure to the elements during the past week and a half.

The safe was brought back to Belleville police station.

FIRE BURNS HOLE IN PARTITION

City firemen were called to 38 Colborne Street this morning for a fire in a partition believed caused by a short circuit in electric wiring. A small hole was burned in the partition before the blaze was extinguished.

USEFUL ADDITION

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Granby zoo, short of animal specimens and gifts from around the world, has just received a contribution it prizes highly: the addition of a big refrigerator, donated by a Granby trucking company, an asset long wanted by the zoo.

PRIOR OCCUPANTS

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP) — Two waterworks employees decided to look in the hill cabin to which they have been sent to prepare as a camp for repair crews. They found it occupied by two skunks.

Water in River At Lowest Level In Many Years

Despite the fact that the amount of water coming down the Moira is only slightly less than normal, the level of the water at the rivermouth is currently lower than has been the case for many years.

Only a short distance north of the Canadian National Railway bridge a wide expanse of broken rock is high and dry above the water, making an excellent resting place for the scores of gulls in sun bonnets.

The reason for the low water level in the mouth of the river cannot be blamed entirely on the comparatively dry summer of 1957 but is the result of the low level of Lake Ontario, and of the Bay of Quinte is the lowest in years.

In fact the bay level is so low that it has affected the water supply of bayshore home owners. In some instances pipes run into the bay for water supply are now high and dry above the current water level.

With the low level of the rivermouth, city council feels the time is opportune to clear up some of the debris, which c'ut, in the low water season, is an asset long wanted by the zoo.

Monday night at council, at the suggestion of Alderman Dr. John Stocks, Ward Engineer Charles Mott said his department would look after cleaning the debris of old rubber tires and empty boxes from the river.

Credit Rating Of City Among Best in Ontario

Belleville's credit rating is among the best among cities in Ontario it was revealed this week when $400,000 worth of city debentures were sold at a price of 99.19. The debentures carry five-and-a-half per cent interest.

City Manager — Treasurer Drury S. Dawson said the price was better than Peterborough and Kingston had received in recent debenture issues and places the city's credit rating on par with the city of London. The debentures were sold to Gairdner and Son Ltd. of Toronto.

The debentures sold by the city include $175,000 for the public utilities which is now under-going an expansion program, and $300,000 for the completed addition to the Quinte Sanatorium.

TITO IN BED

BELGRADE (Reuters)—President Tito is confined to bed. An official of the Yugoslav presidential secretariat said Tito, 65, is "ill in bed and cannot be disturbed today." Reliable sources said he might be forced to rest for two or three months to recover from acute lumbago.

His Grace congratulated the parishioners, Rev. J. J. Mackay, his pastor and Chairman of the campaign committee, Rev. J. A. Mott said his department would look after cleaning the debris of old rubber tires and empty boxes from the river

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market rumbled about inconclusively today in slow morning trading.

Sales in the first hour totalled 304,000 shares compared with 849,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Industrials lost a few decimal points on their index while golds were a shade lower. Base metals lost more than one-half point and western oils were more than a point lower on index.

All industrial price changes were less than a point. Powell River, Ford A and Bank of Montreal had fractional gains while B.C. Power, General Dynamics, Dominion Foundries and Abitibi eased in a fractional range.

Hudson Bay lost 1¼ points at 49¾ but other senior base metals showed little change. McIntyre was up ¼ to 70¾ among senior golds and Consolidated Denison gained ¼ at 13¼ in uraniums. Western oils were down in a solid line but losses, with the exception of Central Del Rio which lost 45 cents at 16.80, were generally less than 15 cents.

Audience Bad Manners Only Sour Note in Ballet Performance

HAMILTON — Bad manners on the part of the audience was the only sour note in the National Ballet Company of Canada's production of Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake here Tuesday night.

The start of the show was delayed more than 30 minutes by hordes of people who arrived late.

When the final curtain dropped there was a general rush to the exits, with many ignoring the courtesy of awaiting curtain calls.

Otherwise, the production was an immense success, critics said.

The lead artists were called back for 11 curtain calls, as the majority of the sell-out crowd of 1,400 gave a standing ovation.

Think Russians Have Liquidated Two Britons

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A letter slipped into the pocket of an American congressman visiting Russia contained hints that former British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean may have been "liquidated" by the Russians, The Examiner said today.

In a copyright story by Carl Greenberg, the newspaper's political editor, Representative Glenard P. Lipscomb (Rep. Calif.) is quoted as saying the letter was placed in his overcoat pocket in the checkroom of a hotel in Stalingrad last Oct. 9.

Lipscomb said the letter offered to transmit certain "materials" to American intelligence officials. However, the letter writer said that until he could be certain of his safety he would withhold his identity, adding:

"I have a family. In this connection, I cannot risk too much and I desire that my name and address remain unknown to you. 'Accidents' are possible such as those of the English diplomats Burgess . . . I do not remember the name of the second."

State Secretary Receives Views Of Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles called in some Truman administration people Wednesday in his search for new ideas on how to draw the free world closer together to meet Russia's military-scientific challenge.

In an unprecedented move, he met for two hours and 10 minutes at the state department with seven former officials who served under President Truman. The men included former army secretary Frank Pace and Paul H. Nitze, the state department's chief policy planner when Dean Acheson was secretary of state.

Conspicuously absent, however, were Acheson and George Kennan, former ambassador to Moscow as well as policy planner. Both have been highly critical of Eisenhower administration foreign policy.

Wednesday's gathering reflected the urgency Dulles is said to feel about the need for quick new moves to tie the 15 North Atlantic nato nations closer together.

The state department said after the session that Dulles "sought their views" on ways to give solid form to the principles President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan laid down after their conference last month. Eisenhower and Macmillan called on free world nations to mobilize their resources into an "interdependent community to guard, develop and to their peoples in the face of Russia's threats.

Judge, Magistrate Resign Posts On Commission

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Magistrate W. R. Philp and Judge John de N. Kennedy Wednesday resigned from the three-man police commission studying Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay's report on the recent police inquiry.

The two, requesting Attorney-General Roberts to replace them, said they do not feel they can be judges on the commission when such action might eventually involve them as witnesses.

The commission has no power to enforce any decision until charges are laid. A decision that resulted in a charge probably would lead to Judge Kennedy and Magistrate Philp being called as witnesses. Both testified in the inquiry.

TABLE TWO RESOLUTIONS

Mayor John A. Dewart, third commission member, previously tabled two resolutions which the judge and magistrate did not accept.

These were that W. A. Clarke, a deputy chief, be demoted to a rank without power over other members of the force, and that chief constable John Naples be demoted at least to deputy chief to make room for a "strong" chief constable.

At Wednesday's meeting, W. B. Gordon, counsel for Clarke, said Clarke was willing to accept his former position of inspector of detectives or a position down to sergeant as long as he received the inspector of detectives salary. Clarke also asked the commission to consider paying his legal expenses of $2,201.

Judge Kennedy and Magistrate Philp moved that no action be taken on the requests.

CYPRIOT SLAIN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Police blamed EOKA rebels today for the slaying of a 45-year-old Greek Cypriot, the first EOKA killing since the underground organization declared a truce last March in the fight for the union with Greece. Charalambos Ioanides, father of five, was shot down with revolvers as he was about to enter his home Wednesday night.

Prosecution's Case Against Scott Nears End

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The prosecution is nearing the end of its case against L. Ewing Scott, 61-year-old former stockbroker on trial on a charge of murdering his wife.

The will of Mrs. Evelyn F. Scott was admitted as evidence Wednesday. It showed that she left half her $600,000 estate to her husband and the rest in trust for a brother.

Prosecutor J. Miller Leavy has said the will helps prove the state's contention that Scott murdered his wife to get full control of her estate. Scott insists his 62-year-old wife, who disappeared May 16, 1955, still is alive.

Scott was arrested when he tried to re-enter the United States from Windsor.

THOSE AIR BASES - - MORE VITAL THAN EVER

After Russia launched her first satellite, Nikita Khrushchev said that bombers, and the U.S. Strategic Air Command bases in many lands, had become obsolete.

The first satellite, 560 miles from the earth at the farthest point in its orbit, weighed 183 pounds. Sputnik No. 2, which climbs 1,000 miles up, weighs half a ton. The added height and weight add emphasis to Khrushchev's argument.

The Toronto Telegram, in an editorial, says that Khrushchev's claim "is not far off the target." But Hon. L. B. Pearson denies this.

What is the truth?

As is so often the case when assertions appear to be diametrically opposed, it is all a question of interpretation and in this case it would appear that Khrushchev, the Toronto Telegram and Pearson are all speaking the truth.

Planes and the bases from which they operate are obsolete in the sense that bombers in the near future will not be the most efficient method of delivering an H-bomb to its target. Rockets have obvious advantages. They can be fired over great distances and their interception, if not theoretically impossible, is not within the present capacities of the defence forces of any country.

But planes and the bases from which they operate will never be obsolete as far as the U.S. is concerned until such a time as that country, too, possesses a more efficient method for retaliating against any Soviet attack.

It so happens that the destructive power of the H-bomb is so great, and the U.S. possesses such a large number of strategically located bases, that the possession by Russia of intercontinental ballistic missiles does little to make the Soviet Union immune from attack by plane-carried nuclear weapons. Many of the defence bases ringing the Soviet Union might be destroyed by rockets fired simultaneously, but the likelihood that all would be destroyed would appear, for the present at least, to be remote.

That was the point Pearson was making.

"Don't think for a minute that they (the bases) are obsolete," he said, "because the United States still has the ability of manning a massive retaliation."

In one sense, therefore, the development by Russia of rockets capable of powering an ICBM, far from making U.S. bases around Russia obsolete, enhances their importance. If they did not exist, Russia would indeed hold the whip hand, for she could bombard the U.S. with rockets secure in the knowledge that the only retaliation would be limited to that from bombers forced to fly great distances before reaching Russian territory.

What the Sputniks and the enormously powerful rockets which placed them in their orbits do mean is that the people of the U.S. are now just as vulnerable to attack as the Russians have been for years.

It can be argued that the difference between the predicament in which the U.S. finds itself today and the situation which Russia faced in the past is that the U.S. would never start a nuclear war, while Russia might. True though that may be, it is also probably true that the Russian people have no greater trust of the U.S. than the U.S. people have of Russia - - that they probably sincerely believed themselves to be "under the gun." Whether the Russian leaders shared these fears, or whether they felt they could depend on the U.S. not to start a "shooting war," is problematic.

What Russia has gained with her rocket developments, though, is not yet air superiority but, at the most, equality. Superiority will come automatically if she should stock-pile enough missiles before the U.S. develops missiles of her own of comparable range.

For that reason, the U.S. is rightly concerned about her missile programs and we in Canada, and indeed in all the free nations, must share this concern because we shall certainly share the fate of the U.S. if she loses the race.

One thing seems certain - - this is a race which nobody can win. The best that can be achieved is a tie, a situation in which the contending sides both possess the capacity to destroy each other and, for that very reason, refrain from using this destructive capacity

CONDUCT UN-DUTCH TOO

To be un-English in England is as ill-advised as to be un-American in America. This may sound silly, but it is worth thinking over, as some Dutch sailors found out when they were hauled up before a magistrate for being drunk and disorderly in an English seaport the other day. The magistrate reproving and dismissing them with a caution said, "Your conduct, please note, has been un-English." Their spokesman rose and apologized for his colleagues saying, "Our conduct has been un-Dutch also!" (Saturday Review.)

Model Planes, Old and New

By Maurice Lortie ◆ in UNESCO Features

Parisians strolling in the Bois de Boulogne on Sunday mornings often pause to stare at the group of people of all ages gathered in the field where, some fifty years ago, Santos-Dumont took off for his historic flight.

And, as they watch, miniature planes, perfect in every detail, soar up into the sky, swoop and circle exactly the same evolution as full-sized aeroplanes. They are controlled by a string, circling at breakneck speed like a host of buzzing flies over the heads of their "pilots", while big model gliders, watched by a sort of wistful, sad alone gratify, dying lower and lower till they touch the ground at the other end of the field.

For many onlookers with child-hood memories of paper darts and aeroplanes, there will come a surprise to see respectable middle-aged gentlemen engaging in this activity. But the general public knows little about model aeroplaning, their educational role and the part they have played in the history of aviation.

The conquest of the air has been a dream as old as history itself — and through the centuries the dream has inspired many a legends, some of which may have encouraged experimenters. The story of Icarus, for instance, who flew so near the sun that his wings melted and he fell into the sun, may have prompted early inventors to experiment with small machines.

It is probably true that, in the 6th century A.D., Archytas of Tarentum built a wooden dove "which rose into the air" . . . and that in the 15th century, young Leonardo Muller constructed an iron fly and, later, an iron eagle which he flew from the walls of Nuremberg.

At any rate, it is well-known that Leonardo da Vinci experimented with models of "flying machines" with "a screw of linen" which "bored through the air." Inventors Launoy and Bienvenue also constructed a model which presented to the Academy of Science the first helicopter ever to take the air. Montgolfier used propellers made of feathers and quills. They were driven by vertical spindle driven by a rope which unwound under the impulsion of a horizontal spring fitted between the propellers.

Another hundred years went by and — in 1843 — the British inventor Henson launched a world sensation with his extraordinary flying machine, the Aerial Steamer, a h.p. aeroplane designed to convey passengers but which, luckily perhaps, never got further than intended in taking the air.

Twenty years later, in 1858, the watchmaker Julien — who had already sent aloft over the Paris Exhibition a model of the airship he had invented — succeeded in flying a small plane weighing 3 lbs. which, powered by a twisted elastic, provided an important contribution to the "heavier-than-air" thesis.

Another interesting model was that of the "air steamship" designed by a naval officer, Gabriel de La Landelle, which was said to "maintain itself in the air for two hours at least" and to "fly at a speed of 30 miles an hour." The "Apostle of Aviation." The idea of the "aerial torpedo" with two masts, fitted with propellers which lifted it into the air, inspired the fantastic writings of Jules Verne.

* * *

After the Franco-Prussian war, another experimenter, Alphonse Penaud, inventor of the flutable tail which made stability in flight, built the fuselage final flight. He fitted this to his machine, the "planophone," and added a tail with the wings inclined towards for a dihedral. On the basis of this idea, other models remarkable for their stability in mechanics were designed by Laurent Ader, Hargrave, inventor of the famous box-kites which later inspired the gliders designed by Chanute and his pupils, the Wright brothers.

In 1879, Victor Tatin constructed a small monoplane for which, with its two tractor-propellers, gave a good performance in circular flight but lacked lateral stability in free flight. Another highly original and successful model was the machine designed by Achille Veyrat — shell-shaped body, fitted with a long tail, which was lifted into the air by a single contra-propeller revolving at an inclined angle.

Meanwhile, in the United States, Professor S. P. Langley was carrying out, in his turn, extremely important experiments, and, in 1896, he created a sensation by flying two of his models of monoplanes over the Potomac River — one at an altitude of 2,900 feet, the other at 5,250 feet.

* * *

Model planes had blazed the trail for aviation. Man's dream of conquering the air had become a reality. The era of the balloon gave way to that of machines with wings was beginning.

As time went on aviation became increasingly scientific and, though model planes were tried to keep up with the new developments in aeroplane design, the low powers of the light motors of their machines made it impossible for them to adopt the same wing profiles as their large-scale counterparts, or any of the improvements subsequently made in wind tunnels for the benefit of aviation.

They did not lose heart, however, and applied extraordinary ingenuity to the solution of highly technical problems, designing tiny two-cycle engines of 0.9 to 1.5 c.c. with extremely ignition devices, that are cheap, and develop wonderful speed out of the huge number of r.p.m. they produce.

* * *

The popularity of model aeroplaning is growing and new tried & new devices are continually being perfected. Designers have produced remarkably efficient power-driven models; graceful gliders, light as feathers, and with long, narrow, wings, delta wings, turning wings, flapping wings, and so on — and even jets and rockets which they enter for contests and world records in each category are duly catalogued.

In many countries aeroplane models are regarded, not merely as a hobby but as full-fledged instructional pastime. In France, for instance, the "Department of Aeronautical Training for Air Sports" — an outgrowth of the Ministry of Education — offers expert instruction in this field. Optional courses for children, from primary school upwards, and courses for instructors, are organized by the air model section of the Aero Club and by the Aviation Centre of Toulouse. Teaching films, and lecture courses are run by the Aeronautical Federation of the French Air Force and the Ecole de l'Air. All in all there are in France alone more than a hundred clubs and associations with a total membership of about 40,000 "aero - modellers" who compete in contests and international races.

* * *

Their flight records are astonishing. Here are just a few examples in round figures:— rubber-powered models: Duration of flight: 1/3 hour; distance: 31 miles; altitude: 4,720 ft.; speed: 60 m.p.h. — compressed models: duration of flight: 6 hours; distance: 236 miles; altitude: 15,000 ft.; speed: 100 m.p.h. models: gliders: duration of flight: 4 1/2 hours; distance: 81 miles; altitude: 7,760 ft.

In circular flight speeds vary between 140 mph. for models with a cubic cylinder capacity inferior to 2.5 cc., and 158 mph. for those with a capacity of from 5 to 10 cc. As for flights by remote control, some British models succeeded in crossing the Channel, while an American glider remained in the air, under control, for 8 h. 34' 21".

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE BEST IS YET TO BE

Sports writers often draw the picture of a worn-out old athlete. Perhaps he was a prize fighter. Maybe he was a college football captain, or a great runner, a basketball player, or a tennis champion. But the time came when evil days seemed to fall upon him. It was more than the slowing down which comes with passing years. Something inside the man himself let up — or perhaps we should say let down. Anyway the chap was left with nothing but memories. He liked to buttonhole people and tell them what a great guy he used to be. There is always something wistful in the gathering twilight of such a life. When all the glories we have in the past, we are in a bad way indeed. The present has little significance. The future

"I'll have to phone my office for instructions — I've never gotten inside before."

Income Tax Anniversary

Montreal Gazette

Some anniversaries go quite uncommemorated. But one anniversary—the 46th anniversary as it happens—has gone by, and scarcely anyone seems to have been aware of it.

What is this 46th anniversary? It is the anniversary of the first federal income taxation in Canada.

It was in 1917 that Sir Thomas White, the Finance Minister at Ottawa, introduced his income tax measure. He had been reluctant to do so. He advised that the mobilization of such a tax would be costly, in a country so big and so sparsely populated as Canada. He was also worried over the possibility that it might discourage immigrants.

But in view of the emergency that existed in wartime, "it is manifest to me," he said, "that the time has arrived when we must resort to this measure."

The income taxes on corporations with an income exceeding $3,000 a year would be four per cent. As for individuals, here was the table of taxation, for all married persons, that Sir Thomas presented to the House of Commons:

Income	Total Tax
$3,000	Nil
$4,000	$40
$5,000	$80
$6,000	$120
$7,000	$180
$8,000	$240
$9,000	$300
$10,000	$360
$15,000	$810
$25,000	$1,890

This scale of taxation on incomes was accepted gladly. But it was accepted because an emergency demanded it. And then the Minister of Finance added the reminder that it was a temporary tax only. He promised Parliament of Finance hoped that after the war the tax would not only be abolished entirely, but that it would be reversed — whatever that means.

But now the 40 years have come and gone. And the income tax is still there. Its only happiness that the annihilation of exemptions that started of poring over that taxation table of 1917, and thinking how comfortably rich it looked to eyes.

Perhaps, however, there is a moral to it all—nothing is so likely to be permanent as a "temporary" tax."

Not All Free To Quit Jobs

Windsor Star

Theoretically, in a free society, an individual is entitled to seek any sort of work whatever it might be. In hard fact, however, many are bound to their jobs by economic chains. For a variety of reasons, including perhaps their own capabilities or lack of them, many cannot change jobs easily or at all.

This is apparent, in one need do is to look at some of the jobs people are doing. Obviously they would like to have better or agreeable are they, if they had an easy alternative.

This is illustrated by the remark of a Kitchener woman, employed in a rubber plant, who won $140,000 in a sweepstake. "Now I won't have to work in a stinky old rubber shop any more," she sighed with relief. She detested her work, and the environment. Only dire economic necessity kept her at it.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Cholesterol Is Essential for Health

The place about the fine health they have in the Loetschental Valley in Switzerland, astray on their diet of milk, cheese, butter, eggs, whole grains and meat and vegetables brought numerous letters from readers who were born and raised in that part of Switzerland and all seem to have exceptionally good health and vim. If you don't know just what vim means, you poor soul, you had better write me for a free booklet, and a addressed envelope for a copy of the book Four Keys to Vim.

These Swiss men, women and children, it seems to me, are the best evidence that milk is a health food.

In the first place, milk (whether fresh whole milk or skim or separator milk or buttermilk) is the best food source of calcium. Cheese is the next best source of calcium.

Growing children who consume less than 1 1/2 pints (three glasses) of milk daily are likely to suffer from calcium deficiency.

Life expectation in the Loetschental Valley is 100 years, and most persons, 80 to 90 years old, continue working every day.

Besides the letters from natives there have been letters from some of course, some from Yankee wiseacres.

A Yankee, in my lexicon, is any resident of North America. A wiseacre has a smattering of knowledge which makes him, in his own opinion, an authority on the subject.

These Yanks We are always setting me back on my heels. Double, double mind so much if they were not so supercilious about it. "For your information," they begin, "milk has a high fatty acid content and cholesterol is derived from fatty acids."

Now, if it were worthwhile to answer the Y.W.A., I'd say: "Yours of the 29th inst. at hand and contents duly noted. In reply to same, I beg to state that cholesterol is a normal constituent of blood and tissues and serves various physiological functions. The cholesterol level in the blood is not indicative of anything in particular.

Let us quote a conclusion about this from Duncan's Diseases of Metabolism:

"In view of the wide variation in the cholesterol concentration of the serum or plasma in health, apparent deviations from normal in the presence of disease must be interpreted with caution."

This whole question of the relation of cholesterol to health or disease is the subject of the survey, research and laboratory experimentation that medical merchants who are advising people to restrict their intake of such important foods as milk, eggs and meat on this account are, in my opinion, taking money under false pretenses.

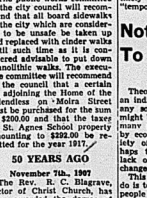
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FROM THE HEART



All work that is creative, to grip the mind of others, must come from the heart, if any permanence can be expected. Every artist's or writer's work must be plastered with ideas. No one would listen to Fritz Kreisler, with his violin, or Caruso, with that magic voice, without feeling that what they gave to the public came from the heart. Such as they had to give they gave freely from deep in their souls. Nothing is truer of artist of a great painting is always hidden somewhere in his canvas!

When we give from the heart we give that is peculiarly our own. All great art must be thus given. What is that knowledge lives on forever while others die quickly! It's because the great artists of all time have given of the heart is what makes useful creations live. How we ought to bless such people!

The humblest worker, who puts his own stamp of individuality and cranks about cats. Traffic signs, with their red and yellow stamps, rock n' roll, church bells, the Salvation Army, the national flag, the national flower, the provincial flower, the civic flower, the national bird, all these and sounds as if there are more cranks among us than conformers. In the United States it is full of them. Britain, bless her, makes a habit of being individualistic. Paris is crowded with them they can't even hold a government together because of them. Germany, God forgive me, has always had them too; but never quite as many as Paris, London, Vienna, or New York before sounding off.

Well, it happened to all the cranks in Russia! Surely you remember that high a percentage of the human race. They must be there still. And how they must be stifled up, compressed, crammed, congealed. The biggest crank-pot of Russia should be the intercontinental missile. It should be the cranks blowing up.

Feed Processing Unit Purchased By Local Firm

A new farm service that brings a complete feed processing plant right into customers' barnyards has been started in this area by MacKenzie Feeds of Belleville.

In announcing the new operation Mr. MacKenzie, owner, said that the new "mill on wheels" is expected to be a great convenience to local farmers and feeders who want to utilize their own grains and roughages for feeding livestock and poultry. One of the main advantages of the new service, he said, is that it brings the mill to the farmer instead of the farmer having to take his grist to the mill.

The mobile unit, first of its type in this area, is built by the Daffin Manufacturing Company of Lancaster, Pa. It consists of a complete feed mill that grinds all farm grown grains and roughages according to the farmer's specifications, mixes the ground material with feed concentrates and blends in fresh liquid molasses to produce any desired formula. The truck-borne mill is powered by its own diesel engine and is driven from farm to farm on regular route schedule.

MORE CONVENIENT

The local feed service reports that farmers have found that it is far more convenient and economical to have their feed formulas processed right on their farms. Otherwise it has been necessary to load their grains, truck them to the feed mill, unload them, wait until the feed was prepared, load it again, take it back to the farm, and unload it into feed bins.

Consequently, by eliminating all that feed handling, the new mobile farm service saves feeders time, labor and money, according to the equipment's owning. Increased emphasis is also placed on better nutrition, enabling farmers to get high production and greater profit from their meat, milk and eggs.

Senate Gives Final Approval To Two Measures

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Wednesday gave final approval to government bills to provide cash advances on farm-stored Prairie grain and to increase federal old age pensions to $55 a month from $46.

Th bills, previously approved by the Commons, may receive royal assent today.

The cash advances legislation was approved earlier Wednesday by the Senate banking and commerce committee without amendment.

During debate on the old age pension legislation, Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald urged the government to consider a reduction in the bill's proposed 10-year residence qualification.

At present federal old age pensions are paid to persons 70 and over provided they have lived in Canada for 20 years. The bill approved Wednesday proposes that this be reduced to 10 years.

Senator Macdonald said the government should consider a further reduction to five years. If an immigrant could obtain Canadian citilizenship after a five-year residence period there was no reason why he should not qualify for an old age pension.

Sputnik Seen Over Toronto For 30 Seconds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russia's second earth satellite passed over southern Ontario early today and was clearly visible to the naked eye from the University of Toronto's David Dunlap Observatory at Richmond Hill just north of Toronto.

Dr. J. A. Otte, assistant professor of astronomy at the university, said he spotted Sputnik II for about 30 seconds at 5:13 a.m. as heavy clouds broke.

He said this is the first time the second satellite has been sighted from the observatory.

"It looked like a moderately bright star," he said, "and was not moving quickly at all." It would have taken about five minutes to pass from view had visibility been good.

Sputnik I may also have been seen over southern Ontario Wednesday night. Observers from many districts reported seeing lights ranging in description from "egg shaped" to "a pinkish thing" just after 6:25 p.m. when the first Russian satellite was scheduled to pass over Ontario. MAY BE VENUS

Gustav Bakos, a Dunlap Observatory spokesman, said what they saw could have been the planet Venus which set about 1 a.m. He said the observatory received several reports of objects. Ron Winslow, Ont., police switchboards were swamped with calls from people who said they saw green, pink or purple objects in the sky. Many said they saw a red streak.

Early risers in Toronto were puzzled today by what looked like a vapor trail over the city's Lake Ontario waterfront. CHF Goat, an aircraft plant employee at Malton, said he saw it too but "it was no jet." He said it was too long for a jet and climbing too fast. In Toronto, Dr. Otte said Sputnik II will pass over southern Ontario again Friday and if skies are clear should be visible for about 10 minutes. He said it should appear in the south about 8:30 a.m. and pass directly overhead and disappear to the north. He said other Sputnik flights over Ontario are during daylight hours when it could not be seen with the naked eye.

Escaped Convict Likely Has Made Way Out of Area

Provincial police in the Kingston and Belleville areas are still keeping a close watch for Jack Hovianstein, 28, of Toronto who escaped Tuesday night from Collins Bay penitentiary, but it is felt there is a possibility he may have escaped from the area.

The escaped convict was said seen in the Millhaven district late Wednesday but the disappearance of a car from the Millhaven parking lot has led police to believe he may have made his way to Toronto, where his wife lives.

The stolen car was found abandoned in Toronto early today.

Hovianstein was serving a four-year term for possession of stolen goods and having burglar tools. Tuesday night he made good his escape by sawing through bars.

An employee at the Millhaven plant, who was working 4 o'clock to twelve shift told police that his car was missing from the parking lot, when he quit work. Police said it could have been stolen any time between 7.45 and midnight.

VERSION OF U.S. REACTION

LONDON (AP) — Pravda said today U.S. reaction to the launching of Sputnik II "ranges from sincere admiration to panic, hysteria and malicious rage." This assessment was made by the New York correspondent of the Soviet Communist party organ in a dispatch quoted by Moscow radio.

FINE QUARTERS

LONDON (CP) — The Federation of Malaya, newly-independent Commonwealth state, has purchased a five-storey house in Portland Place as a residence for its high commissioner. Price was about £50,000. The present Malaya House in Trafalgar Square will continue to accommodate trade, information and passport departments.

LEAVE GEMS IN CAR

NEW YORK (AP) — A search was on today for a taxicab in which tobacco heiress Doris Duke left $15,000 worth of jewels. The jewelry included gold and platinum necklaces, earrings and brooches set with diamonds and rubies. Most of the loss was covered by insurance, Miss Duke said.

Alpha Lambda Tours Avon Jewelery Plant

The members of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a special treat in store for them on Monday evening when Mr. Joel Mazer conducted a guided tour through the Avon Jewellery Ltd., plant.

Mr. Mazer in his preliminary remarks showed samples of the two types of costume jewellery. The "cast" type for which designs are sketched on paper, transferred to flat metal, sawed and built up into the three dimensional effect and then cast in white metal. The second type known as "Craftsmen" jewellery, is actually the assembling of parts by other manufacturers. Although many beautiful effects can be achieved in the latter type, the "Cast" type gives much more scope for original design.

The tour gave the members an insight into the actual casting, polishing, plating and pasting of stones in costume jewellery.

Mrs. Howard House thanked Mr. Mazer for a most enjoyable tour and expressed the thought that the members now had a better understanding of the difference in the cheaper and the more expensive lines of costume jewellery.

Following the tour, president Mrs. Vincent McLean conducted a short business meeting at the home of Mrs. Clive Ryan, Bridge Street East. The chapter, upon request from international office, took a vote authorizing a grant of $5,000 to Cystic Fibrosis Research, funds to be taken from the sorority's International Endowment Fund. This fund contributes substantially to cancer research and is a constant source of pride to the chapters of Beta Sigma Phi. The chapter gave support to the request.

MOFFAT—QUINN

TWEED — Pink and white gladioli formed a beautiful background for the wedding in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, at 11.30 o'clock on Saturday morning, October 19th., of Kathryn Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Quinn, to James Wallis Moffat, son of Mrs. Thomas E. Moffat and the late Mr. Moffat. Rev. Francis Quinn, uncle of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. John Coy of Tweed presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ron Cassidy.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride was beautifully gowned in a floor-length creation of white, tiered net and Chantilly lace over satin, with high scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves, coming to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle illusion fell from a headdress of white satin dotted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white Stephanotis.

All five attendants were sisters of the bride. Miss Sharon Quinn, as maid of honor, was in ballet-length gown of pale green Chantilly lace with scalloped neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves coming to points over the wrists. The two senior bridesmaids, Misses Carole and Dianne Quinn, were similarly gowned in shrimp and sky blue lace respectively. All wore matching velveteen and net bandeaux and carried white 'mums tied with ribbons in shades matching the dresses.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Paula Quinn, was in ballet-length pink crystalline, trimmed with white, with pink floral headdress, while little Miss Marcie Quinn, as flower girl, wore a dainty frock of white nylon over pink, the bodice embroidered with pink flowers. Her headdress was of pink flowers and both sisters carried nosegays of pink Sweetheart roses and blue carnations.

Mr. Michael Moffat of Toronto was his brother's groomsman, while Mr. Guy Hughes and Mr. Ronald Moon acted as ushers.

DELIGHTFUL MERCHANDISE

Each of the booths was a picture in itself with its delightful display of merchandise, the first of which to take the eye was the sumptuous home-cooking, under the convenorship of Mrs. J. T. L. Hawkins and Mrs. Sam Henn, with their assistants, Mesdames Ken E. Jarrett; J. E. Masline; Ted Green; R. T. Potter, and Gordon Miller. For sale were jellies jams, relishes, pickles, all kinds of pies, short breads, cookies, date and nut squares, white and dark cakes, cherry and nut topped, fruit cakes, heavily frosting with fruits, a white Scotch poodle wearing a shredded coconut coat with licorice gumdrop eyes and nose and red cherry glace lips, looked good enough to eat; there were marmalades, pink angel cakes, tarts, and bottles of French dressing.

A delectable candy booth was next in line with little floral-centred suckers, maple creams, light and dark, silver plates of fudge, boxes of mixed candies, Scotch taffy and nut centred creams in pastel shades and rainbows. Mrs. J. Sherwood was convenor of these, with Mrs. A. Gonda, Mrs. William VanTasse and Miss Peggy Blakslee assisting.

The handicraft booth was replete with all manner of lovely articles, large Christmas stockings; pretty little Christmas trees in pastel shades sparkling and, iridescent with snow and sequins, with tall white candles for the trunks; dainty organdy aprons, handmade; painted trays; colorful bottles of bath salts; bridge table covers; jewel boxes in plastic with shell centres; bead mitts; leather book covers in red, green and white; knitting bags in felt; Christmas card holders in long, narrow lengths of red felt with pockets and topped with a smiling Santa face; and embroidered pillow slips. These were convened by Mrs. W. Wills and Mrs. R. Morrow, assisted by Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. H. Winter, Mrs. N. McNish and Mrs. John Semple.

DOLLS, DOLLS

The next booth which drew many discerning shoppers was that of the dolls, dolls and dolls, large and small, dressed and undressed; all clothes, hats, whole sets of bonnets, sacques and booties in pink, white, and satin quilts; dresses; fur-trimmed winter coats; carriage robes, soft nighties; and exquisitely dressed teen-age dolls in satin coats in blue lined with pink satin. Mrs. P. T. Seibert was the convener here, with Mesdames J. B. Gould, F. Church, B. Feather, Archie Lewis, H. C. Parker, Arthur Simpson, M. J. Winn and Mervyn Jones, assisting.

On the knitted booth, convened by Mrs. E. M. Webster, assisted by Mesdames C. Rutherford, Alf Miller, Carl Fisher, H. Carruthers, J. R. Dyble and R. Wright, were all manner of baby sacques, bonnets, mitts, bootees, a lovely pink stole, sets of knit goods, pretty tea cosies, toques, mitts and socks in all colors, patterns and sizes.

STOCKINGS AFRONT

The apron booth was a Mecca for Christmas shoppers with its numerous styles, materials, in half and cover-all; organdies, prints, cocktail aprons, children's utility aprons; aprons with towel at side, pinafores for the little tots and a baby coverall in pink. These were convened by Mrs. J. R. Barnes, with Mesdames L. Irvine, L. Fossard, Ed Young, J. P. Clarke, William Hurst and W. H. Anderson assisting.

The potted plants and drift wood arrangements for mantels were most attractive and comprised foliages, Sultana, pink and red geraniums; silver cineria, Japanese lanterns; bunches of bittersweet; gourds in many shapes, yellow, green and white striped; dusty miller plants, and African violets. These were convened by Mrs. Russell Wrong, assisted by Mrs. Arnold Wolfenden.

WHITE ELEPHANT

No bazaar would be complete without its white elephant table with its assortment of odds and ends, which holds the additional drawing card of possibly getting something for much less than its value. That presided over by Mrs. Ronald Keel, and Mrs. Milton Davison, had some nice costume jewellery; address books; letter holder in brass for the wall; various sizes and beads; dish mops; ash trays, place mats; sherbert glasses, purses and sails and peppers to mention but a few.

A miniature art gallery occupied one area, and was colorful with many Mexican scenes by Phillippa Faulkner, while a newcomer to the city, Geraldine O'Donahue, showed some fine sketches of local scenes in oils and water color; Corbyville, a farm scene in Sidney, still life and a nice painting of Holy Trinity Church in Consecon. Mrs. John Lewis, assisted by Mrs. J. Forrester, was in charge of these.

TWO TEA ROOMS

The tea rooms, one for those who wished to chat over the refreshing cup of tea,—the former arranged with attractive tables each with its white cover, and the latter, for those who had not long to stay, without seating arrangement, were spic and span in their new fresh paint, and lovely with sprayes of red cedar mingled with white and brown 'mums which mantled on each window ledge.

The tea tables were arranged in similar style with Scotch lace cloths, centred by a silver holder filled with bronze chrysanthemums, and flanked by a silver candelabra, the former with three autumn-red candles, and the latter with two autumn-red candles. Those presiding were Mesdames G. H. Hales, A. Fasher, Georgia Smith, N. Nicholson, M. J. Clarke, Ab. Clarke, F. L. Patterson and Mrs. Gordon Miller.

TEA ROOM HOSTESSES

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. H. Floyd, Mrs. E. Jones and Mrs. K. G. Levy. Those arranging sandwiches: Mesdames N. Kellar, R. Hyndman, E. R. Morden, C. Wallbridge, H. S. V. Gibbon, T. H. Kelly, J. Watson, C. A. S. Smith, and D. D. Brunton; while those who replenished the plates were Mesdames F. G. Loder, J. C. R. Punchard, H. E. Bateman, Deveau, R. Tanner, J. H. Dickson, G. Hume and V. Arnott. Serving were Mesdames W. Jones, S. T. Leggett, A. Watson, J. McDonald, G. Porter, W. Gault, J. Trafford, J. Buchan, D. G. Diamantides, D. Coleman, L. B. Fonger, A. Watkins, V. T. Lewis, A. F. Walsh, L. Lancaster, A. Fort, D. P. Herring, A. C. McGonigle, A. Acorn, Misses Heather Lewis, Lynn Punchard, Jane Wallbridge, Nancy Walters, Jacquelline Watson, Marian Clark, Galla Bowers, and Pat Cornell.

Mrs. J. E. McKenna and other members of group D of the Guild had charge of the kitchen and the tea making.

The tearoom conveners were Mrs. L. Kells, Mrs. P. G. Jeffrey and Mrs. T. Wrenchall, while the overall convener was Mrs. W. S. Stone, to whom goes much commendation for an exceptionally fine bazaar and tea. Appreciative thanks are also tendered the flower committee for the attractive decorations, Mrs. T. Y. Wills, Mrs. H. Davison, Mrs. H. Jones, Mrs. H. Weller and Mrs. H. Winters.

St. Thomas' Parish Guild Tea, Bazaar Charmingly Successful

St. Thomas' parish house was 'en fete' yesterday afternoon with its gay, new spice-pink walls and brown trim, baskets of colorful chrysanthemums, and attractive booths for the annual autumn tea and bazaar under the auspices of St. Thomas' Parish Guild.

After the official opening by the rector, Canon A. S. McConnell, who complimented the Guild on its outstanding display, and thanking each and all concerned for their faithful work, and wishing them the utmost success, the vast throng of eager patrons was free to visit the booth or booths of their choice, and to select the gifts for that highlight of the season, Christmas.

With a heart-warming smile and friendly hand clasp, the receptionists, Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. Robert Hyndman, president of the Guild, welcomed each and all.

In the entrance to the auditorium, Mrs. W. S. Stone, the treasurer, received the dues, Lounge, Hotel Havelock, Havelock, Ont., the 100 guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a slip blue ribbon sheath with silver thread, designed with flying panels. Her matching blue hat was trimmed with contrasting blue ostrich feathers. Her corsage was Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother was in a silver blue gown with navy velvet turban and navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and white feathered carnations. Mrs. Bruce Brandow of Ottawa, sister of the bride's mother, was in the receiving line.

Mr. Guy Hughes acted as toastmaster.

Later, the guests were invited to the bride's home, North Victoria Street, Tweed, where an informal luncheon was served.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, the bride donned a royal blue dress of silk shantung, a large white collar, with winter-white hat and gloves, navy accessories, with corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests were from Mattawa, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Buffalo, Hamilton, Toronto, St. Catharines, Belleville, Montreal, Ottawa and Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Moffat are now making their home in Tweed where the bridegroom is manager of the Bellevue Finance

Wonderful Wool Jersey

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

It is quite interesting to see how the wool jersey dress has moved up the sartorial ladder and is now appearing for smart afternoon wear with perfect aplomb. Here is a beauty, good in black, or that new basic, dark brown, and a nice choice for the less-than-perfect figure. Crisscrossed bands of faille give a nice line to the neckline and bodice. The skirt has a tapered look and is draped in front only. To make the dress a bit more dressy, the white satin gilet can be removed.

GOOD MANNERS

READER PRESENTS PROBLEMS OF TODAY'S "HOSTESS-SECRETARY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
When I am invited to a shower which I cannot attend (or, I must confess, have no wish to attend). Is it absolutely necessary for me to send a shower gift? This showering business (and I do mean "business") has become such a racket that my purse and I just can't keep up with it. Today you're quite likely to be invited to a shower for a girl you've never even met, but in some way the girl giving the shower, whom you may know but not too well, gets your name on the "list," and you are supposed to come across with a shower gift. Or a girl's mother or sister gives a shower for her, feeling embarrassed or sorry that no friend has volunteered to give one.

The worst one of all (I think), is the money-shower, to which you are asked to send a certain specified sum of money toward a joint present. And too often you are invited to far too many showers given for the same bride. Now she has started to flirt with my friends, as well as my brother's friends. They are all un-

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Everet S. — Mother flirts with my friends!

Jonathan S. — The best policy is to ignore the whole thing.

• • •

Everet S. — We are three men who are having a really hard time with one woman.

The woman is my mother. My father, my brother and I are getting the rough deal.

It all started when Mother decided to lose 50 pounds. We were glad about it. She really looked great with all the extra pounds gone. But then she went out and bought a lot of clothes — not kind of clothes a woman her age should wear, but slinky things, like a movie star.

The worst was yet to come. Now she has started to flirt with my friends, as well as my brother's friends. They are all under 30 and she is nearly 50. My brother and I have spoken to her, but she just laughs at us. We think it's up to Dad to put a stop to this thing.

• • •

Jonathan S. — My sons seem to think I'm a magician. What can I do if a woman of 50 insists on making a fool of herself? I've told Rose I think she's going into her second childhood and everyone is laughing at her, but it does not seem to make any difference. She said she's never had any fun all her life and she's going to have some now.

I have tried so far as to go out to dinner and a show with one of Everet's girl friends. I told her that never tried anything like that again I'd find myself a young man at the gate and tell me to go ahead and do it if I could. She said she had a wonderful time and did the young man and she'd do it again.

I have decided the best policy is to ignore the whole thing.

• • •

The council: There isn't much anyone can do to stop a divorced woman from a life who has never had any fun and is determined to make up for lost time.

The only thing we can suggest is for these three men to join the fun! Get streamlined and dressed and take her out for a whirl.

We have a suspicion after one or two nights clubbing of her own husband to that of men half her age and her husband set out to make himself as agreeable as possible and put a stop to all nagging and criticism.

If the whole thing is ignored, Mamma will just go on having fun in her own way until she's tired of it. There's no telling how long these three men will have to watch and wait for that.

FIRST LESSON

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — Londoner Maurice White left his car in a 30-minute parking zone here while he took his fiancee to buy a wedding dress. Fined £3 for parking his car for four hours, White said: "That's the last time I take her shopping."

LOTS OF TEA

VICTORIA (CP) — Miss Jean Cornell, back after a year's exchange teaching in Middlesex, says the place is English schools is more leisurely than in Canada. "The staff met three times a day for tea and a chat," she marvels. But "You'll never find that in Victoria."

LOCAL APPROVAL

BROADWINDSOR, England (CP)—A meeting in this Dorset village decided that Broadwindsor swains courting girls from town must have them approved by a selection committee before they can be admitted to the village youth social club.

Christmas Gift Problems Eased at Rebekah Bazaar, Tea

Christmas shoppers had a field day yesterday when the Rebekah Lodge held its annual autumn tea and bazaar at the Odd Fellows' hall.

There were so many beautiful, useful and unusual items displayed on the six large tables that one had no trouble finding presents to suit just about every taste.

The fancy work table was crammed with pretty, dainty, crocheted doilies, pin cushions, potholders, cream and sugar holders, embroidered pillow cases, fringed place mats, toaster covers, kitchen mitts and other useful and decorative items. One unusual item was a vase of colored oats (colored tinsel paper was used) which made an attractive table decoration.

The home cooking table was heaped with delectable pies, cookies, cakes, tarts, cupcakes, tea biscuits and other mouth-watering pastries. Among the many beautiful cakes was a white iced heart-shaped one, decorated with a pink border and red, pink and yellow roses. Also on display were home-made preserves and squash.

CHILDREN'S WEAR

A children's wear booth displayed plaid wool skirts for little girls, sweatsuker shirts for boys, flannelette nighties, slack and jacket outfits, corduroy overalls and jacket sets from 2 to 4, as well as knitted baby clothes, bonnets, mitts, sweaters and booties; bibs and dolls. In addition a beautiful Scotch doll dressed in plaid skirt, black velvet jacket, tam, was raffled off. A complete wardrobe went with her.

For the sweet tooth, the candy counter was a popular place. It was laden with chocolate fudge, maple cream, chocolate mints, peanut brittle, colored fudge, marshmallow squares, bags of pop-corn and suckers.

The apron counter was heaped with aprons for all occasions including colorful cotton prints, fancier ruffled ones, aprons for kiddies and the coverall types. Also on display was an unusual "Aunt Jemima" apron and box of pancake mix, which was raffled off.

Other items drawn for were a hammered aluminum tray, a pair of crocheted pillow cases, and a roast of beef.

A "Wishing Well" was also set up to receive donations for the Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis Fund, and a parcel post was instituted for the convenience of the visitors.

Sweater Selection

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A nice entry into the sweater sweepstakes is this one designed for after skiing as well as for more prosaic college duty. Knitted of white wool, it is marked by a double row of buttoned bands in front only. It is shown with a pair of slim slacks of flannel in that sharp, brilliant shade of Persian blue.

Constitution For Baptist Union Adopted

TORONTO (CP)—Church history was made Wednesday when a finished constitution for the Baptist North American Women's Union was adopted by the organization's second continental assembly here.

Under division since the inception of the NAWU in 1951, the constitution was presented to more than 700 delegates by Mrs. C. W. Dengate of Toronto, executive secretary of the Baptist Women's Missionary Society of Ontario and Quebec.

The aim of the NAWU is to promote a closer relationship between Baptist women in North America and other parts of the world and to help broaden their scope for Christian service.

Changes were made in the constitution after the continental congress at Columbus, Ohio, in 1955, and following the 1955 congress of the Baptist World Alliance.

Officers of the NAWU are: president, Mrs. M. B. Hodge, Portland, Ore.; secretary, Mrs. W. C. Smalley, Edmonton; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Mathis, Waco, Texas.

The executive committee will be composed of union officers, the presidents of each of the 10 co-operating organizations, and North American women members of the Baptist World Alliance Congress's executive committee.

Baptist Women Urged to Accept Differences

TORONTO (CP)—The Baptist World Alliance exists to show more fully the essential oneness of Baptist people throughout the world, Mrs. Edgar Bates of Hamilton, alliance vice-president, said Wednesday.

"I appeal to all Baptist women to accept our petty differences because the great truths we hold in common unite us," Mrs. Bates told the second continental assembly of the North American Women's Union of the BWA.

Mrs. Bates, dean of women at McMaster University, was the first woman elected to the executive of BWA for a five-year term in 1955. She spoke briefly on the Baptist women's world day of prayer which is to be held Dec. 6.

Mount Pleasant United Church Marks Eighty-Sixth Anniversary

BY MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning, November 3 for the 86th anniversary since its erection in June 1871. Previous to that time the pioneers in this locality had worshipped in log schoolhouses in winter and in the open air in summer.

The church was adorned with baskets of variegated chrysanthemums, and a large number of visitors from other points were in attendance at the morning service.

Rev. H. M. Beach, of Batawa, was in full charge of both services. Last year he entered the Bay of Quinte Conference and came to Batawa from Glenegarry.

At the morning service he spoke on the theme, "A New Heaven and a New Earth," based on Revelation, 21: 1, as written by John. The speaker pictured the writer of those words as seeing "a new destiny and a new program." An anniversary should not be a peak on which to rest all effort rather it should be a stepping stone to greater heights. Individuals should evaluate their lives and try to vision a destiny. Columbus had a well thought-out plan before he started on his historic voyage and he thought God has a plan and each person must strive to find his own balance in this world of woes. God has said "My grace is sufficient for thee," and thus religion must become a daily part of those who are willing to serve God and to strive for the greater things of both earth and heaven.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver officiated at the piano and rendered "Our Song Shall Rise," (McConnaughey), as a prelude, "Something for Thee" (Gabriel) as an offertory, and "True Hearted, Whole Hearted" as a postlude. Junior Girls' Choir rendered "Hold Thou My Hand" and the full choir an anthem, "Give Me Thy Heart" by Torenz.

Five male voices sang "O Mighty God, How Great Thou Art."

The service opened with the congregational hymn "Stand Up and Bless the Lord." Before message all sang "Blessed Rock of Ages," and the closing hymn was one of dedication to the days ahead, "Lead On O King Eternal."

The morning offering, amounting to $500, was received by Messrs. Bert Sharp, Raymond McConnell, Harry McAdam and Kenneth Weaver. Mr. Jack Bush of St. Paul's United choir, assisted at both services.

The evening attendance was not so large. The service opened with "God Reveals His Presence" and later the Scottish Psalter. The full choir rendered "Sweed Hour of Prayer" (Torenz) and Jack Bush gave a vocal selection "The Lord is My Shepherd" (Tiddle). The pianist rendered "The Sabbath Bells" (Tordon) as a prelude, "Open My Eyes" (Torenz), as offertory and "Saviour Again" (Ashford) for postlude.

Rev. H. M. Beach based his resund message on "The Restorer of Souls." He gave a thoughtful discourse on the way that God restores the souls of His followers, and he illustrated how in this everyday world of ours this great thought can be applied to ordinary people. The speaker said the rules of life proclaim that we must use the talents that we have received, and then God will restore our souls with renewed energy for the days ahead. He graphically pictured the life of Jesus with the many difficulties which He encountered and yet God restored Jesus with a fresh supply of spiritual energy which enabled Him to pray for those who had despitefully used Him.

The speaker urged the young people in the audience to use their talents generously and to be always willing to give of themselves. In closing he pointed out what such past men as Grenfell of Labrador, Albert Schweitzer of Africa, and others had given to the world. The message closed with a challenge to remember the great truth, "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled."

The anniversary services closed with the rendition of the hymn "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," and a prayer for greater zeal in future days and a tribute to all who had served the church in past years and those passed on to their reward.

Mrs. D. B. Munro was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vangeesen and David, at Glenora.

The Hallowe'en social on Thursday evening at the church was not as largely attended as usual owing to so many being ill with 'flu. However, the usual ghosts and goblins were there.

The teacher, Mrs. Lorne Young, of Big Island, entertained the mothers and pupils of the school to a Hallowe'en party on Friday afternoon. After the prizes were given out and the bobbing for apples and other games played, refreshments were served by the hostess and her pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and children, of Belleville, called on their mother, Mrs. W. J. Gray, on Sunday afternoon.

MARSHAL SOKOLOVSKY FOLLOWS ZHUKOV

Another Soviet war hero, Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, chief of the Red Army staff and close friend of ousted Marshal Zhukov, appears due for demotion in the Red hierarchy. Not only have Zhukov and Sokolovsky been criticized by Communist party chiefs, but their own military associates have added their voices to the criticism. Here is a photo taken in 1956 during a visit of U.S. General Twining to Moscow. Left to right: Nikita Khrushchev, Marshal I. Zhukov, Gen. Twining and Marshal Sokolovsky.

Tenders Called For Construction Of New Hospital

DESERONTO — The Federal Department of Public Works are calling for tenders for the construction of a hospital for the Indian Department in Deseronto. The plans call for the conversion of the back part of the Post Office building into a two-storey hospital. The ground floor, formerly a Customs Bond room, will be converted into a waiting room, consulting rooms and a dispensary, with a doctor's office. The second floor will be made over into wards with beds for cases of minor surgery and convalescents. The work is to begin early in the new year and is to be completed by the summer months. The operation of the hospital will be under the Indian Health Services of the Department of Health and Welfare.

NUMBER OF APPEALS

Court of Revision for the Town of Deseronto was held at the Town Hall on Monday night. A number of appeals on the 1956 assessments were heard but only one was granted a reduction in assessment.

P. Brooks, Fourth St. stated that he felt his assessment was too high but after some discussion with the assessor the Court confirmed the assessment. Brooks also asked that the business assessment be cancelled as he no longer conducts a fuel business. He was advised that because he had not appealed this assessment the Court had no authority to deal with the matter.

Mrs. R. Batt spoke to the Court on behalf of her husband and after hearing the facts of the case from the assessor and Mrs. Batt the Court set the rate for the Batt residence at 1.27 per square foot.

E. J. Murphy appeared for Wm. Purvis and was advised by the assessor that the reason for the raise in the assessment was that the property had been previously assessed as a storey-and-a-half whereas it is a two-storey dwelling.

The assessments of G. P. Taylor and C. F. Dimmell were also confirmed.

The appeal of the Canadian National Telegraphs was allowed as the Telegraph Company had removed their office from Deseronto.

FIREMEN KEPT BUSY

Two fire alarms on Halloween night kept the firemen busy for a few minutes. The first alarm was caused by smoke from a rubbish fire swirling over the roof of the new public school. Some of the neighbors thought that the school was on fire and turned in an alarm.

The second call came shortly after the firemen had returned to the station. A car owned by S. Claus had taken fire on George St. Apparently some welding had been done on the car and the heat had ignited the upholstery in the rear seat. The only damage was to the rear cushions.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Dinsmell of Oshawa spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dimmell.

Miss Dawn Smith and Miss Marie Hagerman of the Bell Telephone staff at Toronto spent the weekend at their respective homes.

Police Chief Won't Resign Without Hearing

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Police Chief W. S. Shimmin, asked by town council Monday night to resign his post, said that council "won't get rid of me without a hearing."

"I've been chief here since July, 1956," he said, "and I feel council should have no complaint."

Council asked in a resolution that the police commission request the chief's resignation but gave no reason for the request.

However, Mayor Albert Neil, who is also a member of the commission, said there had been "considerable bitterness" last year when the chief charged a member of council with supplying liquor to minors and another with a breach of the dog bylaw.

"Council feels the chief has shown lack of co-operation, and in some respects I think they're right," Mayor Neil said.

Although "there is no suggestion by council of any impropriety" about the way the chief does his duties "they just feel he is not carrying them out properly from an administrative standpoint," Mayor Neil added.

Radar Defences Must Improve Says Official

• QUEBEC (CP)—The Russians will have a stockpile of effective intercontinental missiles by 1963 and Canada must improve its radar defences if it hopes to defend itself, says K. R. Patrick of Montreal.

Mr. Patrick, president of Canadian Aviation Electronics Limited, Tuesday told delegates at the annual meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association that the answer to possible missile attacks or thrusts by supersonic aircraft is ground environment—an electronic system to control counter missiles and interceptor aircraft.

"The strategic air force of the United States has been the principal deterrent to a third world war. That weapon has now been blunted by Russia's scientific progress."

TO SORT OUT REPORTS

Ground environment connects radar stations with computers which identify and sort radar station reports to track courses of incoming missiles or aircraft. It also guides counter missiles and provides interception courses for aircraft sent up to meet an attack.

Two radar systems, the Distant Early Warning and mid-Canada warning lines, are "incapable of detecting the ICBM (intercontinental ballistics missile) in their present state and incapable of controlling any ICBM counter weapons that may be developed," Mr. Patrick said.

"There is good reason to doubt that there is at present sufficient depth of continuous cover northward of our large cities to allow even supersonic interceptors to intercept high-speed bombers before they reach their Canadian targets."

23,000 Canadian Soldiers, Dependents Being Moved Between Canada, Germany

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (CP)—The Canadian troop train pulled into the dockside terminal at Rotterdam's busy harbor carrying what, in army parlance, is called a "mixed load"—150 soldiers, 48 wives and 105 children.

Fourteen minutes later the 296 Canadians were settling into their cabins aboard the Cunard liner Iversia, excitedly looking forward to their first glimpse of home after two years in Germany with the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group.

A fourth travel agent, watching the military precision of the movement, unflurried by the transfer from train to ship, described it as "remarkable" and a "model of mass passenger handling at its best."

The same precise planning governs each step of the giant two-way transatlantic movement now transporting some 23,000 Canadian soldiers and dependents between Canada and Canada's Army contingent in the Central Western Germany.

MAINTAIN STRENGTH

By mid-December, when the move is completed, the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade group will have replaced the 2nd brigade in the fourth complete switch since 1951 of the 6,000 - man NATO force.

"Every step of the rotation is phased in advance our force in Europe is always up to full strength," said Brig. Roger Rowley of Ottawa, commander of the 2nd brigade.

The troop train for the Iversia did not depart from Soest until 7 p.m. Wednesday but replacements for the soldiers, who had arrived from Canada on the same ship, were started on the 250-mile rail journey from Rotterdam to the army camp.

To speed disembarkation at the Canadian end, a seven-man Canadian transport team under F. P. Logan of Saint John, N.B., inspects and clears all but hand-luggage at the army camp. Cleared luggage is sealed and can be shipped direct to the soldier's Canadian home.

Brigade personnel are taking back about 250 cars, including several high - powered German and English sports cars, and thousands of dollars worth of photographic equipment.

CAMERA FANS

"Airtost every man is taking back a good camera," said Lcp. Winfield of Lachine, Que. Whiteford himself has a $250 outfit that he'd do credit to a professional photographer. "It would cost me at least twice that in Canada."

Maj. Carl J. Smith of Halifax, who heads the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps element handling the European end of the rotation estimated more than 80,000 pieces of personal baggage are involved in the move, plus about 50,000 pieces Canada-bound. "It's surprising how much stuff people accumulate in two years."

Every possible precaution is taken to avoid mishaps while families are in transit. A hospital car is attached to each train. The army sends two padres and two doctors on each ship along with a movement control team of five oral supervision.

Children up to 12 years are required to wear a name tag in case they become separated from their parents. On board ship the tag also displays the child's cabin number.

At Rotterdam, the arrivals and departures of ships and trains are co-ordinated by a nine-man staff headed by Capt. Gerald Aumont of Montreal and Capt. John Stickney of Calgary.

To aid wives overburdened with young children and luggage, the Dutch women's auxiliary members of a volunteer welfare agency, meet each ship and train. The Dutch women carry children and cares to and from the gangplank—if necessary, right to the cabin itself.

Families returning to Canada travel as a complete unit. But on the eastbound trip, wives travel alone. They are not given permission to go to Germany until their husbands have arrived and completed approved accommodation.

Mildred Klesavic, wife of RSM John J. Klesavic of St. Catharines, Ont., who arrived in Germany late in October, said the many last minute preparations for the trip were "perfect." Travelling with her husband—a "model of mass passenger handling at its best."

Some wives feel the instructions are too detailed, but arrangements too rigid.

"There is an element of truth in that," said Mrs. Tom Steele of Ottawa, head of one of the six shipboard movement control teams. "But remember that some of the wives come from remote prairie farm homes or little village in Quebec and are not accustomed to travelling. Some get bewildered or bewildered because everything is new to them. They need all the guidance we can give them."

Fine Weather Helps Plowing And Harvesting

TORONTO (CP) — Generally fine weather has contributed to satisfactory progress in fall ploughing and harvesting, the Ontario department of agriculture said Wednesday in its weekly report.

In Western Ontario and especially in the Windsor district practically all potatoes have been dug. Huron County grain corn is harvesting making excellent progress.

In Southern Ontario corn picking is general and fall plowing common. Essex and Middlesex counties encountered some difficulties because of recent rains and sugar beet harvesting is continuing.

Central Ontario reports pea, corn and tomato canning crops above average. Silos are mostly filled while some corn left over. Potato digging is almost complete.

Eastern Ontario reports dry soil conditions. All crops are harvested and the drainage system are being installed on several locations.

Found Alive

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP)—A 71-year-old woman in frail health was found alive Wednesday in a farm yard five miles away after she had been missing for five days in dense swamp and bushland.

Mrs. Margaret Chernyky was discovered by Mrs. W. Shymko drinking water in the farm yard. The woman was suffering from extreme exposure and hunger.

She was taken to Dauphin hospital for treatment. She was last seen off last Friday from the farm.

RUSSIA CLAIMS LARGEST AND FASTEST PASSENGER PLANE

Two men at a Moscow airport are dwarfed by the TU-114, which Russia says can carry 120 persons from Moscow to New York in 10 to 12 hours. The plane, described as "the largest and speediest passenger aircraft in the world," is powered by four prop-jet engines twice as powerful as those of similar craft outside Russia. The announcement said the plane has two elevators, a telephone system and a restaurant for 48 persons.

Heads of States to Take up Where 3 Wise Men Left Off

Fifteen heads of state meeting in Paris next month take up where Three Wise Men left off last December.

By the light of a silvery moon Premier Sputnik II — Western leaders will try to agree on ways to strengthen military, scientific and economic co-operation within the Atlantic community.

Thus they will follow signposts set out in the report of NATO's Three Wise Men, published in Paris Dec. 14, 1956. They will travel in the same direction, but pricked by the spur of Sputnik they are sure to go farther and faster.

"The proposals that will be discussed in Paris are in direct line of evolution from the recommendations of the Three Wise Men," a NATO informant in London said Wednesday.

Canada largely inspired the report. L. B. Pearson, former Canadian minister of external affairs, was one of the wise men. And George Ignatieff, now Canadian ambassador to Belgrade, did much of the writing.

The document, immediately dubbed, outlined "ground rules" for NATO co-operation. Article 60 (the now specifically recommended a con-ference to consider the recruiting and training of "scientists, engineers and technicians," now one of the West's principal objectives.

It also stressed the "growing interdependence" of the world, a theme echoed in the recent Washington declaration of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan.

In the new and chastened post-Sputnik mood, great importance is attached to the forthcoming Paris meeting. Genuine progress is expected in standardization, division of labor and pooling of research. Consultation among the NATO countries has quietly increased since the men's re-port,and it will receive a considerable fillip in Paris.

"The Sputnik has given new vigor to NATO, which was born in danger and always bucks up in a cold wind," comments The Economist, a weekly British mag-azine.

In the weeks to come, there will be much speculation about NATO "super-cabinets" and "united North Atlantic states."

This is probably premature, but it is favorable for rapid advance in Atlantic integration. When Russia flexes her missiles the West instinctively huddles together.

Compulsory Mass Stirs Parents To Protest

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Compulsory attendance at daily mass and alleged cider-drinking at a school dance have caused a row at St. Joseph High School here.

The controversy erupted Wednesday night at a parent-teacher meeting in the separate school board auditorium. Parents waved a letter that had been sent to them following an incident after a Hallowe'en dance at the school.

The letter, written on separate school board stationery, said attendance at daily mass, Sunday novena devotions and holy communion were to be "compulsory for continued enrollment in St. Joseph High School."

OBJECT TO WORDING

Some of the parents objected to mass being mandatory, others to the wording of the letter.

The letter included such sentences as: "Those who do not wish to adhere to these regulations are not welcome at St. Joseph High School . . . The presence of your children to these regulations is demanded."

Rt. Rev. W. S. Morrison, chairman of the separate school board, insisted no compulsion whatever was intended.

The activity of a few older boys during and after the Hallowe'en dance was reported to have prompted the school board's action. Msgr. Morrison said police objected the boys from a restaurant near the school and that the boys had been drinking—"cider I think."

The letter said the new regulations were made because of "the conduct, example and deportment of the students of St. Joseph High School."

Russian Embassy's Party May Be Social Splash of Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The success of the Sputniks and Nikita Khrushchev's "no war" pledge may turn the Russian embassy's October Revolution celebration tonight into one of the social splashes of the season.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has promised the word around that while he will not attend, there is to be no ban on attendance by Canadian government officials.

At least three or four cabinet ministers are expected to drop in on the black-tie affair, along with a fairly large number of deputy ministers and various other officials.

Foreign missions are expected to send a "maximum token" representation, equivalent to representation at similar affairs thrown by Western countries here.

Gone, but perhaps not forgotten, may be the signs of foreign resentment over the Soviet massacre in Hungary which last year turned the Russian ambassador's usual reception into a social flop.

The Hungarian situation has quieted while the success of the two earth-girdling Sputniks has stunned the world. At one recent social gathering, Dmitri Chuvakhin, Soviet ambassador, talked jokingly of obtaining tickets from Moscow for a trip to the moon. There since has been suggestion that the Soviet sputniks may be fired or be launched from there for a rocket to the moon.

In any case the shift in Canadian mood has changed. Last year, the former Liberal administration gave orders that only a "token" representation was to attend the annual October Revolution reception. Former trade minister C. D. Howe was the sole cabinet representative.

This year some federal cabinet ministers expected to attend already accepted the invitation. Mr. Diefenbaker is understood to have decided not to attend because of the heavy pressure of work and because he attended one national day celebration he would have to attend others, cutting into his busy schedule.

Publisher Says Telegram Is 'Not for Sale'

TORONTO (CP) — Publisher John Bassett Jr., says The Telegram is not for sale "now or in the future."

He issued the statement Wednesday in comment on a report that the investment counselling firm of Owen K. Taylor has been circulating a letter to U.S. brokerage and investment houses reporting that Bassett family shareholders would like to sell The Telegram."

Mr. Bassett said "there is absolutely no truth in the report from New York."

"There is no sale of The Telegram contemplated now or in the future," he said.

"The net paid circulation of The Telegram is just under 260,000 per day. For the third straight quarter of this year, Telegram editorials were more quoted than those of any other paper in the country. And I honestly believe that The Telegram never stood higher in prestige and was never doing better service to the community and the country.

"I deny absolutely, categorically and without reservation the rumor of any sale now or in the future."

Commit Man For Trial for Farm Loan Fraud

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) Anthony Gardiner, 41 - year - old resident of Brougham, 20 miles southeast of here, was committed for trial Wednesday as the courts got deeper into false pretence charges arising from farm improvement loans involving a dozen people.

Gardiner was accused of obtaining by false pretences a $2,700 farm improvement loan from the Markham branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Testimony was that the money loaned to Gardiner was turned over to John B. White, a Brougham implement dealer, for a tractor but that Gardiner got neither the tractor nor the money he had.

Harry A. Newman of Toronto, Gardiner's lawyer, said that when Gardiner arranged the loan in November, 1953, White owed the bank about $18,000. White was said to be $150,000 in debt altogether.

For this reason, Mr. Newman said, the bank actually was in collusion with White in permitting him to obtain the funds.

ALSO FACES CHARGES

White himself faces 26 charges of false pretences.

John T. Woodbine, 42, of Markham, a farm laborer who worked for White, drew a suspended sentence after being convicted on a similar charge. Woodbine testified that he helped White get a loan from the bank under the threat of dismissal.

Woodbine said he thought White was obtaining the loan and he, Woodbine, was merely backing the application. He said White gave the bank information on a non-existent farm and other "assets" supposed to have been in Woodbine's possession.

The bank granted a loan of $2,000, Woodbine said, and White got the money.

So far, one man has been accused of fraud. He received suspended sentences and six have been committed for trial on charges involving White. An additional two, Anthony Spang and William F. Huntington, were remanded Wednesday for a magistrate's court hearing Nov. 26.

Ralph Furness, 49 - year - old ex-manager of the Markham branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, also faces nine charges of false pretences, one of forgery and one of uttering a forged document.

Car Production During October Down 12,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of motor vehicles during October totalled 18,300, a drop of more than 12,000 from the corresponding 1956 total of 30,430 the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

In a preliminary report, the bureau said 340,628 units were produced in the 10-month period ended Oct. 31, compared with 396,506 in the corresponding period last year.

January-October production of passenger vehicles was 285,573, roughly six per cent lower than the 302,781 units made in the 10-month period of 1956.

Manned Planes and Missiles Still Main Canadian Defence Says Hon. George R. Pearkes

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada will count on manned aircraft and ground-launched missiles for the next few years despite the threat Russia's intercontinental ballistics missile, says Defence Minister George Pearkes.

Addressing delegates Wednesday night at the annual banquet of the Air Industries and Transport Association, he said:

"We believe that for the next few years the manned bomber will constitute the main threat."

But the government "is not overlooking the possibility that long-range missiles will be used in conjunction with airplanes."

"While the West proceeds with the development of guided missiles that can be used in a defence against manned bombers and missiles we must be prepared to meet the threat with manned interceptors," he said.

WILL BE DIFFERENT

"Looking at Russia's 'recent achievements in the development of ICBM and the earth satellites it becomes obvious that a future war will be fought differently from previous wars," he said.

"We are looking ahead and are determining what equipment the RCAF must and should have to effectively operate in this environment.

"Our military advisers believe that we must be prepared to fight a war which would be launched with a surprise thermonuclear attack of fortissi intensity. Since little or no warning could be expected it is most important that our forces be trained, equipped and in a position to deal with the onslaught.

"We are looking ahead to 1961-62 and are determining what equipment the RCAF must add be truly effective."

Mystery Objects in the Sky Seen in Many Areas in Ont.

Mystery objects in the sky—ranging in description from "eggshaped" to "a pinkish thing"—were reported Wednesday night from various parts of Ontario.

Most came between 6:25 p.m. EST when Sputnik I was scheduled to "ring" over the province.

Gustav Bakos, an official at Dunlop Observatory, Toronto, said "red lights" reported could have been Venus which set Wednesday night around 8 p.m. He said the observatory had received several reports of Sputnik.

Mrs. Mervin Bowerman of Meadowvale, 11 miles west of Toronto, said she saw a dazzling white light four times as big as the North Star. When she looked a second time it had turned amber. Then it vanished in a red streak.

At Richmond Hill, a Toronto suburb, a "brilliant glowing star" a "glowing red object" and "a pinkish thing" were reported by residents.

At Belleville, there were several reports of "red lights" in the sky.

Strange lights were also reported in Northern Ontario.

At Port Arthur, on the north west shore of Lake Superior, residents of the Lakehead and surrounding district saw a "very bright, egg-shaped" object travelling "fairly slowly" in the west at a fast speed."

Harold Guest, regional operator for the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, said several reports had been phoned to him. He also had seen the object.

But air traffic controllers at the Lakehead airport reported nothing unusual.

At Shallow Lake, near Owen Sound, Donald Lemery, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lemcert, said he saw a "large, blood red object."

Sputnik II is expected to pass over Ontario at 8.11 a.m. EST Friday.

Judge Denies Petition of Man To Adopt Wife

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—A petition by a 76-year-old man to adopt his ex-wife was dismissed Wednesday.

Judge Joe D. Kinsey denied the petition by Walter H. Rebman to allow him to adopt Virginia Rebman, 44.

Judge Kinsey ordered the couple to appear before him Friday to show cause why the final decree should not be entered Oct. 21, which could be set aside.

Mrs. Rebman obtained the divorce, had charged her husband with mental cruelty.

In seeking the adoption, Rebman and his former wife said the arrangement would benefit both because they have "mutual reliance and dependence on each other due to their association over the last 16 years," and have mutual business interests.

AN ARTIST LOOKS AT SPUTNIK II AND ITS CANINE CARGO

This is an artist's conception of the Soviet Sputnik II as it circles the globe with a female dog aboard in an orbit 1,056 miles above the earth. The satellite weighs 1,120 pounds compared to 184 pounds for the first Sputnik. The dog, Laika, is reported in good shape and has been provided with an air conditioned cabin to take food signal. Some Soviet writers say Laika will be sacrificed to science, but others say she will be parachuted safely back to earth.

RUSSIA CLAIMS TRIPS TO MOON SOON POSSIBLE

"Anyway, we succeeded in converting them — they used to be vegetarians!"

For centuries, man has imagined trips to the moon. Venus and Mars, not only recently has science considered these spacejaunts as fact, not fantasy. This scene from a movie shows life on the moon. Soviet scientists claim they will soon be able to send rockets from the earth to the moon, a distance of 245,000 miles. The first rockets would be manned by robots to make observations and report back by television.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma were opening their mail when I came down to break fast, and I said, Aint there any mail for me, not a single letter?

How many did you expect for Peet sake? pop said, and I said, Well, some, anyways. Maybe some got mixed up in your mail pop, I said.

No, there's nuthing here but bills, pop said. You can have some of them if you promise to take care of them in the manner to which they are accustomed, he said.

Meaning pay them, and I said, Heck, that's a funny thing. Us fellows got up a new club yesterday called the Letters and Answers Club, and according to the rules we are suppose to write letters to each other and anser them, to make us all feel important by getting mail in the mornings, I said, and ma said, Well cheer up. Somebody has to write ferst, so you'll feel important when you receeve answers to your letters, she said.

Well heck, the trubble is I didn't write anybody any, I said. I was going to see which ones really wrote to me ferst, and then reward them by anserring, I said.

And I ate my breakfist feeling unimportant, and after breakfist I found a envelope with my name on it stuck under the frunt door, and it had a letter from Puds Simkins in it saying, Dear Benny, how are you? I'm all right. Nobody had a loose stamp to give me so I'm delivering this myself. Puds. P.S. Write soon. Puds.

Making me feel partly important.

CAMPBELLFORD

District H.S. Board Hears Reports

CAMPBELLFORD—The regular meeting of the North East Northumberland District High School Board was held on Friday evening in the Campbellford High School, with all members present.

The property committee reported that repairs to the ceiling of the auditorium in the Campbellford High School will be made at once. This committee was instructed to investigate further the hollow on the north playground and report to the Board any possible means of remedying the condition.

The possibility of using natural gas ranges in the Home Economics room was discussed and the principal, Mr. Darling, agreed to contact the inspector and ascertain if it would be preferable to have two gas ranges or one gas and one electric range for instruction in this class.

ATTENDANCE 15 PER CENT DECREASE

It was reported that due to the influenza epidemic in this district, the attendance of both schools was approximately 15 per cent lower than normal for the month of October.

The salary of the caretaker of the Separate School building was increased by $50 per year for supervision of the students during the noon hour while no teachers are present.

Dut to the lack of gymnasium facilities in the Warkworth High School, it was decided that the same arrangements as last year be made for the use of the Warkworth arena for skating and the town hall for badminton during the winter season.

The Board decided to accept the added coverage of the liability insurance policy thereby increasing the liability coverage to $10/20,000 and $2,000 for property damage.

Correspondence included a copy of a resolution passed by the municipal council of the Town of Campbellford, approving the application for the issue of debentures for the proposed addition to the Campbellford High School.

Accounts presented at this meeting were approved for payment, and the meeting adjourned.

Coldwell Asks Reinstatement of Postal Employee

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Coldwell has called for reinstatement of a postal employee at Brantford, dismissed last week on what a Brantford union official has described as political grounds.

Works Minister Green replied in the Commons Wednesday he would "take steps at once" to check into the matter.

Mr. Coldwell referred to the dismissal of Charles Kratzmeir, 48.

Wednesday spokesmen for the Canadian Legion at Brantford said the Brantford Labor Council said dismissals of Kratzmeir and Ambrose Truman, 30, were both apparently for political reasons.

Jack Wratten, Progressive Conservative Commons member for Brantford, was reported as saying Mr. Truman was being reinstated although "he worked for the other side on election day."

ONE FILLED

Larry N. Wagg, president of the Brantford CCF Association, said one of the two positions had been filled by the appointment of Andy Maher. He said Mr. Maher entered the election contest as an Independent Conservative candidate and later withdrew in favor of Mr. Wratten.

At another point, Hon. Jean Lesage (L — Montmagny-L'Islet) raised the matter of a postal directive issued last summer saying that rural mail contractors engaging in political activities might lose their contracts.

Postmaster - General William Hamilton replied that a clarifying memo will be distributed emphasizing that the first directive applied only to political activities by mail contractors while they are carrying out their postal duties.

Home and School Clubs Will Aid, Train Teachers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The Ontario Federation of Home and School Clubs Wednesday night launched a bursary fund which will help train teachers and buy federation life memberships for outstanding contributors to education.

More than 60 members of the federation board heard Mrs. Kenneth Gent, president of the Niagara Falls Home and School Council, introduce the bursary plan.

Under the bursary setup, home and school associations will be permitted to buy up to three life memberships a year. These will cost from $10 to $25 each, depending on the size of the association. The life membership may then be presented to someone regarded by the association as a major contributor to education and the money will be placed in the federation-managed bursary fund.

$50 A STUDENT

The money will be doled out at the rate of $50 a student to teachers' colleges to help pay for the training of scholarship winners. The specific mechanics of the plan have yet to be worked out.

The federation will distribute the student aid once a year. If $300 is available, six grants will be made; if $500 is on hand, 10 will be made, and so on.

Mrs. George C. Irvine, Niagara Falls, and Mrs. E. L. Shanley, St. Catharines, also spoke.

The board members represented Port Arthur, Ottawa, Sudbury, Kirkland Lake, Windsor, Brantford, Hamilton, St. Catharines, London, Toronto and Oshawa. The meeting winds up today.

Princess Maggie Leclair, outstanding Northern Ontario trapper and among the last of the Chippewyan Indian tribe, has left her backwoods cabin and entered a home for the aged near Timmins, Ont. Rheumatism stopped the princess—she's more than 90 years old—from setting her trap lines this year so she decided to retire. Holding several of her most precious possessions—her traps—she is shown here as she prepares to leave her home. Dr. J. B. McClinton (left) and Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins escorted her on the trip. (CP Photo)

MARMORA

MacArthur's Mills W.I. 40th Anniversary Attended by Presidents

MARMORA — District presidents of North Hastings district of the Women's Institute had an enjoyable outing on November 1st when they journeyed to MacArthur's Mills to attend the 40th anniversary of that branch.

Mrs. Glen Barker, president, and Mrs. Bert Barker, secretary, welcomed the guests and called the meeting to order. Mrs. Bert Barker read a resume of their ten years' work which had been compiled by Mrs. Frank Slater, a great granddaughter of Archie MacArthur, who had built and operated mills on the Little Mississippi River situated east of Highway 62 and east of Detlor.

STUPENDOUS PROJECT

Their membership has never been more than 12 and at present is ten, and these ambitious women have taken on and almost completed a stupendous project in the building of a community centre. They bought a piece of land in 1952 large enough for a baseball diamond and a lot for a hall and on it they laid a foundation for the hall 30 x 40 and ended the year with $384.38 in the treasury. In 1953 their year ended with $836.24 on hand, and in 1954 they made $590.91 and spent $1,419.10 for lumber and building supplies and were $200 in debt.

In 1955-56 year they received $115 in donations. A donation of $25 came from the Woodhouse Institute which had been of their project and extended some help. They made $872.62 with the donations, toward their building fund.

This year their dream of a community centre is nearing completion. Their building has a suitable floor for dancing and a piano donated by the Smith family; also a kitchen with hot plates and steamers is in use; six card tables and chairs besides benches. A chimney was erected and a wood stove in operation. It boasts an aluminum roof and enough lumber is over head for a ceiling and now in process of being sided with veneer siding. They hope to also winterize it this year.

They hold bingos, dances, euchre to weddings, have card parties, sell tickets on handbooked rugs, make quilts, hold an annual summer picnic, and an annual hunters' ball which is slated for November 9 this year.

TRAVELLING LIBRARIES

Beside this building project they have travelling libraries, films from Department of Lands and Forests or others from Department, and they donate baby spoons, slippers to aged and fill pack Christmas baskets, and provide for the needy, give flowers to ill members, and hold a "Father's Day" dinner for their menfolk.

Greetings were brought to their branch from the district of North Hastings by the district president, Mrs. Ernest Irwin, who is also a Provincial Board member. Other past district presidents spoke briefly.

Mrs. Ernest Moore of Madoc was justly proud of the group she had organized just ten years ago, during her term as district president.

Other former residents were: Mrs. Carl Clancy, and Mrs. Clifford Clancy, of the Wellman's branch; Mrs. Ira Green, Ziatcora branch; Mrs. C. Sills [illegible]ose, and Mrs. S. E. [illegible] of Madoc branch.

Horsepool of Paudash, unable to attend.

Birthday banquet was served complete with cake and candles. Mrs. E. Moore was called on to cut the cake, and Happy Birthday was sung.

Decorating Ideas
by DORIS LOVE
Well known Canadian Colour Consultant

We live in an age of colour . . . and it's getting more colourful all the time. Coloured tile, coloured walls, coloured floors, coloured accessories and coloured decoration. It isn't just for rich people any more. Colour is available everywhere but it is often the "accent" colour which controls the colour atmosphere of the room.

For instance the modern bathroom, with considerable counter space for an incorporated in the plan, if it is brilliantly coloured in pumpkin, peacock, or perhaps coral, it would be wise to select draperies, shower curtain, towels and tissue in a softly contrasting colour. For instance, Colour-Styled White Swan Tissue in Sea Spray Green goes beautifully with pumpkin . . . delicate Dawn Pink Tissue is perfect with peacock accessories . . . and Azure Blue Tissue is a wonderful foil for coral. Now, if your counter top is linen-textured, choose a delicate colour like Marigold Yellow White Swan Tissue. It will blend with any tiling and fixture colour—and it's so very gay looking.

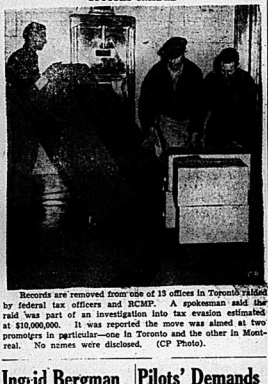
Marble topped tables and counters . . . are very popular these days. If you have an area such as your bathroom, feature its colouring by introducing Sea Spray Green or Dawn Pink tissue.

"Delight" is right for fall . . . Don't reserve your "extra" decorating touches for guests or the spring bridge club. Let the entire family enjoy luxurious colour accents every day of the week—bright towels and tissue to add that individual touch which every bathroom needs. White Swan Dawn Pink and Marigold tissues are a warm, cheerful decorative colours for this time of year.

The cost of living is up . . . no one needs to tell the homemaker. Naturally you're watching for happy economies to protect your shopping budget. Why not consider coloured tissue for a dainty cleanzing tissue, for blotting lipstick, for general cosmetic use in the bathroom.

And of course no one can afford to be without White Swan servietes. They're really wonderful for a dinner party, in spacious size, and excellently patterned. Whether it's one or two ply, white or coloured, White Swan servietes are a shopping bargain.

A handy travelling companion . . . White Swan towels go travelling because so many travellers have found them invaluable in a carpack for picnics, for the comfort of the car—you won't want to be without it! This is surely one more use to be added to the many uses for White Swan Towels in the home.



White Swan Paper Products, towels, tissue and servietes are an essential commodity for daily comfort. They're practical, decorative and economical. In fact, no modern homemaker should be without these fine products.

Ingrid Bergman And Rossellini Have Separated

ROME (AP)—Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini separated today. An announcement by their lawyer said they separated because of incompatibility.

The actress and the film director were married seven years ago. Their married life had been complicated recently by reports from India that connected the Italian director with a pretty Indian script girl.

Miss Bergman was in Rome, but could not be reached. During the last few days she had been reported suffering from influenza and confined to her Rome apartment.

Rossellini had emphatically denied the reports linking him with the script girl, Sonali Das Gupta.

The director is 51 while Miss Bergman is 40.

MET IN WORK

Ingrid Bergman came to Italy eight years ago to play in the movie, Stromboli, and fell in love with Rossellini.

She was pregnant when her affair with the director made headlines, and Roberto, her son by Rossellini, was born seven days before she got a Mexican divorce from her first husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, on Feb. 9, 1950.

The first rumors of a serious rift between her and Rossellini cropped up last May while Rossellini was making a series of documentary pictures for the Indian government.

Newspaper stories said Rossellini and Miss Das Gupta, a 27-year-old Indian woman, were living in adjoining apartments in Bombay's Taj Mahal Hotel, Sonali, without previous movie experience, had been hired by Rossellini as a script writer at $325 a month, a salary equal to Prime Minister Nehru's. She was already married and had two small sons.

Rossellini called the story "fantastic." He said Ingrid still had faith in him. She said there was "no truth at all" to the reports.

Pilots' Demands Taken to Ottawa By Dept. Officer

MONTREAL (CP) — A transport department official returned to Ottawa Wednesday, carrying demands of 32 St. Lawrence River pilots on the Montreal-Kingston run who walked off their jobs Monday charging overwork and lack of security.

The pilots, members of the St. Lawrence - Kingston - Ottawa Pilots' Corporation, submitted their case to the federal government representative at an all-day meeting here. More discussions were planned for today.

Meanwhile, ocean ship movements between here and Lake Ontario slowed up. Shipping officials said they expected the last ships to clear the river's canal system by late today. The pilots have agreed to complete all contracts made before the strike.

MOSTLY OCEAN

Most of the ships affected are ocean vessels. Most masters of lake ships normally run through the system without pilots.

The pilots complained that a lack of licensed men has resulted in many of them being forced to work more than 100 hours a week. They also sought a compulsory fee ruling to protect them when the St. Lawrence seaway opens.

Six vessels were tied up here because of the walkout and eight were stalled at Kingston.

Officials of the Shipping Federation of Canada, representing the affected ships, have attended the meetings here, but have made no official announcement. However, it was understood the federation was negotiating separately with the transport department in Ottawa.

Missile Bases Ringing Russia Said U.S. Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to propose to Allied nations the creation of a network of missiles bases within striking distance of Soviet targets.

The proposition may figure in President Eisenhower's meeting with leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris in mid-December.

State Secretary Dulles told a press conference Tuesday that while the U.S. has already made arrangements with Britain for establishment of an intermediate range missile unit in the British Isles he thought "it would be desirable to have them elsewhere."

1,500-MILE TYPES

The missiles involved would be those which, like the U.S. Army's Jupiter and the air force Thor, have an operational range of about 1,500 miles.

The arrangement made with the British at the Bermuda conference last spring provides for the U.K. to furnish the missiles to Britain. Supplies of atomic or hydrogen warheads also would be kept close by, but these would remain in control of the U.S. ready for use if war broke out.

Dulles pictured the U.S. as being behind Russia in the development of ballistic missiles but said "I feel assured that we can catch up."

When asked if he thought it would be a good thing for the U.S. to get a satellite into outer space as fast as possible, he replied:

"I think it would be helpful to demonstrate, as I think we shall, that we have developed a capability comparable to Soviet progress in these respects."

The Rev. and Mrs. S. Fuller and Steven were Tuesday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Huyck.

Dead and dried tops of perennials that have finished blooming should be cut off and burned, or dug into the soil in an otu-of-the-way spot. If left on they'll be a refuge for insects to take up residence over winter — and come out double strength next season. And, obviously, they're not a very pretty sight.

Given 4 Years At Second Trial Over Shooting

KENORA (CP)—Alfred Barney Vincent, 21, of Hudson, Ont., convicted of manslaughter Friday at the fall sitting of the Supreme Court Tuesday was sentenced by Mr. Justice A. Ayleo to four years in penitentiary.

The charge was in connection with the March 26 shooting of his 23-year-old brother, Howard. It was the second trial for Alfred Vincent.

During the June assizes, before Mr. Justice Rene Dansi, Vincent was found not guilty of murder as charged but guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced to 12 years in penitentiary. He successfully appealed his conviction and sentence, and was granted a new trial. The Ontario court of appeal ruled Mr. Justice Dansi misdirected the jury.

Hallowe'en decorations and a large jack-o-lantern glowing on a table at the front of the school added greatly to the setting for the party.

Isabelle Prest acted as chairlady and Sharon Reide was pianist for the songs.

The children were dressed in a great variety of costumes, making it difficult for the judges to decide on the winners. There were three groups: senior girls — grade IV and up with the prize going to Beverley Stapley, dressed as a bride, bride, in white dress, veil and gloves; senior boys — grade IV and up with Kenneth Danford in a comic costume taking the prize. Famous Trichologist Will Demonstrate How To Grow Thicker Hair
.... And Guarantees It!
Demonstrations to be held here

This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ontario, on Saturday, November 9, 1957.

These private individual demonstrations will be held at the New Queens Hotel on Saturday only (8 a.m. to 8 p.m.).

London, Ont. — In an interview here today William Keele, International famous trichologist and director of the Keele Hair experts said: "There are 24 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense a person must realize no one magic or so-called cure-all could correct all these disorders", he explained.

Guaranteed

"The Keele firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Keele said.

Once a person avails himself of the Keele treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

Hopeless Cases Discouraged

First the trichologist is quick to tell hopeless cases that they can not be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if it ruin is completely, shiny bald, is he in this lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin or colorless, the Keele treatment can perform wonders.

Free Examinations

This examination is very thorough and highly technical. It requires 20 to 30 minutes. The trichologist makes no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination the person is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, the person makes regular reports to the Keele firm in London, to check the progress of the home treatment.

To spread the opportunity of personal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, independent trichologists are visiting various cities throughout Canada to conduct examinations and start home treatments.

No Cure-All

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness", Keele emphasizes, "if there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Keele wants every man and woman to know if a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

Hair for Lifetime

"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the years of their lives", Keele said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observations of a few simple rules."

How's Your Hair?

If it worries you call Trichologist W. N. Young at the New Queen's Hotel in Belleville, Ont., on Saturday ONLY, Nov. 9th. 12 noon to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Both men and women are welcome.

Liberals Obtain Few Facts About Joint Air Setup

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals Wednesday used the Commons question period to try to obtain more information from the government on establishment of the new Canada-United States Air Defence Command.

About the only firm information—supplied by Prime Minister Diefenbaker—was that Canadian participation was decided by the government as a whole and not by Defence Minister Pearkes alone.

The prime minister also said relevant orders-in-council have already been tabled in the Commons. The only order was that appointing Air Marshal Roy Slemon of the RCAF as deputy commander of the joint headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

W. J. Henderson, Kingston, Liberal defence critic, asked how the command would consult the Canadian government in event of an air attack across the DEW (distant early warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic.

"By telephone or other means" replied Mr. Pearkes.

The defence minister told the Commons Tuesday that the Canadian government would have to be consulted before RCAF squadrons were ordered up by the joint headquarters.

Hon. Paul Martin (L — Essex East) asked whether Mr. Pearkes was aware of a Sept. 6 statement attributed to Gen. Earle Partridge of the U.S. Air Force, headquarters commander, that he would not be obliged to obtain the permission of the U.S. government to send up fighters because there would not be sufficient time to do this.

Mr. Pearkes said he was not aware of this. He added that he questioned existence of such an arrangement between President Eisenhower and Gen. Partridge.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The McFarlands journey to Cornwall tonight to take on the three-whipped Cheviots of that city and reports and other indications point to the fact the game won't exactly be what is called in polite circles a "pink tea"

The Cornwall scribe, after absorbing a lot of "guff" during his visit here last week, has apparently been building a strong case against the McFarlands and this department anticipates a lot of high and low jinks when the clubs clash tonight.

Somebody loaded the aforesaid scribe with plenty of the "malarkey" for he went home and wrote of the near-revolution in the ranks of the Booster Club, dissension in the ranks of the Macs and what not. Listen to this:

"However, despite all the surface noise made by this club, we gathered from several sources in Belleville that things are not all sweetness and light. There seems to be much unrest among the players. Minnie Menard (29 goals) and Jean Payette (80 points) last year, hardly got on the ice at all. One player said that there are only five men on the team sure of their jobs at the present. One thing you do notice about Belleville is the Hildebrand as he seems to be on the ice a large part of the time. He kills penalties, plays the power play and coaches besides. We are not saying that Ike is not a good player but whether he can keep everyone happy, is another thing. Even the fine McFarland booster club is in the soup. They have become very strong and are starting to try to tell the Mac management how to run things. Also with all those high priced players there is bound to be friction."

His unwarranted attack on the 1,000-plus member Booster Club will get a well-deserved horse-laugh from this city. He forgot to mention, in case it refutes his oft-repeated charges of the "high-priced" McFarland players, that he witnessed a simple ceremony in centre ice where the Booster Club presented "Ole Mace" manager, Druxy Purves, with a cheque for $500 for the release of Barton Bradley.

Furthermore, we believe it is a figment of his imagination when he states "One (Mac, or was it a Mac?) player said there are only five men on the team sure of their jobs."

As far as the Booster Club trying to tell the management how to run the club that is more bokum of the Simon-pure variety. Every member of the club is a hockey fan and enjoys, as is the fan's inalienable right, to offer criticism of any type. Sure the boys here criticize the players, at times. Sometimes they criticize the country. Show me a hockey centre in any man's league where the Monday morning quarterbacks and arm-chair managers and referees do not hold forth. But as far as trying to tell the management how to operate the club? Pass the aspirin.

He takes a crack at Eddie Marineau for crowning George Aitken with a stick, and we will go along with that. We do not condone deliberate stick-swinging and it should be dealt with severely. But will he publish this item from Wren Blair's column written after the Cornwall-Whitby game.

Writes Blair—"Only spot to mar the tilt was the uncalled-for punch which Joe Lepine lagged on Charlie Burns, after a previous fight was over. Burns and Lepine had tangled and order had been restored. Charlie skated over to pick up his stick and gloves assuming all things had cooled out when suddenly Lepine brought up a roundhouse punch opening a cut which took three stitches to close over Burns' eye."

It all depends on whose ox is being gored.

So unless all signs fail, tonight's battle between the Macs and the Chevies appears to be a knock-em-down, drag-em-out affair. However, the McFarlands can take care of themselves and will give their win-hungry foemen the battle of their lives. They meet the fast-skating Ottawa-Hull Canadiens here tomorrow night and this one should be well worth the admission price. Sammy Pollock's crew is a clever, hard-checking, fast-skating bevy of youngsters and although they have yet to crash the win column in senior hockey, will give the Macs plenty of trouble.

SCOTT FROST RETIRES

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Scott Frost, harness horse of the year in 1955 and 1956, has been retired from racing and will enter the stallion ranks at the S.A. Camp farm, Springville, Calif. next year. The retirement was announced Wednesday by owner Jim Camp and trainer-driver Joe O'Brien.

Camille Henry Scores Twice In 4-2 Victory Over Toronto; Extend Unbeaten String to 5

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Camille Henry, a little guy with a big man's league, has had some trying times since he joined New York Rangers in 1952.

After Wednesday night's showing however, all that may be past history. Henry scored two goals to pace Rangers to a 4-2 win over Toronto Maple Leafs and move the Blueshirts into first place in the National Hockey League.

Henry scored 24 goals and was rookie-of-the-year when he first came up. He showed that his 150 pounds packed an accurate and hard shot.

But the next two seasons he split between Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League and Providence Reds of the American Hockey League, trying to convince Rangers' coach Phil Watson the heavy bounces of the NHL couldn't take the edge off his marksmanship.

PUTS IN PUNCH

Halfway through last season New York, battling hard for the last playoff position, recalled Henry to put more punch in its power play.

He's been putting it there since. Wednesday night's match was were Henry's seventh and eighth of the year, and the first seven all came with the opposition a man short. His second goal of the night, in the third period, was his first with both teams at full strength.

The victory stretched Rangers' unbeaten string to five games, including one tie, and left them at the top of the league with 18 points on eight wins and two ties in 14 games.

CHANCE TO MOVE UP

Montreal Canadiens, two points back with three games in hand, get a chance to move back into a tie for the lead when they meet fifth-place Detroit Red Wings at Montreal tonight. In a second game the last-place Maple Leafs meet fourth-place Boston.

Though Henry scored two goals New York's best all-around performer was Andy Bathgate, who scored once and picked up two assists. And while these two starred at getting the puck into the net goalie Marcel Paille kept out all but two of the 32 shots directed at him.

It was Paille's fourth game in three New York goal as a replacement for Lorne Worsley, out with pulled leg muscles. Paille has given up four goals in his stint.

Toronto's Brian Cullen was off to the first period when Henry scored his first and Bathgate added. Gerry Foley was penalized when George Armstrong tied the score.

Dick Duff put Leafs ahead briefly in the second period before Dean Prentice fired in No. 2. Henry's second goal midway through the final period broke the tie. Bathgate plunked his goal into an empty net when Toronto pulled Ed Chadwick in the last 30 seconds. Chadwick stopped 28 shots.

Montreal's Toe Blake said goalie Jacques Plante will return to action tonight. Plante has appeared in only two of Canadiens' 11 games because of attacks of sinuhms. Influenza is sinus operation.

Detroit's Lorne Ferguson will join Red Kelly on the sidelines. Ferguson fractured a collar bone a couple of weeks ago but continued playing. The extent of the injury became known Wednesday. Dennis Olson, from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League, will replace Ferguson.

Boston Bruins will have Fleming Mackell back in action. Mackell had flu and missed two practices.

Dutchmen Whip Golden Bears In Semi-Final

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen today were in the fourth straight Ontario Rugby Union Football final after whipping Sarnia Golden Bears 26-22 Wednesday in a sudden-death semifinal.

Kitchener opens the best of three finals against London Lords here Saturday. Second game is scheduled Nov. 16 at London. Lords finished first and drew a bye into the finals while Kitchener finished second.

Dutchies put on a hot first-quarter display for some 2,200 chilled fans. Two converted touchdowns and a single gave them a 13-0 lead and Sarnia never managed to come close. TWO FOR DUTCHIES

Don Loucks scored two Kitchener touchdowns and Carl Johnson, Tex Hudson and Royal Bailey each scored one. Mike Pecarsky converted three. Bob Cleri kicked a single and Huck O'Connell tackled Gene Rossi for a 27-yard safety touch.

Sarnia's lone touchdown was scored by Gene Lekenta. Ross Dowswell kicked a single.

Sarnia opened with four first downs but Kitchener star plays after taking over, drove 95 yards for a touchdown, Johnson scoring from 29 yards out.

Davie King ran back a punt by Dowswell to the Sarnia 42 and Loucks chugged over from there. In the second quarter Kitchener added a 35-yard drive by scoring from the 21.

THREE-QUARTER TIE

Gregory fumbled the third quarter kickoff on his own 30 yard line. Kitchener star plays to go over, Robinson scoring from the one. Bailey scored Sarnia's touchdown after Johnson was run out of bounds on a 20-yard screen pass.

Sarnia's Gene Rossi hit on 16 of 26 passes for 173 yards while Bears ground out 130 yards rushing.

Celeri connected seven of 17 times for 90 yards and Dutchies picked up 273 yards on the ground. Kitchener had 30 first downs to 16 for Sarnia.

Letter To The Sports Editor

OUT-OF-TOWN BOOSTER

Cornwall, Ont.

I'm writing this letter in regards to the Cornwall sports page.

I was born in Belleville, lived there all my life until the last three years.

Since then I've been "fortunate" enough to be able to read the sport page of Cornwall, by Frank Orr.

But never in my time did I ever read a Belleville fight such as I've read down here. If these boys can't win, it's either the referee or the judge's fault. Be Belleville boys. I'm sending a sport page to prove that.

But who are we to judge any hockey players. They have a referee to penalize them, and the penalizes the fanatical crowd that will go to a hockey game and all the boys a foul name.

That is a sample of what happens to Belleville fights from the city hall in Belleville. But I say no — just like Cam Carson, Belleville, Go.

Mexico's Little Mouse Eaten By French Cat, Rooster Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The cat from France gobbled up Mexico's Little Mouse and threw things into a flurry at the death of a rooster.

The cat is a rugged little French-Algerian named Alphonse Halimi who Wednesday night outslugged and outboxed Jose Macias of Mexico for the undisputed world bantamweight championship, winning a 15-round split decision.

The rooster is the unofficial mascot for Macias, whose nickname, Raton, means "Little Mouse."

The bird's owner says the rooster must die now that the gallant but beaten Macias has lost his claim to the 118-pound title. The rooster may be brought into the ring before Macias' fights as a good luck piece.

MAD AT SURPRISING MEAL

A crowd of 20,000 — at least 10,000 of them countrymen of the Mexican fighter—were on hand when the two little scrappers squared off at Wrigley Field.

As expected, Halimi, the rock-hard onetime Algerian street fighter, tried to turn the 15-round match in a slugfest. Fighting from a half crouch, he pressed forward shrewing hard and supercharged to the Mexican's body and head.

And Macias, renowned for his boxing of old, was pressed by the Frenchman's game. In the early rounds, the Mexican gamecocks landed head-to-head in bruising infighting.

"Hear him, box him," urged Macias' manager, Pancho Rosales, when the Little Mouse returned to his corner after the third round.

CAN'T KEEP HIM AWAY

"I can't jab him," said Macias, bleeding from the nose. "He's on top of me. I can't keep him away."

"In the sixth I realized I couldn't knock him out, so I knew I'd have to box him," Halimi later said through an interpreter.

Halimi made the switch from in-fighting to long range jabbing about the 10th round and proceeded to beat the Mexican at his own game.

The split decision was greeted with lusty boos by the Mexican's fans, some of whom threw rolled from as far away as Tampico, Mexico, to cheer their idol.

REFEREE FOR MACIAS

Referee Monky Callahan cast his vote for Macias, but he was overruled by the two judges. Callahan scored for the Little Mouse, 144 to 141. Judge Harold Lentz had it 146-141 and Judge Dynamite Jackson 147-137, both for Halimi.

Halimi had been recognized as world champion by the World Boxing Championship Committee and Boxing Union of Europe. Macias had been the U.S. National Boxing Association world bantam titleholder.

The Little Mouse cried in his dressing room, "Several of my friends and friends did, too. But they offered no excuses.

"Nothing worked . . . Halimi beat me . . . I have no excuses," said Macias, unmarked except for a puffed eye and slightly cut lip.

In his dressing room, Halimi said Macias was the toughest battler he's faced during his career of 29 professional fights. Halimi showed only a slight cheek bruise.

Macias weighed 118, Halimi 117¼.

Buffalo Bows To Providence; Hershey Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds, doing a quick about-face after losing six games in a row, won their second straight Wednesday night, whipping Buffalo 8-1 and taking over second place in the American Hockey League.

First-place Hershey won again, defeating last-place Springfield 5-3 behind goalie Gump Ivan Walmsley in the only other game scheduled. It was the sixth consecutive victory for the once-beaten Bears, who now have an 18-point lead.

Reds broke up a scoreless tie with five goals in the second period; three of them in a five-minute spurt. Eight players scored, with rookie Bill Sweeney the big man on a goal and three assists as Providence moved ahead of idle Rochester.

SHARE SCORING

Jimmy Bartlett, Eddie Shack, Ray Cyr, Bruce Carmichael, Bob Robertson, Paul Larivee and Bruce Cline got the other Providence goals.

Bruce Gamble, up from Guelph Biltmore juniors to replace goalie Marcel Paille (now with New York Rangers) counted 18 saves and had a shutout until the final minute when Don Ingram beat him.

At Hershey, Ned Stankiewicz scored twice and Len Haley, Lorne Davis and Larry Zeidel got the other. Zeidel got credit for the final tally when a Springfield player booked the puck into his own net.

Walmsley, called up from Philadelphia of the Eastern League, was a last-minute stand-in for Gil Mayer, who was stricken by the flu. The goalie had a fairly easy time, facing only 28 shots.

BUT ADIOS VIVIAN

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—J.E. and C. E. Armstrong of Brampton, Ont., Wednesday paid $23,000 for Adios Vivian, a yearling by the pacing stallion Adios. A total of $533,100 was brought by the 232 head sold.

Kubek, Sanford Major Leagues Rookies of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Versatile Tony Kubek, who wasn't even on the New York Yankees' roster in spring training, and Jack Sanford, a pleasant pitching surprise on Philadelphia Phils, today were named major league baseball's rookies-of-the-year for 1957.

Kubek was selected as the American League's outstanding freshman and Sanford captured the National League rookie award. A 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America participated in the annual poll.

Kubek was a unanimous choice, receiving 432 votes. Frank Malzone of Boston Red Sox was named on one ballot. Malzone, however, had been previously declared ineligible since he had 103 official at bats in 1956.

ON 16 BALLOTS

Sanford was named on 16 ballots. Teammate Ed Bouchee, a holdout-hitting first baseman, was next with four votes. Pitcher Dick Drott of Chicago Cubs received three votes and outfielder Bob Hazle of Milwaukee Braves one.

Kubek, who was 22 last month, made the Yankee squad after impressive performances by Casey Stengel in the exhibition season. An all-star shortstop with Denver Bears of the American Association in 1956, the rangy left - handed swinger played a second base, third base, shortstop, left field and centre field for New York this past season.

Used mainly as a leadoff man, Kubek batted .276 in 127 games and finished ninth among the league's leading batters.

Sanford, a durable right-hander spent seven years in the minors and two years in the army before the Phils decided to give him a trial. He had signed with Philadelphia in 1947 as a graduation from high school.

After his service discharge late in 1956, Sanford got into three games with Philadelphia in September, winning three. The 28-year-old fastballer came into his own in 1957, posting a 19-8 won-lost record for a .704 percentage —second best in the league.

He topped both major leagues in strikeouts with 188 and had an earned run average of 3.06.

Cincinnati's Frank Robinson was the National League's top rookie in 1956 and Louis Aparicio of Chicago White Sox took the American League honor.

Candidate for Byng Trophy? "Rocket Swoons" at Thought

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard clamped a hand to his perspiring forehead and nearly swooned.

All he was asked as he stepped from the ice Wednesday after a workout by Montreal Canadiens was this: Do you think you'll be a shoo-in for the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy this season?

With no thought of being the explosive, temperamental Rocket it should be pointed out that he has breezed through 11 games in the National Hockey League season with narry a penalty of any kind.

As an accompaniment to such strange goings-on, the 36-year-old Rocket has rifled home 10 goals and collected nine assists. He shares the league goal-scoring leadership with brother Henri, the Pocket Rocket.

PRIZE UP MANY GAMES

How come this dearth of penalties for the man who has fired up many a fan into a near coma of a tempestuous season?

"Maybe I don't get as mad as I used to," said the Rocket. "Maybe the other fellows don't check me the way they used to, either."

It's no kidding matter to say that the way the veteran Richard has been playing this season he definitely will be an outstanding candidate for the trophy.

It is awarded annually to the NHL player "adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

"MUST BE A RECORD"

"Come to think of it," said Richard reflectively, "this really must be a record for me—no penalties in 11 games. I'm in my 13th season now and I can't recall any time I went that long without a penalty."

It may be that the opposition doesn't harass Richard as defensively. Perhaps, too, the opposition has too many siege guns of Canadiens to pay attention to now in addition to the Rocket—Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the little Rocket and Dickie Moore.

Over his career, in 857 games before this season, Richard has averaged more than 1 1-3 minutes per game in penalties.

The penalty peak was the 1954-55 season, 125 minutes in 67 games. That was the season he exploded in Boston — and the Montreal riots followed. Richard was suspended by NHL president Clarence Campbell for the remaining three games of the season and all the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Throughout his career, in regular-season play, Richard has been assessed 1,180 minutes in penalties. It is noticeable, though, that in the last two seasons—after his peak 125 minutes—his average has tapered off. He served 74 minutes in 63 games last season—he missed seven games because of an injury—and 89 minutes in the full 70 games of the 1955-56 season.

Marlies Edge St. Michael's 4-3 To Lead League

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Wednesday night with a 4-3 victory over St. Michael's Majors.

Marlboros, although playing ragged hockey all the way, had the better goalie with the Majors, in a three-way tie for sixth place. Marlboros have seven points, one ahead of St. Catharines Teepees.

Don McGregor, Jack McMaster Ian Anderson and Bob Nevin tallied for Marlboros. Les Kozac got two for St. Michael's, Dave Keon rounding out the scoring.

INSURANCE FOR AHL

NEW YORK (CP)—The American Hockey League announced Wednesday it has established a $15,000 group life insurance policy for its players, managers, coaches and trainers.

A spokesman said the policy is identical with one carried by the National Hockey League for a number of years. The plan is financed by league all-star and playoff revenues. A player must play six games during the current season to become eligible.

Canadian Boats May Assault World Record

TORONTO (CP) — Two Canadian powerboats may join Donald Campbell's Bluebird in England next May in a three-way assault on world water speed records.

Campbell said he may undertake a fresh attempt on his own record of 225.96 miles an hour in the turbo-jet hydroplane class. The ads would be Lake Coniston where Campbell has made frequent speed trials.

Bill Hodgson of Toronto told a luncheon here Wednesday that he will go to England for a record attempt on Coniston in May O'Keefe, a 306-cubic-inch class powerboat.

Jim G. Thompson of London, Ont., said there is a possibility he will try to better in Miss Supertest II the mark of 184.420 miles an hour he established last Friday off Picton. Thompson has applied for International Powerboat Federation recognition of his performance as a world record but this has not yet been received.

Spokesmen for Slo-Mo-Shun IV, Seattle craft, have disputed Thompson's title claim on the grounds that he raced a kilometre rather than the longer mile over which Slo-Mo-Shun runs the current world mark.

Miss O'Keefe, a 266-cubic-inch world record of 128.425 miles an hour on July 1, 1956. Sid Street of Kansas City, Mo., has bettered this in a 132-mile-an-hour dash in the U.S.

PEAHEAD WILL RETURN

MONTREAL (CP) — General manager Gorman Kennedy of Montreal Alouettes said Wednesday coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker will be back in 1958.

Kennedy's statement was in the nature of a reply to rumors to the effect that Walker, in his sixth season with Montreal's Big Four Football Union club, would be among the missing next season.

Walker is completing the second year of his three-year contract. Als this season will finish in third place, after three successive first-place finishes and as many unsuccessful tracks at the Grey Cup.

At Coniston, England

Bluebird Roars at 239 MPH For New World Speed Record

CONISTON, England (AP) — Britain's Donald Campbell set a world water speed record in his Bluebird II today with an estimated average speed of 239 miles an hour. The record is subject to confirmation.

Campbell had two runs over misty Lake Coniston at an estimated 260 m.p.h. and 218 m.p.h. The record is an average of both.

The Briton broke his own world mark of 225.63 m.p.h.

Campbell's time for the two runs was nine minutes, 27 seconds.

After the runs in his jet-propelled hydroplane, Campbell, finished and exhausted, climbed from his cockpit.

Campbell is the son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, who also once held the world water speed record.

CONDITIONS PERFECT

Conditions on Coniston water were perfect. The heavy mist that had delayed an earlier start had lifted almost entirely. The sun shone brightly from the November sky.

Tension mounted among spectators about the banks as Campbell turned to make his return runs.

Minutes after he sped across the final line came the timekeeper's announcement that his speed was a record. Campbell waited patiently in the boatpond while the officials worked out their figures.

Campbell set his previous world record over the same water in September last year. The 36-year-old speed king returned here last month from the United States where he made several unsuccessful attempts to set a new mark on Lake Canadaigua in New York State.

Old Rivalry Rekindled by Magazine Cut

TORONTO (CP) — A doctored-up cover picture of a national magazine has rekindled a smoldering East-West football rivalry.

The photograph on the November issue of The Reader's Digest Canadian Edition shows end Hal Patterson of Montreal Alouettes apparently intercepting a forward pass intended for an Edmonton Eskimos' player.

The Eskimos' face is partially obscured by his outstretched arms as he reaches for the football. The sweater number is 91, well known as that of Jackie Parker, Edmonton quarterback and halfback.

Hal Pawson, Edmonton Journal sports editor, in a column Oct. 25 said the magazine "perhaps unwittingly" has been drafted into the Eastern "propaganda forces" to try to establish Patterson as Canada's outstanding player ahead of Parker.

He said it was strange that no Edmonton player could recall the play depicted by—the magazine.

However, Bob Haight, Toronto Telegram sports columnist, said Wednesday he was told by Louis Hamel of Reader's Digest that the picture was taken during an Edmonton - Alouettes exhibition game last August. The Edmonton player was Bill Howekamp, who has dropped by Edmonton.

Hamel asked Edmonton what player-number should be substituted.

Says Hesketh:

"The answer came back East. Number 91. Jackie Parker."

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

Thursday, November 7, 1957

The Stars Impel — They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Nothing of a financial nature currently requires your full attention today, for an abundance is definite must now. The day's labors will make it possible for you to get books balanced nicely.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Don't fear to be very friendly and confiding with all those with whom you have any combined business interests; it will bring about a finer system and understanding. Straighten out any misunderstandings quietly and wisely.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — There is a very apparent opportunity to find out how to take the kinks out of your present labors. Then do it quickly. Don't dash off hither and yon. Look within your immediate orbit, for the answers are there. Also, attend meetings.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Don't procrastinate. Tell those you love or pals just what it is you want. Entertain or permit yourself to be entertained, and all will work out graciously and happily, as suits your sensitive nature.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — This is a right day to take those long strides that will insure your life's career, put family relations in better shape, political life in real motion. See that you listen to others. Put brake on own dynamism.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The ideal day is here for you to make right decisions of all sorts and to put your wonderful mind to work immediately. Also dig up data that will be very useful in the future. Local paper, radio, etc., are great sources for information.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Endeavor today to make better plans in regard to matters of government taxes, old-age or security payments, incomes and expenditure of all sorts. Better all affairs related to financial condition.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — At least you can corner any associates with whom you wish to have a better understanding and proceed in friendly fashion, sane goals and hard feelings. Be generous in thought, word and deed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Private worry has you stymied. The panacea for all situations is work. Go at it with vim and vigor, doing those things which you enjoy most. Then the time will literally fly and problem vanishes.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You arise feeling more content than you have in weeks, and it is the right day to see just how your friends and associates feel toward you. Scrutinize your conscience first. Have you been wise and intelligent enough?

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — All those undesirable conditions come out for airing today. Be careful not to let your sensitive nature make you act in usual heart-broken fashion. Steel yourself and let your superior mind win out wherever you are in the right.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This is the day to bring into play all your splendid qualities of mind and spirit in determining accurately what your relative position is with all others. Impress with your courage and vision to progress.

If your child is born today — The child born today is the type who knows his or her own mind and will immediately follow up any ideas that come into it without thought of danger or fear of outcome. Your duty will be to help progeny exercise caution, think out what might be result of impulsive actions, then the chart is fine. Don't scold excessively or insult the child's intelligence.

Finish Hearings On Railway Plan For Rate Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Long hearings involving a proposed $40,000,000-a-year freight rate increase by the railways were concluded Wednesday by the board of transport commissioners.

The board reserved decision on a railway application for permission to put in a general 10-per-cent increase.

"We will not be too long in arriving at a decision," assistant chief commissioner Hugh Wardrope said as the hearings ended. He presided over the case.

Oral argument was concluded Wednesday by CPR counsel John L. O'Brien of Montreal and CNR counsel Hugh O'Donnell of Montreal. Further written argument is to be introduced next week by J.J. Frawley, counsel for the Alberta government.

Alberta is one of eight provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — that have been opposing the rate increase.

MARSH HILL — Miss Presbyterian Church assembly.

Pop was smoking comfortable after dinner, and ma said, Wouldn, did you do what I asked you.

I hope so, pop said. It all depends on what it was and when the request was made, and on the conditions that prevailed at the time, and on possible subsequent events that may or may not have had some bearing on the matter, he said, and ma said, Now Will-

Yes, he said a thousand times, and i repeet it now, you never listen to a thing I say.

My dear, you do me a grate injustice, and in the absence of competent witnesses I hasten to rise in my own defence, pop said. I distinctly remember several remarks you addressed to me within the past 48 hours, which proves I must of listened to them. I'll start with this morning and go backwards. For instance you told me at breakfast that you might as well address a stone wall as talk to me, he said.

And I'll say it again, was said, and pop said, As a matter of fact you did say it again, with variations. Last evening when I came home without something instead of with it, you remarked that if you ever caught me listening while you read the Classified ads you would keel over from the shock. The point is, my dear, both those remarks are indelibly engraved on my memory in spite of your accusation, he said.

Oh hush and nonsense, ma said. Now I cant remember what I was going to scold you for forgetting, she said, and pop said, It will come back to you, my dear.

Which it probably will.

Red Cross Meet Squabbles Over China Question

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Several government delegations, mostly Communist, walked out of an International Red Cross conference today in a quarrel over the seating of a Chinese Nationalist delegation.

Besides the Communist delegations here, the delegates to walk out represented two Arab nations —Egypt and Syria—and Indonesia. Egypt delayed her walkout until some time after the other delegates had left the hall.

The storm was provoked by the conference's approval of an American resolution, by a vote to 44 votes to seat the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa regime as "the Republic of China."

Communist China's delegation walked out and the Indian chairman of the conference joined them in protest against the resolution.

Russia then proposed that in view of the chairman's withdrawal the conference should be wound up.

When the proposal was voted down by 63 to 38, 15 delegations walked out, led by the Russians.

The two Chinese Nationalist delegates were then seated cheek to jaw in the conference hall and seated on the bench just vacated by the Chinese Communists.

WEST WATCHES

Tass said that on the basis of three days of radio reports from Sputnik II it was possible to ascertain its orbit more exactly and to estimate that the second satellite would stay up much longer than Sputnik I. Some U.S. scientists have predicted the first satellite will drop Dec. 11 to a flaming death in the heavier atmosphere closer to the earth.

CODE UNKNOWN

The U.S. Air Force said Wednesday it has been comparing Sputnik II's radio signals but has not been able to identify a code or draw any positive conclusions.

The Air Research and Development Command issued this statement:

"As a matter of routine interest the air force missile development centre at Alamogordo, N.M., has been comparing the signals being transmitted by Sputnik II with the telemetry signals used by air force scientists in upper air research with animals. No code has been identified or broken, and no positive conclusions have been reached in the comparison of the Russian telemetry with our own."

In Alamogordo, the Daily News said today it had learned the signals are not in code, as such, but that it would take a person with a scientific background to interpret them.

French scientist Albert Ducroco speculated Wednesday that the fuel for the rockets that put the satellites in orbit is based on lithium, a metallic element.

He said that when he visited Russia recently, Russian scientists were turning to fuels composed of molecules like boron, lithium and hydrogen which, when made up of single instead of paired atoms, could produce five times more energy than usual fuels.

Australian scientist V. D. Hooper of Melbourne said Russia should now be able to send a rocket to the moon but no one on earth could see the effect unless the rocket exploded a hydrogen bomb when it hit.

He doubted whether Russia could now launch a rocket capable of shooting an object as heavy as a hydrogen bomb to the moon.

Sputnik II was sighted all across North American Wednesday.

Tornadoes Kill 12 In Three Gulf States

Twisters Lash Louisiana, Texas And Mississippi

Over Hundred Hurt, Loss Is Estimated at Million

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Late fall tornadoes lashed their teething fury on three gulf states today with 12 known dead in Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

The storms hit hardest at Alexandria, La., where three persons were killed Thursday night in the 10-block residential section that served as the tornado's target. A couple died at Carencro, La., and two men were killed in a cotton gin in the Higginsbotham community near Crowley, La.

Property damage totalled two dozen Groves and one at Orange. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Parker were found some distance from their house after the twister ripped through Greenwood, Miss.

CLASPED TOGETHER

Their father's arms were clasped together and it appeared Parker was trying to shield his wife when the storm tossed them through the air.

Rescue teams anxiously probed through the debris at Alexandria. One city policeman said the widespread destruction may hold several more bodies "that we don't even know about yet."

Witnesses said the storm skipped down one of the city's main streets, hit every other block before we knew anything about it."

The Texas dead included a 40-year-old Negro expectant mother at Orange. She was crushed when her two-story frame dwelling collapsed.

HEAVY RAIN, WINDS

The storms hit communities throughout south central Louisiana with heavy rain, high winds accompanying them.

Power facilities and communications were disrupted in several communities with Alexandria and Crowley both without lights for part of the night.

Several communities reported scores of persons injured.

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Tornadoes swooping from rainy skies with a blasting roar killed at least three here and heavily damaged this Texas gulf coast industrial city Thursday night.

Rescuers laboring in darkness amid fallen power lines carried the others to hospitals. Police estimated that many more suffered lesser injuries.

KNOW TARGETS

PINECASTLE AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Strategic Command and Weather Bureau say its crews know exactly—or almost exactly—what every potential H-bomb target will look like. That is, they know how it would look as viewed by radar from a bomber eight or nine miles up.

Sarnia Coroner Beaten on Lawn By Masked Men

SARNIA (CP) Amid screams and cries for help two masked men Thursday night dragged Coroner Dr. Douglas Logie, 65, from his home to the lawn and beat him up.

Mrs. Logie said that the doorbell rang while she and her husband were sitting in the living room. Dr. Logie got up, switched on the inside light, opened the door and was pulled out on the lawn by the men who wore nylon stockings over their faces.

"We'll get you for this, you," they said as they proceeded to beat him over the head and face with their fists.

"I screamed for help," said Mrs. Logie, "and yelled and yelled." The two masked men dropped Dr. Logie on the ground and left him there, took to foot and the other by car.

Mrs. Logie said her screams for help were answered by a passing youth, David Archer, 17, of Sarnia who helped the doctor into the house and called police.

Dr. Logie suffered severe contusions to the head, shock and a badly bruised left eye.

Police said they were at a loss to explain why anyone would attack the coroner.

Lloyd Rejects Khruschev's Call for Parley

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd today turned down a suggestion by Nikita Khrushchev for an early summit conference of Communist and Western governments.

He told the House of Commons there is nothing in Russia's deeds to suggest that such a meeting now could accomplish any purpose.

"Summit talks which are a failure do more harm than no talks at all," Lloyd said. He said he does not mean that we believe no summit talks should ever take place.

He called on Russia to stop creating tension in the Middle East and stop using the United Nations purely as a platform for attacking the West.

Lloyd said Soviet Communist party Secretary Khrushchev recently has seemed to imply that Britain has become a second rate power.

"Many others have made that miscalculation before. They require accustomed to being underrated and that does not perturb us at all provided it is a spur to greater efforts."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cloud and rain moved into southwestern Ontario Thursday night. Precipitation will spread across Eastern and central Ontario today. Northwestern Ontario and Manitoba are in much colder air and the edge of this air now is across White River and Timmins - Kapuskasing residence. It is moving southeast and will reach Southern Ontario tonight.

LONDON HEARS THIRD SPUTNIK TO BE LAUNCHED

Will Be Double Size Of Muttnik, Go Higher

LONDON (A P) — Reports reaching London today from reliable sources said Russia soon will send up a third Sputnik — twice as big as Sputnik II and with another live dog aboard.

The reports said Sputnik III will weigh a ton and will be sent even higher into space than the second Soviet moon. The latter was slightly more than 1,000 miles.

The next launching was described as part of a long-range program in which Soviet scientists will probe farther and farther into space, sending live animals and instruments aloft.

Reports circulated in Moscow Thursday night that the Russians may try to parachute back to earth the little dog, Laika, aloft since last Sunday has been spinning around the earth in the second Soviet satellite. Reports indicated an announcement might be imminent.

NO SIGN

Meantime, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution passed without any sign that the Russians had attempted any special new scientific feats to mark the occasion.

Western scientists have been on the alert for what some of them believe might be a new Russian space venture to draw attention to the anniversary of the Red revolution.

There had been some speculation the Russians might try to send a rocket to the moon, on top of their achievement in launching the world's first two earth satellites.

Moscow sources said the launching of a moon rocket was awaiting the anniversary Thursday of the Red revolution.

There had been some speculation the Russians might try to send a rocket to the moon, on top of their achievement in launching the world's first two earth satellites.

Moscow sources said the launching of a moon rocket was awaiting the anniversary Thursday of the Red revolution.

The launching could be expected not in the immediate future. One informant said "We have been told that the launching of such a rocket, but it is not part of our immediate program."

One Isle Disappears Another Emerges

LISBON (Reuters)—The second island which appeared off the coast of Fatal Island in the Azores, following submarine volcanic eruptions, has disappeared but a third island now is emerging at the same spot, the Portuguese news agency reported today.

The first island emerged off the coast of Fatal at the end of September and soon grew to a height of 200 feet with a base of an area of about 5½ square miles. It gradually disappeared. Four days ago the emergence of a second island was reported.

Final Act of Worst Air Tragedy Played in Windowless Toronto Room

Inside are six racks of clothing. Around the walls are cardboard boxes of luggage, cameras, pictures and trinkets—the anonymous personal effects of 79 who died Aug. 11 in Canada's worst air crash.

Two and two-thirds of the families through here already.

Most of the 22 Americans Thursday. The white-haired Dominion second vice-president of the international Association of Machinists, is in charge of the room.

A nurse in the First World War, Mrs. Pearson said "they wanted a woman" to return the effects to relatives of the 75 passengers and six crew who died 11 miles north of Quebec City in the crash of a Maritime Central Airways DC-4.

There were no survivors of the flight chartered by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for veterans and their families home from a holiday in Britain.

Elsewhere's main argument to congressional leaders was to discuss Thursday night in his broadcast speech on measures designed to recover for the U.S. the lead in missiles-era weapons.

He projected two moves bearing on the defense effort — the scientific field. He said he will ask Congress to remove legal barriers to the exchange of appropriate technological information of a scientific committee within NATO "to carry out an effective and Atlantic effort in research."

A similar group could possibly be set up within other alliances, he suggested.

He also said State Secretary Dulles would appoint a science adviser in the state department

Cheese Producers Will Likely Seek Federal Price Supports

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario cheese producers will likely seek federal price supports in cheddar cheese once more, Ontario Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said today. He said the Ontario government will drop at the end of 1957 its financial guarantees for the marketing of surplus cheese.

He also said the Ontario government has approved an increase of $1,000,000 in its existing guarantees for the marketing of the 1957 crop. The province has been guaranteeing financial assistance for the marketing of surplus cheddar cheese since 1951 in co-operation with the federal government.

The cheese producers were meeting here today with representatives of the trade extending to agree on a price for the winter fodder cheese. The present producer price of cheddar cheese is 34 cents a pound, the minimum price at which the provincial financial guarantees became effective.

The cheese producers may seek a floor-price support from Ottawa under the federal agricultural products price support act which now supports butter, hogs, milk and turkeys.

Mr. Goodfellow said he advised tees.

Hungarian Revolt Forgotten, Red Embassy's Party Is Gay

OTTAWA (CP)—The Russians were tickled pink.

They undoubtedly had scored Thursday night one of the great social successes of the season. The Red envoy of the Hungarian revolt was gone.

The austere limestone Russian Embassy was alive with laughter and an assortment of pretty gowns, jewels and ermine. The three reception halls were jammed with diplomats from both East and West—along with top representatives of the Canadian government—all there to help the Russians celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Communist revolution.

The success of the Soviet in launching the two earth-girdling Sputniks was the main theme of conversation.

So heavy was the line of guests that Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin stood for more than two hours, shaking hands with arrivals. At that time he was relieved and then got back in the line to wish the guests farewell.

"Why not send a dog to the moon?" asked a reporter with a smile.

"Give us time," replied Mr. Chuvahin with good cheer. "You

U.S. Allies Use to Accept Ike's Fact-Sharing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's call for a NATO scientific committee to speed the sharing of knowledge among allied nations seemed assured today of enthusiastic acceptance by European allies.

The test of Eisenhower's leadership on this issue will come in persuading Congress to change him authority to share atomic information.

Eisenhower's main argument to congressional leaders was to discuss Thursday night in his broadcast speech on measures designed to recover for the U.S. the lead in missiles-era weapons.

He projected two moves bearing on the defense effort — the scientific field. He said he will ask Congress to remove legal barriers to the exchange of appropriate technological information of a scientific committee within NATO "to carry out an effective and Atlantic effort in research."

A similar group could possibly be set up within other alliances, he suggested.

He also said State Secretary Dulles would appoint a science adviser in the state department

HOLDING POWER TO SEND RCAF INTO COMBAT

Emphatic Statement Made by Pearkes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government holds the power to decide on sending RCAF squadrons into combat against any aerial attack on this country.

Defence Minister Pearkes made that statement emphatically in the Commons Thursday as opposition members questioned for the third successive day, the adequacy and role of the new joint Canada-United States Air Defence Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The commander at Colorado Springs is Canadian Earle Partridge. His deputy is RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon.

Mr. Pearkes repeatedly in essence what he said Tuesday and Wednesday, said the Canadian government will be consulted before the joint headquarters sends all of the nine RCAF home-defence squadrons into action in event of attack.

RESTS WITH CANADA

"I emphasize the fact that the decision to go to war must rest with the government of this country and not with any general—a Canadian or any other nationality," he said.

Gen. Partridge does not command any RCAF squadrons, Mr. Pearkes said. The joint headquarters was set up to plan and prepare for what would be done if an attack occurred. Operational plans would have to be approved by the Canadian government after they were drawn up.

Many of the opposition queries about Gen. Partridge's authority apparently stemmed from Mr. Pearkes' statement last August.

Anti-Reds Picket Russian Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Police twice turned back an unruly mob of anti-Russian pickets Thursday night as delegates and bandleaders outside the Soviet United Nations reception headquarters.

Hundreds showed up at the headquarters where a reception was being held in honor of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Police turned back a line of march to 300 and kept the rest across the street.

Some of the pickets wore what they termed uniforms of labor union members. They carried anti-Russian placards.

Canadian Vets in Slaughter Study Say Animals Feel Pain Like Humans

TORONTO (CP)—Do animals feel pain to the extent that people do?

Probably, say two Canadian veterinarians in a report that became available today.

However, humans, animals don't appear to suffer emotional stress as a result of injury, the report added.

The findings are those of Dr. A. C. Tanner and Dr. Ronald Gwaikin who are part way through a study of slaughtering methods for a joint committee of the packing industry and the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The committee, in releasing the progress report on research into humane slaughtering in North America and Europe, said it hopes to see humane slaughter practices written into the law and adopted throughout the meat-packing industry. Copies of the report were sent to Justice Minister Fulton and Agriculture Minister Harkness.

Drs. Gwaikin and Tanner, in a list of preliminary observations, said they felt "there is need for improvement in the handling of animals prior to slaughter, especially in connection with the approaches to the killing floor. In some Canadian plants ramps are too steep, or slippery due mainly to weather, causing them at times to be dangerous. Conditions such as these can cause misery to animals during the pre-slaughter period."

They said they believed the mechanical devices gaining increasing acceptance in Canadian packing plants were the answer to cattle stunning.

The report said, "Slaughter practices with cattle and calves are constantly being improved in

President Of MIT Gets Job To Push Race Into Space

Reds Lead in Some Fields But U.S. Position Strong

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says Russia likely leads the United States in some areas of missile development. And he has appointed a scientist expositor to the job of pushing the U.S. ahead in this age of outer space weapons.

The president said Thursday night he is giving that big job to Dr. James R. Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At the same time he said the defence department is strengthening the hand of its own missiles co-ordinator, William M. Holaday.

In a television and radio address, Eisenhower said the Russians not only are likely ahead in some missile and special weapons areas, but "are obviously ahead of us in satellite development."

"We frankly recognize that the Russians are pushing up space-tacked, damage is presently This is because no defensive system today can possibly be outfought in preventing all breakthroughs of planes and weapons."

STRENGTH GREATER

But on the reassuring side the president said this:

"As of today the over-all military strength of the free world is distinctly greater than that of the Communist countries."

He went on to recount a new opportunity in which "we intend to stay ahead;" a family of different kinds of missiles now in operation or development; and such other U.S. strong points as atomic submarines, powerful airfleets, aircraft carriers and atomic depth bombs.

Eisenhower announced his appointment of the 53-year-old Killian in the first of a series of "china up" speeches designed to bolster confidence at home and abroad in the U.S. scientific development programs and defence strength.

Eisenhower told his TV-radio audience he was acting on conditions "the rough with the smooth." He said he was empowering Killian, "with the full force of government service, to prevent needless delays, to guard against any interservice rivalry, and to give high priority to both programs which the president merely hinted at.

TOP PRIORITY

Eisenhower spoke in that connection of "certain high priority, top secret projects" and for security reasons, I know you will not expect me to enumerate."

At Cambridge, Mass., Killian said he intends to move as rapidly as possible "to marshal the best scientific and engineering judgment and creative talent in the United States that can be made available to the president for the formulation of policy and decisions involves science and technology."

Eisenhower, in announcing selection of Killian, left it far from clear whether the new man will

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House reported "a very gratifying response from over the country" today to President Eisenhower's speech Thursday night on plans to step up U.S. science-missiles programs.

News dispatches from abroad reflected a good reception by officials of Allied governments, particularly in regard to Eisenhower's call for more co-operation in Western research.

Eisenhower had Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.) to the White House as a breakfast guest, and Bridges told reporters later that they had talked about the missiles-satellite program.

Bridges estimated a speeded-up program will cost an extra $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000 a year, and said that Congress will appropriate whatever is necessary.

GETS FULL AUTHORITY

The senator quoted Eisenhower as saying that Dr. James R. Killian will have "full power and authority" to get the job done.

Similarly, Mrs. Anne Wheat, acting White House press secretary, said that Killian will have comprehensive authority in his field.

She made no effort, however, to characterize Killian as a czar, a co-ordinator, an expediter, Nixon man or anything else.

Killian is president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the man Eisenhower announced Thursday night will be his special assistant for science and technology, in charge of mobilizing scientific brains and knowledge in the outer space age.

SPECIAL NEXT WEEK

Mrs. Wheat said Killian probably will take over his new job next month. She said it was thought there would be at that time or a more extensive explanation of his role and responsibilities.

Rubber-Stamped Summonses Are Declared Legal

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice B. W. Tesleaven of the Supreme Court of Ontario ruled Thursday that rubber-stamped traffic summonses are legal.

His decision meant that Grant L. Fox of Toronto must stand trial for careless driving.

Fox received a rubber-stamped summons last August. He did not appear in but lawyer Gordon Phillips described the rubber-stamping as "a miscarriage of justice."

He told the magistrate the case should be dismissed unless the issuing justice of the peace swore in court he personally stamped the summons. However, the magistrate ruled the stamping could be delegated and issued a bench warrant for Fox's arrest.

At the appeal Thursday Mr. Justice Tesleaven agreed with Crown counsel Robert Pepper's argument that issuing summonses is an administrative, not a judicial function, and can be delegated.

Russia and West On Second Look Like Indian Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Hopes rose today for a break in the disarmament deadlock. Russia and the West were reported to have taken a second—and more favorable—look at India's compromise plan aimed at reviving stalled talks.

Both sides conferred with Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon wants to almost double the size of the disarmament commission to try to get Russia to drop her threat to boycott the body.

Both Russia and the West brushed off India's plan two days ago.

Informed sources said the Western powers, bolstered by UN endorsement Wednesday of their call for new disarmament talks, feel the Indian proposal might serve as a test of whether Russia really wants to negotiate.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers were 50 cents to $1 higher this week than last, reports the Ontario public stockyards. Good cows were 25 cents higher and the medium and lower grades 50 cents higher. Bulls were up 25 cents. Veal calves, sheep and lambs sold at steady prices. Replacement cattle were strong. Hogs closed $1.25 lower.

Calf and cow steers were generally steady early in the week, but due to the extreme shortage of top quality cattle, a stronger tone was noticeable at the closing sessions.

Hogs opened steady for Grade A but closed $1.25 lower. Sows were steady.

Cattle receipts were 830 head less than last week and 2,650 less than the same week in 1956. Western Canada receipts were the same as last week at 295 head. Stock calves totalled 414, an increase of 265 head. There were no shipments to Eastern Canada but six carloads were exported to the United States.

Lighter receipts and a keen demand for all slaughter cattle resulted in higher prices in most classes, and a good cleanup by the close of trading.

PRICES

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $18-18.50 with cuts at $18.75; good $17-18; medium $15-16; common $12.50-14.50. A few choice heifers were $17; good $14.50-15.50; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice stable-fed yearlings $20.50-21; with some at $22; good $19-20.50; cows $11.50-12; medium $11-11.50; common $10-11; canners and cutters $8-10; good heavy bologna bulls $13-14.25; common and medium lights $10-13.

Replacement cattle: Good $17-18; common and medium $12.50-17; good stock calves $18-20.

Calves: Good and choice vealers $23-27.50; with a few at $28; medium $17-23; common $12-17; boners $10-12; fat heavy $15-18.

Hogs: Grade A $26; sows $20; with a few lights at $22; stags $15 a hundredweight; feeders and weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handy weight lambs $20.50-21, depending on quality and weighing conditions; medium and heavy downwards to $17; common $12-15; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; feeders mostly $17-18; good light sheep $7-8 with yearlings up to $10; common and fat $4-6.

Imperial Oil Cuts Gas Price

TORONTO (CP) — Imperial Oil Limited today announced a reduction of one cent a gallon in the wholesale price of gasoline in the Maritimes, Quebec and part of Ontario and a half-cent reduction in the rest of Canada.

Wholesale price of premium grades of gasoline remain unchanged.

The portion of Ontario included in the one-cent reduction includes the Ottawa Valley and the St. Lawrence River region both supplied from Imperial refineries in Montreal. In the rest of Ontario the reduction is half a cent a gallon.

A spokesman for Imperial said the reductions were to meet competitive conditions in the industry. He said the greater drop in the east was partly because Atlantic tanker rates have been low for some time.

In the eastern part of the country the wholesale reductions also apply to Acto, a gasoline used largely in farm tractors, fish boats and woods equipment.

Whether the price reduction is passed on to the motorists depends upon dealer conditions in each region, the spokesman said.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 29-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today, Thursday's noon rate was 96 3-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.69, down ¼.

Klansman Given Twenty Years For Mutilation

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — A second Ku Klux Klansman Thursday was sentenced to 20 years in prison for mutilating a Negro handyman. The judge who fixed the maximum penalty said it was not enough.

The verdict was returned against Bart A. Floyd, 31, at the end of a four-day trial. A lawyer for Floyd gave notice of appeal and bond was set at $20,000.

Floyd, who was named as the Klansman who actually castrated Judge Edward Aaron, 34, at a KKK meeting place, allegedly performed the act to prove his worthiness for a Klan promotion.

Judge Alta L. King, in passing sentence, said the deed was the "most cowardly, atrocious and diabolical crime ever to come to my attention."

"The maximum sentence is the only sentence I could give under the testimony in this case and that is not nearly commensurate with the crime," he added.

Joe Pritchett, 31-year-old conductitcher, was convicted of mayhem last week in the case and sentenced to the maximum, 20 years.

Four other white men face trial in the kidnapping and castration of the Negro.

1st Contingent Soldier Will Be Recognized

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Thursday night gave long - delayed recognition to the veterans of Salisbury Plains in England, where Canada's first overseas contingent in the First World War limited during the winter of 1914-15 in cold, wet and privation.

Men of the contingent who did not later get to France, and who now are in need, will be major beneficiaries of one section of a bill passed extending the War Veterans Allowances Act.

For the first time, needy veterans of the First World War who served at least a year in England without reaching the Continent will be eligible for allowance benefits. The allowance goes only to veterans who served in a theatre of war. England in 1914-18 was not a war theatre as it was in the Second World War.

Veterans Minister Brooks said that many of the first contingent were kept in England, against their will, to train soldiers who were not from Canada later. He said they suffered during the [illegible] and [illegible] continue quietly feed- [illegible] shortly after the injury has inflicted."

Police Blotter

Forced entry to the Foy and Irwin Bottling plant on Station Street was made some time Thursday evening it was reported today by city police. An office window was forced to gain entrance. It was not immediately determined if anything was missing.

A small child, presumably a pupil of St. Michael's Academy, escaped injury yesterday afternoon when he ran into the side of a car passing the school. The lad jumped up and ran away before the driver could ascertain his name. The driver later reported the matter to the police station.

The attempted theft of a truck from the Truck and Farm premises on South Church Street was reported. When police arrived on the scene they found the truck backed against a fence with the lights and ignition still on.

And city firemen had a run to Front Street yesterday afternoon after an awning at the Percival Store was reported afire. Apparently a passerby had tossed a cigaret away and it landed on the awning. Firemen reported a hole burned in the awning.

THE MOMENT OF TRUTH

"This is no hour for panic; it is, though what Spaniards call the 'moment of truth,' an hour for sombre reflection."

With that sentence the Ottawa Journal concludes a lengthy editorial entitled: "Those Incredible Russians: Have We an Answer to Them?"

The Journal's editorial deals with Russia's satellites and their significance - - in the existing cold war and in any hot war that may develop.

But, if the "moment of truth" is to provide us with the largest possible dividend, some reflections should concern themselves with something more basic than Russia's achievements in one comparatively small segment of scientific endeavor.

We need to compare not merely our scientific achievements but our whole way of life.

In any adequate comparison of this scope, almost every statement needs to be carefully qualified if it is to approach the standard of truth. Instead of being the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

But any such a study would not only be beyond the physical capacity of the writer. mental capacity of the writer.

If the comparison is to be made at all, it can only be made by the use of bald statements which, at best, are efforts to approximate the truth.

Let us attempt these approximations.

First let us grant that few men deliberately choose evil - - that even when they use evil methods they generally first resort to them for the sake of aims which they believe noble.

Both the followers of Karl Marx and the believers in free enterprise originally aimed at very similar targets, the greatest good of the greatest number.

There can be little reasonable doubt that the type of society which exists in Russia today bears little resemblance to that which Marx envisioned. The Communist party has failed to produce a society where each man contributes according to his ability and receives according to his needs. Despite some successes in eradicating racial prejudices, it has enhanced, rather than relieved, oppression.

It was the capitalist contention that complete freedom of enterprise would produce the greatest good for the greatest number because the competition of the market place would produce the greatest possible amount of goods at the lowest possible price. The system produced, but at certain times it failed to distribute. Governments intervened. There is scarcely anybody in the west today who has not, at some time or another, advocated government interference with free enterprise. The question is not whether governments shall intervene, but how much, and in whose interests.

Both the capitalist and Communist theories have thus proven faulty and have, in fact, both been abandoned. Neither Communist nor capitalist practises what he originally preached - - the Communist turns to the capitalist tool of incentive pay and the capitalist to the Communist tool of state intervention in order to make faulty systems work better.

But, if both Communist and capitalist theories broke down in their main functions, this does not mean that all the ancillary theories regarding their operation were faulty.

The capitalist system has succeeded in one enormously important function - - it has preserved for the individual a wide freedom of choice, not, perhaps, as great a freedom as some would like to have us think but still immeasurably wider than that provided citizens of any Communist state.

We suggest that the Communist theory may also have passed the test in one important field. The Ottawa Journal says that: "The stark, dismal truth is for the moment the truth - - is that the scientists of the West are not equal to the scientists of Russia." The Hamilton Spectator comments: "It is freely admitted that their (the Russians') educational system is the better designed to produce scientists." This may be no accident, but inherent in the system. Firstly, of course, the Russians fill their universities with students with brains, not those whose parents have enough money to meet the bill for their education. But even if this advantage were eliminated, by additional government intervention with the workings of our economic system, there would remain another obstacle. This would be assuring that, after graduation, the best brains worked in the fields which would produce most profit for the community, rather than for themselves. This could only be accomplished by further government intervention, either through increased taxes to subsidize the payment of higher salaries to research workers or through limiting the freedom of choice which our system has preserved for the individual. It is unthinkable that the limitation of this freedom should be applied to only one class, scientists.

There is, of course, another solution - - to let those who live under a Communist system enjoy the main benefits of it, which in their words would probably be called the ability to organize for production for use rather than for profit - - while we enjoy the main benefits of our system - - freedom of choice.

This would not be an unacceptable decision were it not for the fact that there is no assurance such a course would not result in our having the Communist system imposed on us against our will.

The correct solution? Who knows? The "moment of truth" provides no crystal ball.

Those Old Rail Fences

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

The old rail fence, which for many years has been a familiar landmark throughout Southern Ontario, is almost non-existent now. In many communities it is a thing of the past.

The rail fence was a real friend to the pioneer of Old Ontario. It was practically the only fence he knew anything about. It was cow-proof, pig-proof and sheep-proof. It was well suited to any type of farm animal to crawl under it or through it unless it was very small.

As a rule the first clearings of the earliest settlers were surrounded by a sort of fence made by piling up logs and brush accordingly as the land was cleared. This, however, was only makeshift and was usually burned when the settlers had time to erect a permanent rail fence.

The first permanent fence was usually built around the outside of the farm and then the fields were fenced as they were cleared. As great quantities of timber were used in the splitting of the rails the erection of the rail fences assisted the pioneers in getting rid of a vast amount of timber, which they otherwise would have had to burn. In many instances the timber was actually a source of revenue. In estimates, said Ranger Mayhead, that city's share of the loss inflicted last June 27 by the Kenora fire, which killed scare Audrey, which killed ion here.

Throw Away Vitamin C

Windsor Star

People, especially on this continent, are increasingly vitamin conscious. They have learned how important these mysterious elements are to a healthy life. Yet, curiously, most aren't half as smart about it as their grandmothers. They throw down the drain their potato water.

Mrs. Thelma Sewell, nutritionist of the New Brunswick Department of Health and Social Services, says housewives throw away more vitamin C than the country imports in citrus fruits. She alluded specifically to the vitamin-rich water in which potatoes have been boiled, but it probably also applies to the liquid in which certain other vegetables are boiled.

Our grandmothers used two methods of boiling, seldom used by housewives today. One was potato water, the other buttermilk. They usually would wait until after churning to get the fresh buttermilk, to bake biscuits or other pastry. And potato water was also for gravies or soup purposes.

Another theory was (and scientific minds may know whether it has basis in fact) that much was lost by peeling potatoes and then boiling them. It was believed potatoes should be boiled in their jackets to retain the maximum of nourishment.

Can Gamble By Television

St. Thomas Times-Journal

It is becoming easier and easier to get rid of surplus cash and for those who cannot afford to part with. Something new in quick spending comes in a report from Havana, where a Toronto hotelman is going to revolutionize Cuba's legal gambling with closed circuit television. Harry Gentry, one of the owners of the Queen City's Prince George Hotel, and president of the Cuban Hotel Owners Riviera Hotel, which opened on Dec. 10, is revealed plans for the world's first closed-circuit gambling casino in his new hotel.

This is how the new system will work: Guests will be able to play roulette wheels in their rooms while watching the action on television screens. Cameras will be focused on the games right in the hotel casino.

However, observation from this angle is that a whole lot of the thrill of winning and the horror of losing will be missed by the bettors. Of course, the timid type and those who are interested in big crowds may go for the new idea. It should be interesting to check on the results of this venture by the end of the year.

WHAT I WANT

I do not care for hoarded gold,
Nor do I crave a hero's name,
Nor do I wish to be enrolled
As one acquiring sudden fame.
I only wish that I might hold
A ticket to the football game.

do not care for vast estate,
For landed wealth That's not my aim.
I would not be accounted great
Or hear the public's loud acclaim.
I simply want to have, I state,
A ticket for the football game.

And that is why I stand in line;
Yes, that is why I early came
And shiver like a dying vine,
With goose-flesh up and down my frame,
With chills beleaguering my spine,
I want to see that football game.

Green Light At Barber's

St. Thomas Times-Journal

If you happen to visit the city of Shrewsbury this teeming England in a car, don't let a red, green or amber light outside P.W. Abbott's barber shop bother you. A red light is hanging over the door it means that you will have to wait. A green one that there are no cars waiting. An amber light means that there will be a short wait, and a green one that there is no waiting at all.

Mr. Abbott seems to have got something there. Maybe the idea could be applied to other lines of service.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HABIT

We are constructed and live in a caged mass of habits. We form the habit of eating certain things, doing the same things, day after day, and then wishing for the fact that we keep repeating ourselves. We are creatures of habit, some good and some bad.

One of the greatest books ever written is that by William James, the famous psychologist, called "Habit." I have read it time and again. It is one of the most inspiring essays ever put into English. He said that all we should do something each day that we would rather not do, just as a matter of discipline.

Said James: "Could the young but realize how soon they will become mere walking bundles of habits, they would give more heed to their conduct while in the plastic state." And again he said: "Let no youth have any scruples about the upshot of his education, whatever the line of it may be. If he keep faithfully busy each hour of the working day, he may safely leave the final result to itself."

James wrote many other wise statements. He said that, breaking a bad habit it should be replaced with a good habit — and that the replacement should be made, and no tapering off — but make the break all at once, habit wishing to be broken. It takes a will — and a desire to end the bad habit, but it can be done, as thousands have demonstrated.

Good habits are what make us the most useful and the most happy. It is amazing how good habits are recognized by this mind and body of ours. They are so essential to our happy way of life. They pay the most in satisfaction and the rounding out of a good life. The habit of politeness, kindness, and patience under difficulties, should be the objective of us all.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Is That Thyroid Extract Necessary?

The thyroid gland weighs about one ounce, less in males, more in females. In women it becomes slightly enlarged during menstruation and pregnancy. It is in the front of the neck just behind the upper end of the breast bone and in front of the larynx (voice box) and trachea (windpipe). When the gland is enlarged enough to cause a noticeable swelling, that condition is called goitre. The swelling is at the front, not on the sides of the neck as is the swelling from enlarged lymph nodes, "kernels" or "glands."

Simple goitre was formerly prevalent in school children in the "goitre belt" that stretches across North America from Seattle to Halifax, north of Ontario and south of Winnipeg, and particularly in the Great Lakes basin. This simple goitre can be prevented if a suitable iodine ration is taken in one form or another. Table salt is not medicinal but nutrition.

We can ask for such modern developments as the automobile, food preservation, universal education, the radio, aeroplanes and the general use of iodized salt. Instead of simply advising not to mention Doctor Brady's iodin ration if you'll excuse my French, we would still have goitre endemic in the Great Lakes basin. Not only would the enlargement of the thyroid due to lack of iodine in the water, and locally grown food, not be the serious kind, variously called exophthalmic goitre (bulging eyeball) or toxic goiter in which there is little or no noticeable swelling or enlargement of the gland but marked manifestations of excessive thyroid activity (hyperthrodidism) such as rapid heart beat, excessive sweating, fine tremor of fingers, loss of weight, weakness and exhaustion from slight effort, nervousness and apprehension.

The number of operations for removal of the thyroid or part of it (thyroidectomy) was greater per thousand population in the Great Lakes basin before introduction of iodized salt and other prophylactic measures than it is today.

Yet there are fatheads practising medicine and administering public health who still harbor a vague suspicion that it is "dangerous" to use iodized salt and/or other prophylactics and their half-baked utterances are responsible for much of the apathy of the public in regard to the every-day nutritional deficiency of millions of persons in the goitre belt, children as well as mature and elderly adults.

What I don't know about the thyroid gland, hypothyroidism (functional deficiency) and hyperthyroidism (overactivity) would fill many books. So if any real doctor asks how ignorant I am, I'll feel flattered immediately.

Much before I go I must say this: From all I have been able to learn about the subject there is in my opinion little if any difference between thyroid extract and iodine in relation to thyroid function.

As far as health is concerned, no physician, no nutrition authority can question this fact. Every man, woman and child in North America needs a suitable daily ration of iodine to maintain health. Especially to prevent goitre and the physical ills of excessive thyroid activity (hyperthrodidism) such as its quickening relation to the other elements of life."

Other elements of life. All we have to do is look around at our families and friends, at the neighbors, at all the people we see, the thousands every day of our lives on buses, streets, shops, to realize that the study and art of our time, as manifest in novels, dramas, movies, is ignoring the fact of life. Not the facts, but the fact: which is, that nearly everybody we know, know about or can see in our daily lives, is obviously led on, as Van dyke says, by love, family, friends, homes, dogs, the other elements of life. What are all these myriads of us doing so industriously, so urgently? Is it hate that has us on the jump? Or disillusionment, or what? I am too prejudiced to form an opinion, but here it is anyway: in ninety-nine percent of us, it is love leading us or — love of wife, of children, family, friends, homes, dogs, books, trees, dreams: the other elements of life.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What baffles me about the modern bestseller novels, best sold paperbacks, motion pictures and television is that it is so dated — dramas, which naturally have to be more circumspect, in their treatment of love, and after brief encounters as I have had with some of these offerings, I come away with the uncomfortable feeling that I have stepped in something nasty and now must scrape my shoe.

It was while leafing through an old book, published in 1899 by Fisherman's Luck," by the late Rev. Henry Jones, that I came upon a brief passage that suddenly blew away the bafflement.

"The truth is," wrote the reverent doctor, "that love, considered merely as the reference of one person for another of the opposite sex, is not the greatest thing in the world. It becomes great only when it leads on, as it often does, to heroism, self-sacrifice and nobility. Its chief value for art, the interpreter, lies not in itself, but in its ministering to the other elements of life."

HAVE A PLAN

People who really get somewhere in life are people who have a plan for their lives and follow it. The person who is battered from pillar to post, who has no real objective, who does not know what he wants and what he is heading for, who is aimless and overwhelmed when the troops sent against him. This was the thing that Jesus was combating when he climbed upon. We found ourselves involved in serious situations, and we were not prepared for what was coming is an essential part of wholesome spiritual life.

We are never too old to stop and ask ourselves whether or not we are drifting and to stop and ask ourselves that question. We may be amazed to find that we are — and have been for a long time — doing that very thing. Our first job was reading the situation clear-sighted upon. We found ourselves involved in serious situations, and we were not prepared for what was coming is an essential part of wholesome spiritual life.

Briefs From House

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees says press reports that his department is prepared to keep open St. Lawrence ship-ping lanes below Quebec City in winter "are incorrect in es-sence." He was replying Thurs-day in the Commons to Hon. Chevrier (L — Montreal Lafontaine) and Lomer Brisson (L — Pontneuf).

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal sena-tors, with a big majority in the upper chamber, have majorities in each of the Senate's 16 stand-ing committees. A Progressive Conservative is chairman of only two of the committees — Senator Walter Aseltine, Saskatchewan, on the internal economy committee. The Conservatives, with only 21 of the Senate's 102 seats, are spread thinly among the commit-tees.

OTTAWA (CP)—E. Blake Huff-man, Liberal member for Kent, Ont., Thursday suggested in the Commons that the government es-tablish price supports for sugar beets at $14 a ton.

Parliamentary assistant to Agri-culture Minister Harkness, he said that when a decision is reached it will be announced.

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Min-ister Fleming said Thursday ap-pointment of a royal commission to investigate Canada's monetary policy "is under consideration and study at all times." He also told a Commons questioner that the tight-money policy, which re-stricts credit, is under study at all times.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Min-ister Diefenbaker said Thursday the government has no intention whatsoever of reducing defence research expenditures or grants to universities for defence re-search. He was replying in the Commons to Claude Ellis (CCF — Regina) who cited newspaper reports to the effect such re-ductions are planned by the gov-ernment.

OTTAWA (CP)—Royal assent was given Thursday to govern-ment bills to provide cash ad-vances on farm-stored Prairie grain and to boost federal old age pensions to $55 a month from $46. The government has said the pension increases will show in cheques received by recipients at the end of this month. Start of the cash advances program is to be fixed by government proclamation.

OTTAWA (CP) — Increasing provincial pressure for wider cov-erage by the federal govern-ment's proposed national hospital insurance scheme indicates that it will be—officially or otherwise —a main topic of interest at the federal - provincial conference here later this month. Proposals for reconsideration approved at a Toronto meeting of provincial health officials in September to-include coverage for mental and TB patients under the proposed scheme and higher federal con-tributions toward hospital con-struction.

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General William Hamilton an-nounced Thursday that Canada, the United States and Britain this month will launch a joint long-term research program to improve machinery and equip-ment for handling mail. He told the Commons the project will start in Washington Tuesday with meetings lasting two weeks.

Girls Missing

KENORA (CP)—A search was under way Thursday in North-western Ontario for two small Indian girls, missing since Tues-day from their home at Macken-zie Portage Road, about four miles west of Kenora.

The girls were identified as Grace Sinclair, 14, and her seven-year-old sister, Joan.

Provincial police, who are con-ducting the search, said the girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sin-clair, left the youngsters at home Tuesday while they went out to check their traplines. When they returned home, there was no sign of the girls.

TORNADOES

Smaller out-of-season twisters dipped during the night at Alex-andria and scattered other points in Louisiana. Thirty persons were injured at Alexandria.

One tornado laid waste the Riverside district, wartime housing project near the Sabine River on the east side of Orange, Tex., where it apparently a sec-and funnel knifed into Grover, La., about 25 miles southwest, within a few minutes. There also was limited damage at Nome, China and Port Arthur.

SOON OVER

"There was just a single ex-plosion—whoomp, just like that—and then it was all over just in a matter of seconds," said Or-leans Police Chief Raymond San-ders, who was at the home of a daughter 100 yards from where the twister struck.

"The lights went out, and then came this explosion. I went out-side and it was rough. I don't know whether I would call it panic or not, but it was pretty bad with 4,000 to 5,000 people all trying to get out of their houses at the same time."

Authorities, making their first hasty estimates, said damage here may match this city's $1,-000,000 loss inflicted last June 27 by hurricane Audrey, which killed one person here.

The twister ripped off and walls collapsed in about 75 two-and three-bedroom apartment houses in the Riverside section.

be what amounts to war in the missile field. The president's lan-guage seemed to indicate Killian won't have that much authority.

Eisenhower talked of Killian's job after relating some of the U.S. progress in the missile field and after saying the country's na-tional security posture at present is one of great strength.

HAS HAD FOR YEARS

"Our nation has today, and has had for some years, enough power in its strategic retaliatory forces to bring near annihilation to the war-making capabilities of any country."

In speaking of U.S. progress in missile development, Eisenhower called his TV audience's atten-tion to a missile nose cone nearly three feet high at the side of his desk.

"One difficult obstacle on the way to producing a useful long-range weapon is that of bringing a missile back from outer space without its bursting up like a me-teor, because of friction with the earth's atmosphere," Eisenhower said.

"Our scientists and engineers have solved that problem. This object here in my office is an experimental missile — a nose cone. It has been hundreds of miles to outer space and back. Here it is, completely unharmed —intact."

"They suffer fear, even as we do, but their greatest terrors or-ten arise from a piece of paper blowing in the wind, a rabbit jumping from a clump of grass or a sudden noise.

"They do not appear to be up-set by the killing of other an-imals in their presence if this is done quietly. . . There is nothing to suggest that these animals have any knowledge that they will be killed.

"Indeed there is nothing that would suggest that they know what death is. . . .

"Animals with fearful wounds sometimes continue quietly feed-ing shortly after the injury has been inflicted."

when the joint headquarters was set up, that the pooled control was to enable "instant action to be taken within seconds" of an emergency.

Highly-placed informants said Thursday there has been no change in plans as announced Aug. 1 by Mr. Pearkes.

They asserted that the DEW (distant early warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic will provide sufficient warning of an attack to give time for consulta-tion between Colorado Springs and Ottawa.

ON CONSTANT CALL

They added that if the world situation deteriorated, the cab-inet, or most of its members, would be on constant call in Ot-tawa. In case of a surprise at-tack, there was always a prime minister on duty in the capital—Prime Minister Diefenbaker or else an acting prime minister—who could make the decisions on his own.

It is believed that the DEW line will provide some 2½ hours' warning of an air assault on North America across the polar regions.

Informants said there is no great concern about a possible attack by a single bomber. Nearly every day the Air De-fence Command identified un-known single aircraft. In a mas-sive bomber attack, the American and Canadian air forces would be put immediately on full alert and some interceptors could even be put in the air awaiting further orders.

They said consultation between Colorado Springs and Ottawa might not take more than a few minutes by direct telephone. With all arrangements worked out in advance, Ottawa's approval would touch off instant defence action.

ASKS RE BODIES

As each relative passes through the room, Mrs. Pearson asks "What would you like done with the bodies?" They are buried in a farmer's field near Issoudun.

"Only one man has said 'Leave them there.' He identified his wife's engagement ring and a bonnet from his 15-month-old child.

"One woman said: 'At first I thought just leave them where they are. But I dream about my two daughters in that swamp and I want them near me.'"

A Hamilton detective inter-rupted Mrs. Pearson. He identi-fied a lighter he gave to his father, Ernest Smedley, a year ago. The detective's sister picked out her mother's jewelled balleri-na pin.

"Sometimes they break down," Mrs. Pearson said. "It's that and the air in there—I'm getting al-lergic to it."

Sorting out the clothing, Mrs. Pearson found herself putting aside garments and rings she knew to belong to lifelong friends in the legion.

"I won't be sorry when it's all over."

Madden, pastor of the church united in a double-ring ceremony, Iris Mae Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Lucas, of Actinolite, Ontario, to Leo Joseph Provost, Marmora, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Provost.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Robert Sanderson.

The bride was attractively attired in a two-piece ensemble of light beige wool in brown flecck, with autumn brown accessories and brown feather hat. She wore a corsage of yellow roses, mingled with fern.

Her attendant was Miss Helen Holgate, of Eldorado, Ontario, who chose a pale blue wool two-piece ensemble with white fleck, and wore a navy hat and gloves and corsage of pink roses and fern.

Mr. Lee Johnson, of Eldorado, performed the duties of groomsman.

A reception followed, where the bride's table was daintily appointed in linen damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. Tall, pink candles in silver holders added a nuptial note.

The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of slate blue acetate and viscose fabric, navy accessories and corsage of pink roses and white 'mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue lace over taffeta, with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white 'mums.

Following the reception the young couple left for Ottawa and Hull, Quebec, the bride travelling in her wedding ensemble. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Provost will reside in Marmora.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a presentation given by girls of the Madoc branch of the Bell Telephone Co., where she was employed, also at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Floyd Lucas, of Actinolite, sister-in-law of the bride.

Beulah United Church Marks Seventy-Fifth Anniversary

IVANHOE — Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, observed its 75th anniversary on Sunday, with large congregations, both morning and evening.

Two baskets of lovely white and gold chrysanthemums were placed in the church by the church board, dedicated to the memory of members of other days, who have passed on to this generation, the tradition and heritage of Christian faith in this community.

The services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Harold Stobbard, who welcomed the congregation. The Rev. Harry Mellow, B.A., of Northminster United Church, Oshawa, past president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and a former pastor of Beulah United, was guest minister.

Mr. Mellow delivered timely and thought-provoking sermons, in the morning the subject of his discourse was "Church of God."

"The church is people. But it is people with an inner urge; that urge for being better, for belonging, for partnering with God. It is in reality 'the Word' seeking to be made flesh. The church is God-inspiring, not only the great leaders and prophets of old but also the John Does of every-day life.

"The task of the church is to provide a fellowship both horizontal with men and vertical with God. It is to stand in bold resistance against the tides of evil; it is to proclaim the good news in all the world."

The evening subject was "The Creatures of Little Things."

"Dismiss not the place of the church in today's world as not revelant for me, because I am only one and at that a one-talent person.

"We are living in a day of superlatives. There is a kind of 'Jumbolism' in our thinking so we tend to think of our little selves as insignificant in the scheme of things. Michelangelo said "Trifles make perfection but perfection is no trifle.'

"The little foxes can spoil the vines. Little words of scorn, or respect, even inflections affect a child's philosophy of life.

"Magnitude is not the test of greatness. When we think of the small beginnings of all great movements, Wesley with a few students, Luther and the reformation, Jesus and the twelve, we are reminded of the leaven, leavening the whole.

"God chose the weak things of the world to confound the mighty. You are important."

Congregational Supper Held by Victoria Baptist

A successful congregational supper was held by the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Wednesday with 200 of its members, friends and children in attendance.

Later, a challenging program was conducted by the "Sector Plan" leaders. At its close the 1958 budget was presented, discussed, and voted on by those present. The budget calls for a third increase over last year to Mrs. D. Tofflemire.

Greetings were received from the following: Mrs. Elsa Bick, Bobcaygeon; Rev. Sam Delve, Ancaster; Rev. William Delve, Hamilton; Mrs. Nettie Wager, Fenelon Falls; Rev. Harold Lackey, Claremont; Mr. and Mrs. A. Creaser, Hillside; Rev. and Mrs. T. Hogerward, Seabright; Mrs. Ray Grant, Belleville.

During the morning service a number of hymnaries, donated by various members and friends were dedicated. Rev. Oscar Wager, of Belleville, a former minister of the Ivanhoe charge, assisted at the evening worship. Rev. J. F. Lane of Trinity United Madoc, pronounced the benediction.

The session and congregation of Beulah church are indeed grateful to the junior choir and their leader and to the guest soloists, Mr. and Mrs. Tofflemire, whose messages in song contributed greatly to the services.

Proceeds of a turkey supper served on Tuesday evening in Ivanhoe township hall by the congregation and Sunday offering amounted to $919.

Jaunty Jacket

By ALICE ALDEN

The little cover-up, be it of fake fur or wonderful wool, is a boon to budget since it teams up with a skirt for a suit effect and goes nicely over a wool sheath. Easy in cut is this jaunty jacket interpreted in heather wool tweed with a whitish overcast. Buttoned from neck to waist, its neat collar and line is ready for the added accent of a colorful chiffon scarf. It's a smart and sensible separate that should see scads of service.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question:—Our church group has decided to have a New Year's party and dance with non-alcoholic punch available throughout the evening and a smorgasbord served at midnight . . . please tell us how to make a not-too-expensive punch for 100 . . . what quantities to suggest for a smorgasbord . . . give quantities . . . and any suggestions to make buffet table attractive . . . we just don't know where to begin.—Mary S.

Answer:—As one item for the smorgasbord table suggest Cranberry Mould filled with cottage cheese (see Wednesday, Nov. 6 column.)

FRUIT PUNCH
(Serves 100)

Note: This quantity should be doubled since you intend to serve punch all during the evening. Make a sugar syrup of 13½ cups each sugar and water and the finely grated rinds of 4 lemons and 4 oranges, by simmering together 10 minutes. Add the juice of 2 dozen lemons, 1 dozen oranges, 2 cans each concentrated frozen pineapple juice and lemon or lime juice (or if desired grape juice). Strain. Dilute this with enough ice (and some ginger ale or soda water if desired) to make it up to 10 quarts. This allows 100 4-oz. servings.

To give the table a lavish air buy an outsize Savoy cabbage and trim off only the ugly outside leaves, leaving those on that make it look unfurled (like an open rose). Remove and cut the centre and fill it with big shrimp. Provide a "dip" for it and for a huge bowl of potato chips. It could be the centrepiece around which you could group the delicacies decorated at the base with pine twigs and cones.

So far then we have a cranberry mould with cottage cheese, shrimp, dip, potato chips. Other Smorgasbord food could be deviled stuffed eggs, tiny meat balls in tomato sauce, pickled herring, sardines, jellied veal in individual moulds, tinsaly shredded cole slaw (possibly with shredded beets and carrots), pickled beets, potato salad, assorted cheeses, sliced hot and cold corned brisket of beef, a whole large boiled salmon garnished with mayonnaise and capers and radishes, sliced tomato, stuffed tomatoes, tomato jelly moulds, mustard and sweet pickles, pickled onions and cauliflower, and of course, various fancy rolls and breads and sweet breads. Serve gallons of coffee and provide plenty of fresh fruit.

The success of a smorgasbord lies in eye appeal and variety —not the cost. One smorgasbord restaurant I know specializes in stewed apples—unbroken halves simmered in red-tinted syrup, cinnamon flavored. Use your imagination to make each item colorful and attractive. As for quantities—provide of each item approximately enough to serve 25. Good luck.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A FOUR-POINT PROGRAM FOR COMPLEXION LOVELINESS

Lubrication's important to complexion beauty — especially if skin's inclined to dryness.

A flawless complexion is woman's greatest beauty asset — and one which can't be faked. Lipstick can do wonders in improving the imperfect mouth; eyes can be dramatized with mascara, eyeshadow and pencilling; and even drab, colorless hair will come alive with the wonderful new color rinses. But a complexion's either good or it isn't. And when it's not, the more make-up you slather over it as a "cover-up," the worse it gets.

Of course, you must use your make-up — foundation, powder and rouge, if needed. But the skin on which you apply it must be healthy if the all-over effect is to be really lovely. So what to do if your complexion is not as fresh and young-looking as you'd like? Well, here's a four-point program that deserves your most careful consideration:

First, there's cleansing — all-important if skin is to remain clear. It doesn't matter whether you use soap and water or cream. The preference is yours. The important thing is that you cleanse thoroughly — and with that datum that's best for you individually. If you like soap, choose a bland one and really scrub with it. Rinsing's important, too, since soap particles left on the skin can cause irritation and blemishes. If cream's your preference, be sure to get the right kind — one that's created for dry, normal or oily skin, depending on the texture of your epidermis. Or, you may like a liquid cleanser. It doesn't really matter, but do cleanse skin thoroughly at least twice a day — morning and evening — and, if it is at all possible, do a midday job, too.

The second point involves toning. This calls for the application of a mild lotion that stimulates the skin and, at the same time, removes any traces of your cleansing agent. If you haven't any lotion of this type, use witch hazel. It's extremely effective. And for really super-toning, give your face a going-over with an ice cube.

The third point is lubrication. This is especially important if you're bedevilled with dry skin. There are a ny lubricating creams on the market, including special ones for the delicate eye area. Experiment with them. Buy small sample jars and, when you find one that does the most for you, get the larger size and use it nightly.

The fourth point in your complexion care program is make-up. Master the technique of applying foundation, powder and rouge and then, when you use them over a skin that's properly cleansed, toned and lubricated, you'll have found the way to a really flawless complexion.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rita R. — My sister is making her husband too dependent.

Phyllis D. — I want to set him on his feet.

• • •

Rita R. — I am trying to help my younger sister who is making a big mistake, I feel, in relation to her married life.

When she and her husband married five years ago, he had a low paying job. She continued working and saving and finally was able to borrow enough money to open a small business. Since then she has been working like a dog to build up the business. Her husband isn't lazy, but he leaves the biggest responsibilities to her.

My sister is nearly 30 and it is time she started having a family, but she says it will take a few more years for the business to provide a good living for them. I think she is making her husband much too dependent on her.

• • •

Phyllis D. — I can't see what's wrong with a woman's helping out with the financial burden if she can do it. I know I've had a lot of satisfaction out of building up this business. In the end we will have something really worthwhile.

My husband is not the kind of man who just wants to live off his wife's earnings. He is intelligent and hard working, but he lacks courage, initiative, aggressiveness. He would get nowhere if I didn't give him a bit of a lift. If I can succeed in really setting him on his feet, I know he'll be able to carry on from there.

Of course, I didn't want to put off family raising quite so long, but I feel I am working for the future happiness of a family.

• • •

The Council: We certainly wouldn't call her "a woman's helping out with the financial burden if she can do it," but when to help and how much and for what length of time must be a matter for individual consideration.

Phyllis' talk of setting her husband on his feet and her insistence upon the fact "he would get nowhere" without her help indicates, in her case, the help has probably gone much too far. Surely, her husband is aware of the fact she considers him pretty hopeless as a breadwinner. Since this is his main responsibility as a man, the hurt to his pride must be quite severe — even though he may conceal it from himself.

Phyllis has in effect given up her feminine role entirely for the time being. Right now she enjoys exercising her power in another direction. She evidently feels very sure her feminine role will wait for her until she is ready for it, if she may find emotions and biology are not at the beck and call of the mind. She may feel robbed and resentful toward her husband if things don't turn out just as she planned.

Our guess is that it is about time Phyllis turned over the breadwinning responsibility to her husband and she should make up her mind to be satisfied with what he can earn, if he does his best.

Traffic Officials Fear Toll Will Continue to Increase

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 100 persons have been killed so far this year in traffic accidents in each of Canada's two biggest cities. Two of the country's smaller cities, each with 10,000 population report none.

That bare comparison helps to explain why many traffic officials fear the toll may continue to rise in bigger centres as traffic concentration increases.

In Ontario alone the number of motor vehicles more than doubled between 1948 and 1956. One reason is that youngsters of the war and post - war generations are taking to the roads in ever increasing numbers as soon as they reach the 16-year age limit for driving licences.

Add to this natural increase the continuing prosperity in most sections of the country which allows more people to buy cars and it is easy to see why governments are hard pressed to keep their road building and improvement programs abreast of the increase in traffic.

IMPROVEMENT POSSIBLE

Despite some gloominess, however, The Canadian Press found that a country - wide survey that there is reason to expect improvement.

In Toronto, Fred Ellis of the National Safety League of Canada says there'll be a marked improvement once "all motorists and pedestrians begin to show a little more toleration for each other."

In Hamilton, Sgt. John Robinson of the city's police traffic squad says "if drivers thought of road conditions we wouldn't have to worry."

Both recommend professional driving courses for the beginners. The survey showed no marked change in the pattern of either the fatalities or accidents or the injury this year over last.

Montreal reported the largest toll—117 to Oct. 31 "compared with 98 up to that date last year.

In Toronto there were 101 deaths in traffic accidents in the first 10 months. A year ago there were 105. Both metropolitan cities have populations of more than 1,000,000.

CLAIM RECORD

The proud fatality - free cities were Medicine Hat, Alta., and Trail, B.C. Medicine Hat claimed no all-Canada record with 1,000 deathless driving days within the limits of that city of 20,000 persons. Trail with a population under 11,500, ran a close second with 1,054 no - fatality driving days.

Four large cities report more than 20 deaths to Oct. 31 this year but but one of them an increase over the 1956 toll. Vancouver had 34 deaths this year compared to 34 last year, Winnipeg and Ottawa each had 23 compared to 11 and 16 last year, and Hamilton had 22 compared with 20 the year before.

Vancouver's traffic superintendent Ralph Booth says the introduction of police "ghost cars" to check erring motorists has helped reduce the traffic toll. "It's a psychological block for motorists, he says. "They naturally drive better."

On the other hand he blames the age of many victims for their deaths in traffic accidents. Of Vancouver's 34 deaths this year, 19 were pedestrians and 17 of these were over 60 years of age. "The reflexes of the older generation can't keep up with our traffic habits."

BEARING DOWN

Here is the tally reported by other cities with last year's death toll at Oct. 31 in brackets for comparison:

Halifax 2 (3), Hull, Que. 4 (3), Quebec city 12 (11), Windsor, Ont. 12 (8), Moose Jaw 1 (4), Calgary 8 (9), Edmonton 13 (18) and Victoria 12 (16), Lethbridge 4 (0).

Most cities report they are bearing down on traffic violators.

Calgary reports that only one of this year's nine fatalities was not a pedestrian. A police department spokesman said: "we are really laying down the law on pedestrian right-of-way."

One Count Withdrawn

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Crown Thursday withdrew one of the two counts of theft against Kenneth Soutter, 46, former treasurer of Local 509 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC)

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw agreed to the withdrawing of the charge that Soutter converted, some $1,000 in union funds to his own use between July 1, 1954 and Feb. 21, 1957. However, he would not agree to the count being dismissed.

The remaining count is theft of $9,000 between April 1, 1955, and Feb. 21, 1957, by failing to give an accounting.

TROUBLE FOR CHINA

PEIPING (Reuters) — Communist China's vast population of Wednesday was urged to avoid heavy eating, drinking and other luxuries detrimental to modernizing the nation. Liu Shao-Chi, the Communist party's main theoretician and generally ranked second in power to chief of state Mao Tse-Tung, made the appeal — a possible warning of hard-ships to come this winter because of grain shortages.
